KENNEDY CRASH MYSTERY

Prosecutor Cites Finding Of Blood

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis was granted a new hearing today on his petition for an autopsy on the body of Mary Jo Kopechne after he filed an amended version that said a certain amount of blood was present in the mouth and nose of the dead girl.

Judge Bernard C. Broninski of Luzerne County Common Pleas Court set Sept. 29 at 10 a.m. for the hearing requested by the New Bedford, Mass. prosecutor.

Miss Kopechne, a Washington, D.C., secretary, was found dead July 19 in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's car which had gone off a bridge into a pond on Chappaquiddick Island off the Massachusetts coast.

An inquest into her death was postponed earlier this month.

Dinis' disclosures were contained in a four-page letter sent to the court, where a judge had demanded more evidence from Dinis before granting permission for a hearing to determine if an autopsy was necessary.

"There appear on the white shirt worn by Mary Jo Kopechne 'washed out' reddish brown and brown stains on the backs of both sleeves, the back and collar; that these stains give positive benzidine reaction, an indication of the presence of residual traces of blood; that said residue is of insufficient amount to make further tests as to specific origin or type," said the letter released by Dinis' assistant, Armand Fernandez.

"Investigation has revealed there was present a certain amount of blood in both Mary Jo Kopechne's mouth and nose, which may or may not have been consistent with death by drowning."

The letter said these facts were not available to Dinis until after the girl was buried in Larksville, Pa.

"If the autopsy should disclose that her death resulted from some cause other than drowning, the inquest may then proceed in the direction appropriate in the light of information thus revealed," said Dinis, in detailing his reasons for requesting the autopsy.

No Major Surprises In U.N. Speech

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon appealed to the 126 members of the United Nations today to use their best diplomatic efforts to move Hanoi into serious Vietnam peace negotiations.

In a broad policy declaration, he told the U.N. General Assembly that North Vietnam was wholly responsible for the stalemate at the Paris conference.

JOINS APPLAUSE

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko was among the 80 or so foreign ministers in the blue and gold hall for the President's first appearance before a global forum. When Nixon concluded his 30-minute speech, Gromyko joined in the applause which sounded through the jammed chamber.

Only sour note inside the chamber was a boycott of the address by the Cuban and Albanian delegations. Neither has diplomatic relations with the United States.

NO COMMENT

Gromyko declined immediate comment.

"I would prefer to study it more thoroughly," he said.

Some of the Arabs indicated disappointment in the President's references to the Middle East. Nixon called for negotiations.

Abdul Monem Rifai, deputy prime minister and foreign minister of Jordan, said: "I expected to hear more on the real issues that obstruct peace in the Middle East."

British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart issued a statement, saying: "The President has made a clear and constructive statement, setting out the opportunities open to mankind if peace can be achieved, and the principles which must be observed for this achievement.

Boat Hits Pipe; Four Injured

A 26-foot cabin cruiser crashed into a floating pipeline in the San Rafael Channel last night, injuring four passengers.

The pipe, used to carry spoils from the canal dredging project, crunched a 24-inch hole in the hull, the Coast Guard reported.

A private boat, operated by Delmar Joseph Jarvis of Long Beach, took the passengers ashore. The four were then taken to Marin General Hospital, according to San Rafael police.

Jason Herbert Briggs, 35, of Pasadena was reported in fair to good condition today with multiple broken ribs.

Opel Anson, 60, also of Pasadena, was treated for scalp bruises; Paul Gray, 21, of 400 Canal Street, San Rafael, for neck sprain and bruises on his left arm, and Shanna Gray, 40, also of 400 Canal Street, for bruises on the right leg and ankle, hospital officials said.

The owner of the boat, Ricardo Yablon of 20 Front Street, San Rafael, was not treated.

Richard Finnegan, office manager of West Coast Dredging Co. which is doing the project for the Army Corps of Engineers, said the pipe involved is lit according to Coast Guard regulations with a large yellow light every 30 feet. The boat came within two inches of hitting one of the lights, he reported.

The accident occurred near the first beacon in from the Birdcage marker about 9 p.m.

LITTLE BACKING FOR BRUCE

Commission Abolition Idea Receives Mixed Reaction

By WAT TAKESHITA

County Administrator Alan Bruce's suggestions that some county commissions and committees could be dissolved or merged brought mixed reactions today ranging from the noncommital to angry protest.

David B. Vail, chairman of the Marin Aviation Commission, said he would reserve comment until after he had contacted other members of the comission and drafted an official reply, but added he is strongly against Bruce's suggestion that the commission might be phased out.

Robert B. McCreadie, vice chairman of the Marin County Personnel Commission, said he takes sharp exception to the administrator's suggestion that the functions of the commission be limited to quasi-judicial hearings.

"Mr. Bruce apparently thought that when the commission had a different makeup, it was objective. Now that the decisions are going in favor of employees and against management, he doesn't like it. All he is saying is that we don't agree with him in many cases. If the county supervisors do not feel we are carrying out our functions, that is one thing. But we certainly shouldn't be changed just because Mr. Bruce disagrees."

McCreadie said he was speaking as an individual. Bella Aaron, chairman of the personnel commission, is traveling in Europe and was not available for comment.

Thomas H. Larke Jr., chairman of the emergency medial care committee, said his committee should be maintained and not merged with any other committee. "I am curious as to who Mr. Bruce means when he says the commission is dominated by two members and when he talks about pursuit of personal interest. I presume he means Dr. (Elmer) Weden and me. I haven't got any interest except the interest of the victims who need emergency treatment."

Larke said he has been hired as consultant for a statewide program for state help in emer-

NUDE BEACH

McInnis: Not A Role For County

By DAVID DIETZ

The chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors issued cautious endorsement today of a proposal to create a private beach in West Marin for nude sunbathers.

Speaking on the Sounding Board program broadcast by radio KTIM, chairman John F McInnis generally agreed with the suggestion, made by Lothar Salin, chairman of the county parks and recreation commission, but reaffirmed his opposition to Salin's plan that the county help create the private beach.

McInnis said the initiative rested with the bathers themselves.

McInnis had rebuked Salin at a supervisors' session Tuesday for suggesting at a parks and recreation meeting that the county help locate the owner of private West Marin beach who might be willing to sell or lease his property for nude sunbathing.

Salin, seated next to McInnis in the radio studio today in their first direct confrontation, opened with three-page statement defending nude bathing, upholding his right to make the proposal as a public official and saying that "I fail to understand just why some other county officials are in such a hurry to say it won't work. . . .

"The democratic process is not served by attempts to suppress constructive suggestions without even an attempt at intelligent investigation."

McInnis, although saying a fenced beach for nudes would be a "fine idea," challenged the bathers to create it on their own, saying that the efforts of government could be better spent in other areas and that the bathers themselves made up only a small portion of the general public.

McInnis and Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, who also appeared on the program, hit hard at the problems caused by unlawful

Army Chief Refuses To Block Beret Trial

SAIGON (AP) — Six arrested members of the Green Berets, including the former commander of all U.S. Special Forces in Vietnam, will be tried before a general court-martial on charges of murder and conspiracy.

The U.S. Army, announcing this tonight, said the government will be prepared to start the trial in about three weeks and that "all cases will be treated as not capital." This means the death sentence will not be called for.

In all, eight Green Berets have been held in connection with the slaying of a South Vietnamese suspected of being a double agent.

Charges against two of the men, a warrant officer and a sergeant, "are being held in abeyance pending the trial of the other cases," the Army said.

The Army said it has directed trial by general court-martial against Col. Robert B. Rheault, 43, Vineyard Haven, Mass., the former commander of the 3,000 Special forces troops in Vietnam; Maj. David E. Crew, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Maj. Thomas C. Middleton Jr., Jefferson, S.C., Capt. Leland J. Brumley, Duncan, Okla.; Capt. Robert F. Marasco, Bloomfield, N.J., and Capt. Budge E. Williams, Athens, Ga.

The two men who do not face immediate trial are:

Chief WO2 Edward M. Boyle, New York City, and Sgt. 1/c Alvin L. Smith Jr., Naples, Fla. There will be two separate trials of the six officers.

"Charges against Capts. Brumley, Marasco and Williams will be referred for a common trial," an Army statement said. "It is anticipated that the government will be prepared to proceed with the trial of their case in about three weeks. Charges against Col. Rheault and Majs. Crew and Middleton will be referred for a common trial by a different court," at a later date.

Eight congressmen yesterday unsuccessfully asked Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor to take over the case. The congressmen said they feared the eight Special Forces men were being made scapegoats to cover up "mistakes, mishandling, incompetence and rivalries within the Army and related government agencies."

Informants said the first trial likely would be closed.

Schools Closed In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Officials closed down classes at at least 75 junior and senior high, and elementary schools today involving more than 150,000 students in the nation's second largest school district — only New York City is larger — as teachers staged a one-day walkout over pay demands.

Preliminary reports showed that the teacher absence rate in the district's 600 schools was about 40 per cent.

The walkout came after the board of education voted the teachers a 5 per cent pay hike. It was rejected by the teachers, who asked an increase of 6 per cent. The board was to discuss the walkout situation at today's meeting.

Two Die In Bridgeway Cycle Crash

A Mill Valley man and a Lagunitas woman were killed last night when their motorcycle hit a concrete divider at Bridgeway and Harbor Drive just outside Sausalito city limits, the California Highway Patrol said today.

Dead of massive head injuries are Charles Goodrridge Austin Jr., 28, of 395 Throckmorton Avenue, and Holly Lynn Patchen, 23. They pushed the Marin County traffic fatality toll for 1969 to 24, the same as by this date a year ago.

The patrol said Austin's motorcycle crossed a double yellow line at a high rate of speed to pass a northbound Greyhound bus at 9:05 p.m. He stayed in the southbound lanes, the patrol said, and hit the 8-inch center divider at Harbor and Bridgeway.

Both Austin and Miss Patchen were thrown off the cycle as it sailed about 30 feet in the air, the patrol said. Both were thrown about 50 feet before skidding on the pavement for another 60 feet.

Funeral arrangements were pending at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel in Mill Valley.

Juvenile Panel Merger Branded 'Ridiculous'

A recommendation to disband the Marin County Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission and turn its functions over to the county youth commission drew sharp opposition yesterday from its members.

"Ridiculous! Unbelieveable!" said commissioner after commissioner as the recommendation of County Administrator Alan Bruce was discussed.

Chairman Gary T. Giacomini contended the youth commission, not yet formed, would fall apart if the delinquency prevention commission were disbanded.

He also pointed out the name of the youth commission would have to be changed to juvenile delinquency prevention so it could obtain funds that are available to such groups.

But more important, he said, is the fact that the young people don't want the kind of responsibility the delinquency commission has.

"It would start the kids with one foot in a concrete bucket," he said.

Members agreed — to a point. The major accomplishment, commissioners indicated, was getting county funding recently for a coordinator.

"They've just given us legs to stand on," Giacomini said, maintaining the reason the commission hasn't done anything is because it hasn't had any staff.

Probation wchief John W. Brewer pointed out Marin will grow and become more complex. "Now is the time to be getting ready for it."

Brewer said he believes the commission is essential. "I just don't understand his point of view," he said of Bruce.

One result of the commission "is getting people like yourselves interested," he told the group.

Giacomini said what he doesn't understand is turning the commission over to one which doesn't exist.

"Maybe he's trying to get rid

PARIS (UPI)—South Vietnam said today that new North Vietnamese troops had moved into the Mekong Delta despite U.S. troop withdrawals in Vietnam. North Vietnam denounced the United States for bringing the prisoner of war issue into the peace talks.

Pham Dang Lam, chief South Vietnamese negotiator, told the 34th session of the talks that the United States and South Vietnam had agreed on reducing the number of U.S. troops "despite the increasingly aggressive policies" of the Communists.

U.S. chief negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge presented President Richard M. Nixon's announcement of the withdrawal of 33,500 U.S. troops and what he called "a remarkably succinct statement of efforts we have made for peace." He reported in disgust, however, that the Reds called it a "farce."

Lam said infiltration of North Vietnamese regular troops into the Delta, from which most U.S. troops have withdrawn, emphasized Hanoi's refusal to make any concessions and to go

HONEYMOON ALL OVER FOR NIXON

WASHINGTON (AP) —The Democratic-controlled Congress and Republican administration are at each other's throats after a nine-months political honeymoon.

This became evident yesterday when House Democratic leaders lashed out at GOP criticism of Congress.

Speaker John McCormack, following a Democratic caucus, told reporters: "It is not a question of a do-nothing Democratic Congress but of a noncooperative Republican administration."

And Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma said: "If anyone should be shy about raising the 'do-nothing' issue it should be the Nixon administration."

The caucus approved a resolution for failing to take a position on much of the legislation before Congress.

It also backed another resolution making the 1968 Democratic party platform the blueprint for a legislative program in this Congress.

The Democratic activity followed reports the GOP administration is thinking of trying to hang a "do-nothing" label on the 91st Congress in the style former President Harry S. Truman successfully used against the GOP-controlled 80th Congress.

Nixon talked the situation over with his GOP congressional leaders Tuesday. Another session is set for tomorrow with a view to drafting a priority list of administration requests.

Since convening in January the Congress has enacted an increase in the public debt ceiling and extended the income surcharge for six months. An elementary school bill, tax reform and cigarette labeling bill have cleared the House but are tied up in the Senate. None of the appropriation bills to finance government agencies yet have cleared both branches of Congress.

Albert also took aim on the Nixon administration suggestions for changes in the House-passed tax reform bill. He said administration proposals represent a "distinct and tragic step backward" from the House version.

"Republicans are still far more interested in Wall Street than Main Street, far more concerned about financial centers than poverty centers," Albert said.

Taking note of Nixon's most recent proposal for a 10 per cent increase in Social Security benefits effective April 1, Albert told the House: "We are not going to take the President's cold winter message to the people of this country. We are not going to be satisfied with a 10 per cent increase, and we are not going to wait until April 1."

Tiny Tim To Marry Teen-Ager

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Tiny Tim, who tiptoes through the tulips in television, announced yesterday he will marry a teen-age fan he met while signing autographs in a Philadelphia department store.

Tiny Tim

The singer, in his mid-40s, said his bride-to-be is tall, blonde, 17-year-old Vicky Budinger of Haddonfield, a recent high-school graduate.

Tiny Tim, who refused to divulge his exact age, said he does not think the difference in their ages matters.

The singer, noted for his shoulder-length hair and a voice which ranges from shreiking falsetto to baritone, said: "I'm 16 years old at heart."

He made the announcement at the New Jersey State Fair, at which he is appearing.

He said he met Miss Budinger while signing autographs at Wanamaker's department store in Philadelphia last spring.

Mrs. Allan Budinger, mother of the bride-to-be, said in a telephone interview that she and her husband are "elated" over the match.

Tobacco Clouds TV Series

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actress Debbie Reynolds announced yesterday she was canceling production of her new television series because a cigarette commercial was aired on the program's debut Tuesday night.

Miss Reynolds

A representative said Miss Reynolds had sent a telegram to the National Broadcasting Co. notifying them of the termination of the series. Nine segments of the series, "Debbie," already had been filmed and presumably will still be shown.

Miss Reynolds, who produced the show in partnership with Filmways, Inc., said the cigarette commercial was in direct violation of her agreement with NBC. She said she felt she had fully outlined in advance her feelings about cigarettes and commercial which she felt were "directly opposed to health and well being."

She said she would not oppose use of the other segments already filmed because she did not "want to inflict hardship on the other players involved."

Stanford Protest Jail, Fine Set

PALO ALTO (UPI)—A 15-day jail term and $315 fine has been imposed on the first youth to be sentenced for participating in an antiwar demonstration last May at Stanford Research Institute.

James R. Gage, 23, Menlo Park, was one of 85 persons arrested during the May 16 melee at SRI's branch facility adjacent to the Stanford University campus.

He pleaded no contest to charges of malicious mischief and obstructing traffic.

Judge John Brenner of Palo Alto-Mountain View Municipal Court also put Gage on probation for six months.

Seale In Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bobby Seale, chairman of the Black Panther Party, arrived here yesterday from a California jail to stand trial on a conspiracy charge.

He was immediately turned over to U.S. Marshals who tucked him away in the Cook County Jail to await his Sept. 24 trial with seven other persons on charges that they crossed state lines in a conspiracy to incite riots during the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

Seale was arrested earlier this month in California. Black Panthers here have called for a boycott of both school and work by blacks when Seale goes on trial.

Ship's Art Stolen

SOUTHAMPTON, England (UPI) — A thief stole a $2,880 painting, Robert Motherwell's "Beside the Sea", from the liner Queen Elizabeth 2 art gallery, police said yesterday.

They said it was the first theft from the gallery, which the ship's owner, Cunard Line, said was the first floating art shop.

Nasser Ailing

CAIRO (UPI) — Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser is bedded with influenza and has cancelled all appointments for the near future, the semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram said today.

Al Ahram said Nasser came down with the illness earlier this month during a limited Arab summit with Iraq, Syria, Jordan, Egypt and the Sudan.

Engagement News

LONDON (UPI) — Alice Ormsby-Gore, 17-year-old daughter of a former British ambassador to the United States, announced her engagement yesterday to a bearded pop musician.

Miss Ormsby-Gore's father, Lord Harlech, was a close personal friend of President John F. Kennedy as well as Britain's envoy to Washington while Kennedy was in the White House. She wore hippy clothes when announcing her plans to wed Eric Clapton, 24, of the Blind Faith pop group.

"My father thinks Eric is a gas," she said.

Nixon Has Three Options For Space; Two Back Mars

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon soon will make a decision on the nation's goals in space, choosing from three alternatives — including two that would put Americans on Mars in the 1980s.

All three choices, made public Tuesday by the White House, foresee development of a space station and a reusable earth-to-orbit shuttle vehicle.

Under the first and most expensive option, the annual cost would climb steadily from the current $4 billion a year to $8,10 billion for each fiscal year from 1970 through 1980 for a total of $78.2 billion the Mars landing would be in 1982.

The second and third alternatives would keep the annual cost at $4 billion the next two fiscal years, rising to a peak of $5.7 billion in 1976. The second option, which envisions a Mars landing in 1986, would then rise to a peak of $8 billion a year in the early 1980s, with an 11-year total of $57.5 billion. Option three would require a funding of $54.1 billion in the first 11 years.

"We presented a balanced program," said Vice President Spiro T. Agnew—a member of the four-man task group. "My personal preference is option two which allows clear acceptance of a Mars landing in 1986 but leaves us free to be flexible in unmanned precursor flights."

The other three members said they had not yet given the President their personal choice, although all said any of the three would be acceptable.

Dr. Lee DuBridge, the President's science adviser and a member of the task group said "in all three options there are from the scientific viewpoint very important benefits."

The report shunned two extremes—dropping all manned flights after the three-flights a year Apollo program runs its course—or starting a crash program to put men on Mars in the 1970s.

The differences in the time table between options one and two can be seen in this comparison: Space station in earth orbit 1976 and 1977; 50-man space base in earth orbit, 1980 and 1984; a 100-man space base in earth orbit, 1985 and 1989; a lunar orbiting station 1978 and 1981; a lunar surface base 1980 and 1983; initial Mars expedition, 1983 and 1986.

Option three would have the same timetable as option two, but leaving the year of a Mars landing open.

The shuttle vehicle would be ready in 1976 under option one and 1977 under options two and three; and a "space tug" in 1978 under option one and 1981 under option two.

Under all three plans, Dr. DuBridge pointed out, a "grand tour" of the planets, by unmanned vehicles, would be scheduled for 1977 to 1979. The planets will not be aligned in a position to make such a tour feasible again for another 100-150 years.

"All three options will enable us to hold on to our (space) team—indeed give them a major challenge," said NASA administrator Thomas O. Paine, the third member of the group.

U.S. To Pull Out Saigon's Defenders

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. headquarters said today it was turning over the defense of Saigon to the South Vietnamese. The Saigon soldiers last week took their heaviest losses in a year in virtually going it alone for three days on the battlefield.

The announcement that the 82nd Airborne Division's 3rd brigade, now guarding Saigon, would be pulled out in President Richard M. Nixon's withdrawal plan meant the removal of the only U.S. unit still involved in the defense of the capital.

It would leave the job to the South Vietnamese, who lost 529 men killed last week. The period included three days in which they fought on while U.S. troops tacitly were honoring a Communist-declared truce in honor of Ho Chi Minh.

Government spokesmen said the 529 deaths were the highest since 642 Saigon soldiers died in the week ending Aug. 24, 1968. American losses last week were put at 143 killed and 1,343 wounded—an increase of six dead and 16 wounded over the previous week.

The government losses reflected their increasing combat role as American troops are being pulled out, and served as an indicator of their ability against the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese. A total of 2,361 Communists died in fighting last week, spokesmen said.

The 4,500-man 3rd brigade of the 82nd Airborne Dicision joins the remaining 18,000 Leathernecks of the 3rd Marine Division and portions of the 1st Marine Air Wing as units designated for withdrawal under President Nixon's 35,000-man second cutback.

Removal of the 3rd division Marines from along South Vietnam's northern tier leaves that volatile demilitarized zone area almost wholly in the hands of South Vietnamese troops, too.

The announcement today said the airborne brigade was going home while some of the Marines would be sent to Japan or Okinawa and others to the United States. More units to be pulled out will be announced later.

Some of the Marines were locked in their heaviest DMZ-area combat in seven months yesterday. It cost them 22 men killed, headquarters said.

Senator, 70, Defeats Robber

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Len B. Jordan, 70-year-old Idaho Republican, bested a black-jack-wielding young robber and has a lump on the head, a skinned knuckle and part of his assailant's shirt for souvenirs.

Jordan, a 6-footer weighing 200 pounds, said the holdup man confronted him in an automatic elevator in his apartment building.

The senator said he hit the youth on the chin, flooring him, but the robber retaliated with a blow to the head with a black-jack. After a brief wrestling match, Jordan said, the youth ran away minus a piece of his shirt.

DIRKSEN SUCCESSOR

Sen. Smith Already Faces Demos' Guns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Ralph T. Smith is just settling into his new Senate seat —but he's already a leading Democratic target for the 1970 campaign.

Smith, whose appointment to succeed Illinois' late Sen. Everett M. Dirksen takes effect today, will have to run on his own in 1970 if he wants to finish the term, which runs to 1975.

Democrats, who admit being hard pressed to hold their current 57-43 Senate majority, see Smith as one of their best chances among the 10 GOP seats at issue next year.

Sen. Daniel K. Inouye of Hawaii, chairman of the Senate Democratic campaign committee, said five Republican seats are considered particularly vulnerable for overturn and Illinois is at the top of his list.

"We're not really running against an incumbent," he said of Smith, who will be untested as a Senate campaigner even if he survives potential challenges in the GOP primary.

Adlai E. Stevenson III, Illinois state treasurer and son of the two-time seeker of the presidency, is considered likely to try for Smith's position, with Lt. Gov. Paul Simon another Democratic possibility.

"While the odds against us look pretty bleak, I won't say the picture is completely black," Inouye said of the general 1970 picture.

Breaking with tradition, he said, the campaign committee will help incumbent Democratic senators against rivals who challenge them in party primaries, as well as later Republican challengers.

"The time for helping is now," Inouye said, even though the committee risks intervention in Democratic Senate primaries.

"If incumbents are defeated in the primaries," said Inouye, "we will immediately shift our gears and do our best to help the primary winner."

Hawaii Upset At Gas War Tests Rumor

HONOLULU (AP) — Gov. John Burns says he wants to know whether the U.S. Army did or didn't test nerve gas in 1966 and 1967 on the slopes of Mauna Loa.

The governor said he cabled Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor yesterday asking for clarification of reports involving apparently conflicting answers from the Army itself.

"I'm not accusing the Army of duplicity," Burns said, "but I am greatly concerned over reports that nerve gas tests were conducted."

Burns said he would await Resor's answer before recommending possible action by the state Land Board, which could cancel the balance of the Army's five-year lease on a 1,144-acre test site on the side of Hawaii's second-tallest volcano.

The lease, expiring in January 1971, stipulated that the land would be used "as a site to conduct classified meteorological and related tests."

Rep. Patsy I. Mink, D-Hawaii, said Tuesday the Army had acknowledged in a letter to her that it had used the site for testing the nerve agent GB and the incapacitating agent BZ a total of four times in 1966-67.

On July 31, in a written response to Honolulu Star-Bulletin's questions, the Army denied such tests.

Lack Of Bond Sales Stalls U.C. Building

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — University of California regents were told today no major new building projects can be started for the 1969-70 construction year, deferring space planned for 1,500 more students in future years.

And "the prospects for a viable program in 1970-71 are not encouraging," U.C. Vice President Elmo Morgan told the university's governing board. Morgan is in charge of physical planning and construction.

Morgan's report was based on the continuing shortage of construction money because of the state's failure to sell bonds in the current high interest rate market.

Regents began a two-day meeting at the San Francisco Extension Center. They are expected to approve some form of tuition, or higher fees, to help meet construction costs.

The board also is scheduled to consider overall budget problems and vote on a long-standing issue of student participation at rgents' sessions.

The chairman of the regents, DeWitt A. Higgs of San Diego, said in July that he expected the board would approve some kind of tuition. Formal adoption of tuition would reverse a 100-year-old U.C. policy, although student "fees" have been levied for years on the nine campuses.

A proposal on student participation was prepared by a special regents' subcommittee after a summer of hearings. It would permit student presidents to speak at formal meetings, but would not create a special committee with student membership.

Judge Forbids Printing Drug Agents' Names

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A superior court judge has made permanent his order prohibiting an anti-establishment newspaper from printing any more addresses and telephone numbers of state narcotics agents.

Judge J.E. Barr of Siskyou County, sitting here temporarily, also issued an injunction yesterday banning printing of such information about members of San Francisco's police tactical squad.

The injunctions are against the Dock of the Bay which printed the narcotics agents' names, addresses and phone numbers in August, resulting in Barr's temporarily injunction then.

Vision Tests Set In Novato

The fifth annual free vision-screening clinic for pre-school aged children will be held at the Novato Community House from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. next Monday and Thursday.

Purpose of the screening is to detect gross visual defects in the 3-to-6-year-old child at an age when correction of problems may still be possible.

The clinics are a project of the Delta Gamma alumnae chapter of the Northern California Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

Parents should make appointments with Mrs. Harry Magill or Mrs. Bruce Robinson of Novato to reduce congestion at the clinic.

NIXON

what is required of her if there is indeed to be an era of negotiation.

After his talk, Nixon had a schedule of private discussions on his agenda with a number of visiting foreign ministers. Before going back to Washington tonight, he was to entertain U.N. diplomats at a reception. His schedule, however, did not include formal talks with Gromyko.

Springing no surprises in his speech Nixon again went on record as favoring sober and serious negotiations with the Soviet Union on the Middle East, arms race curbs and other topics.

And, he said, "Whenever the leaders of Communist China choose to abandon their self-imposed isolation, we are ready to talk with them in the same frank and serious spirit."

Looking toward broad international cooperation in areas ranging from population control and space exploration to a counterattack against aircraft hijackings, Nixon asserted:

" . . . Let us press toward an open world—a world of open doors, open hearts, open minds—a world open to the exchange of ideas and of people, and open to the reach of the human spirit—a world open in its search for truth, and unconcerned with the fate of old dogmas and isms—a world open at last to the light of justice, and reason, and to the achievement of that true peace which the people of every land carry in their hearts and celebrate in their hopes."

In discussing Vietnam, Nixon once again said "our one limited but fundamental objective" there is to ensure South Vietnam's right of self-determination without outside interference. On that point, the United States will not compromise, he stated. As for lack of progress in Paris, he said:

"The missing ingredient so far has been the willingness of the other side to talk on any terms other than those that would predetermine the result and deny the right of self-determination to the people of South Vietnam."

Once the other side is genuinely willing to reach agreement, he said, "The practical solutions can readily be found."

Then he voiced his appeal:

"This makes it urgent that the U.N. members who have long taken an active interest in peace in Vietnam now take an active hand in achieving it. . .

"In the name of peace, I urge all of you here—representing 126 nations—to use your best diplomatic efforts to persuade Hanoi to move seriously into the negotiations which could end this war."

The Soviet Union was taken to task by Nixon, for not yet agreeing to negotiations on limitation of strategic arms.

Picturing the arms race as becoming a more serious problem with the passage of time, Nixon conceded complex issues are involved. But he said: "We are prepared to deal with them seriously, concretely and purposefully—and to make a determined effort not only to limit the buildup of strategic arms, but to reverse it."

As for the strife-ridden Middle East, on which the United States and Russia today renew already extensive consultations, Nixon said recent violence there "points up anew the urgency of a stable peace."

As a minimum condition for a settlement, Nixon cited observance of U.N. ceasefire resolutions. Summing up the official U.S. view, he said:

"We seek a settlement based on respect for the sovereign right of each nation to exist within secure and recognized boundaries. We are convinced that peace cannot be achieved on the basis of substantial alterations in the map of the Middle East. We are equally convinced that peace cannot be achieved on the basis of anything less than a binding, irrevocable commitment by the parties to live together in peace."

Taking still another swipe at the Soviets, Nixon said:

"Failing a settlement, an agreement on the limitation of the shipment of arms to the Middle East might help to stabilize the situation. We have indicated to the Soviet Union, without result, our willingness to enter such discussions."

The President also urged the United Nations to give high priority to a new international treaty for the punishment of airplane hijackers.

Anti-Vietnam Pickets Near U.N. Nabbed

NEW YORK (AP) — Police seized 10 antiwar pickets near the U.S. mission to the United Nations today as President Richard M. Nixon's motorcade entered the U.N. grounds.

Those seized were among a group of about 25 demonstrating at First Avenue and 45th Street. The entrance to the United Nations is at First Avenue and 43rd Street.

Another group of about 25 Negroes and whites demonstrated peacefully at First Avenue and 47th Street, criticising the President for not ending the war in Biafra.

The pickets were seized when they continued to march after police ordered them to move. A group of mounted policemen and foot patrolmen took them to a patrol car.

There was heavy police guard at the U.N. as Nixon arrived by motorcade from the Wall Street heliport where he landed following the flight aboard Air Force No. 1 from Washington to Floyd Bennett Naval Air Station in Brooklyn.

Opposite the 43rd Street gate to the United Nations, a dozen persons were on hand saying they supported the President. One carried a sign reading: "Nixon Cares."

Companions of the pickets who were seized said they were members of the American Servicemen's Union and Youth Against War and Fascism.

A spokesman said they were demonstrating to urge the immediate withdrawal of troops from Vietnam and the immediate release of "political prisoners, including American servicemen" in military and civil jails.

of both of them," he speculated.

The commission then went int closed session to interview a candidate for the job of coordinator to serve both the juvenile delinquency and youth commissions.

The coordinator to be hired will be on loan from the California Youth Authority for a year.

Following the interview, the commission agreed to offer the man the job but withheld his name because he hasn't decided definitely whether he will leave his present post.

A decision is expected in about a week.

gency medical care, and county committees would be necessary for the state program to operate.

Chairman John F. McInnis of the Marin County Transit District said he has not studied Bruce's recommendation on the transit district in detail but agrees in general with Bruce that the district staff could eventually be reduced, especially if the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District takes over transit operations.

McInnis said it is unlikely, however, that the transit district staff will be dissolved completely.

Lothar Salin, chairman of the parks and recreation commission, said his commission is vital because of the importance of conservation and recreation in the county and of getting the ideas of thousands of people vitally interested in conservation.

"Unless the supervisors themselves want to act as the commission and listen to the people to provide a link between the community and county government, they'd better leave the commission intact. Otherwise, parks and recreation will become a minor function of county government to be attended to only when someone has the time to devote to it."

BERETS

Beret officers to be tried, said today he will "insist on full and open disclosure of all evidence."

In Washington, the Pentagon said Secretary Resor has ordered that the trials be open "consistent with security."

This apparently means that certain sessions could be ordered closed if sensitive testimony was being developed.

In a statement, Resor disclosed he had rejected the congressional urging to take the case out of the hands of the U.S. command in Vietnam and dismiss the charges.

One of the congressmen, Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., on hearing from Resor, immediately appealed to President Richard M. Nixon saying he was outraged at Resor's decision to leave jurisdiction of the case to the commander in Vietnam.

Long, asking Nixon's intervention, said:

"I can see no reason to allow so grave a matter to remain in the hands of those who have already shown their ability to mismanage and disregard the rights of the accused—especially if the purpose of this is to placate the South Vietnamese or the enemy in Hanoi."

TALKS

ahead with efforts for a battlefield victory.

Col. Ha Van Lau, standing in for chief Hanoi delegate Xuan Thuy, criticized the United States for bringing the prisoner of war issue into the talks.

"It is a maneuver to divert public opinion," Lau said. "This attitude can only worsen the impasse here."

The absence of the leaders of the two Communist delegations all but ruled out any real progress in the session. Lau replaced Thuy for the Hanoi delegation. Madame Nguyen Thi Binh was replaced by Dinh Ba Thi for the Viet Cong. The leaders are still in Hanoi following Ho Chi Minh's funeral.

Both Lau and Dinh Ba Thi, deputy chief of the Viet Cong delegation, referred to the withdrawal as "driblets" aimed at deceiving American public opinion.

Lau accused the United States of slowing progress at the talks by refusing to accept Hanoi's 10-point peace plan and said "the Nixon administration is just like a man struggling in a quagmire. The more it struggles the deeper it sinks into the quagmire of the war of aggression in South Vietnam."

Thi poked fun at the 35,000 troop withdrawal figure and said, "To withdraw such a minimal quantity of troops, the United States takes half a year. Thus, how many years will it take to pull out over half a million troops?"

Stabbing Victim Condition Poor

Norman Dunham Lattin of Tiburon, the Hastings College of Law instructor who was stabbed Monday in a Tamalpais High School parking lot, remains in poor condition today in the intensive care unit at Marin General Hospital, according to hospital officials.

Lattin, who is 74, not 47 as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal, was stabbed by an unknown assailant asking for money as he and his wife were loading musical instruments into their car behind the school's music building.

His assailant has not been found.

Plea Date Set In Weed Case

William Robert Herman, 21, of Fairfax, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court of a charge of possessing marijuana, but no charges were filed against a young woman, Patricia Jane MacLeod, 18, of San Anselmo, arrested with him.

The district attorney's office said there was insufficient evidence to hold Miss MacLeod.

Herman's case was continued until Wednesday for entry of plea.

He was arrested after drug agents obtained a search warrant for his home at 25 Wreden Avenue. A tipster had said that 15 or 16 marijuana plants were visible through a window of the house.

NUDES

nude sunbathing at public beaches in West Marin.

"I wonder if Mr. Salin really understands unwelcome nudity," McInnis said. He asserted that residents living around public beaches in West Marin found the "acts of the nudists . . . disgusting is the word presented to me."

Bales spoke of open sexual activity, narcotics use and swelling ranks of spectators. He said most of the bathers were not county residents and at one point noted that a private beach for nudebathers was located on the Santa Cruz coast and "we ask that they all go in that direction."

After Salin read a letter from a nude subather praising San Gregorio Beach in San Mateo County, McInnis said there had been a gang rape of a girl on a beach in Marin County and that this kind of thing can't go on.

Salin, supported by Michael Prazker of Mill Valley, another speaker on the program, said the issue at hand was nude sunbathing and that other problems were irrelevant.

"We are dealing with a social phenomenon, the magnitude and potential dimension of which seems to escape our more conservative officials, who still believe it can be contained within the context of 'arrest and conviction'," Salin said in his statement. "Meeting this situation with nothing but ham-handed law enforcement will not solve the problem, but will only needlessly escalate it."

Salin said public beaches ultmately should be set aside, as in foreign countries, for nude swimming. But for the present, he said, a foundation could perhaps be encouraged to underwrite a private bathing facility in Marin.

OBITUARIES

Frank C. Epperly Dies At 78

Frank C. Epperly, a retired supervisor of laundry operations at San Quentin Prison, died in his San Rafael home yesterday.

He had been under a doctor's care for a heart condition.

Epperly, 78, a native of Santa Margarita, had lived in Marin County 29 years, residing most recently at 108 Marin Street.

He was a member of Fairfax Lodge 556, Free and Accepted Masons, Marin Pyramid 31 AEO Sciots, Redwood Shrine 102 of the Order of the White Shrine, Retired State Government Employees Association and the Marin Branch, American Fuchsia Society.

He is survived by his wife, Ida; three daughters, Mrs. Frances Foster, Mrs. Minnie Randolph and Mrs. Ida Mae Hobbs, all of San Rafael; a sister, Mrs. Anna Hoequist of Orlando, Fla.; five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral will be held 10 a.m. Saturday at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo, under auspices of Fairfax Lodge 556, F&AM. Burial will be private. Memorial gifts may be given to the Marin County Heart Association or a favorite charity.

MAYBELLE CLARK

Maybelle Constance Clark, 57, of San Francisco, sister of Mrs. Leslie A. Grant of San Rafael, died today in a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of San Francisco, she lived there all her life.

She also is survived by two sons, Grant Giordani of San Rafael and Jay Paetzel of San Francisco, and three grandchildren. Her husband, Edward, who served in the Merchant Marine, died many years ago.

Private funeral will be today at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be in Calistoga Cemetery.

FAIRFIELD OSBORN

Convervationist and naturalist Fairfield Osborn, father of Joan O. Roth of Ross, died Tuesday in a New York hospital.

Funeral services will be held there today.

Osborn, 82, served as president of the New York Zoological society for nearly 30 years and wrote two books, "Our Plundered Planet" and "The Limits of the Earth," as well as many scientific articles.

He was a founder in 1947 and president of the Conservation Foundation and a member of most of the nation's conservation groups.

His father was the late Henry Fairfield Osborn, a Princeton University paleontologist who for 25 years was president of the American Museum of Natural History.

He is also survived by his wife, Majorie of New York City and two other daughters, Natalie Murphy and Shirley Ayers.

VICO CANONICA

Funeral for Vico Canonica of Mill Valley, a retired tavern owner, was held today at Russell and Gooch funeral chapel in Mill Valley.

Canonica, 81, died Sunday at his home, apparently from natural causes, according to deputy Coroner Richard W. Madigan, who said Canonica had a heart condition.

A native of Italy, Canonica had lived in Marin County for the past 10 years, most recently at 4 Vasco Drive. He moved here from Seattle where he operated a tavern.

He is survived by his wife, Olive of Mill Valley; three sisters and two brothers.

ANDRUS ORTEGA

Private funeral for Andrus Ortega, 64, of Novato, was today at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Ortega died Tuesday of a heart attack aboard the President Cleveland while returning from a visit to his native Philippines.

A resident of Virginia most of the 40 years he was in this country, he moved two months ago to the home of his brother-in-law, Frank Merker of 1319 Leafwood Drive.

He was a retired seaman.

He also is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Dolores Stephens of Novato; a sister, Oliva Ortega of the Philippines, and five grandchildren. His wife, Bertha, died last year.

LENA MONOOGAN

Lena Monoogan of Mill Valley died yesterday at a local convalescent hospital following a long illness.

Mrs. Monoogan, wife of the late Albert H. Monoogan, had lived in California since 1923 and in Marin County since 1929, most recently at 74 Matilda Avenue.

She is survived by four daughters, Alberta M. Cote of San Francisco, Dorothy I. Harder and Olive V. Jones, both of Belmont, and Lorraine M. Wrenn of Mill Valley; five sons, Albert H. of San Francisco, Ralph and Harvey A. of Mill Valley and Herman W. and Charles F. Monoogan, both of San Rafael; a sister, Mabel A. Monti of Quincy, Mass., and four grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel in Mill Valley. Burial will be private.

JAMES WEST

James West, a Marin resident for 65 years, died unexpectedly Tuesday at San Francisco International Airport, apparently of a heart attack.

West, 67, was at the airport to meet his wife, Lyndell West, in preparation for returning to Honolulu, Hawaii where the couple has lived since West's retirement about three years ago.

West had been managing director of Furness Withy Ltd., a steamship company, when he retired. He had been in the steamship business for 35 years.

He was a native of San Francisco, but had lived most of his life in Marin, last on Valley View Road, San Rafael.

Survivors are his wife; three sons, Herbert A. West of San Anselmo, James West Jr. of Tiburon and George West of Oroville, and nine grandchildren.

There will be no funeral. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Heart Fund.

VELMA SHELDON

Funeral for Velma Mae Sheldon of San Rafael was held yesterday at Harry M. Williams Mortuary. Burial was in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Mrs. Sheldon, 61, died Monday at her home at 166 Solano Street after a lengthy illness.

A native of Missouri, she moved to California 38 years ago, living in various cities until coming to San Rafael about 25 years ago.

She is survived by her husband, Alaric C. Sheldon, two sisters, Opal Mairs of Sacramento, and Lelia Dryer of Santa Cruz; two brothers, Veral Lauck of Orland and Oliver Lauck of Bellflower.

RICHARD VAN WINGERDEN

Richard Van Wingerden, Forest Knolls artist, died yesterday in a Roseville hospital from injuries received in an automobile accident Aug. 22. He was 76.

A native of Rotterdam, the Netherlands he came to the United States in 1910 and moved to Forest Knolls nine years to live with his brother, Leonard Van Wingerden on Montezuma Street.

He is also survived by a niece, Lenore Hibbard of San Pablo.

Funeral services will be held 3 p.m. Monday at the San Pablo chapel of the Wilson and Kratzer Mortuaries. Burial will be at Rolling Hills Memorial Park, Richmond.

STUART SLOSSON

Funeral for Stuart A. Slosson of Corte Madera will be at 2 p.m. tommorrow at Keatin's Mortuary, San Rafael. Inurnment will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Slossin, 84, died Tuesday at a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of Michigan, Slosson moved to Corte Madera 35 years ago, living from that time until his death at 414 Redwood Avenue. He was a retired Railway Express messenger. He was a member of San Rafael Elks Lodge No. 1108.

He is survived by his wife, Helen Slosson, of Corte Madera a daughter, Mrs. Helen Greene of Bellevue, Wash. and two grandchildren.

OPAL WESTCOTT

Opal Alice Westcott, 55, a registered nurse who had lived in Marin about four years, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital following a long illness.

She was the wife of Norris Westcott, a laboratory technician at San Quentin Prison. The family home is House 26, San Quentin.

A native of Exeter, Tulare County, Mrs. Westcott was a graduate of Loma Linda University, San Bernardino County. She had worked as a nurse until becoming ill a year ago and was last with Parkway Convalescent Hospital, Terra Linda.

Survivors are her husband; two sons, Robert Dwight Westcott of Canby, Ore., and David Vittum Westcott of the home and Rio Lindo Academy in Healdsburgh; a daughter, Myrtianne Downs of Salt Lake City, Utah; a step-brother, Bill McFeely of Richmond, and two step-sisters, Fae Frick of El Cerrito and Ivy Dorsett of Santa Cruz.

Funeral will be at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at the Seventh-day Adventist Church in Fairfax. The body will then be taken to Exeter where service will be held at 10 a.m. Monday at the Seventh Day Adventist Church followed by burial there.

MATTHEW MIKELY

Matthew Mikely, 76, of 12 Lilac Avenue, Kentfield, died yesterday in a local convalescent hospital after a short illness.

A native of Yugoslavia, Mikely migrated to San Francisco 60 years ago operating a cocktail lounge on Polk Street until retiring four years ago. He had resided in Marin for nine years.

He is survived by his wife Agnes R. Mikely.

Funeral will be Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo. Memorial gifts to the Marin County Humane Society are preferred.

Span Officials Find No Cash In Capital

Five Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District officials who hunted for three days this week in Washington for federal money to help get the district into the transit business have returned empty handed.

"It was a successful trip in many ways," said Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Leuhring, "but we did not come back with any money."

A meeting with the assistant administrator for urban mass transit in the Department of Transportation, William B. Hurd, convinced the bridge officials "it will be rought to get money this fiscal year, but not quite impossible," Luehring said.

California already had overdrawn by $7 million its share of department grants that can pay up to two thirds of the cost of new equipment, Hurd told the bridge officials. The state also has more than used up its share of grants to demonstrate new transit system, she noted.

And al remaining federal funds are earmarked for other projects, Hurd told them.

Luehring said Hurd assured them that federal money for a rapid transit system "is on the way," but couldn't predict when.

During the fast visit he also got word from the Army that it has denied the district's application to sell liquor at a proposed restaurant at the toll plaza, but that the district could reapply next year after the Army completes a review of its regulations.

France presented the Statue of Liberty to the United States July 4, 1884.

Training Jobs For Handicapped

Five mentally retarded persons, receiving total disability grants from the Marin County Welfare Department, will be given jobs in a training program designed to enable them to work for pay at simple tasks.

They are among 300 persons eligible for $600 grants from the state Departments of Rehabilitation and Social Welfare.

The program will train the retarded persons in sorting, assembling, mailing, housekeeping and other manual jobs, for which they will be paid at the standard rate.

Locally the program will be handled by the Marin Community Workshop at 72K Woodland Avenue, San Rafael.

$200 Cash Loss

Marin Shakespeare Festival officials reported yesterday a plywood shack on the grounds at Forest Meadows, San Rafael, had been entered during the night and about $200 in cash taken, police said today.

SAUCELITO CANAL

Cost Of Dredging Increases $76,000

By ANNE BARDWELL

The price for dredging the Saucelito Canal to provide deep water access to upper Richardson Bay has been increased another $76,000, the City of Mill Valley has learned.

Total price for the project, is now $1,050,000, up $50,000 from six weeks ago and $150,000 from four months ago.

Whether this latest increase is the death blow for the Saucelito Canal Assessment District which will finance more than half the project cost is a question which will not be answered until protest hearings are held by the Marin County Board of Supervisors in about two months.

Mill Valley City Enginner Stanley M. Bala said yesterday that the assessment district attorney has asked him to prepare new assessment figures for each property owner participating in the district. Bala's partner, Jesper Strandgaard, away on vacation, is the engineer for the district.

The request came after Col. Charles R. Robert, district engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers which will do the dredging, said in a letter written Aug. 4 to County Public Works Director Donald R. Frost that the dredging cost had risen $76,000.

The increased cost was not made public at the time the letter was received, Bala said, because Strandgaard requested a double check on the figures before proceeding with a new assessment spread.

In his letter Roberts said that $26,600 of the increase was for engineering charges which could not be paid by the federal government and therefore had to be charged to the assessment district. He gave no explanation for the other $50,000 increase, Bala said.

Under an agreement worked out 10 years ago, the Army Corps of Engineers will pay half of the project cost up to $500,000. The remainder is to be paid by the assessment district.

Of the total $1,050,000 some $100,000 will be spent for engineering, design supervision and administrative costs and the remaining $950,000 for dredging.

The first $100,000 hike over the original $900,000 cost estimate came in June when the engineers learned they would not be able to dump dredging spoils along the shores of Richardson Bay as planned when the project was first proposed in 1959 and opposition to bay filling was not as strong as it is today.

The engineers, after an extensive study of alternate dumping solutions, decided to dump deposit the spoils near Alcatraz Island where strong tides and currents will wash the mud out to sea.

This proposal, which would cost the extra $100,000 because of the necessity of barging spoils from the dredging site to Alcatraz, is still under study by the corps.

Henry E. Pape, assistant chief of the corps' engineering division, yesterday refused to indicate whether or not the corps would approve the proposal.

(The county has agreed to contribute $35,000 to help offset the additional $100,000 charge because of public benefit.)

Another problem still to be resolved is the purchase of private lands in the canal's proposed path. In question are six parcels, some 800,000 square feet of underwater property, Five owned by George Kappas of Gate Six and the sixth by the estate of Thomas Gardiner of Berkeley.

The county acting in behalf of Flood Control District Five, which will purchase the land "for flood control purposes", filed a condemnation suit in November and received a court order of immediate possession. However, the condemnation price is still in question and Kappas believes he is entitled to much more than $35,000 offered him by the county.

Federal funding of the corps share still has to be confirmed. Pape said the project would be presented as part of its fiscal 1970-71 budget request for small projects.

Although the appropriation does not need to be approved by Congress, it must be approved by Gen. Frederick Clark, chief of engineers at the pentagon.

Another unknown factor — one more which could kibosh the project — is whether President Richard M. Nixon's order to halt most government construction projects would affect the canal dredging.

The biggest question, of course, is whether the assessment district will accept the increased cost. Mill Valley, one of the most eager members only carries a 10 per cent share. Other property owners needing the canal-owners of the Bothin Yacht Harbor development near Tamlapais Junction and those of the Shelter Bay apartments — certainly will not protest.

However, what the other property owners, most of whom claim they will derive no direct benefits from the canal, will do is a question which will not be answered until the protest hearings are completed.

Murderer Gets Stay Of Execution

A 39-year-old convicted murderer, scheduled to die in the gas chamber at San Quention Prison Oct. 8, has received a stay of execution.

He is Charles Coogler, convicted of killing two Los Angeles women during a robbery attempt.

Prison officials said the stay was granted Sept. 12 by U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas pending filing of a writ.

Meanwhile, execution dates have been set by the courts for two other Death Row inmates at San Quentin.

Charley Luther Pike, 36, who killed a Los Angeles policeman during a robbery, is scheduled to die Nov. 5, while Liskie T. Mabry, 55, also convicted of killing a policeman, is to be executed on Nov. 12.

Tube Left In Heart; Patient Sues Hospital

PALO ALTO (UPI)—A Palo Alto man with a nine-inch piece of tubing in his chest has sued Stanford University Medical Center for $500,000 for leaving it there.

Keith McCoy, 60, a retired federal employee, filed a damage suit in Santa Clara Superior Court charging that a nurse left the catheter tube in a blood vessel near his heart during an operation last May 23.

McCoy, who is undergoing treatment for heart disease at Palo Alto Veter.'s Hospital, said doctors told him they cannot remove the tube without killing him.

Catheters are used to inject and extract fluids from blood vessels in order to keep a passageway open.

The suit said the nine-inch segment apparently broke off and wasn't discovered until an X-ray was taken later.

McCoy's suit did not name any physicians as defendants. Hospital spokesmen declined comment.

Penalty Trial Set In Novarro Slaying

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A penalty trial was set for next Tuesday for the elder of two Chicago brothers found guilty of the first degree murder of silent film star Ramon Novarero.

The same jury of seven men and five women which convicted Paul Robert Ferguson, 23, and Thomas Scott Ferguson, 18, yesterday will decide whether Paul will be sentenced to life in prison or death in the gas chamber. The panel has been ordered sequestered until the penalty phase begins.

Session With Gardiner On Arson Suspects Is Sought

Marinwood Community Services District directors decided last night to ask Marin Juvenile Judge Samuel W. Gardiner for a conference to discuss the problem of juvenile arson suspects who are released immediately after arrest.

John F. McInnis, chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, attended the meeting and explained that under state law, minors cannot be detained for any length of time except in unusual cases.

Director Frank Solomon Jr. reported that John W. Brewer, a probation officer, has agreed to notify the fire chief whenever an arson suspect is released after apprehension. Fire Chief Gaylord E. Bonfield said that in the past, no such notification was given.

The directors granted Bonfield a raise in salary from $912 per month to $958 beginning next month and voted a letter of commendation to the chief for an "outstanding job" since he took over six months ago.

Marinwood Community Services District directors also:

TAX RATE — Announced that the district tax rate this year will be $1.23 per $100 assessed valuation, a drop of 6.5 cents from last year's $1.295.

PROBATION AIDES — Heard from director Jack G. Nixon that a meeting will be held with probation department officials to see if a community volunteer group can be formed to help supervise youths on probation.

YOUTH COMMISSION — Solomon reported that the Marinwood Youth Commission budget this year will be $1,200, with the youths raising half the amount.

VANDALISM — Decided to ask the youth commission whether clean-up brigade can be set up to clean rocks and dirt thrown into the community center buildings and pool area by vandals.

Newsmen Nabbed For Violating Judge's Ban

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal officials began arresting newsmen and photographers in the Federal Building today on grounds that they violated an order banning radio and telvision broadcasting and photography in federal courtrooms and their environs.

The order, issued yesterday by William J. Campbell, chief federal judge in Chicago, barred broadcasting and photography on floors housing courtrooms and the ground floors, plaza and sidewalks surrounding the court house.

The first arrested today were Michael Rollins, a reporter for radio station WCFL, and Arvid Carlson, a camerman for WGN-TV, who were in the lobby of the building.

Immediately after these arrests, other newsmen in the lobby of the Federal Building began turning on their cameras and tape recorders and were arrested.

They were not immediately identified.

At the time of his arrest, Rollins was taping an interview with Sherman H. Skolnick about a suit Skolnick had just filed as a private citizen challenging the constitutionality of Judge Campbell's order.

Skolnick was holding a press conference at the time about his suit and was surrounded by reporters.

After Rollins turned on his tape recorder, Frank Reddy, supervising deputy U.S. marshal, warned him that he was violating the order.

Skolnick, a legal researcher, then demanded that he be arrested because he had invited the newsmen to attend his press conference there.

Assembled reporters were then told by John Adams, chief deputy marshal:

"We are asking any people with recording devices or cameras to leave. If you won't, you are under arrest."

When Rollins continued to tape, Adams asked him: "Do you refuse to stop?" Rollins replied that he would continue and Adams arrested him.

Carlson, who was holding but not using a camera, was arrested shortly afterward by Reddy. Carlson argued that the order prohibited actual filming and that he was not using his camera.

Judge Campbell issued his order a week before the scheduled trial of eight antiwar leaders charged with crossing state lines to promote a riot.

The judge said the action was taken to bring about "uniformity at all United States District courthouses throughout the country, and at the direction of the Judicial Conference of the United States."

In the past, the lobby of the Federal Building often has been used by the news media for press conferences with U.S. Atty. Thomas A. Foran.

Skolnick, too, has in the past used the lobby and other floors in the building for press conferences.

Skolnick has filed numerous court actions against public officials, alleging various forms of misconduct.

His latest suit, filed with Mrs. Harriett Sherman, states that the pleaintiffs are acting as representatives of all persons who watch television and listen to radio, particularly news programs.

Hickel Says Oil Leakage Way Down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Oil seepage from the sea floor in the Santa Barbara Channel off the California coast has dropped to about 10 barrels a day, Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel said today.

Hickel said this was only a third of the average daily flow from March through June. Seepage exceeded 500 barrels a day immediately after a Union Oil Co. well blew out in the channel last January, fouling beaches in the area.

Dr. W. T. Pecora, director of the U. S. Geological Survey, in a report to Hickel credited the reduced seepage to an "intensive program" of cementing fractures in the channel floor and selective pumping to reduce pressure in oil and gas bearing sands.

Hickel pledged further efforts to reduce the flow of oil into channel waters.

"This department will not relax its vigilance," the Interior secretary said in a statement. "We shall continue to do all that is necessary to reduce the present seepage below the natural level existing at thos location prior to the blowout."

Both the cementing and selective pumping procedures were recommended by a presidential panel headed by Dr. Lee A. Dubridge, president Nixon's science adviser.

Independence Idea Backed For Chamber

The plan of developer Paul Golis to make the Rohnert Park Chamber of Commerce independent of city government drew support yesterday at the chamber directors meeting.

Golis reviewed his plan to have the chamber solicit members for a three-year period to insure adequare financing and to do away with the annual appropriation from the city council.

The developer said that a self-supporting chamber could then urge the council to do away with the business license tax and attract more new businesses to the city. Acknowledging that some members remain concerned about the proposal, Golis said, "The proof of the pudding is to try it."

President John Henman supported Golis's plan and appointed a committee to meet Wednesday at 7 a.m. to review the possibilities. Committee members include Henman, Golis, Kennth Cummings, Maurice Fredericks, James Groom and Bart C. Mitchell. Councilman Arthur N. Roberts will be the council representative at the session.

Ellsberg Back At Principal's Desk

Alan W. Ellsberg returned to his job today as principal of San Rafael High School, recovered from a heart attack which he suffered during surgery on Aug. 7.

Ellsberg made his first appearance at the school since opening of the fall term for a college night program last night.

Patrolman Halts An Apparent Span Jumper

Herbert Richard McAuley, 35, of Oakland was committed to San Francisco General Hospital for observation early today after he was stopped in an apparent attempt to jump off the Golden Gate Bridge, the California Highway Patrol said.

The patrol said McAuley stipped on the Sausalito lateral off Highway 101 shortly before midnight and ran towards the bridge where he was apprehended by a patrolman.

Canyon Check Leads To Drug Suspects

Seven youths were arrested by Mill Valley police yesterday after officers broke up an alleged pot party in the back reaches of Blithedale Canyon.

Booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of marijuana possession and being in a place where narcotics were used were Robert Edwin Blake II, 22, of Forrest Knolls; David Keith Blakey, 19, and Lisa Jane Strum, 18, both of 252 Scenic Avenue, San Anselmo.

William Cullen Packard III, 23, and Janet Ellen Shreve, 21, both of 248 West Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley, were booked on suspicion of maintaining and being in a place where narcotics are used and jarijuana possession. Richard Joseph Casorala, 19, of 1818a College Avenue, Kentfield, was booked in suspicion of being in a place where narcotics are used.

Stephen Pope Coleman, 16, of 27 West Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley, was taken to Marin County Juvenile Hall for investigation of marijuana possession.

Casorala, Blake and Miss Strum posted $250 bail and Miss Shreve $500 bail to appear at 2 p.m. tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court. Blakey was held pending $250 bail as was Packard pending $500 bail.

Police said officers were called to 248 West Blithedale Avenue, residence of Packard and Miss Shreve, at 3:54 p.m. yesterday following complaints by neighbors of loud noise. While talking to Casorala, officers found marijuana in the living room of the cottage, police said.

House Looted

Knox H. Finley of San Francisco reported to the sheriff's department that some time last week someone broke a window of his summer home at Stinson Beach and stole a shotgun, rifle, movie projector and two pairs of hunting boots, sheriff's officers said today.

Burglar Walks Off With $20

A burglar took $20 from a Tamalpais Valley home Tuesday afternoon while a visitor was on the telephone calling Mill Valley police about an attempted entry, sheriff's deputies reported yesterday.

Deputies said Elizabeth Jannett Nulf of New Haven, Conn., was at the home of Ray Jackson, 220 Cleveland Avenue, at 3:40 p.m. when she suspected someone was trying to enter.

The burglar entered and walked around while she was telephoning police, and $20 was taken.

GUN-TOTING COW HERDERS DRAW FINES

Three San Rafael men, armed with rifles and the explanation they only were looking for stray cattle, were fined $50 each and placed on one year of probation yesterday by West Marin Justice Court Judge David R. Baty.

They were cited on Sept. 17 by Park Ranger Olsen Inman on the Murphy Ranch at Point Reyes National Seashore for possession of a gun on government property. Fined were Frank G. Merz, 45, of 179 Reservoir Road; Raymond J. Finegan, 50, of 2060 Fifth Avenue, and Robert M. Nave, 43, of 4 Ranch Road, reported clerk Stella Phillipshcheck.

Richard S. Nystrom, 20, of San Mateo, was given 90 days probation by Judge Baty for swimming nude at Stinson Beach on Sept. 6.

Branson Students In Merit Semifinals

The names of five seniors at Katharine Branson School, Ross, were omitted from a story yesterday in the Independent-Journal on students named semifinalists in the 1969-70 National Merit Scholarship program.

PG&E Defends Heavy Advertising Program

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A vice-president of Pacific Gas and Electric yesterday defended advertising expenses for gas appliances at a hearing into the coompany's request for a $26 million gas rate increase.

J. Y. De Young of PG&E told the Public Utilities Commission that the $4 million the company spends each year on advertising and promotion means lesser costs for customers.

"By maximizing the use of the gas system, facilities throughout the day and from season to season, costs of these facilities can be distributed over more units of service, thereby reducing the unit cost," Young said.

He said promoting the sale of gas air conditioners stimulates the use of gas during the summer season when heating units are not in use.

Citing a trend toward "electric living," Young said PG&E, "as a result of vigorous advertising and sales promotion programs . . . has been able to halt this decline in gas cooking and, to some extent, turn it around."

Actor's Son Faces Marijuana Charges

LAKE ARROWHEAD (UPI) —Peter Duryea, son of the late actor Dan Duryea, is accused in a formal complaint of possession of marijuana.

Duryea, 30, was among eight persons in a boat on Lake Arrowhead last Saturday observed by sheriff's deputies to throw overboard what appeared to be narcotics materials. The deputies seized tablets they believed to be LSD.

Haynsworth Gets Bar's Blessings

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The American Bar Association advised senators today that a committee that studied Judge Clement F. Haynsworth's qualifications agreed unanimously he is a "highly acceptable" choice for the Supreme Court.

Lawrence E. Walsh, New York, chairman of the ABA's Committee on The Federal Judiciary, told the Senate Judiciary Committee considering Haynsworth's nomination that his group interviewed numerous judges, lawyers, law professors and others in looking into Haynsworth's qualification.

"The members of the committee were unanimously of the opinion that Judge Haynsworth was highly acceptable from the viewpoint of professional qualification," Walsh said.

"All of the persons interviewed regarding Judge Haynsworth expressed confidence in his integrity, his intellectual honesty, his judicial temperament and his professional ability.

"A few regretted the appointment because of differences with Judge Haynsworth's ideological point of view, preferring someone less conservative. None of these gentlemen, however, expressed any doubts as to Judge Haynsworth's intellectual integrity or his capability as a jurist."

Walsh also reviewed Haynsworth's interest in a vending company which had contracts with the parent firm of a textile mill involved in a labor relations case before the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals, of which Haynsworth is a member, in 1963.

Walsh said the conclusion was that Haynsworth "had no interest, direct or indirect, in the outcome of the case before his court. There was no basis for any claim of disqualification and it was his duty to sit as a member of his court."

Haynsworth voted with the majority in a 3-2 decision that rejected an unfair labor practices charge against the textile mill which had contracts for machines of the company in which the judge holds one-seventh interest.

Besides that case, a new conflict allegation against Haynsworth was raised today: whether he was stockholder of a firm which benefited from one of his decisions last year.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., leader of the committee's liberals who kept Haynsworth on the witness stand for most of the two days, raised the question late yesterday after Haynsworth left for the day. Bayh said he would demand answer today.

Haynsworth owns about $18,000 worth of Brunswick Corp. stock. The question was whether he owned it when he joined two other judges last year in a unanimous decision giving Brunswick the right to seize 10 bowling lanes and pinsetters from a South Carolina bowling alley proprietor who had defaulted on his payments.

If he did, Bayh said, he clearly had a conflict of interest, especially under the Supreme Court's interpretation that judges should "avoid even the appearance of bias" no matter how honest they are.

Rights Group Help Sought For Center

The Novatans for Racial Equality was asked last night to help organize a skills center for people of low income in Novato.

Gail Pheller, Economic Opportunity Council program developer, outlined the program for the Novato group at the Bank of Marin meeting room. Such a center would concentrate on young women giving them vocational training in bookkeeping, typing and shorthand, and personal training in grooming to get jobs, she said.

The low income families do not use the public adult evening high school programs because of the cost of hiring a baby sitter, or embarrassment at not reading properly, Mrs. Pheller added.

The center should have about 35 to 40 people of low income to make it economically feasible. It could then be financed by a grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, she said. The Novatans for Racial Equality hopes to get the center established by the first of the year.

Two such centers are now in operation in San Anselmo and

Marin Savings, Loan Firm's Sale Is Voted

Stockholders of Marin County Financial Corp. have approved sale of all stock of its operating subsidiary, Marin County Savings and Loan Association, to Pacific Coast Holdings Inc. of San Mateo.

Approval by the Marin County Financial stockholders was announced today by Clyde H. Charlton, president of Pacific Coast Holdings. He said 95.5 per cent of stockholders approved the transaction.

Marin County Financial stockholders will receive 1.534 shares of Pacific Coast Holdings for each share of their stock. Marin County Financial Corp. will be dissolved.

Pacific Coast Holdings shares closed in over-the-counter trading today at $8 bid, $8.75 asked. Last sale of Marin County Savings stock, before trading was suspended because of merger negotiations, was reported at about $5.

Fred F. Enemark, executive vice president of Marin County Savings, will become executive vice president and managing officer of the combined association, announced Charlton. He will retain his office at the association's Marin office, the present Marin County Savings and Loan at 900 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

Principal office of Pacific Coast Holdings is at 417 South B Street, San Mateo. The insitution, with assets of nearly $100 million, also has offices in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

The merger is subject to approval by regulatory agencies.

Sale of Marin County Savings marks the second disappearance through merger this year of locally established savings and loan institutions in the county. Northwestern Savings and Loan Association was merged with Fidelity Savings and Loan Association of Berkeley in March.

Contract For Pipeline Given

The Bolinas Community Public Utility District board last night awarded a contract for the laying of the Wharf Road pipeline to contractor Earl E. Gilson of San Anselmo, who submitted the lowest of five bids at $29,980, district secretary Jane Phillips reported today.

The project is scheduled to be completed before the winter rains, she said.

The board tentatively set the first public hearing on the proposed $2.3 million Bolinas-Stinson Beach sewage system for 8 p.m. Oct. 24 at the Bolinas Community Center.

District officials also announced that any of the eight candidates for the three open seats on the board in the Nov. 4 election can obtain information on the district at the district office.

Beatles Offer Queen A Tribute

LONDAN (AP) — The Beatles have come up with an affectionate singing tribute to Queen Elizabeth II, who gave them the Order of the British Empire in 1968.

Is the quartet's latest long-playing record, out Sept. 26, Paul McCartney voices a song with the punch line "Her Majesty's a pretty nice girl, so some time I'm gonna make her mine. Oh yeah, some day I'm gonna make her mine."

A Beatle press agent said the Beatles "are all monarchists" and that "Paul sang that knowing the Queen would enjoy it." He said a copy of the record would be sent to Buckingham Palace.

Peace Mission For Battleship Proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., has proposed that the battleship New Jersey, just retired from Vietnam service, be painted white, renamed the USS Peace and sent around the world on a goodwill mission. He said she should carry the "implements" of peace such as the Declaration of Independence, some moon rocks and a modern American kitchen.

"She could be displayed in ports around the world," Murphy said, "to give graphic evidence by her size, and by her potential for destruction, of the powerful forces at the command of this country."

Ecumenical Housing Bloc Reconsiders Advisory Role

The Ecumenical Association for Housing agreed last night to reconsider its possible role as a citizens advisory council for low and moderate income family housing units to be constructed in the future.

The decision on who should become the citizens advisory group on family housing for the county's Workable Program for Community Improvement will be made by the board of supervisors following an Oct. 25 housing conference.

The association was recommended by the Marin Housing Authority in July to serve as the advisory group, but members declined the role for the time being, wanting nothing to deter the association from its prime function of facilitating construction.

Association architect Herbert McLaughlin reported on job studies including a possible elderly housing project on Lincoln Avenue San Rafael.

Executive director Martin Mackey reported Our Lady of Loretto Church in Novato, is a new member, bringing to 29 the number of organization represented. Betty Moody is the church's delegate to the association.

The next meeting will be at 8 p.m. Oct. 15 at the Civic Center. Marin Savings

Three Drivers Handed Fines

Three men have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving. All were placed on six months probation by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr.

Robert Baker Rorick, 44, of 8 Ames Avenue, Ross, who was arrested March 20 on Highway 101, was fined $200.

James Anderson Mulaney, 38, of San Francisco, was fined $125. He was arrested March 15 on Highway 101.

Ronald William Stratton, 26, of 377 San Luis Way, Novato was fined $125. He was arrested June 22 on Highway 37.

Students Can Get Advice On Drugs Via Phone

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Starting Monday, Sacramento State College students will be able to make a telephone call and get advice on the draft, drugs, abortions and other problems of young people.

A group of students has set up Crisis Line which students can dial for counseling—most of which will be given by psychiatrists, medical doctors and ministers in the community.

Student body president Steve Whitemore said yesterday the counseling service is designed to help "the many students who are very reluctant to go to people in the community for help. They fear being turned in to parents, authorities or school officials."

McNear's Beach Sale No Block To Parksite

If Marin County wants to buy the McNear's Beach property for a bayfront park, it did not suffer a setback from yesterday's foreclosure sale, County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said today.

"In fact, the county may be in a better position because the title has been cleared," added Maloney.

If the county decision is to go ahead with purchase, Maloney said he would recommend that an appraisal be made and negotiations started with the new owner, Sixty Trust, which foreclosed on the beach property at a price of $518,034. Sixty Trust is the operating employees trust fund for Textron Corp., represented by attorney Charles K. Mills of San Francisco.

Maloney warned, however, that the $518,000 figure does not necessarily reflect the true market value of the property. "It is not related to the market value but solely to the amount owed to the beneficiary, Sixty Trust."

William C. Sullivan, assistant right-of-way engineer in the department of public works, said the McNear's Beach property contains between 22 and 28 acres including 13 acres of water.

Since 1967, the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission and Director Pierre W. Joske have been discussing the acquisition of a bayfront park, either at China Camp or at McNear's Beach. Joske is in Chicago attending a national convention and not available for comment.

James Vandeweg, park coordinator, said the county now has $339,000 in the county budget for a bayfront park. In addition, $86,250 is available from the 1964 state bond act funds, but this carries the stipulation that the acquistion must be for a park of at least 50 acres. The county also has an application in for $275,000 in federal aid from the land and water conservation fund. This grant, not yet approved, is contingent on a 50-acre purchase and on approval of the site to be purchased. Total funds available or applied for thus come to $700,000.

Supervisors Chairman John F. McInnis said that to the best of his knowledge, the county supervisors have not taken a stand in the purchase of a specific bayfront park.

However, at a workshop session with the parks and recreation commission and staff about a year or year and a half ago, McInnis said the supervisors asked the park and recreation staff to consider both China Camp and McNear's Beach for acquisition.

McInnis said McNear's Beach seems to be more feasible of the two because China Camp lacks adequate space such as for parking, and land cost and severance damage would be almost prohibitive.

Company Hired To Chop Down Marin City Fence

The controversial high fence at the Marin City underpass will be removed within six weeks under a $72,838 contract bid won yesterday by Brown-Ely Co. Contractors of San Rafael, the state Division of Highways reported.

The present 15-foot-high fence was built over a year ago to prevent rock throwing by youngsters using the underpass at Highway 101, and became a symbol to the community of a racial barrier.

The two-month project also includes repair of the roadway, regrading and improved drainage to eliminate the pools of water which resulted in the splashing of pedestrians by passing motorists.

The new sidewalk fence will be an eight-foot-high chain link fence with green vinyl-coated fabric, and will be extended to Bridgeway.

Argentine Army Acts Vs. Riots

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The army took over law enforcement in Argentina's second largest city last night to quell rioting in which two persons were killed.

Brig. Gen. Henriberto Robinson, commander of the 2nd Army Corps, said the soldiers in Rosario, 185 miles northwest of Buenos Aires, had orders to "shoot to kill" if necessary to restore order.

Sausalito Bond Urged As Least Costly Way To Meet Needs

Proposed bond issues totaling $230,000 for three Sausalito projects will not require any tax increase and can be paid over 20 years from existing revenues, according to City Mgr. George M. Patterson.

It would also cost more to complete each project separately, he said.

Patterson and members of the city council answered citizens questions about the bond issues for expansion of the fire station, purchase and expansion of the police station and reconstruction of Tiffany Beach at a public meeting in city hall last night.

In an information sheet distributed at the meeting and available at city hall, Patterson said the bond issues, on the November ballot, can be paid off at about $20,000 a year for 20 years.

This amount can be funded out of current revenue, $3,300 of which is already spent annually for lease of the part of the building now being used by the police department, the information sheet said.

With construction costs rising 8 to 10 per cent per year, Patterson said it would be more expensive for the city to complete the projects one at a time by accumulating funds over a period of years.

"If the city planned to accumulate funds, they would have to set aside at least $20,000 per year, which is at least as much, if not more, than would be required annually to pay the bonds off if the bond issue is approved," he said. "By approving the bond issue, the city will spend less money and have the improvements now when they are needed."

Patterson said the proposed expansion of Fire Station No. 1, now 29 years old, would provide the space needed for equipment housing, additional training room, work and storage areas and an improved communications area.

If the police station bond issue wins voter approval, a one-story addition of 900 square feet will be built on the south side of the present building.

The Tiffany Beach project would reconstruct the beach, virtually eliminated by the widening of Bridgeway, expanding its size from the previous 5,700 square feet to 12,700 square feet.

Opposition to the proposed bond issue for the beach, however, came yesterday in a letter to the council from the Sausalito Citizens Council. Citing what it termed the city's failure to maintain and police existing public parks, the council's board of directors said the beach project should be postponed until existing parks are brought "up to a standard which will allow our taxpayers to be proud of them and enable our residents to use them without fear or embarrassment."

In a letter signed by board president Arie Slikkerveer, the council's directors said they would support the two bond measures for the police and fire stations. But they added that funds to pay off these bonds "should not come at the expense of existing city operating and maintenance costs."

The letter criticized the city for failing to keep Vina del Mar available for local residents, and said Gabrielson Park "became an eyesore when taken over some months ago by the city.

To reach the 15,000-foot-high Cerro de Pasco copper region in Peru, trains pass through 65 tunnels, cross 67 bridges, and swing around 16 switchbacks. Several railways and highways have been built to the high plateaus, but few pass the cordilleras into the eastern lowlands.

Sausalito Backs County Bicycle Path Adoption

An amendment adding a countywide bicycle path to the Marin County parks and recreation plan was endorsed last night by the Sausalito Planning Commission.

The proposed bicycle paths system would link all the cities in the county, the Golden Gate Bridge and West Marin.

The commission put off until Oct. 15 a public hearing on an application for a conditional use permit by Joseph Duffel for an apartment development on the old American Distillery site just outside the city limits. The hearing has been postponed several times in the past.

In other action, the commission approved an encouraachment permit for Walter Silva for a sign for the new Paterson's pub at 739 Bridgeway to project into the public right-of-way.

The average American consumes 115 pounds of potatoes per year.

Burglary Case To Higher Court

Charles R. McCaffrey, 23, San Rafael, yesterday was bound over to Marin Supeior Court on a burglary. He is to appear in court Sept. 29 for arraignment.

Judge Peter Allen Smith of municipal court said he will make a decision next Tuesday whether to hold a co-defendant, Rodney B. Williams, 19, for trial.

The men are accused of breaking the window of a San Rafael antique store on Aug. 12 and stealing an antique telephone.

Students Get Role As Teacher Judges

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—President Charles Hitch today ordered student evaluations of teaching effectiveness added to the criteria for selection of University of California faculty members.

Hitch issued revised instructions on faculty appointments and promotions calling for more emphasis on teaching--a demand made by both dissident students and unhappy taxpayers.

However, the U.C. president's instructions left the oft-criticized "publish or perish" criterion as the other indispensable qualification for faculty selection. Hitch referred to it as "research or other creative achievement."

His orders went to the departmental committees responsible for faculty appointments and promotions on the nine U.C. campuses. They set forth procedures to be followed in reviewing each candidate's worth. Hitch issued them as the board of regents opened a two-day meeting.

In addition to an increased emphasis on teaching, the president called for greater flexibility in judging faculty members departing "from traditional academic patterns," particularly those participating in "new fields of endeavor," such as the urban crisis program.

Student evaluations were a new feature of the instructions.

"It is the responsibility of the department chairmen to submit meaningful statements, accompanied by evidence, including evaluations of the candidate solicited from students, concerning the candidate's teaching effectiveness at lower-division, upper-division, and graduate levels of instruction," one section read.

"If such information is not included in the letter of recommendation, it is the review committee chairman's responsibility to request it, through the chancellor."

"Effective teaching is an essential criterion to appointment or advancement; under no circumstances will a tenure commitment be made unless there is clear documentation of ability and diligence in the teaching role," the instructions said.

Homeowners Endorse Hub Drainage Idea

Eventual placing of a by-pass conduit beneath San Anselmo's Center Boulevard to preserve the natural state of Corte Madera Creek was endorsed last night by members of the San Anselmo Homes Association last night.

Panelists Donald R. Frost, county director of public works; Paul C. Zucker, county planning director, and Philip B. Lygren, Ross town engineer-agreed this method of flood control would save the creek from radical change, reported president Paul Brand.

Members also commended San Anselmo city councilmen for supporting a design study for the creek along with the county and the City of Ross.

A resolution to endorse the Save Our Seashore drive for immediate federal acquisition of lands at Point Reyes was also passed.

Needle Mark Found On Convict's Body

A fresh needle mark on his right arm and a small puncture on the inside of his left wrist have been found on the body of Arlie C. Nation, 29, who was found dead yesterday in his San Quentin cell, Richard Fontaine, assistant county coroner, reported today. Their cause has not yet been determined.

The Fresno man, in prison for manslaughter and possession of marijuana, had no record of chronic or recent illness to account for his death and an autopsy will be performed, Fontaine said.

Spock Tells Of March In War Protest

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Benjamin Spock, denouncing President Richard M. Nixon's planned troop withdrawals as a "fraud," announced today a series of protests this fall, including a 36-hour "March Against Death" in Washington.

Spock told newsmen that 500,000 persons were expected to take part in the Nov. 14-15 march from Arlington Cemetery past the White House and to the Capitol.

The baby doctor contended that the announcement by Nixon that 35,000 troops would be withdrawn from Vietnam was a "sop" and a "fraud" to weaken antiwar demonstrations.

Spock said the first antiwar effort this fall would be a "Vietnam Moratorium" on Oct. 15, scheduled for 400 campuses.

On Oct. 25, he said, a demonstration will be staged in Chicago in support of eight persons on trial for conspiracy in connection with disorders outside the Democratic National Convention last August.

Spock was convicted June 14, 1968 in Boston of conspiring to counsel young men to violate Selective Service rules, but on July 11 the First U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals there threw out the conviction on the grounds of insufficient evidence. The government decided not to appeal.

Pair Is Booked As Car Theft Suspects

Two Oakland men were booked into Marin County Jail at 5 p.m. yesterday after Oakland police nabbed them in a car stolen Tuesday morning from an auto lot operated by Bianco Cadillac Agency at 205 Casa Buena Drive, Corte Madera.

Leon Lee Luster and Reginald Michael, both 25, did not post $1,200 bail and were to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Pleads Innocent To Marijuana Charge

An innocent plea to a charge of possessing marijuana was entered yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for Michael Brand Galvin, 22, of San Anselmo. A preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 14.

The youth was arrested in San Anselmo Aug. 25, when drug agents said they saw him and another man walking down San Anselmo Avenue apparently sharing a marijuana cigarette. The agents said the other man swallowed the cigarette, but Galvin had two others with him.

CREW GETS EXCITED

Storm-Tossed Boat Visited By Stork

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—The shrimp trawler Belvedere, which left Texas with four persons aboard, docked here today sporting a crew of five—including a two-day-old boy born aboard the wildly pitching vessel far out in the Gulf.

Mrs. Alice Raley, 29, and infant Talbert James Raley, were taken to a hospital in a station wagon after the vssel docked.

"No, I don't need an ambulance," Mrs. Raley said "but I thought they (the men aboard) would when I told them the baby was coming."

Mrs. Raley said she was aware the child was coming for about four hours before she told her husband, who is a deck hand aboard the cessel.

"I didn't tell them until right before the baby came," she said. "There wasn't anything they could do. There wasn't any way they could get me off the boat. I was afraid they'd get upset."

She said the baby came earlier than she expected "and quite a bit faster."

Her husband Thomas dragged a mattress into the gally, near the midship point where the pitching and rolling was least noticeable and aided his wife.

Captain James Bothwell admitted the incident caused some concern.

"The lightning was flashing, it was blowing about 35-40 miles an hour, we were shipping water and having trouble with the pump," Bothwell said. "It was about 4 o'clock in the morning and everything seemed to be happening at once."

He said the ship was about 200 miles south of the Mississippi Delta and he called the Coast Guard but had trouble getting them to understand the problem.

Mrs. Raley had been living in Galveston while her husband fished out of Freeport. But the trawler was ordered to return here to be outfitted for Atlantic Coast fishing off Georgia, and Mrs. Raley decided to save bus fare and make the Gulf crossing with her husband.

Injury Mishap In Wind Tunnel

SUNNYVALE (UPI) — One person was injured and a helicopter was severely damaged yesterday when "an object" came through the wall of the NASA wind tunnel at Moffett Field and hit the craft.

Hiram MacDonald, 33, an employee of the Army's aviation material laboratories at Fort Eustis, Va., suffered a cut face, according to the Stanford Medical Center.

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the accident took place while an AH56A Cheyenne helicopter was in the tunnel at the Ames Research Center.

He declined to identify the object which came through the wall.

Mental Health Chief Target Of Complaints

A member of the Marin County Mental Health Advisory Board last night proposed holding a closed meeting to air complaints against Dr. Clyde G. Miller, director of Marin County Mental Health Services.

Sally Mishkind said she felt the meeting was necessary because many complaints about Miller have been received by both private and public agencies dealing with the mental health services department.

"There have been complaints, lots of them, and I think its about time we brought them into the open and discussed them," Mrs. Mishkind said.

Mrs. Mishkind also said that she and other members have received complaints about Miller, most of them dealing with an apparent breakdown in communications between Miller and other mental health agencies.

Mrs. Miskind's proposal was immediately challenged by Thomas F. Campanella, assistant county administrator, who said he felt the advisory board had no right to hold a closed session because it does not have the right to hire or fire personnel. Miller is responsible to the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

"I would caution the board against scheduling such a meeting without first checking with county counsel," Campanella said.

Mrs. Mishkind said she would check and report back at the Oct. 24 meeting of the group.

Donald P. Wilson, director of the Community Mental Health Clinic at Marin General Hospital supported Mrs. Mishkind's charges and her proposal.

"Frankly I'm stunned, about the way things are going," he said. "The lines of communication between myself and Dr. Miller are practically nonexistant."

"We have the essence of a tremendous program here in Marin," Wilson said, "But there's a lot of problems to iron out and I'm practically being ignored by Miller and his staff."

"I do hope we get things straightened out, either at the meeting on the 24th or in a closed meeting," he added.

Wilson became upset with Miller during the meeting when Miller began outlining his 1970 program. Wilson said that it was the first he had heard of it and indicated that for the good of the county the two men should have worked together and coordinated their programs.

Miller countered the attack by saying that Wilson himself had not yet even sent over his (Wilson's) 1970 budget.

"I'd be glad to go over it," Miller said, "if you'd just send it to me. I'm still patiently waiting."

The board also began its review of the budget for the next fiscal year and spent most of that time on Dr. Miller's administrative budget, according to Dr. Paul A. Steinman, president of the advisory board.

The current budget is $167,633 and Dr. Miller proposed $198,016, he said.

The board recommended against hiring a second evaluation analyst, a $15,000 a year post, Steinman said.

The total current budget is $2,552,596 and the proposed budget is $2,826,901.

It is being studied so early because it has to go to the board of supervisors and then to the state because the state provided about 90 per cent of the budget.

A special meeting was set for next Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Marin General Hospital to study several new programs for mental health as submitted by various interested organizations.

The board also approved a resolution asked the board of supervisors that any mental health related programs be brought to the director of the community mental health center and to the advisory board before the supervisors act.

New Reading Room Will Open Saturday

The Christian Science Reading Room of Belvedere will open at a new location, 7 Beach Road, for the first time from 1 to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Formerly in the court of the Boardwalk Shopping Center, the reading room, maintained by the First Church of Christ Scientist of Belvedere, has displays of books and periodicals.

Burglars Hit Leader Of Blues Band

Steve Miller, leader of a blues band, had the blues after someone took clothing, guitars, albums and personal belongings, valued at $2,680 while he was playing in England.

Miller, of 277 Seadrift Road, Stinson Beach, left his bus van loaded with belongings at the rear of a gasoline service station at Stinson Beach, while he was on tour.

Sheriff's deputies said the burglary, reported Monday, occurred Aug. 30. Among the items taken were five guitars, four speakers, two pair of binoculars, a camera, television set, albums, a sheepskin coat and rabbitskin coat, deputies said. Entry was made by prying a wing window.

Donald A. Vichick of 597 Idylberry Road, Marinwood, reported that someone took $12 from a wallet in his kitchen sometime between 5 and 5:30 p.m. Monday.

Arnold W. Gerritsen of A Dock No. 41, Kappas Yacht Harbor, Waldo Point, reported that someone took a set of china and earphones, with a total value of $45, from his car while it was at the yacht harbor parking area. The burglary occurred sometime between 10 p.m. Monday and 8 a.m. Tuesday, deputies reported.

Retired Rabbi To Be Given Plaque

Retired Rabbi Morris Schussheim will receive a brass plaque at Sabbath eve services at 8:15 p.m. tomorrow at Congregation Kol Shofar, 200 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael. The tribute will recognize Rabbi Schussheim's service to the congregation.

Rabbi Jacob Milgrom will officiate at the service and Walter Hotzner will chant the liturgical portions. A reception will follow.

Report Is Due On Legislation

A report on recent state legislation will be delivered before the Novato Republican Women Federated at 11 a.m. Tuesday at the Black Point Inn.

Mrs. Kurt Frisch, chairman of a legislative study group of the organization, will deliver the report.

Mrs. Glenn Barton, president of the club, will report on the Republican State Convention which concluded today in Anaheim.

Reservations may be made through Rae Ann De Haven of 4 Carmel Drive.

It's Game Of First Place Roulette In N.L.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Los Angeles finally came up a winner in that National League west craze—first-place roulette—but Hank Aaron's slug fouled up the whole thing for the Dodgers.

The veteran outfielder clobbered his 42nd homer of the season leading off the 12th inning last night to give Atlanta a 6-5 victory over the Dodgers.

That ended Los Angeles' eight-hour tenure as head of the torrid divisional chase, and put the Braves back into the leaders role they had lost only the night before.

Actually, the Braves were the third team to lead the hot race at one time or another yesterday.

SCRAMBLE

San Francisco started off the day in the No. 1 spot, but dropped to second behind the Dodgers after losing a 2-1 afternoon decision to Houston.

Then Atlanta's victory shoved the Dodgers from first to third, a half-game back of San Francisco and one game back of the Braves.

Cincinnati, meanwhile, is just a half-game behind the Dodgers after clubbing San Diego 10-5. All four of the leaders are even in the loss column, with 67 each.

Over in the N.L. East race, the New York Mets held on to their four-game lead by blanking Montreal 5-0, while second-place Chicago stopped Philadelphia 9-7.

Pittsburgh nipped St. Louis 4-2 in the other N.L. game.

In the American League, Detroit stopped Cleveland 5-0, New York edged Washington 2-1 in a game called after five innings because of rain, Oakland defeated Kansas City 3-2 in 10 innings, California whipped Minnesota 6-4 and Chicago swept a doubleheader from Seattle, 6-4 and 2-1. Baltimore's game at Boston was rained out.

TIE, 5-5

The Dodgers, who had been only percentage points back of the West leader since the first of the month but never in first until yesterday, used a two-run triple by Jim Lefebvre in the bottom of the eighth to tie it 5-5. Lefebvre was thrown out at the plate when he tried to score on an overthrow from the outfield for what would have been the winning run.

The Braves had grabbed a 5-3 lead in the top of the inning on a two-out RBI double by Gil Garrido and pitcher George Stone's run-scoring single.

Tony Perez knocked in three runs with three hits and Alex Johnson, Tommy Helms, Pete Rose and Woody Woodward each collected three hits in a 20-hit attack that spilled San Diego.

Jerry Koosman scattered six hits as the red hot Mets won their 12th in 13 games—and 28th in 35 starts—in reducing their magic number for winning the East title to 10.

SCORING

Ron Swoboda's single and Wayne Garrett's two-run single netted the Mets three runs in the fourth, and they scored again in the seventh on three walks and a squeeze bunt by Jerry Grote and in the ninth on Al Weis' RBI single.

Ferguson Jenkins lashed a bases-loaded triple in a five-run sixth inning, helping himself to his 20th victory, as the Cubs staggered to only their third triumph in their last 14 games.

Jenkins, who fanned six to break by one his own Cub season record of 260, became the first Chicago hurler in 50 years to post three successive 20-game winning seasons.

However, the Phils chased him in the eighth, when they erupted for four runs.

Ron Santo's two-run homer and Billy Williams' solo blast paced the Cubs' 14-hit attack.

Rookie Al Oliver's 17th homer—a two-run smash in the eighth—gave Pittsburgh its victory over the Cards.

TRANS-AM HEADLINERS AT SEARS

Mark Donohue of Media, Pa., in a Camaro led Peter Revson of New York in a Mustang and Jerry Grant of Escondido in a Javelin in this Trans-American Sedan Championship race action at Laguna Seca, Monterey, recently. Donohue, who won the Laguna Seca, will lead the powerful Camaro team to Sears Point Raceway Sunday for the Trans-Am 200-mile feature starting at 2 p.m. Challenging Camaro for the title at the Sonoma County road circuit will be a star-studded Mustang team led by Parnelli Jones, Dan Gurney and Revson. Terra Linda's Prep Football Monopoly

Back in the days when the New York franchise so thoroughly dominated the American League there was a battle cry throughout baseball to "Break up the Yankees!"

Well, on a smaller and local scale, Marin County Athletic League schools soon may be heard chanting "Breaking up the Trojans," referring to Terra Linda's monopoly of football glory.

Starting in 1966, the Trojans have tied for the MCAL title three consecutive years while building a 22-4-1 won-lost-tied record. Most observers pick them to be on top again this season, but the end apparently is not in sight. My spies in the Terra Linda-Marinwood-Lucas Valley sector say "Wait til next year." Um-hm, I have it on good authority that the 1970 T.L. grid machine will be even better than its four predecessors.

A Rough-Tough Schedule

Coach Don Lucas could guide the current Trojans to high ranking in Northern California prepdom if they survive a gruelling non-league schedule against Riordan of San Francisco, Hogan of Vallejo and Castlemont after that, the league foes could seem easy.

TENNIS WHIZ Michael Machette of Belvedere, a Redwood High grad, is enrolling at USC.

EX-DRAKE HIGH all-leaguer Karl Stein intercepted a pass and ran one kickoff back 11 yards in University of Montana's 24-10 victory over North Dakota last Saturday.

It Could Be Tony's Month

HE'LL BE running in some pretty fast company with the likes of Parnelli Jones, Dan Gurney, Mark Donohue, Ronnie Bucknum, Ron Grable, Peter Revson, etc., but Mill Valley veteran driver Tony Settember is rated a "man to watch" in Sunday's 200-mile Trans-American Sedan Championshipp race at Sears Point Raceway.

Settember has made one of the strongest showings of all the independent drivers in the series and his familiarity with the wild Sears Point road circuit should give him that much more of an advantage when he wheels his Camaro arund the 11 turns.

And, besides, this is the month of Settember, so watch out for Tony Sunday.

A Race For Millionaires

I AM TOLD at least three millionaires will be driving Mustangs at Sears Sunday. They are Jones, the former Indianapolis 500 winner, and versatile Gurney, who made their loot behind the wheel of fortune; but they probably take a back seat, financially, to teammate Revson, who happens to be heir to the Revlon Cosmetics fortune.

(And he drives a Mustang? So do I but you ought to see HIS garage!)

Motorsports buffs who bring transistor radios to Sunday's 80-lap main event will be able to pick up lap-by-lap reports over Sears Point's own radio station at 1490 on the dial.

Bouton Gets His Revenge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —It took Jim Bouton seven years for another crack at the San Francisco Giants, but the new Houston Astros' relief ace made the most of his second chance.

Bouton, who lost to the Giants in the 1962 World Series, hurled two innings of hitless relief yesterday, saving Larry Dierker's 20th victory, a 2-1 trimuph that knocked the Giants out of first place in the National League Western Division.

PLANS

"I was supposed to pitch against the Giants in the seventh game of the World Series," said the former New York Yankee star. "But it rained for five days and by then, Ralph Terry was ready to pitch again."

Bouton recorded his first N.L. save with the two-inning stint. Since joining the Astros from Seattle, the knuckleballing right hander has allowed four runs in 23 innings for a 1.60 earned run average.

"I only threw two fastballs—the rest were knucklers," Bouton said. "I enjoy the pennant pressure here and am glad that I had the opportunity to save Larry's 20th."

FIRST 20-GAMER

Nobody was happier than the 22-year-old Dierker, who despite a tired arm became the first Houston pitcher to win 20 games.

Jim Wynn's 32nd homer in the fourth and Doug Rader's 11th homer, a tie-breaking blast in the eighth, kept Houston in the pennant race.

Dierker survived a bases-loaded first inning jam in winning a pitching duel from Gaylord Perry, 17-14.

The Giants scored in the sixth on successive one-out singles by Willie Mays, Willie McCovey and Bobby Bonds.

The home run ball has been Perry's nemesis all season.

Young British Ryder Cup Golf Team Surprises U.S.

Takes First 3 Matches

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — Britain's young but experienced Ryder Cup players jumped into a surprising, 3-0, lead in today's morning round of foursome play by taking three of the four matches from their more famous rivals from the United States and getting a halve in the remaining match.

VICTORIES

Tony Jacklin, the youngster who is the British Open champion, and Peter Townsend, toughened in the U.S. winter circuit, downed Dave Hill of Jackson, Mich,. and Tommy Aaron of Collaway Gardens, Ga., 3 and 1; Neil Coles and Brian Huggett bested Miller Barber of Sherman, Tex., and Ray Floyd of Lake Havasu City, Ariz., 3 and 2; and Barnard Gallagher, at 20 the youngest player ever to compete in this international, biennial pro golf competition, and Maurice Bembridge conquered Lee Trevino of Dallas and Ken Still of Tacoma, Wash., 2 and 1.

Christy O'Connor and Peter Alliss got the halve in the fourth match, playing to a standstill with Bill Casper of Bonita, Calif., and Frank Beard of Louisville, Ky.

IN ROUGH

They went to the final tee all square but Casper, using a wood, sent the U.S. second shot into the rough. However, Alliss missed a four-foot putt and cost the British a chance for another point.

Each victory is worth a point. Halved matches are thrown out.

Another round of foursomes was to be played this afternoon.

CLEVELAND (AP) — The United States got a break today when its No. 1 ace, Arthur Ashe Jr., was matched against Romania's Ilie Nastase in the opening match of the Davis Cup challenge round tennis competition starting tomorrow.

In the second match, Stan Smith, the United States' national champion from Pasadena, Calif. goes against Ion Tiriac, 30-year-old Romanian who has won his national title eight times.

The draw was considered a break for the Americans because Romania wanted Nastase to play Smith tomorrow. He had beaten Smith in the U.S. Open at Forest Hills, N.Y. Ashe also prefers to play the opener.

AFTERNOON HOME GAMES

Tamalpais, Marin Catholic Kick Off Prep Grid Season

Tamalpais and Marin Catholic will get a jump on the rest of the Marin County high school football teams when they open their seasons tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 p.m.

The Indians of Tam, on a rebuilding program under new head coach Mike Davlin, test Salesian of Richmond on Tamalpais' field and the Wildcats of Marin Catholic gun for a second straight winning season under new head coach Cliff Vattuone, opening off against Albany on the Wildcats' field.

The rest of the high school teams in Marin County open tomorrow night, Saturday afternoon and Saturday night.

SCHEDULE

Tomorrow night, Terra Linda takes on mighty Riordan of San Francisco in Kezar Stadium, Novato goes against Montgomery at Santa Rosa, Drake visits Petaluma High at Durst Field, San Rafael hosts Napa and San Rafael Military Academy foes to Maxwell High School in Colusa County. All games are at 8 p.m.

"We're about a week behind in our work," Davlin said of his Indians. "We've had to bring along the young kids slowly."

Of the 28 Indians on the varsity squad, only nine are seniors.

The Indians will be going against a team that has a game under its belt and is much the worse for it. Salesian absorbed a 26-0 thumping at the hands of Ceres of Modesto last week.

Salesian is paddling in the same boat as the Indians. They're young and inexperienced and reportedly on a "rebuilding program."

Marin Catholic, with almost all of its line back from last year's first winner in the school's history, will take on Albany, a team it has beaten over the last three years.

AGAIN?

Vattuone and his Wildcats would like to do it again, with a bigger margin than last year's harrowing 13-6 win.

Vattuone was pleased with the Wildcats' showing in a scrimmage against Tamalpais last week, especially with the pass defense and running game.

Marin Catholic Lineup

Ends — Leo Fahy, Jon Melvin.
Tackles — Rich Rutte, John Rasmussen.
Guards — Rick Fox, Tom O'Connor.
Center — Rich English.
Quarterback — Paul Sherry.
Halfbacks — Mark Lewis, Steve Nelson.
Fullback — Dennis Finnegan.

Tamalpais Lineup

Ends — Steve Miles, Paul Ringelman.
Tackles — Bill Rudolph, Karl Herbold.
Guards — Bob Clements, Mike Johnson.
Quarterback — Mike Brennan.
Halfbacks — Mark Costello, Clifford Hall.
Fullback — Landy Scott.

'Catfish' Ends Win Famine

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Jim "Catfish" Hunter admits he was beginning to wonder if he'd ever win another baseball game.

The Oakland Athletics' young right-hander eked out a 3-2 10-inning victory over the Kansas City Royals last night for his 10th win of the season against 15 defeats. He had lost eight straight decisions until last night.

"After 12 starts without a victory, I had some doubts I'd ever get No. 10," Hunter said. "At that, it had to be exciting, didn't it?"

LOSES LEAD

Hunter took a 2-1 lead into the ninth inning, then surrendered the tying run to the Royals on Mike Fiore's double, a flyout that advanced Fiore to third and a wild pitch.

Hunter was lifted for a pinch hitter in the top of the 10th, but the A's rallied to score while he still was the pitcher of record. Rookie Bob Brooks, who homered earlier in the game, singled home the winning run.

Paul Lindblad finished up for Hunter, preserving the win.

"When they tied it," Hunter said, "I thought it was lost."

The victory clinched second place in the American League West for the A's, who retain a mathematical but impractical chance of catching the Minnesota Twins.

"Where's the champagne?" Hunter quipped when asked if clinching second place meant anything. Fellow pitcher Jim Nash accommodated Hunter by pouring beer over his head.

Meanwhile, the A's got word from their owner, Charlie Finley, that he won't be happy unless they take the pennant, which at this stage of the season is almost impossible.

"I'm not pleased with finishing second," declared Finley, who has had nine managers in eight seasons.

"Winning isn't everything," Finley said by phone from Chicago, "but it sure as hell beats finishing second."

Asked about the status of A's manager Hank Bauer, who resigned as Finley's manager seven years ago, Finley answered:

"Firing somebody is my prerogative. The season is still on, they're still playing, and it hasn't even entered my mind.

"I haven't said whether I'm pleased or displeased with my manager. I am displeased with second place."

Chuck Dobson, 14-12, was scheduled to pitch tonight against Kansas City's Roger Nelson, 7-13.

Jacob Beam was a big, easy-smiling grain farmer who came through the Cumberland Gap in 1788 to homestead the fertile land now called Kentucky. And with the choicest grains from his harvest, Jacob made his own brand of Bourbon. Was it good? Everyone agreed it was the lightest, best-tasting Bourbon within a two days' ride. Today, you get that exact same taste with Jim Beam. Because for 175 years, we've made our Bourbon to the very same formula Jacob used. It's the Beam family art. Only one difference now. You don't have to ride a horse two days to get it. "World's finest Bourbon since 1795."

FOOTBALL ROUNDUP

Frank Ryan Trying Comeback

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vince Lombardi and Frank Ryan, a coach and a quarterback already etched in the record books, each will attempt comebacks with Washington as the Redskins open their National Football League season against New Orleans Sunday.

For Lombardi, it will be his first regular season game as Redskins coach after a legendary career with the Green Bay Packers. For the aging Ryan, once a superstar, then a reject with the Cleveland Browns, the Redskins offer a chance to make it as a quarterback with a new team, even though he'll be only No. 2.

PROFESSOR

Ryan, a 33-year-old part-time college professor with a PHD in math, led the Browns to the NFL title in 1964, the Eastern Conference crown in 1965 and the Century Division title in 1967 during a seven-year career. He led All-Star teams to victories in the Pro Bowl in 1966 and 1967.

But last year, the Browns benched Ryan after losing two of their first three games. Bill Nelsen took over and guided Cleveland to the conference championship. Early this month, the Browns dropped Ryan and he appeared to be at the end of the line until Washington signed him yesterday.

"It was frustrating only when we were losing," he said of his role last year. "Then I felt I could have helped."

149 TOUCHDOWNS

Ryan, who broke in with Los Angeles in 1958, has completed 1,088 out of 2,128 passes for 16,035 yards and has tossed for 149 touchdowns.

The Redskins will have to drop one player to make room for Ryan. They didn't say who would be cut.

New Orleans cut punter Tom McNeill to make room for cornerback-safety Carl Ward, who was obtained on waivers from Cleveland. The Saints said running back Joe Don Looney or Olie Cordill probably would take over punting.

Pittsburgh acquired flanker Don Alley from Baltimore and placed tackle Ernie Ruple on waivers to stay in the 40-man limit. Ruple was the Steelers' No. 2 draft pick in 1968.

Morrall Signs Colt Contract

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

BALTIMORE — Earl Morrall made it definite today by signing a contract that he will be available again this season as either starting or backup quarterback for the Baltimore Colts.

Morrall started every scheduled game in place of John Unitas last season and was voted Most Valuable Player in the National Football League. However, Unitas has regained the No. 1 position after working in the off-season to rehabilitate his sore right elbow.

GREEN BAY, Wis. — Quarterback Zeke Bratkowski has rejected an offer to join the Minnesota Vikings of the National Football League as a player and will remain in Green Bay as backfield coach, a spokesman for the Packers said today.

In a talk this morning with general manager Jim Finks of the Vikings, Bratkowsji was offered a substantial guaranteed one-year contract but turned it down, the spokesman said.

TRACK AND FIELD

ATHENS, Greece — Viktor Saneyev, Russia, 1968 triple jump Olympic golf medal winner, scored a victory in the European Championships with a leap of 56 feet 10½ inches, 2½ inches short of his own world record.

GOLF

WICHITA, Kan. — David "Spec" Goldman, Dallas, carded his second consecutive two-over-par 73 for a 36-hole total 146 to capture medalist honors by two strokes in the USGA Senior Amateur.

HARRISON, N.Y. — Defending champion Mrs. Allison Choate, Rye, N.Y., posted an opening round 81 for a two-stroke lead in the 44th Senior Women's Golf Association Championship.

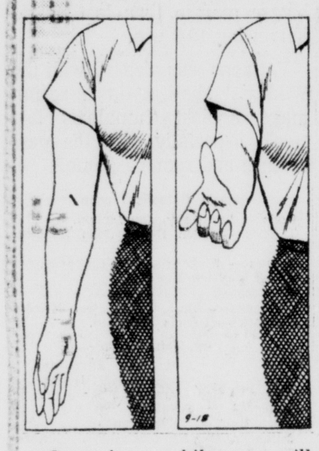
BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG



Once in a while you will convert this 1-2-4-7 "fence" by hitting the headpin on the right side, but don't make it a habit. Your chances of turning this set-up into a spare are much greater if you allow the ball to hook past the headpin on the left. Often the ball itself will touch all four of the pins.

Edmonton Triumps

VANCOUVER (AP) — Jim Thomas scampered for a soggy 64-yard touchdown run midway in the fourth quarter and led the Edmonton Eskimos to a 13-5 victory over the British Columbia Lions last night in a Canadian Football League game.

49er Linemen Battling For Jobs

Second-year pros Cas Banaszek and Woody Peoples are battling with newcomer Randy Beisler and all-star veteran Howard Mudd for the prestigious spots.

BATTLE

"Banaszek and Beisler are fighting it out at right tackle and Peoples has an edge over Mudd at right guard," said offensive line coach Ernie Zwahlen.

Forrest Blue and Lance Olssen will handle the center chores now that veteran Bruce Bosley has been cut. Guard Elmer Collett and tackle Len Rohde anchor the left side of the offensive line.

Defensive line coach Paul Wiggin says he will try former Canadian footballer Earl Edwards at defensive tackle against the Falcons at Atlanta Sunday. The 49ers are 7½-point favorites despite an 0-6 exhibition season.

3 POSITIONS

Edwards started the season as an offensive tackle and then was moved to defensive end. Now he will be playing his third position in his team's 1969 league opener.

Wiggin said he would like Edwards at defensive tackle for insurance behind Charlie Krueger and Roland Lakes.

Mets Force Jet Schedule Change

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets are not only causing turmoil in the baseball world with their bid for the National League East pennant, they also are upsetting the schedule of the world football champion New York Jets.

In announcing that the Jets will switch their first two home games, club President Phil Iselin said yesterday at the Jets' weekly press luncheon:

"We have no choice. The Jets can delay no longer. The Mets look like a shoo-in for the playoffs and the problems of switching sites."

Iselin was to meet today with President Milt Woodard of the American Football League and National Broadcasting Company officials to complete arrangements for the switch which would moved the Oct. 5 game against the Patriots from Shea Stadium to Boston and the Oct. 12 game against the Bengals to Cincinnati.

Here's Rundown On Deer Hunting

It's 3 o'clock in the morning and I'm all ready to go down to the operating room again. It seems I need a correction somewhere along the line.

Now that's a pip, but the wrong kind. One buddy says I'm a rough-tough so-and-so, but I really feel like a lamb going to the slaughter. Deadlines and headlines to meet! I thought I'd better do this column now.

WITH THE LATE deer season opening Saturday, here's a county by county rundown on bucks and conditions:

Thirteen counties report prospects improved over last year; ten expect a buck kill equal to last year, and 10 report they expect poor results.

Some "Improved" counties are Siskiyou, Trinity, Lassen, Tehama, Nevada-Placer, Butte, Yuba, Alpine, El Dorado and Calaveras, Humboldt-Del Norte should be equal to last year's kill. Modoc is pegged to be generally poor except in the Warner Mountain areas.

All the bucks are predicted to be in good shape with the excellent feed conditions of this year resulting from the heavy winter rains and snows of last year.

THE RECENT antelope season with 270 permits issued was a success. Two hundred and one tags have been returned from successful hunters. The biggest rack measured was 17⅝ inches, taken by a Vallejo man.

On the tags both for antelope and bucks, the Department of Fish and Game has a new slogan, "Sign and mail or post your bail!" So if you get a buck, send in the tag. If we're all good boys, we can keep the self-validating system, and you know it's much easier this way.

A SPECIAL MOUNTAIN quail season and a season for Sierra and ruffed grouse also opens Saturday, along with the deer season. The season on mountain quail runs through Oct. 24 with a limit of 10 birds per day and in possession. The one-week season for Sierra and ruffed grouse lasts through Sunday, Sept. 28, with a limit of two birds for the season. Check the hunting regulations for open areas and pertinent information.

Don't forget to take your trout rods to the Sierra, too. Some of the streams are dropping to just the right depths. I've got a lake where I'm going to murder them when I get there . . . but I'll tell you about it after I nail the first fish!

I have no local fishing news, but I've been watching Greenbrae Slough out of this third story hospital window. I haven't seen a fish caught or one jump for three weeks, so don't try here. I haven't even seen the game wardens down here, so it must be lousy.

I HEAR GRACE Quan from China Camp is over at Ross General Hospital. Grace and I are old buddies. I don't know where you're going to get the hot fishing news, especially with Grace, a real pro, in hock, too.

Let's make a deal! All you guys and gals who get a big buck or a big fish, or have something unusual happen this week, give me a call. Now let's not add 20 pounds to each fish and 50 pounds to each buck because this is not a liar's club contest. This way I'll have the latest dope.

LATE SCOOP — A young fellow named Morgan Murphy, aged 7, from Fairfax, reported being high rod with a 25 and a 5-pound king salmon off a party boat this week.

Seals' Defenseman Vadnais Hurts Knee

Vadnais, who scored 15 goals for the National Hockey League team last season, will miss two preseason games against Los Angeles this weekend.

Football Family Thing For Trojans

By GARY TISCHLER

Ever wonder why Terra Linda High School has that winning football tradition so thoroughly oiled, year in and year out?

Small wonder. The whole thing seems to be a family affair.

Consider this year's team, which is a likely prospect to give Terra Linda its fourth straight Marin County Athletic League title.

Three of the starters on the club have had two older brothers play on Trojan squads in the past.

Tackle Jim Barker's brother Greg was an all-leaguer two years ago while older brother Doug was a Trojan gridder five years ago.

Matt Bowman, who won a backfield spot recently, was preceded by Chris, a quarterback, three years ago and Dave, five years ago.

Bob Daniele, an all-league defensive halfback last year as a junior, was preceded by Fred three years ago and Jerry five years ago.

Dewy Forry's brother John was a Trojan five years ago. Megs Meyer preceded this year's Meyer, Pete, three years ago and Jim Sherbert preceded Bill Sherbert three years ago. Dan Tronsden was preceded by Norm Tronsden five years ago.

That's a close-knit group. And the winning habit doesn't seem to be ending. There are 16 juniors and a sophomore on this year's squad and all of them will be playing quite a bit, which promises more for the future.

A TRADITION of a different sort seems to be haunting San Rafael's hopeful Bulldogs.

For the third straight year, a key player has been lost for the season, and early.

This time it was center Dan Coleman, out with a broken leg. Last year, halfback Bob Peterson went out early, while super-guard "Red" Stephens was an early victim in 1967.

DRAKE FULLBACK Bob Sutherland will command some kind of attention this year, certainly as a rueful reminder. Sutherland last season became the second Drake High School back to lead the league in rushing and not make the all-league team. Tom Mauer achieved that end in 1966 but he was a senior then. Sutherland is back with a chance to do something about it.

TWO DRAKE graduates are keeping their fingers in the grass, so to speak. Mike Kemp and Doug Roix, both graduate students at wild and wooly San Francisco State, are student coaches this fall, Kemp at Drake High School and Roix at Terra Linda.

SAN RAFAEL Military Academy's football team heads into Colusa County to meet Maxwell High School in the Cadets' season opener tomorrow armed with a very loose scouting report.

Coach Charles Tubbs did get a roster this fall, but all he really knows about Maxwell is what a local gas station attendant told him.

"I drove up there this summer," Tubbs said. "The school was closed so I asked a gas station attendant. He said they had a pretty good team last season, with two of their players nominated for the North All-Star team."

Which is one way to scout your opponent. Sort of like John McKay checking things out with the Notre Dame team confessor.

THERE WILL be only five teams in the MCAL class C basketball league this year. San Marin, Novato, and Terra Linda will not have entries. San Marin was thinking about having one but decided that a team couldn't be formed with just two players.

Keating Adds Punch To Raiders

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — The Oakland Raiders hope to reinstate their devastating pass rush this year with the return to full health of defensive tackle Tom Keating.

In 1967 when the Raiders led the American Football Leageu in defense, a line anchored by Ben Davidson and Keating dumped opposing quarterbacks 67 times. While Keating was sidelined last season with a torn Achilles tendon, the Raiders spilled the quarterback 49 times.

'GOOD THING'

"We had a good thing going in '67," said the mustachioed Davidson, "or, I should say, I had a good thing going.

"Tom was so quick getting in, the back would have to move over to pick him up and then I'd have a clear shot at the quarterback. We both made all-league in '67."

Now Keating is back at his old post and regarded as one of the quickest and strongest defensive linemen in the league. It is nearly impossible for one player to block him. And when they doubleteam him, somebody else gets loose in the Raider line.

IN COLISEUM

On Saturday night at the Oakland Coliseum, Davidson and Keating will be aiming for quarterback Bob Griese of the Miami Dolphins. In his first two games against the Raiders, Griese averaged 20 of 35 completions for 261 yards and two touch downs.

Bianchi Named Caps' Coach

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Caps of the American Basketball Association announced today the appointment of 37-year-old Al Bianchi as head coach.

Caps owner Earl Foreman announced the selection of Bianchi, a former pro guard who played with the Syracuse Nationals, the Philadelphia 76ers, the Chicago Bulls and the Seattle Supersonics. He coached the Supersonics last season.

Bianchi, a native of New York City, was graduated from Bowling Green (Ohio) College.

Second Deck May Be Candlestick Answer

Tom Gray has opened his offices in Candlestick Park. Gray is the new promotion director of Candlestick. Gray for many years was the executive secretary of San Francisco's Downtown Association. His new job pays $24,000 a year.

The Giants and 49ers will be the primary tenants of Candlestick for many years to come. The Giants' lease, written in 1958, is for 35 years at $125,000 basic rental per year or 5 per cent of the gate, whichever is greater.

THE 49ERS' lease is a straight 30-year deal calling for 10 per cent of the gate.

Gary reports that bids will be requested Nov. 1 for installation of artificial turf in Candlestick. Five companies are expected to bid.

Gary also reports that since the city put him on the payroll he has been in contact with several other prospective tenants of Candlestick. Gray now is trying to sign sponsors of a couple of annual events that could fill Candlestick on successive nights and gross $400,000.

"ONCE CANDLESTICK'S second deck is extended around the stadium," said Gray, "we won't have to go after prospective tenants. They'll be coming to us because extension of the second deck is going to eliminate the wind.

"We have been given to believe that from the Colorado people who studied the wind currents at Candlestick and simulated them in wind tunnels with miniature mockups of the stadium — with and without a second deck."

BIDS FOR INSTALLATION of artificial turf in Candlestick will be in the neighborhood of $761,250. That was the estimated cost cited in John Bolles' recommendations of Candlestick improvements. Bolles, original architect of Candlestick, recently completed a comprehensive study of Candlestick's needs.

Bolles' list of things to be done at Candlestick was quite lengthy and costly — $9,123,723. Most costly item is the second deck. Installation of artificial grass is the next most costly improvement.

Some ball players don't look upon artificial grass as any improvement of a ball field. But without it football games would make a ball field unplayable.

Mickey Mantle led the American League in strikeouts seven times.

Dental Health Suppliers Are Reaping The Gold

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have been accumulating Dentist Supply stock and would like your comments on the company. Should I continue my purchases? — E. K.

A. Dentsply International (the name was recently changed) derives all its revenue from the dental health field. Industrywide sales of dental supplies grew 15 per cent to $250 million from 1967 to 1968. The expected continuation of this rate of increase would mean a doubling to $500 million by 1973. Aside from stimulation provided by Medicare, Medicaid and state and local dental-care programs, private dental insurance plans now cover 6 million individuals. By 1979 it is anticipated that more than 50 million persons will avail themselves of this protection.

Dentsply is well entrenched in the field, being one of the earliest makers of false teeth. Other products include a full line of filling materials, amalgams, drills, hand tools and dentists' chairs. The company is the exclusive licensee for a high-speed drill motor and exclusive distributor of Cavitron's ultrasonic cleaning device.

Earnings had moved ahead annually until last year when divestiture of its retail outlets was effected at the request of the Justice Department. A resumption of the uptrend, albeit modest, was reported in first-half results. At 20x estimated 1969 earnings of $2.30, Dentsply shares are at a reasonable level for additional purchase.

Q. I understand there are bonds paying 8, 8.5 per cent or more in interest. Are they safe? What ones do you suggest for investments? — P. L.

A. Coupon rates of 7.75 to 8 per cent on recently issued top-rated utility bonds are common. However, the market has bid the 8 per cent bonds to a premium so that they currently yield nearer 7.8 per cent. Bonds being offered at considerably more than the going interest level generally carry a lower rating. The added interest is necessary in order to attract buyers. An 8 per cent AA- or AAA-rated issue would be the safest investment. In this category I like Commonwealth Edison 8's of 1973 or Philadelphia Electric 8's of 1975. These have the additional advantage of being noncallable prior to matu-

Nixon's Call For Peace Aids Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Richard M. Nixon's plea for peace helped prices advance today on the stock market but there was little to indicate a sustained rally was near at hand. Trading was moderate.

Among the most active issues were Texaco, Standard Oil of Ohio, Natomas, Ashland, City Investing, Hilton Hotels, Benguet, General Signal, American Telephone and Phillips.

Steels traded in a narrow range in both directions. Motors and chemicals were mixed.

Airlines generally posted fractional gains and most aerospace issues were higher.

There were point sized swingers in both directions in the mixed electronics. Gold mining shares eased and conglomerates were mixed.

Trading was delayed on MCA, Inc. at the opening after the firm announced it and Firestone had called off merger talks. The issue fell sharply when it did open. Firestone moved up.

To Repurchase

NEW YORK (UPI) — Haven Industries Inc. directors have approved repurchase by the company of $1 million par of its 4 per cent subordinated convertible debentures due 1988 at $50 flat. The tender is due to expire Oct. 15. The company said there are about $5 million of the bonds presently outstanding.

$100 Million Pact

BISMARK, N.D. (UPI) — Montana-Dakota Utilities Co. has formed a joint venture with Northwestern Public Service Co. and Otter Tail Power Co. to build a $100 million generating plant in eastern South Dakota. The 400-megawatt station is expected to be completed in 1972.

Expansion Continues At Two Northgates

Expansion goes on apace at both Northgate Industrial Park and Northgate Shopping Center in San Rafael.

Latest new business in Northgate Industrial Park is Babyland Diaper Service, which has moved into quarters at 148 Mitchell Avenue. The business has been operated for about eight years by Michael O'Connor of Fairfax, and until its move to Northgate was based in Novato.

Newest store in Northgate Shopping Center's Unit One is Bi-Lo Boutique, owned and operated by Frances Auer of San Anselmo. The shop, which sells new and "almost-new" women's clothing, is already open for business but will have a "grand opening" Oct. 1.

Both leases were negotiated by Dohemann and Co.

UP THE LINE in southern Sonoma County, home building activity continues to boom at Rohnert Park. Ground was broken last week for the first section of a 100-home subdivision on 31 acres by Feature Homes Inc. of Santa Rosa.

Six models will be open for inspection within six weeks on Beverly Drive, according to Russell Lugle and Owen Bartlett, company officers. The three-bedroom to five-bedroom homes, on 6,000-square-foot lots, will be priced from $21,000 to $26,600. Bart C. Mitchell Real Estate Agency, Rohnert Park, is sales agent.

A sale of local interest in San Rafael took place when General American Development Corp. completed acquisition of the 2,235-acre R. Stanley Dollar Estate property on the California side of north Lake Tahoe.

General American Development plans a $100 million master-planned development on the large acreage, according to David Irmer, president, who said the Dollar property was the last large privately owned land holding in the area.

The Dollar name is indelibly stamped in the history of San Rafael, where R. Stanley Dollar made his home while accumulating the fortune from steamships and foreign trade that also made him a major Northern California landowner.

Robert Feddersen of San Rafael has been named director of the institutional division of Manning's, Inc., and will be in charge of dining and food service facilities of hospitals and retirement homes for the company. . . . Joseph A. Gereghty Jr. of Kentfield has joined Charles J. Francis Co., San Rafael investment securities firm, as an account executive. He was previously with McPhail's. . . . Robert C. Selna of Novato has been promoted to military sales administrator of Levi Strauss and Co., responsible for coordinating sales of "Levi's" apparel to military exchanges in the U.S. and abroad.

Grenade Contract

NEW YORK (UPI) — United Industrial Corp.'s subsidiary, AAI Corp. of Cockeysville, Md., has received a $2,953,000 contract to manufacture 40 millimeter grenade launchers for the M-16 rifle. Deliveries of the M-203 grenade launcher, designed by AAI Corp. to replace the M-79, are scheduled to begin in 1970.

Retires Shares

NEW YORK (UPI) — Federal Paper Board Co. has announced retirement of 35,257 shares of its 4.6 per cent cumulative preferred stock for sinking fund purposes. There are 316,827 shares still outstanding.

BIG 1970 PLYMOUTH FURY III

The Fury line has been restyled front and rear to give all models a more massive appearance. A new wider rear track of 62 inches complements the integrated loop bumper rear styling. Wheelbase remains at 120 inches. The Fury line will go on sale in Marin Tuesday at Corte Madera Chrysler-Plymouth and Novato Chrysler-Plymouth-Toyota.

1970 MUSTANG DESIGN

A three-quarter Landau-style vinyl roof is offered in this Grande model of the new Ford Mustang. Interiors have bold new colors and optional patterned upholstery. All seven Mustang models have high-back bucket seats as standard equipment. Cars went on sale today in Marin at Ames Ford Sales, San Rafael; L. J. Dervin Ford Co., Novato, and J and B Ford Sales, Corte Madera.

Leg Ulcers A Geriatric Problem; Poor Circulation Often Is Cause

VAN DELLEN

After 50, many people notice that cuts and scratches on the lower extremities take longer to heal. Poor circulation usually is blamed, but in many instances, the wound becomes infected lowering the resistance of the tissues and the outcome is an ulcer. This is why all lesions of the feet and lower limbs should be washed carefully with soap and water and bandaged until healing occurs.

ULCERS are more likely to develop when there is definite circulatory impairment due to varicose veins, hardening of the arteries, or phlebitis. Again, cleanliness is stressed because the tissues are susceptible to bacterial invasion, which in turn, retards healing. Lesions that fail to heal become chronic and troublesome.

Half the battle is won when the cause is known and corrected. Many persons refer to any ulcer on the leg as a varicose ulcer, but this is only one possibility. If a varicosity is responsible, the ulcer usually heals when the vein is obliterated. Pressure bandages reduce swelling and improve the circulation. There are many different bandages, including the medicated and elastic types.

MOST LEG ULCERS will heal if the individual is willing to remain in bed with the leg slightly elevated. In addition, the sore is cleansed daily with soap, water, and peroxide. An enzyme, such as Biozyme or Varidase, is applied to dissolve the debris so that the antibiotics can penetrate deeply into the tissues. The best antibiotic is the one that has demonstrated its ability in the laboratory to kill the causative germ.

The entire ulcer may be removed via surgery and replaced with a skin graft. In some instances, leg bandages must be worn during the day for life to prevent the ulcer or graft breaking down.

MILK AND ORANGE JUICE

REPLY

No. This is a popular misconception because orange juice curdles milk. On the other hand, stomach acids also curdle milk, making it more digestible. In this respect, orange juice helps rather than hinders the stomach juices in digesting milk.

CHECK-OUT ARTHRITIS

Mrs. S. writes: Will running a cash register in a busy supermarket help or aggravate a mild arthritic condition involving the hand?

REPLY

Mild exercise usually relieves stiffness and pain. The answer to this questions depends upon the individual and the severity of the arthritis. If the activity aggravates the distress, the use of the cash register is probably playing a role.

TORN CARTILAGE

Mrs. W. T. writes: My son's track coach told him he has a loose cartilage in his knee. How did this come about?

REPLY

Injury is the most common cause among tracksters. It usually develops from frequent jarring of the knee when running or jumping.

Marin's Best-seller on current events

You can learn a lot that's not in the books from your daily I-J. Unlike a text, it presents the texture of living events . . . the here and now of history drawn from the most exciting library — the world itself.

Each day, hundreds of news stories and articles bring you the mental stimulation of WHAT HAPPENED, where, how and why. Combined, they bring you perspective; they help you form judgements, enable you to act in an informed manner on public affairs.

And the range and scale is immense: From a new view of Rhodesia to a new bargain on chairs at your favorite store.

With the I-J you're not merely "taking the paper," you're subscribing to a liberal education . . . provided you read and think. All yours at a price which even includes personal delivery to your door.

Two Stanford Trustees Resign

STANFORD (UPI) — The president of the Stanford University Board of Trustees said yesterday trustees Dean Watkins and Edmund Littlefield have resigned.

President W. Parmer Fuller III said Dean Watkins, a Palo Alto electronics executive, underestimated the time needed to serve on the board.

Littlefield, a San Francisco business leader and a trustee for 13 years, said he needed to reduce his personal and professional commitments.

Service Station On Agenda For Larkspur

A hearing on an application for architectural review of remodeling of a Standard Oil service station at Eliseo Road and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard will be held when the Larkspur Planning Commission meets at 8 p.m. Tuesday at city hall.

The commission also will discuss city parking policies.

Innocent Plea To Auto Theft

Victoria Ann Wilson, 19, of Forest Knolls, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to car theft.

A preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein refused to release her on her own recognizance because of her past record, but did agree to detain her at Juvenile Hall instead of the County Jail.

She was arrested Monday because of erratic driving on Highway 101. The vehicle she was driving was reported stolen from San Francisco Sunday.

Fine And Probation On Drunken Driving

Robert Edward Mooney (also known as Robert Edward Moody), 40, of Napa, has been placed on one-year probation, sentenced to four days in jail and fined $250 for drunken driving.

Mooney, sentenced yesterday by Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court, was arrested March 7 on Highway 37.

Session Set On Corporation Yard

San Rafael City Council will hold a special session at 5:15 p.m. tomorrow at Room 201, City Hall, to discuss bids on construction of a new corporation yard.

When the council opened bids Monday night they were $72,000 to $82,000 higher than estimated for the new yard to be constructed off Lincoln Avenue, south of Second Street.

Councilmen are slated to review plans with an eye toward making cuts to reduce costs.

Sleepy Hollow Wakes Up Cross

By ALAN JONES

Behind its lush tree-bordered facades, Sleepy Hollow is beginning to feel angry and frustrated.

Residents there have been victims of more than 25 burglaries this year, and some of them are looking for ways to put a stop to it. There has been talk of a citizens' patrol, although that possibility seems remote at the moment.

As impatient as anyone is Sam Grossman, whose house has been burgled five times in three years, twice this year.

In one burglary, he said, "the police arrested one boy with a record like this," holding thumb and forefinger half an inch apart, "a record that would make a convict blush." The boy was just 12 years old.

And he is out on the street again now, Grossman said.

"We've lived in Marin for 21 years," said Mrs. Robert F. Schneider, but now the family is considering moving out because of the burglaries. Their house was entered and ransacked last Easter.

Mrs. Schneider tried to check out figures on Sleepy Hollow burglaries, but said she is still waiting for a month-by-month crime breakdown she requested two months ago from the sheriff's department. She has also attended meetings of the Marin County Board of Supervisors and a meeting of the centralized police services committee, gathering a lot of information but little encouragement.

The crime problem has been talked over by the Sleepy Hollow Homes Association, but "there's just no easy solution," that's all," Mrs. Schneider said.

One resident attributed the crime problem to a group of youths calling itself the Rat Pack, which she said is now training younger boys — called the Rat Patrol — to follow in its path.

Another family threw suspicion onto a group of youths who loiter near the Sleepy Hollow Stables on Butterfield Road. "They sit down there and watch everyone who leaves, so they know whose house is empty," the husband said.

Several burglary arrests have been made for crimes around the county. But Mrs. Schneider complained that of those sentenced to jail, many are serving only weekends, leaving them free to commit more crimes most of the time.

Mrs. Schneider agreed that the burglaries appear to be the work of local youths, because many houses hit are only empty for a matter of a few hours.

Sleepy Hollow lends itself to burglary. The well-tended homes are set well back from the tree-lined streets, and are almost all half-hidden by more trees and extensive landscaping, making it hard for neighbors to see what's going on and easy for burglars to enter without detection.

And the hollow is several miles from the main sheriff's office, which means it can take deputies several minutes to reach the scene of a crime unless a patrol car happens to be in the immediate area.

The crime problem, the sheriff's office reports, is countywide and deputies are spread fairly thin. In 1968, 730 burglaries were reported in the unincorporated parts of the county, a 69 per cent increase over 1967.

While several persons have been convicted of burglary in recent months, burglary loot is rarely recovered because it is fenced as quickly as the thieves can unload it.

Several suggestions to help curb burglaries have been printed in the homeowners bulletin, which holds that a key step is for citizens to call the sheriff whenever they see a crime or a nuisance being committed.

"You are not subjecting yourself to a legal liability or suit . . . and harassment as a result of this action has almost never been a problem," the bulletin said.

The bulletin suggested that residents check out delivery and moving vans in the neighborhood; know their neighbors' hours and report irregular activities, and tell those who don't want to get involved that an early report might keep a youth from becoming a criminal.

There are only two effective ways to keep law and order, association vice president Merritt Robinson wrote in the bulletin — a policeman on every corner or citizen cooperation. "The former smells of a police state," he wrote. "Passing the buck just won't work. Act and the trouble will be reduced; turn away and things will get worse."

Antishoplifting Course Slated In Petaluma

The Petaluma Chamber of Commerce will renew its attack on shoplifters with a two-hour clinic Wednesday at 7:30 a.m. at Carithers department store.

Marin and Sonoma businessmen may attend the session. Earl Owens, a security consultant to several large chain stores in the bay area, will speak.

The clinic will include displays and a demonstration of antishoplifting techniques and advice on stocking procedures. Emphasis will be placed on men's and women's clothing departments, jewelry, cosmetics, variety goods and notions.

Ned Davis, chamber manager, said Petaluma had reduced its shoplifting losses by an estimated 50 per cent during the program, which ran last year from Oct. 1 to March 30. Police records show a drop of 65 per cent in shoplifting arrests.

Mental Health Board Is Filled

Five persons have been elected to the Marin Association for Mental Health board of directors, replacing three persons who resigned and filling two long-standing vacancies.

The new board members are H. Bruce Mininberg of San Rafael, James M. Kennedy of San Rafael, Linda Watson of Dominican College, Florine Miller of Mill Valley and Irwin Diamond of San Anselmo.

Those who resigned were Ann McCorry, Mary Ann Newcomb and Peggy Glockner. The board has 38 members.

NOTED HOME economist Virginia Shattuck will be the judge for the recipe contest launched today by the Independent-Journal and leading Marin stores. Miss Shattuck will judge the entries and test the recipes prior to the announcement of the 25 winners in the I-J special Holiday Cook Book edition to be published Nov. 8. The contest will close Oct. 13.

Recipe Contest Opens Today For All Marin Amateur Chefs

Good cooks of all ages are invited to enter the annual recipe contest sponsored by the Independent-Journal and leading stores throughout Marin. Cash prizes will be offered for the first time this year.

The contest is open to amateur cooks, both men and women, in the categories of meat dishes, fish and seafoods, salads, appetizers, soups, relishes, cookies, breads, sandwiches, desserts, holiday candies, buffet special dishes and punches.

The contest opens today and closing date for entries is Oct. 13.

The best 25 recipes will be featured in the Independent-Journal's annual Holiday Cook Book special edition to be published Nov. 8.

Marin's well-known home economist Virginia Shattuck of San Rafael will judge all contest entries and test the recipes. Miss Shattuck is the former home economist with the North Bay Division, Pacific Gas and Electric Co., an authority on cooking schools, judge at county fairs and is past president of the Bay District of California Home Economics Association.

She says that recipes entered may be old family favorites or something the entrant has concocted. Winning recipes of former contests, however, are not eligible. A separate entry blank must be submitted with each recipe.

Callan Jewelers, San Rafael.

Cox TV and Sound Center, San Rafael.

Emporium, San Rafael.

Klein TV, San Rafael, Sausalito, San Anselmo and Ignacio.

Longs Drug Store, Novato, San Anselmo and San Rafael.

Mayfair Market, San Rafael and Novato.

McPhail's, San Rafael.

Petrini's, Greenbrae.

Purity Stores, San Rafael and Mill Valley.

San Rafael Health Foods, San Rafael.

United Market, San Rafael and San Anselmo.

Webb and Rogers Drug Store, San Rafael.

Western Furniture, San Rafael.

Entry blanks and recipes may be returned to the Independent-Journal Recipe Contest, Box 330, San Rafael, or to the Independent-Journal, 1040 B Street, San Rafael.

Marin Women

SHE SAYS she "looks pretty unfeminine" in the state trooper uniform but 25 year-old Frances Jean Howard is Alaska's first female trooper and a uniform for women hasn't been designed yet. She came to Alaska from Oregon to see the things she couldn't see on her 8 to 5 dental assistant's job.

Talks To Explore Women's Education

Dominican College has planned a series of three meetings this fall to explore the problems and prospects of continuing education for the mature woman who would like to return to college.

The three meetings will be held from 10 a.m. to noon on Oct. 1, Oct. 22 and Nov. 19 in the faculty room of Archbishop Alemany Library on the San Rafael campus of the four-year liberal arts college.

The opening session titled, "College After 30?," will be presented by Miss Kyllikki Palmquist, senior psychologist and chairman of the department of vocational guidance and rehabilitation at the University of Stockholm, who will discuss the motivation toward continuing education.

Sister Marie, O.P., director of admissions, and Dr. Henry Aigner, chairman of the department of education, will answer the question "What Would I Take?" in the second session that surveys the graduate, undergraduate and credentials programs offered at Dominican as well as the new College-Level Examination Program that enables adults returning to college to gain credit by examination in certain fields, based upon their knowledge and experience.

The final session will feature a panel discussion of "What's In It For Me?" concerning the multiplicity of reasons for continuing education. The panel will include two women who have returned to college: Mrs. Joseph Royer of Belvedere, an undergraduate, and Mrs. Donn Nissen of San Rafael, who received her B.A. degree in May and is now enrolled in the credential program. With them on the panel will be Miss Wanda P. Collins, psychologist and dean of students; Sister M. Adele, O.P., associate professor of education and humanities; Charles Lavaroni, director of student teaching.

All women in Marin are invited to attend the three meetings but are asked to send their names and addresses in advance to be certain of space. There is a small enrollment fee of the three sessions.

Virginia Tighe To Be Bride Of Steven Hoover

Mr. and Mrs. Richard I. Tighe of Novato are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Virginia, to Steven E. Hoover.

Virginia is the sister of Richard, Kenneth, Janice and Valerie Tighe of Novato. She was graduated from Terra Linda High School, attended College of Marin and is employed at the social security payment center in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil E. Hoover of Novato are the future bridegroom's parents. He was graduated from San Rafael High School and the University of San Francisco. Steve is doing graduate work in chemistry, working toward a Ph.D. degree at Oregon State University.

A September, 1970, wedding is planned by the couple.

'It Just Sorta Happened,' Explains Alaska's First Woman State Trooper

By KATHIE DIBELL

JUNEAU (AP) — Frances Jean Howard, a thoughtful, thoroughly feminine lass of 25, says she became Alaska's first female state trooper because she likes police work — not because she's out to prove anything.

"I'm not a barnstormer. I'm not a women's rights advocate," the blue-eyed brunette said. "It just sorta happened."

It started when Miss Howard, a trained dental technician, decided "there were different things I wanted to see that I couldn't see at an 8 to 5 job in a dental office," and she left Grants Pass, Ore., for Alaska.

SHE GOT a job as a clerk typist with the Department of Public Safety in February 1968 and later began to think that there was a place in the department for a female trooper.

State regulations for state troopers don't mention that an officer has to be a man. And, Miss Howard, nicely built and tall, passed the 5-foot-9 minimum height requirement.

She also passed all the written and oral tests and on Sept. 8, Gov. Keith H. Miller announced Alaska had its first female state trooper.

On Sept. 29, she'll join 20 other new troopers in Sitka for the Alaska State Trooper Academy's eight-week training session.

Miss Howard is a little leery of the physical regimen at the academy.

"They say you have to run a mile before breakfast," she said. "I can't even move in the morning before a cup of coffee."

A MINOR problem is the design of her uniform.

The department has despaired of putting this pretty girl — who looks just right in a blue flowered, mini-length dress with a big broad white collar — into a man-tailored shirt and tie.

"It looks pretty unfeminine," Fran said. The uniform style is still on the drawing board.

Golden Wedding Party Set For A. C. Joneses

Celebrating their golden wedding at a reception on Sept. 27 at Hamilton Air Force Base Officers Club will be Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Jones of Corte Madera.

Friends and relatives will join the couple for cake and champagne from 2 to 4 p.m.

The Joneses were married Sept. 27, 1919, in Everett, Wash. The new Mrs. Jones was the former Violet Rogers of Seattle and her husband attended the University of Washington there.

Two years later they moved to California and they have lived in Marin the past 37 years.

Mr. Jones was employed by the U.S. Treasury Department for 44 years, retiring at the end of 1965.

He is a member of the American Legion, the Marin Rod and Gun Club, the Elks Club and Veterans of World War I.

The couple are parents of Mrs. L. R. Leach (Wanda Jones) and of A. Clyde Jones Jr., both of whom live in Marin with their families. The honored couple have five grandchildren, Ronald and Michael Leach and Douglas, Dana Bea and Curtis Jones.

Pliers, Imagination Make Clothes From Chains, Rhinestones, Coins

By LOUISE COOK

NEW YORK (AP) — "If you've got a pair of pliers and imagination, you can do an awful lot," said an assistant to jewelry designer Bill Smith as she held up a pair of pants made of gold coins.

The pants, along with a matching vest, were one of a number of items at a recent show of Smith's latest jewelry.

Smith said his designs are "jewelry as clothing. They are strong enough so they can be clothing in themselves."

A former dancer who worked in a jewelry factory when he first came to New York and finally decided he preferred jewelry, he said his designs "can be worn over clothing or instead of clothing."

The models Tuesday draped the jewels over simple jersey dresses by Jon Haggins, over body stockings and over bare skin.

Among the standout items were a long scarf of pearls, trimmed with cloth tassels, a metal cape with "pearlized" corks, a floor-lentgh skirt of ropes of pearls, a short skirt and vest of jet beads and a pearl cape.

There are about two dozen pieces in the collection for Richilieu, retailing for between $35 and $250. The pearl scarf, for example, is $150.

Smith admitted that "not everyone can wear these things. There are many people, however who will make sacrifices for beauty."

Among the disadvantages of the jewelry clothing is their weight. The pearls Smith uses have an alabaster or plastic base, but they still make a six-foot scarf pretty weighty.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Be Patient, Wait For The Boys Who Escape The Go-Getters

DEAR HELEN:

I am 14 and don't have a boy friend problem. In fact, I don't have a boy friend, or even want a steady. But I would like to dance with a guy when we have our school parties.

How do I get the chance with all the boy chasers around? They see a cute fella and they walk right up and ask him his name, address and phone number. They ask guys to dance with them, and even to save dances for them. The boys may not like that (as I've read) but they don't refuse.

Last night there was a new boy at a party and, wow, did the chasers gang up on him. I found out later he wanted to meet all the girls, but the pushy ones wouldn't give him a chance.

Should I try to be like the go-getters, or resign myself to not being got? — SIDELINER

DEAR SIDELINER:

It's tough to get wait for an answer, but if you spend your waiting time being friendly, interested, but not too eager, you'll end up with more boy friends than the chasers. You see, at age 14 and 15, boys often lack self-assurance, and so they are flattered by pushy females. As they mature, however, they become more selective, and they seek out the girls who don't fall all over them. My advice: Develop your sparkle, stay just outside the line of attack, and catch the guys who escape. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm writing a psychology paper on various human reactions. One section deals with ability to follow instructions, written and oral. I've learned that over 50 per cent of one's listeners don't catch simple instructions the first time. When you give someone your phone number to write down, it's quite unusual if he doesn't ask you to say it again. Our concentration level is very low.

How about observation? I'm wondering how many of your readers goof up on directions? When you offer a give-away in return for a stamped, self-addressed envelope, what percentage don't send the envelope and stamp? — STUDENT

DEAR STUDENT:

Interesting question. Approximately eight per cent of my readers forget the SAE when writing for a give-away which is clearly advertised. Sometimes they even forget their address, and often they write so illegibly that I can't make it out.

Note to readers: This may explain why some of you haven't received your "What is a Boy Friend?" "What is a Girl Friend?" mimeographs. Are you sure you followed instructions? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Here's another answer to guys who want too much. When he asks, "Do you believe in free love?" answer, "Sorry, I don't go for anything that cheap." — K. B.

Pork And Beef Prices Drop In Western Supermarkets

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Department of Agriculture's food experts report that food shoppers this weekend will find ample displays of meat and poultry and adequate stocks of some fresh vegetables and fruit in food stores and supermarkets.

Broiler-fryer chickens and turkeys are expected to be featured in all areas. Beef cuts that should be in excellent supply include ground beef, liver, roasts, steaks, and stew meat. Smoked picnics, Boston butts, and bacon are the pork items most likely to be abundantly available while fresh pork cuts in this category are chops and roasts. Fish buys to watch for, according to the U.S. Department of the Interior, are marine sardine, canned tuna, and fish sticks and portions.

Fresh vegetables in best supply are cabbage, lettuce, onions, potatoes, and tomatoes. Apples and grapes are the most abundant fruits.

Other foods on USDA's plentiful foods list for September are peanuts and peanut products, dried split peas, limes, and pears.

IN THE WEST:

Fresh pork, smoked pork, and beef prices are lower in all West Coast markets.

Chickens are higher in California markets and turkeys are higher in most markets.

Calf, veal, lamb, egg and butter prices remain unchanged in all markets. Smoked hams, sliced bacon and fresh pork loins are lower in San Francisco and Portland. Spareribs are lower in California markets. Beef ribs are lower in Portland while loins and ribs are lower in California markets.

BROILER AND fryer chickens and young hens are higher in California markets.

In all Western markets, except Seattle, turkeys are higher.

Fruits and vegetables in best supply include: Apples, bananas, grapes, oranges, lettuce, onions, and potatoes.

Family Picnic Set Saturday By Terra Linda International Clubs

Interested families are invited to attend the annual "welcome picnic" Saturday at Marinwood Community Center, co-sponsored by the adult International Student Committee and the student International Friendship Club at Terra Linda High School.

Welcome will be extended to newly arrived foreign students, Aurelio Gey from Ecudor, now a member of the Walter Obermeyer family; Lena van der Meulen, the Netherlands, joining the James McHugh family; and Sven Martinger, Sweden, living with the Ernest Gray family; all of Lucas Valley. Aurelio is here on the American Field Service Program and Lena and Sven on the youth for Understanding Program.

Chairman Mrs. Robert Horvath announces that swimming will begin at 3 p.m. followed by dinner at 5:30 p.m.

A FAMILY campout will be held by the Novato Moose Lodge at the Moose Lodge in Novato on Saturday and Sunday.

Jack D. Deen, chairman and junior governor of the Novato Moose Lodge, says entertainment is planned for all age groups.

The event will begin Saturday at 2 p.m. with a kid's fair. A dance for adults will begin at 9 p.m. while the children have a barbecue. On Sunday a pancake breakfast will be served at 8 a.m., and a barbecued pig dinner will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday.

THE NOVATO chapter of the Friends of the Library will sponsor an open house and reception for all Novatans at the present library location from 2 to 5 p.m., Sunday.

Honored guests to be introduced at a program at 3 p.m. are Martha Van Etten, Novato librarian and staff; Bruce Bajema, county librarian, who will display models of the new Novato library; Marin County supervisor William Gnoss; Mrs. Lloyd Linton of Sausalito, who was instrumental in organizing the "Friends of the Library"; Mrs. David Teather of Tiburon, who will display her book on history of Tiburon and explain the work of the Landmark Society; and Mrs. Lucretia Little of Mill Valley, another Marin County historian.

Committee for the reception are Mmes. Marjorie Mowat, president; W. S. Mordecai, chairman; Roy Huffman, program, and Russel Dreosch, refreshments.

ALPHA DELTI Pi Alumnae of Marin County have invited husbands and escorts to join them for a get acquainted cocktail party and buffet supper at 7 p.m. Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Fay in Strawberry.

New members will be welcomed at the first event of the year for the alumnae.

"FIDDLE, FADDLE and Fun" is the theme for Saturday evening's barn dance, sponsored by the Alumnae Association of College of Notre Dame. Committee members for the fund-raising event include Mmes. Curtis Caton and Mark Capitolo, both of San Rafael.

The dance will begin at 8:30 p.m. in the Little Theater on the Belmont campus.

THE NOVATO Stump Jumpers Square Dance Club will have its third Saturday night party at 8:30 p.m., Saturday at the IDESI Hall in Novato.

Caller will be Gene Welch. Hosts are Messrs. and Mmes. Bill Bayles and William Dodson.

The Stump Jumpers are starting a beginners square dance class on Wednesday at the IDESI Hall in Novato to be held at 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. each Wednesday for 17 weeks.

Youth Re-Examining Male-Female Roles With Honesty

By CAROLYN A. BOWERS

NEW YORK (UPI) — The world is in the midst of a sex evolution, not a revolution, says Dr. Mary S. Calderone.

The executive director of the Sex Information and Education Council of the United States, who says so, adds:

"Young people are re-examining the man-woman relationship in the direction of honesty to determine their role in this fast changing world."

At Seventeen Magazine's "Think Young Think Tank" seminar here, Dr. Calderone said that young people are stating openly that they want "clear and truthful knowledge about the realities of human sexual behavior early enough to be useful to them.

"THEY ALSO want clear opportunity to discuss the pros and cons of the use of that knowledge . . . and we officially deny them this knoweldge because we don't trust them to use it morally . . . ," she said.

Dr. Calderone added that this "relates exactly" to the discussion and struggle concerning sex education in the schools.

"State legislatures are making it a misdemeanor to teach reproduction in the schools," she said. "At the same time, billboards and the public media including advertising carry nudity and sexual behavior in all aspects.

"How can we expect a young person to look at the adult world around him with these conflicting messages, and accept the first one?"

Dr. Calderone urged intelligent citizens interested in good sex education in their schools to move towards an intelligent approach to acquire it.

SHE ADVISED adults to think back to when they were young, and these memories should serve as guidelines.

"For we don't have too much time left to get back into contact with our young people, to make common cause with them towards a world that will have to be built on reality rather than fakery, on conscience rather than on fun and fakery," she said.

"Contact with an adult world that permits them to consider the wide panorama of how human beings of all times and conditions and ages have behaved will ensure that instead of feeble consciences dependent only on rules, strong, tough consciences able to pick the right course because that is the one indicated, will be developed."

Dr. Calderone said that most young people want to "know" in order to decide what to "become," and they need older people whom they can look up to and model themselves after. "They need heroes," she said, "who are everyday people living lives of awareness and responsibility about many things including sex."

McIlyar-Nicholson Vows Said

Yesterday afternoon at Christ Episcopal Church in Sausalito, Anne Nicholson of Kentfield became the bride of William S. Mc Ilyar of Mill Valley.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Joseph J. Nicholson of Kentfield and the late Mr. Nicholson. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. McIlyar of Timonium, Md.

Bridesmaids were Susan Wosser and Jacklyn Newman, both of Sausalito. Terry Hoy of Mill Valley was the best man and Thomas Nicholson, Anne's brother, of Kentfield, seated guests. The bride was given away by her other brother, William Nicholson of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Anne is a Redwood High School graduate who attended the University of Denver, in Denver, Colo. Mr. and Mrs. John A. Sullivan of San Francisco are her grandparents.

William was graduated from Edina Morningside High School in Maryland and attended the University of Minnesota. He is employed by Swiss Ski Sports in San Francisco and is the brother of Melanie Mc Ilyar of Baltimore, Md.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A new guide for press chairmen of organizations which are interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is now available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

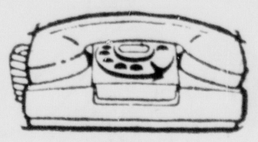
The booklets at the San Rafael office may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

Legal Secretaries Course Is Offered At College

A new junior legal secretary class is scheduled by the College of Marin's Community Education Department to begin Tuesday at 7 p.m. in Room 91, Olney Hall.

Mr. Laura Robertson, with 16



years of local legal secretarial experience, will teach the 12-week course on behalf of Marin County Legal Secretaries Association.

This course, initiated in 1966, has trained many secretaries who are now employed by many local attorneys in private practice as well as by the County Counsel's office, the District Attorney's office, federal legal offices and allied fields.

Attorneys will lecture, and the preparation of legal pleadings and printed forms used by the superior and municipal courts will be emphasized, along with legal vocabulary.

Interested students may register at the College of Marin prior to or at the first session on Tuesday. Additional information may be had by calling the Community Education Department.

A Crime Of Omission Is Not Disturbing To Bridge Expert

"The hands are very dull tonight," Dr. Watson complained, as he kibitzed at the Baker Street Bridge Club. "On the contrary, the last hand was a little gem," Sherlock Holmes replied. "There was a horrible crime of omission, but maybe it didn't make any difference. Still, such crimes are very disturbing."

DIAMOND CAUSE

West opened the five of spades, and East won the first trick with the queen. South took the second trick with the ace of spades and led the jack of diamonds.

East held off the first diamond but had to take the second diamond with his ace. Now South had nine easy tricks: five diamonds, one club, two hearts and a spade. South actually managed to take a tenth trick, but this was unimportant.

A dull hand, to Dr. Watson. Can you see why it disturbed Sherlock Holmes? Decide for yourself before you read on.

BRILLIANT LEAD

East missed his chance to make a brilliant lead. After winning the first trick with the queen of spades, East should return the king of clubs to force out dummy's ace. Then East can refuse the first diamond, and dummy's long suit will never come in.

Even after this brilliant return, South may still make his contract. He takes the ace of clubs and leads the king of diamonds to see if anybody is foolish enough to take the ace.

When East refuses the first diamond, declarer must try a finesse with the jack of hearts. This succeeds, and South takes all of his tricks and gets out with a diamond.

MAKES GAME

This leaves East with the ace of diamonds, a heart and a club trick. But then East must give the last trick to dummy's high diamond, and South makes game with two diamonds, three hearts, three clubs, and one spade.

It would have been a brilliant hand for both sides, but East missed the point.

ANSWER: Bid two spades with a reliable partner.

He will pass, and you will probably be better off at two spades than he would be at one no trump. But do not respond with an unreliable partner. He will bid again, and you will be in trouble.

MUSICAL REVIEW

Jacques Brel Alive, Well On ACT Stage

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — Don't let anyone fool you, Jacques Brel is is alive and well and living in at the Marines' Memorial Theater.

The Belgian-born, French-transplanted composer's musical arrived last night for a limited engagement through arrangement with the American Conservatory Theater.

What we have is a brilliant 26-song score, depicting the human condition and excellently presented by singers-actors Robert Guillaume, Betty Rhodes, George Ball and Teri Ralston.

The hit of the this past season's Stanford Summer Festival,—the musical "Jacques Brel is Alive and Well and Living in Paris" — is a tightly paced package which really explodes with excitement when Miss Rhodes steps to center stage."

She is most electrifying in "Sons Of," "Carousel," and "Marieke," an ode to which completely stopped the show. It is worth the price of admission to hear her sing this beautiful and haunting lament which rings with pathos for a war's dead.

Probably "Marieke" best presents Brel's humanistic approach to life. And there is no romanticizing even in the composer's supposedly lighter songs. There is always that little imperfection which is so true of man.

Sharing co-billing in the cast of four are Robert Guillaume, George Ball and Teri Ralston.

Guillaume, like Miss Rhodes from former "Jacques Brel" casts, can also deliver with a powerful thrust. He was especially convincing in a sailor's tale of night in "Amsterdam," a melody of folk-like quality. Ball and Miss Ralston, like the other two well acquainted with the Brel score, have some good vocal vehicles, but don't come off quite as well.

While the first act has many pleasing moments, it is really the second which speeds the musical to an explosive conclusion with the company pleading for a better world in "If We Only Have Love."

There is something very familiar in Brel's approach. His score has almost a Kurt Weill feeling — that is the words are almost timeless.

The Marines' theater is ideally suited to this intimate type of musical theater. Thanks to an excellent sound system, each voice is clear without being overpowered by the small off-stage orchestra. (Directors of "Hair", please take note.)

Also helping to weave the non book score into proper focus are an almost barren stage and subtle lighting.

Translation of Brel's lyrics into English has been expertly fashioned by Eric Blau and Mort Shuman. Director Moni Yakim, himself a celebrated mime, has let the score speak without too much clutter of unnecessary action. This made "Timid Frieda," a spoof on the Salvation Army, come off very well.

The musical will be presented nightly at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday; Saturday at 7 and 10 p.m. and Sunday at 3 and 8 p.m. The run is tentatively scheduled through late November.

EYE IRRITATION

Steps Taken To Check Pollutants

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Tighter controls over some types of pollutants in California's air have been adopted over criticism they still won't prevent irritated eyes, noses, throats and lungs.

The Air Resources Board yesterday approved new standards for the amounts of exidants, carbon monoxide and hydrogen sulfide that would be permitted in the atmosphere.

But the board, after six public hearings, sent back to its technical advisory committee for more study proposed new limits on sulfur dioxide and solid materials in the air.

STANDARD LEFT

It left unchanged at .25 parts per million for one hour the standard on nitrogen dioxide—the agent that gives Los Angeles-type smog its dingy yellow tinge. However, the tougher standard on oxidants will force stricter controls over vehicle exhausts—chief cause of nitrogen dioxide.

The level for oxidants was dropped from .15 to .10 parts per million for one hour. The tolerance for carbon monoxide was lowered from 30 to 20 parts per million for one hour.

The standard for hydrogen sulfide which gives the air a "rotten egg" odor was reduced from .1 to .003 parts per million for an hour.

TO HELP EYES

The new standards were designed to prevent eye irrigation and possible lung impairment in persons with pulmonary diseases.

But Dr. Joseph F. Bovle, a board member, called the new standards "woefully inadequate." He tried unsuccessfully to get the whole set of proposed standards referred back formore study.

He said the board by adopting the new standards was telling the people of California "it is desireable from the standpoint of their health" that they be exposed to levels of pollution "highly deleterious to their health."

Member James Stearns said the new standards would "gain the ground that was gainable, recognizing this is the first step."

ARE ENFORCEABLE

"They form a workable portion of what can be done," said member Walter R. Schmid. "These are enforceable standards."

"You're not even meeting present standards," Boyle replied. "You can't meet these in five years."

"The point is not technical feasibility," Boyle said. "he point is advising people of the serious health hazards we face from smog."

Citizens' smog-fighting groups also criticized the new standards as a step in the right direction but not enough of a step.

ALL BUT ONE 1970 MODEL GETS BLESSED

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's Air Resources Board has approved virtually all 1970 model cars for sale in the state after they met new controls over how much they can pollute the air.

The only car the board didn't approve yesterday was the foreign-built Alfa Romeo, but it still can be sold because it qualifies under a special part of the antismog law dealing with out-of-the-ordinary cases.

A new state law provides that new cars cannot be sold in California, the nation's leading auto market, starting with 1970 models unless their smog output does not exceed state-set tolerances.

Look Pleads Secrecy For Informants

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Look Magazine attorneys say it's a matter of life or death not to reveal three sources for an article which linked San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto to the Mafia.

They told federal judge Gerald S. Levin yesterday that they might be assassinated if their names are made public.

Alioto has filed a $12.5 million libel suit against the magazine for the story by Richard Carlson and Lance Brisson. The mayor's attorneys asked for the long-distance phone call records of the authors and charged that "hoodlums and gangsters" supplied the material for the story.

IN DANGER?

The defense conceded some of the sources had underworld ties and said at least three would be in danger if their names were known.

U.S. Dist. Judge Gerald S. Levin ordered the records sealed and placed in custody. He planned to hear more legal argument today whether the records should be made available to Alioto's attorney.

Identical affidavits by Carlson and Brisson said there were "many" informants whose "lives are in particular jeopardy."

"Individual A presently carries a gun for personal protection," said each affidavit. "Individual A told me within the last week that if Individual A's name is revealed in connection with this article, Individual A expects La Cosa Nostra to effect violent reprisal."

FOUND SLAIN

"Individual A told me he had previously been threatened by one Mafia member named in the Look article."

"Individual B," the affidavits said, "was affiliated with a ring of 'dangerous hoodlums engaged in illegal activities,' of whom one, Julio Petro, was found shot to death in Los Angeles eight months ago.

"Individual B told me that Individual B would suffer the same fate as Mr. Petro if it were known that Individual B gave me information."

Similar assertions were made regarding an "Individual C."

Alioto's attorney, Maxwell Blecher, said that "the writers are now placing themselves in the position of saying they can protect the nanes of gangsters and hoodlums. It is the height of audacity to say we can't even find out who their informers are."

Reagan Names Aide To Industrial Post

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday designated William C. Hern of Millbrae as acting state industrial relations director to succeed the late Peter Weinberger.

Hern, chief of the Industrial Relations Department's Labor Law Enforcement Division since 1967, will receive an annual salary of $30,000 as acting director. He was named San Mateo County's "Industry Man of the Year" in 1965.

Buses Now, Ferries Later Says SPUR

Marin Transit District's proposed bus system, which was rejected by the San Francisco Board of Supervisors Monday, got a shot in the arm yesterday from the San Francisco Planning and Urban Renewal Association (SPUR).

The SPUR report, just releases, supports the "immediate establishment of a bus transit system as recommended by the Marin Transit District staff."

SPUR's recommendation is in direct contrast to the San Francisco supervisors' "unequivocal opposition" to the bus system and their insistence that a ferry system be set up for Marin commuters.

The SPUR report reiterates its 1968 recommendation for immediate creation of a bus rapid transit system using funds of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District to subsidize it. "Ferries should be considered as a supplement to the bus transit facilities," the report said.

"The public has the choice of investing $51 million in a ferry system to transport approximately the same number of passengers from Marin to San Francisco that a $7 million bus system could accomplish," said SPUR. If the bus system is to be held up until a commuter ferry system is in operation, there will be a delay of at least three or four years before the Marin commuter gets any relief, said SPUR.

The report declared that the ferry patronage survey conducted by Arthur D Little Co. is subject to error because commuters questioned did not have a chance to express preference between an improved bus transit system and a ferry system. "Little mention was made in the questionnaire about the possibility of waiting times in transferring at ferry terminals."

The cost and patronage projections of the ferry study did not assume a level of competition from an improved bus system that would bring modern buses to within walking distance of most commuters, SPUR argued.

This implies, said the SPUR report, that for a ferry system to have any chance of success or at least to avoid a large public subsidy, a negative policy would have to be adopted, preventing the establishment of a bus system.

The United States was the first country to place men on the moon.

Marin Labor Council Hits Supreme Court Nominee

The Marin County Labor Council last night opposed Senate confirmation of the appointment of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth of South Carolina as a Supreme Court Justice.

Telegrams were sent to Sens. Alan Cranston and George Murphy opposing the confirmation, reported Peter Patrakis, council secretary-treasurer.

The council requested the Senate to take in account his "lack of understanding of the aspirations of workers and minorities," Patrakis said.

Representatives of unions affiliated with the council reported "all members working," Petrakis said.

Norman T. Campbell, past business agent for Carpenter's Local 35, will represent Marin County at a discussion of discrimination in housing with the Bay Area Labor Council and the National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing, Petrakis said.

Outing For Exchange Students Set Sunday

Three foreign exchange students at Terra Linda High School will be honored at a picnic Saturday at the Marinwood Community Center sponsored by the school's International Friendship Club.

The students, Aurelio Gey from Ecuador, Lena van der Meulen from The Netherlands and Sven Martingez from Sweden will meet club members and guests from 3 to 7 p.m.

Also attending will be Terra Linda High students who participated in the International Living program last summer — Carole Campbell, who visited Austria, Sue Giacomini, Italy, Patrick Orsini, Germany; Gary Katz, Great Britain, and Sandie Robb, Belgium.

There will be swimming from 3 to 5:30 p.m. and dinner to follow.

Miss van de Muelen staying with Mr. and Mrs. James C. McHugh at 8 Mount Tenaya Drive, Lucas Valley; Martingez with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gray, 1180 Idylberry Road, Marinwood, and Gey with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Overmeyer, 846 Greenberry Lane, Marinwood.

Deputies Nab Nude Suspects

Two persons, reportedly in the nude at Muir Beach Tuesday afternoon were booked by Marin County Sheriff's deputies on suspicion of disturbing the peace.

Deputies booked Ronald N. Grayson, 26, of 3100 Vincente Street, San Francisco, and Charlotte Wanda Segersthale, 21, of 159 Woodward Avenue, Sausalito.

Both were released under $125 bail and scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court at 2 p.m. tomorrow.

Suspected Bank Robber Nabbed

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Maurice J. Philion, suspected of 10 bank robberies in San Francisco, was arrested here yesterday after an FBI agent recognized him walking along the street.

Philion, 34, escaped from the Kingston Federal Penitentiary in Ottawa, Canada, on March 8. Since that escape, the FBI said, Philion is suspected of robbing 15 banks on the West Coast of a total of $33,000.

A warrant and complaint issued Tuesday against Philion charges him with the March 25 robbery of the Humboldt Branch of the Bank of America in San Francisco. The government will seek to return Philion to San Francisco and hold him on $100,000 bail.

He was serving a 14-year sentence for armed robbery when he escaped from the Canadian prison.

Innocent Plea To Transporting Weed

John Lynn Portis, 25, of Sioux City, Iowa, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of transporting marijuana into California and one of possession of the weed. A preliminary hearing was set for Monday.

Portis was arrested last Monday in a car reportedly stolen in Iowa. A pouch of marijuana was found in the vehicle, according to officers.

Innocent Pleas To Truck Theft

A preliminary hearing for Ezequiel Antonio Palacios, 23, of Paramount, Los Angeles County, and Robert Landis Frank, 25, of Nashville, Tenn., was set for Tuesday.

They were arrested when an equipment operator working at Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael near the offramp from Highway 101 said he saw them take his pickup truck. Thomas J. Palmer pursued them, and, wielding a shovel, held them until police arrived.

Call For Sanitation Equipment Overhaul

San Rafael Sanitation District directors were stunned yesterday by reports of major need for rehabilitation or replacement of equipment.

John H. Jenks of Palo Alto, a consulting engineer, reported, "there is an accumulated need of major proportion" at pumping plants "for replacement and/or rehabilitation."

Director C .Paul Bettini said it was the first time the problem had been brought to the board and he was "really upset."

Jenks said the pumping plant equipment was old and there hasn't been any substantial program of preventive maintenance.

During the discussion it was pointed out that the district had been relying on its existing crew to handle routine maintenance, and there wasn't enough manpower to go around.

Chairman Fred E. Jensen conceded that perhaps the district had been operating on "false economy," but said the board had never rejected staff requests for work that had to be done by outside help.

Ely Cailouette Jr., district engineer, said some of the needs listed were needs that would have been handled during the year on the regular maintenance program, but some additional needs developed within in the last three or four months.

"I understood the board wanted to hold cost down," Cailouette said.

Norris M. Rawles, district administrator, said the "big hangup" has been the board's directive "to do work ourselves."

Victor Von Aspern, chief plant operator, requested that a swing shift be established at the main treatment plant and an additional operator hired. With the additional man, the crew could do more preventative maintenance, he said.

Bettini suggested that perhaps the district was big enough to warrant hiring a full-time engineer-manager.

Rawles and Cailouette, who are employed by the city of San Rafael, work part-time for the sanitation district, and major engineering projects have been handled by firms such as Dan Coleman Associates of Greenbrae.

Jensen asked the staff to calculate how much has been spent for services that an engineer-manager would provide to determine if creating the post is warranted.

Directors also asked Jenks to estimate how much he would charge for a study to show where the district now stands in regard to equipment and what its immediate needs will be.

Directors also approved a request by the William McDevitt Co. to annex a building site along Margarita Drive, Country Club area to the district.

Youth's Gun Assault Case Is Dropped

Charges of assault with a deadly weapon and disturbing the peace — stemming from a gunfire-punctuated argument in Petaluma Monday — were dropped yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court against a 20-year-old Petaluma youth.

The youth, Donald R. Chassereau of 180 Cherry Street, pleaded no contest to a charge of possessing alcoholic beverages and was given a 10-day suspended sentence and placed on probation for 90 days.

Chassereau was arrested Monday after a couple told police that he and a companion, Stanley L. DeMartinis, 20, of 408 Fair Street, Petaluma, had threatened them with knives and a gun. Police said shots were fired into a house at 513 Jefferson Street or into the air.

A hearing on similar charges against DeMartinis was postponed until 1:30 p.m. Monday.

Barb Ex-Owner To Stand Trial

BERKELEY (UPI)—A Municipal Judge ruled yesterday that Max Sherr, former publisher of the Berkeley Barb, must face charges of obscenity.

Judge Mario Barsotti denied a request by Scherr's attorney to throw out the indictment and said the date for the trial will be set Sept. 26.

The ex-publisher was indicted on the charge after dismissal of an earlier charge that one picture in the Barb was obscene. At that time Judge Barsotti ruled that a publication could not be judged obscene on the basis of a single photograph.

Capitalism And The New Nations

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Luring private capital to invest abroad is a two-way street, speakers at the International Industrial Conference agreed today.

Both the lending and borrowing country can and must do much to improve the climate for such investment, a series of speakers told the meeting of 700 of the world's leading businessmen at the Fairmont Hotel.

In its fourth day, the meeting ends tomorrow after an address tonight by Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans. It is sponsored by the Stanford Research Institute of Menlo Park and the National Industrial Conference Board of New York.

Getting more private capital to work in foreign areas has emerged as a common prime objective at this conference, the theme of which is "closing the world's income gap" between rich and poor nations.

The climate to attract such capital must be created in both countries involved, said A. Romeo Horton, president of the Bank of Liberia.

The host country must provide stable political and economic conditions, he said, with reasonable assurances that earnings can be repatriated.

At the same time the investing company should make itself part of the host economy and operate to the benefit of the host public. Local nationals and agents should be used at all levels to spread benefits as widely as possible, he said.

Horton also urged foreign companies going into underdeveloped countries to engage in manufacturing as much as possible.

This would make the country "a producer of finished goods as well as a producer of primary products," and "reduce the constant drain into foreign markets of the natural resource of the host country," he said.

He warned against a "get, grab and go" policy and said investors should be prepared to stay and reinvest in host countries.

Being nationalistic, developing countries go through an "exuberant stage" when the climate for foreign investment may be clouded, said Sixto K. Roxas, president of the Bancom Development Corp. of Manila.

A new basis for fresh developments must eventually be established," he said. "That is where the Philippine development stands at the moment."

He outlined new Philippine laws guaranteeing protection to foreign investors provided they conform with carefully worked-out regulations. He said these provide for liberal tax treatment and other favors according to which industries Philippine planners consider most desirable.

One of these areas embraces domestic processing facilities, and 115 such projects have been approved, including pulp and steel mills and chemical plants, he reported.

"Our vices are really virtues that have gone wild," he said of the period when the new republic concentrated on developing its own plants, largely with domestic capital.

"When we adopted industrialization as the path to the blessed life, we went all crazy with it. We now have more industrial plants than we know what to do with.

U.S. Backs Minorities In Rec Facility Use

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a major civil rights move, the Nixon administration has asked the Supreme Court to protect the rights of Negro homeowners to use community recreation facilities.

The Justice Department, in a brief filed with the court, said an 1866 civil rights act guarantees Negroes not only the equal right to buy a house but the right to enjoy the side benefits that go with it.

"Community recreational facilities, especially swimming pools, are a major factor affecting the desirability and value of residential property," Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold said in a brief.

A year ago, the court held the Reconstruction era law barred discrimination in all housing sales and rentals.

The government said it would be inconsistent with this interpretation if "a Negro has the same right to buy or lease property as a white citizen but can be precluded from enjoying some of the incidents thereof on the basis of his race."

The white family of Paul E. Sullivan leased a house to the Negro family of T. R. Freeman Jr. in 1965 and included a membership share in the recreation facility, Little Hunting Park, in a Virginia suburb of Washington, D.C.

The Freeman's moved into the house but the directors of the recreation corporation barred the Negro family from using the community park, playground facilities, swimming pool and tennis courts.

Sullivan complained, was given a hearing and then expelled unanimously. When Virginia state courts ruled against the two families they appealed to the high court.

The government, as it has before, sidestepped whether purly private social clubs must be opened to Negroes. It said it did not have to reach this question at this time because "none of the earmarks of exclusivity or choice traditionally associated ciated with Little Hunting Park.

EAST LINKED TO WEST BY VOICE AND PICTURE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Picturephone got its first cross country conference use yesterday at the International Industrial Conference.

Speakers' faces as well as voices were carried in calls from the conference in San Francisco to Washington, D.C., New York and Chicago.

H. I. Romnes, American Telephone & Telegraph Co. chairman, presented the Picturephone to demonstrate what his industry can do to tie the world more closely.

Speakers on the Picturephone conference call were Dr. Paul McCracken, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers in Washington; bank president Gabriel Hauge in New York, and bank president Gaylord Freeman in Chicago.

Integration On Economic Level Urged

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The head of Italy's giant Fiat Corp. called on 700 world business leaders yesterday to think in terms of "of a single world economy."

Giovanni Agnelli, Fiat board chairman, addressed the International Industrial Conference on closing the world's income gap."

"Why should we continue to consider the problem of backward areas as an isolated sector?" Agnelli asked the international bankers and industrialists from 70 countries attending the conference spossored by the Stanford Research Institute and the National Industrial Conference Board.

"Why shouldn't we try instead to think in terms of a single world economy in which the affluent society and the underdeveloped world must integrate with each other?" Agnelli asked.

"The development of the Third World," he said, "may signify the only way to guarantee, peacefully, the continuity and scope of the development of the industrial society, as opposed to a war economy."

Waldie Fights For Keeping North Water

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Northern California congressman says San Francisco Bay's water quality is being sacrificed to build more subdivisions in Southern California.

Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-14th District, said a key feature of the California Water Project will take so much water from Northern California that the bay will be deprived of needed fresh water.

His testimony before a meeting of the Senate and Assembly water resources committees yesterday was directed against the proposed $208.5 million peripheral canal.

AROUND DELTAS

This facility would take Sacramento River water around the deltas of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers, diverting it to the California Aqueduct for shipment to the dry south.

"We had better decide whether the preservation of the estuaries and San Francisco Bay as nearly as they are today is as important as building more subdivisions in the south," Waldie said.

Waldie urged that the canal be held up until experts decided if it would deprive the delta and the bay of the fresh water they now get from the Sacramento River.

DISPUTES WIEW

William Gianelli, state director of water resources, disputed Waldie's view. He said Waldie should have spoke up years ago, when industries were being built along the bay, changing the area's environment.

He challenged Waldie to go before the Contra Costa County Board of Supervisors and ask that all industries around the bay be closed down.

Waldie predicted Congress will refuse to approve an appropriation for the federal share of the canal until it finds out if the diversion of water will hurt the bay.

He said that planners of the water project considered only the needs of city and suburban dwellers in Southern California and farmers in allocating the water. They did not, he said, consider conservation factors, such as preserving the bay.

Scientists, he said, predict it "will be catastrophic" if the canal is built, for the estuaries and the bay will be deprived of fresh water.

Shouters For 'Free Press' —And Those Who Guard It

California has witnessed its most serious attack on freedom of the press in recent years in the issuance by courts in Los Angeles and San Francisco of injunctions against publication of names of narcotics agents.

It is ironic that these injunctions were issued against two so-called "underground newspapers," the Los Angeles Free Press and Dock of the Bay, which have devoted many columns of diatribe to attacks on what they call "the Establishment press."

THESE NEWSPAPERS, and others of their ilk, ranging from the Black Panther to some of the college press, are fond of exhortations to "tell it like it is."

"Like it is," however, is the way they want to present it. Any other version is "the voice of the fascist Establishment."

Thus these "underground newspapers" consistently attack the very freedom of the press which enables them to continue publication. And it is the California Freedom of Information Committee, set up by "the Establishment press," that has come to their defense against the attempt at censorship at the source through court injunctions.

THE REVOLUTIONARY "New Left," as represented in the Maoist-Leninist-Marxist governments which it admires and emulates, has not been so solicitous of the freedom to publish that with which it does not agree.

IN NEWLY "FREE" Tanzania, a Canadian reporter was arrested last month for taking photographs of Chinese technicians and military aides. While he was held in jail, prior to being deported, he was given "The Thoughts of Chairman Mao" to read and ponder.

From Malaysia came reports of suppression of newspapers and fining of reporters for printing accounts of recent disturbances that did not agree with the official version.

In South Africa, an editor and reporter were fined, and the reporter given a suspended prison sentence, for a series of stories exposing prison conditions which had won for them an American Newspaper Publishers Association world press achievement award.

In Mao's China, Anthony Grey, a Reuters correspondent, has been under closely guarded house arrest for two years, although no charge has ever been filed against him.

IT IS AN OLD story. As the Bolshevik revolutionaries bid for control of Russia in the November revolution of 1917, Leon Trotsky made an impassioned speech in behalf of freedom of the press. But before the "10 days that shook the world" were over, the Bolsheviks had suppressed all newspapers except those they controlled.

The lesson is clear: In a democracy, there is room for many voices. In a dictatorship — founded, without exception, with "power to the people" slogans — there is room for only one.

The Difference Is . . .

There is a great difference between the fruits and vegetables that Marin home gardeners grow and those we buy at the markets. Except for those gardens in parts of the county where cool weather prevails, our garden produce is usually sweeter and more flavorful. Market produce, however, is generally better looking.

There is good reason why this is so. Commercial growers usually grow their vegetables from seeds of different varieties from those sold to the home gardener. They are kinds that can stand rough handling, shipment, and several days on market shelves and still look good.

The home gardener hopes for good looks, but freshness and flavor are primary with him. He usually wants tomatoes, for example, that will ripen on the vine. And there is a difference.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Constitution Revision Group Monkeying With Principles

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — California's constitutional revision committee, which for some years has been studying ways of shortening the state's voluminous basic law document, has come up with a recommendation that the voting age be lowered from 21 to 19 years.

It also proposes that literacy requirements be abolished as a prerequisite to voting, and that the right to vote be restored to persons under court order for conviction of designated felonies or mental incompetence.

LOWERING the voting age has been an issue in the state legislature for some years, but to date, the age remains at 21 years, and more likely than not, will stay at that age for many years to come.

The forefathers of the present generation, who wrote the age into the constitution originally, considered the right to vote a privilege of maturity, and considered that young people 21 years of age were sufficiently mature to exercise the privilege.

In those earlier days, young people were more knowledgeable of maturity at 21 than they are today. Most of them had been earning a living for some years, instead of just getting out of college. There were no such things as government subsidies, or excessive parental subsidies such as there are today. At 21, the young person was considered on his own, and therefore able to give thoughtful consideration to candidates for office and problems affecting the state and nation.

TODAY, the problem is different. Far from reaching maturity at 21, young people generally are on the government or their parents until they reach age 25, which gives some reason for raising, rather than lowering the voting age. But there is no discussion for fixing the age at 25, when young people are more on their own and sense the value of a dollar paid out of their pockets in taxes more than they can be expected to do at age 21.

Neither is there any discussion of limiting the franchise to responsible citizens, who earn a living and pay taxes to support a government whose power to levy those taxes is unlimited. This is why people on welfare can vote for representatives who continue to heap largesse on them in return for votes to get reelected.

If government were realistic, it would consider seriously denying the franchise to people on government subsidy.

THIS IS virtually the same constitutional revision commission that last year attempted to deprive the electorate of the right to name its own state superintendent of public instruction. The electorate thwarted the commission in this attempt, defeating the proposition.

I'm pleased to be able to inform you that Utopia has arrived.

My study of history reveals that every day is a holiday, a holiday that should be devoutly observed by every right-thinking and patriotic American. Incidentally, there are no others.

In line with this profound discovery, I call your attention to the fact that we shall soon have the anniversaries of the births of Carrie Nation, Warren Gamaliel Harding and Lydia Pinkham.

Let's Stay Secure In Our Isolation

The Marin County commuter may think it will be fine indeed when a ferry system or fast buses on a second deck or a tube under the Golden Gate will ease the growing frustration of the overcrowded bridge. Unhappily his hopes for relief are in vain. For as soon as the transportation bottleneck is widened, more people will move to Marin, and the crowding will be as bad as ever.

To the business man it may seem that more people will bring more business and make him more prosperous. Does he not see that as soon as the community will support another business someone will establish it, be it a grocery store, bank, barber shop or whatever? Competition will be as severe as ever; profits no greater than before.

The citizen who believes that more businesses and industries will bring in more taxes forgets that these businesses and industries bring with them more people whose demand for public services - police, sewers, schools, streets - will promptly swallow up the gain in tax dollars. Only monopolists, such as land owners and public utilities, can gain from population increases, and they are, after all, a small minority.

The charm of Marin lies in its spaciousness, its low population density. Anything which makes it easier to move here will attract people and detract from that charm. Let us keep the beautiful bridge as it is and stop talking of bypassing it or of enlarging its capacity. Only thus can we keep the city at bay, which we must do or lose the satisfactions that come from living in Marin. Why pay to have ourselves overwhelmed by urban problems?

Airport Not Overlooked By All

Your editorial of Sept. 13, regarding Smith Ranch Airport, "Strange End To Long Search For An Airstrip", is especially appreciated by a small group of us who have worked for the last five years to further any and all air facilities within Marin County. I am hopeful you will continue to join in the effort . . .

The fact is, instead of being ignored by the aviation commission, Smith Ranch Airport is Number Two in priority on the official "Master Plan For Airports" for Marin County. It is second on that master plan only to the development of a large airport-industrial complex just east of Hamilton Air Force Base and south of Bel Marin Keys. The Smith Ranch Airport has been almost constantly discussed at aviation commission meetings over the past four years, and many attempts were made to get SFO Helicopters to use Smith Ranch for a terminal . . .

As the person who caused the aviation commission to be formed in the first place, and as the first member and first chairman, and the first commissioner to be fired last January, I started three years ago talking to Dr. Marks, founder of Skymark Airlines, which later became part of Golden West Airlines. Mr. David B. Vail, present chairman of the Aviation Commission and I have continued to work with Golden West Airlines who now make a proposal to start services, possibly by Nov. 1, the direct result of these negotiations . . .

As to the legality of the airport: It surely is recognized and published by the FAA as a private airport . . .

In 1959 the planning commission unanimously approved a use permit for the airport, which has been operating since 1926, but through the unpredictable ramifications of political affairs it was turned down by the supervisors . . .

Another mirage?

Refusal To Treat Woman Appalling

I just read the article in the Sept. 15, I-J regarding a Novato woman's rape and the subsequent refusal on the part of two Marin hospitals and three doctors to come to her assistance. This situation is appalling. Having been involved myself in an emergency which became painfully bogged down in bureaucratic red tape, I can well understand this woman's plight.

Anyone who is insensative enough to ignore the needs of a victim of forceable rape should hang his head in shame. The article gave me the feeling that there was a good deal of shuffling of responsibility.

In this day of national apathy (i.e. the Genovese case), I can understand the running for cover. My hope is that the victim will instigate some sort of action and that the doctors involved are made to answer for their actions (or lack of action) This woman has my complete support and I hope the support of many of your readers.

Finch Cast For Martyr's Role In Politics Of Desegregation

WASHINGTON — When Richard Nixon, as president-elect, assigned his good friend and California ally, Robert H. Finch, to the snake pit of Health, Education and Welfare, he must have had an idea of what it would mean. Finch was certain to be pinned between the Nixon southern strategy and the unrelenting demand for desegregation, not only of schools but of all public facilities.

A big man with the broad shoulders of an athlete, Finch has the strained look of the long-distance runner on his face — a man who knows the finish line will always be 100 yards ahead.

Finch's argument that federal court orders are the surest way to integrate the schools may prove right in the end, although in light of the built-in prejudices of southern judges it is highly doubtful. But this overlooks something far more fundamental.

THE U. S. COMMISSION on Civil Rights, under chairmanship of Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh of Notre Dame, called the backing and filling of Finch and Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell a "major retreat." That is how it is read in the South.

What gripes Finch most of all is the attack of the liberals who feel that he, the most conspicuous liberal in the Nixon cabinet, has let them down. Don't they know, he demands how the other side is after me? They're talking about impeaching me.

This last is not, it happens, merely a figure of speech. Rep. Fletcher Thompson of Georgia, one of the new breed of southern Republicans, is preparing the basis for articles of impeachment that he intends to present on the floor of the House. Thompson has sent questionnaires to school superintendents throughout the South, asking for figures on schools shut down after failing to comply with new orders to desegregate.

Responses already received, Thompson says, show schools valued at $35 million closed up.

THE IMPEACHMENT would charge Finch with deliberately violating the provisions of an appropriation bill forbidding the use of the money for busing pupils from one school to another or otherwise enforcing desegregation. Thompson has no illusions that the House will vote to impeach the secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. But his attack is symptomatic of the drive to bring Finch to heel.

It is led by southern Republicans from the states that gave President Nixon his victory in November and from the states that George Wallace carried. Foremost in this company is Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, an engineer of the Nixon victory and now head of the watchful guard on the Mason-Dixon Line saying this far and no farther.

THE DAY after Father Hesburgh's commission scored the Finch-Mitchell approach as a "major retreat," Finch issued his own progress report. This claimed that "more school desegregation is occurring this month than at any school opening in America's past." The statement gave impressive statistics — 336 voluntary desegregation plans at school opening compared with 171 last year — to document the progress.

The real question is where the Nixon administration stands. One test is the amendment already passed by the House underwriting "feeedom of choice." In the South "freedom of choice" makes the plight of the blacks wanting desegregation all but impossible. Finch came out against the amendment. No one else in the executive branch has spoken up. The impression grows that Finch is a kind of St. Sebastian, set up to take the arrows of attack with the patient smile of martyrdom.

U.S., Japan Hang Tough On Future Of Okinawa

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

On the issue of Okinawa both the United States and Japan are practicing diplomatic brinkmanship.

Prior to the arrival of Japanese Foreign Minister Kiichi Aichi for his Washington meeting with Secretary of State William P. Rogers it had been hoped that conditions for the return of Okinawa to Japan could be settled between the two, needing only the formality of approval by President Nixon and Prime Minister Eisaku Sato in November.

Instead, nothing has been settled and Aichi has predicted frankly that final terms probably will not be settled until the last day of the Nixon-Sato meeting scheduled in Washington for Nov. 19-21.

The difficulty is that, while agreeing Okinawa must be returned to Japanese sovereignty, the two approach the problem from different angles.

The Sato government has staked its life on the return of Okinawa in 1972 and approaches it as a political problem.

Okinawa is the United States' most strategic base in the Pacific and the United States therefore approaches it as a military problem.

JAPAN AGREES that the United States may keep its bases on Okinawa, but demands that they be governed by the same rules as are American bases in Japan.

These rules would require that the United States consult with Japan prior to the dispatch of U.S. forces from Okinawa on an offensive mission and the removal of nuclear weapons from the bases.

The United States says it must have "free" use of the bases if it is to carry out its obligations to defend Japan and the rest of Asia.

Reportedly, it would be willing to remove its nuclear weapons in peace time but demands the right to return them in the event of a threat to Formosa, the Philippines or South Korea.

THE JAPANESE hold there is no possibility of an outside threat to the Philippines and they fear the effect of their relations with Red China if they agree to the inclusion of Formosa in the nuclear defense perimeter. They would permit it in the case of South Korea.

Becoming inextricably bound up also in the U.S.-Japan negotiations over Okinawa is the equally thorny problem of economic relations between the two.

For the return of Okinawa and the other Ryukyu Islands captured in World War II, the United States wants other than purely military concessions. For instance, it wants Japan to impose self-restrictions on sale of textiles, electronic items and steel. It also wants Japan to lift its own restrictions on U.S. investments in Japan.

Both sides know that eventually a compromise must be reached. But neither so far has budged from its tough stance.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

"As men become smarter their arguments get less interesting." — Unknown.

He who would distinguish the true from the false must have an adequate idea of what is true and false. — Benedict Spinoza.

The genuine problem is the relation between authority and freedom . . . The issue that requires constant attention is the intimate and organic union of the two things: of authority and freedom, of stability and change. — John Dewey.

Kastahana Produces Weird Blend Of Musical Styles

A strange combination of elbows and soul, snakes and rock, determination and blues floated together in July to become a band.

Six weeks later, growing pains healed and an unusual style assured, the group was good enough to beat 62 others and capture first place in the state fair band competition.

The group is Kastahana, a name chosen simply because its members liked it. It means Indian snake band, but the group, with humor much like their music, say that's really the opposite of what they are.

THE ORIGINAL Kastahana was formed about six months ago and went through a series of members before striking the right combination in July.

Now there are Bruce Gavin, 18, the organist who uses — and abuses — his hands and elbows to make the instrument sing; Bob Kay, also 18, and lead guitarist; Kim Elsom, 20, bass guitarist; Terry Dilbeck, 18, the drummer, and John Jones, 16, lead singer and chief clown.

Gavin and Kay are students at College of Marin, Jones is in high school, and the others are full-time musicians.

All are deadly serious about their work and write most of their own music and lyrics with a strange sound of their own.

It's a sometimes weird, always smooth, blending of rock, jazz and soul, which even the group has a hard time describing. "Just listen," they say as the floor starts vibrating.

THEY PRACTICE four hours a day, five days a week, in the former dining room of an old house at 1811 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, where most of them also live, with Bruce's mother, Barbara Gavin, as housemother.

The room's decor is principally contemporary insulation installed after neighbors complained.

After they get going, however, the weight of the organ doesn't matter as they watch the crowd react to their music.

Next they hope to make an album. They're not sure how long that will take, but figure it had better be soon. "We're poor," Bruce explained.

Luggage Firm Gets Permit For Addition

H. Koch and Sons has taken out a $511,000 building permit for expansion of its plant beside Highway 101 in Corte Madera.

However, Murray Koch, company executive, said today no contract has yet been awarded and start on the construction is indefinite.

The plans, approved in May by the Corte Madera Board of Design, call for addition of 72,000 square feet to the buildings at 15 Koch Road. Koch said the new structure would replace some facilities the company now rents, as well as providing for expansion.

H. Koch and Sons, now a subsidiary of Gulf and Western Industries, Inc., has diversified its manufacturing in recent years. In addition to fiberglass luggage, it now turns out floating docks, survival equipment, and components for the aerospace and aircraft industries, as well as testing equipment for survival gear.

Koch said the company has expanded its work force recently and he was not prepared to say whether the new plant construction would result in additional personnel.

Mexican Fete Set At Prison

Nearly 600 Mexican-American inmates at San Quentin Prison will observe Mexican Independence Day Saturday.

"Ballet Folklorico de Mexico," directed by Mariano Tapia, will be presented. Tapia, producer of ancient Aztec dances, will present his dance group in a performance of the "Ritual of the Aztec Fires."

The inmates have prepared a plaque honoring Miguel Aleman, former president of Mexico, for his contributions to the University of Mexico. Aleman has been invited to the observance.

With This Plastic Credit Card Comes New Car, Charged To You

WASHINGTON — A lot of people are being shaken up these days by receiving unsolicited plastic credit cards. In the past the consumer had the option whether to ask for credit or not. But now in the great battle for the hearts and dollars of the American customer, the banks, oil companies and hotel chains are shoving their credit cards at you whether you want them or not.

It isn't just the specter of a wife or teen-ager receiving a credit card and going berserk that bothers most American breadwinners. It's the principle of the thing, and where will it all end? What is to prevent a company that sends unsolicited credit cards to your home from sending merchandise instead?

I don't believe it is too far-fetched to see this happening in a few years.

YOU COME HOME, and there on your front lawn is a complete dining room set with table, 12 chairs and cabinet. Attached to a leg of the table is a note:

"Greetings. We are happy to inform you that we consider you an excellent credit risk and, to show our faith in you, we are leaving this dining room set on your lawn. Our credit reports on you indicate that you favor Colonial furniture, and we have chosen this particular mahogany wood which we know will go well with the rest of your furnishings. If for some reason this particular dining room set does not meet your requirements, you may return it to our warehouse within 10 days, and you will not be charged for it. If it is not returned, we will assume that we made the right choice, and we shall start billing you monthly."

OR YOU COULD wake up in the morning and find parked outside your door a new "Fire-eater" with the following letter taped to the windshield:

"Congratulations,

"You are now the owner of a new Fire-eater, the fastest, most comfortable, economical automobile on the road. Because of your high credit rating, we have taken the liberty of registering this car in your name with the State Vehicle Bureau.

"If for any reason you change your mind and decide you don't want to be one of the 'with it' people, please call this number and we will have the car taken away, at no cost to you except for the towing charges.

"Also, if you do not accept this exceptional buy, you must go down to the state Vehicle Bureau and inform them of this decision. Otherwise we will start charging you interest beginning next week."

THE FINAL indignity would be to receive a registered letter from a development company which read:

"Dear sir,

"We're happy to inform you that you are now the proud owner of a new ranch house in Paradise Acres. This extraordinary home (the deed is enclosed) has three bedrooms, two and a half baths, a playroom and completely equipped kitchen and will be ready for you to move into within two weeks.

"A check on your credit rating shows that you can easily afford this remarkable buy, and we have taken the liberty of deducting from your bank account the small down payment.

"If we don't hear from you by registered mail within the next 36 hours, we will assume that you will be joining us at Paradise Acres. On the other hand, if you return the deed, then we ask you to contact our lawyers so some equitable arrangement can be worked our for our time and inconvenience.

"Cheers."

Ross Citizens To Eye Project

The Ross Town Council Flood Control Advisory Board will examine the current plans of the Army Corps of Engineers for the Corte Madera Creek flood control project through Ross in a special meeting today.

The 5 p.m. meeting at town hall, which will include county representatives, was called to determine if Ross, which has veto power on that section of the project, has any design objections.

A general meeting, in which an in-depth study of route options may be considered if the advisory board thinks it necessary, will be held at 6 p.m. Monday at Town Hall.

Word Distorted

Through a typographical error, the Independent-Journal reported yesterday that Sausalito City Councilman Wyman Hicks criticized Murray Smith for "improper and appropriate comments" in his letter of resignation from the city's planning commission. Early Report Luncheon For Bay Crusade

Early reports of the 1969 United Bay Area Crusade in Marin will be delivered at a luncheon at noon Wednesday in the officers club of Hamilton Air Force Base.

The crusade goal is $16.5 million, needed to support 180 health and welfare agencies.

A luncheon guest will be the crusade's 1969 poster child, Mia Zambrano of Mill Valley.

Rev. Dr. Arthur C. Nitz, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, San Rafael, will give the invocation. John F. McInnis, chairman of the county board of supervisors, will represent local and county government.

Luncheon reservations may be obtained at the Marin office of the crusade, 2144 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

Switchboard Seeking Wider Matching Files

There are jobs and people with experience seeking jobs, but they don't match, he said.

There are rentals and people looking for homes, but they don't match either, he reported.

Switchboard wants to increase its referral files so the needs of more persons can be met, he said, and urged anyone who can help to call.

The community service organization, scheduled to reopen on a 24-hour basis soon, is also attempting to organize a file of groups who provide entertainment, such as bands. He said many requests for entertainers are received.

Also with an eye toward the reopening, volunteers are needed to man the phones, he reported. The only qualification is dependability, he said.

Performance To Fete Novato

The Marin Shakespeare Festival will give a special performance of "Midsummer Night's Dream" at 8 p.m. Sunday at Forest Meadows Theater in San Rafael in a salute to the City of Novato.

Novato city officials, including Mayor Harley A. McAskill and City Mgr. Charles A. Brown, are scheduled to attend. Civic leaders from throughout the county also are expected to be in the audience.

Novato residents may obtain two tickets for the price of one at Edward Stationery Store in Novato.

The festival season closes Sept. 27.

Five Marinites In Executives Art Show

Five Marin artists will participate in the third annual Executives Association art show Sept. 25 at Robert Morry Inc., 556 Mission Street, San Francisco, where their work will be displayed throughout September.

The works of photographer Thomas Moulin of San Rafael, Mrs. Fred O. Foster Sr. of Corte Madera, and Florence Spanier, Dianna Sedlemeyer and Jacci Spanier, all of San Anselmo, are entered in the show.

Course Offered

A course in medical terminology for persons working in or interested in health services will be given by registered nurse Kay Butler at the College of Marin Nursing Room 3 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Sept. 25.

fall fashions 1969

Fashion conscious Marin women are doing their own thing for fall, whether it be far-out or conservative. The casual look is big fashion news with accessories making it a fun fashion season

Independent Journal

San Rafael, California, Thursday, September 18, 1969

IT'S CALLED 'SQUIRREL'

Couturier Craven of Paris dubbed this outfit squirrel, or "ecureuil" in French. It consists of a wool coat with a brown beige and white plaid design. It is worn overmatching wool dress with white top and brown and white pleated skirt. (AP Wirephoto)

Designers Won't Play Hemline Game

By LUCIE NOEL

PARIS (AP) — The hemline game is dead in Paris. French fashion designers are just avoiding the question.

When the week of winter-fall showings started, attention was focused elsewhere — on fabrics, shapes, and special touches. The hem is where you want it.

"I'm doing both lengths," says Pierre Cardin. "Short for dresses and long, sometimes even floor length, in coats."

"Fashion," adds Yves Saint Laurent, "cannot be summed up in inches. Most young women love miniskirts. I prefer medium lengths, and full lengths because I'm partial to the elongated silhouette."

Courreges says, "Hemlines are my smallest preoccupation." He thinks dresses "are not in keeping with today's pace."

Ungaro compromises, keeping his miniskirts way up while bringing coats down to ankle length.

SAINT LAURENT'S big number is his battle jacket that stops, Eisenhower-style, at the waist. There are military pockets and touches in much of his line and many slender wrapover skirts.

Philippe Venet does battle jackets too, but drops them to a long cardigan length. Two-color cashmere hoods go with these costumes. At Saint Laurent there are hooded scarves, and gypsy-scarfed turbans at Dior that recall the twenties.

Pants dominate, coordinated for daytime or revamped and glamorized for the night. Courreges is wild about jumpsuits. Cardin goes for sexy printed designs and glitter on his pants. Louis Feraud has styled a three-piece costume. The tunic, pants, tights, or skirt can be mixed, matched or topped by a matching topcoat, contrasting only in color.

MUCH OF the emphasis is on coats. Venet has three different styles, featuring meltons, double crepes and wool velours. Ricci's stunning patchwork tweeds are great, and De Rauch is launching a shepherd's cloak, lining it with nutria. Fur trimming is everywhere.

Most of the coats have marked waistlines. Molyneux's body-hugging silhouette is belted and so is Goma's structured shape. Cardin belts his dresses at the waist.

FOR THE EVENING, Dior is dropping his necklines to dizzy depths with brocaded silver or gold tunics matched up with floating scarves.

And Dior designer Marc Bohan claims that women are "subconsciously" fed up with miniskirts. Inspired by advice from Francoise Sagan, the novelist, he has dropped day hemlines to "new look" lengths.

Cardin's evening story is inspired by the age or romantic poets. There are loose shifts, flowing ankle length capes, rich embroideries, and polished silver or steel jewelry Others are making naive baby doll dresses and that are demure and sexy at the same time.

Relax And Enjoy Fall's Fashion-Schizophrenia

Fashion-schizophrenia shows no sign of being cured for fall. So relax and prepare to enjoy it. Kooky or conservative, you'll be right doing your own thing.

The many moods of fashion will switch back and forth all fall from he-she to gypsy; from maxi to mini, from elegant velvets, brocades and crepes to the tweediest tweeds you've ever seen. And pants suits are almost as safe by now as the perennial basic black (with more pearls than ever).

Whatever you wear, though, whether it's a new maxi-coat with a matching mini or last year's favorite dress, the finishing touch should be fashion-right shoes. That means naturally rounded toes — no points and no sharply angled squares. Heels range in thickness, but no spikes.

For evening wear the great use of velvet shoes is the most exciting news. Peau de soie trimmed with brilliants will be another important dressy shoe look.

With tweeds and wools, look for a new skin to rival alligator and lizard for popularity (but not price, thank goodness): iguana. Iguana has a fine grain and soft touch, the perfect shoe for suits.

A variety of styles and colors in antiqued and textured calf lead the daytime excitement. Fall colors are taking a clue from nature: pumpkin, olive green, burgundy, rich browns, and, of course, gray and black.

WHAT YOU CAN DO WITH A SCARF

NEW YORK (AP) — Fashion with the fringe on top.

Ole Borden, the Dane who designs for Rembrandt, put the fringe on long scarves that accompanied many of the outfits at his showing. One particularly attractive one was a silk and worsted leopard print cardigan jacket and pleated skirt with matching scarf.

Both Borden and Miss Stark showed soft, supple, close-to-the-body fashions.

"CASUAL CLOTHES," said Borden, "are really what fashion is all about this fall."

His dresses clung to the bodice, then flared out in a princess style emphasized by careful seaming.

Borden put belts slightly above the waist "for that younger look" and kept sleeves long and tight or very, very short. His pants outfits were cut slim with straight legs for day and slightly flaring cuffs for evening.

Unlike most of the other designers, Borden generally steered clear of the floor-length maxi coat. He showed a bright red wool midi coat and commented, "Maxi, I think, is very clumsy."

ONE EXCEPTION to the floor-length ban was a fitted coat in an unusual patterned carpet fabric. Borden showed three designs in the carpet fabric which was brightly colored.

Miss Stark shone when it came to evening wear and to jacket and dress costumes. Silhouettes were simple, fabrics for evening were lush and belts were high.

'Natural Look' Takes More Makeup For Fall

NEW YORK (AP) — American women will be creaming, coloring, powdering and painting their faces more than ever this fall, all in pursuit of what cosmetic manufacturers somewhat inaccurately call the "natural look."

All of the major manufacturers of hair and beauty products who showed their newest ideas to fashion editors at recent designer presentations here agreed that women should try to look as though they are wearing very little makeup.

Eye shadow colors will be skin toned—browns and pinks are the favorites of most manufacturers. Lipstick colors will be slightly darker, but will not feature the flame red shades of earlier decades. Rouge—usually called blusher these days—will be pinker.

"We like the makeup-no makeup look," said a spokesman for Charles of the Ritz, whose cosmetics' colors are based on fall shades.

The spokesman said women should wear a sheer makeup base that lets the skin show through and eye shadow that makes the eyes—not the makeup—the focal point.

Kenneth, the hairdresser turned cosmetics entrepreneur, advises women to stay away from the sharp blues and greens that surrounded eyes of past seasons. He also suggests that rouge be applied high on the cheeks and spread close to the nose.

Hairstyles also will tend toward the natural look. Experts say women should avoid the teasing and spraying that takes away the sheen and beauty of the hair.

Kenneth says he likes hair "you can run your fingers through" and prefers lots of tousled curls, hanging somewhat unevenly about the head.

Chin, a stylist for Charles of the Ritz, says the gypsy look of medium length, loosely curled hair will be popular for fall. "Whatever length the hair is," he says, "it has to be very soft. Let the hair swing."

Both Chin and Helene Curtis like little braids pinned on the hair for evening.

Braless Trend Delights Girls Watchers

NEW YORK (AP) — In the name of fashion, freedom or just plain fun, some American girls are throwing away their brassieres, much to the dismay of lingerie manufacturers and the delight of girl watchers.

The unconfined look for women is "in" again, decreed by fashion designers who shape styles close to the body, by feminine militants who see the rigid, big bosom as a symbol of subservience and by members of the "now" generation who preach freedom, honesty and "do your own thing."

An Associated Press survey shows, however, the trend is far from unanimous. It is generally confined to young, slender girls in big cities. Few firms report widespread bralessness, although a Pomona, Calif., welding engineer was fired because she urged a "No-Bra Friday" at the plant where she worked.

IN SAN FRANCISCO, Donald Magnin of Joseph Magnin's, a West Coast chain of stores, said the braless trend has "taken hold here very definitely in certain segments of the population."

Asked how his store was adapting to the trend, he said, "We're catering to it to the degree that we've almost abandoned our traditional bra business—or should I say it's abandoned us."

The manager of a Seattle store catering to young people said 25 to 30 per cent of her customers have given up wearing bras. "It looks good and it's a great natural feeling," she said.

Heidi Obzina, a Seattle saleswoman, said, "I stopped wearing bras because they were so uncomfortable. I was the flattest person and since I stopped wearing a bra I've been growing. My boyfriend is amazed."

Gloria Melcher, assistant fashion editor of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, said, "I'm absolutely opposed to them (bras). I think they're the most uncomfortable and unnatural thing to wear. I don't wear one."

Actress Dana Wynter said the braless trend was "marvelous." She added, "Bras are a menace . . . They cramp the muscles and make a woman look stuffed."

CALIFORNIA DESIGNER Rudi Gernreich, the man who introduced the topless bathing suit five years ago, said of the trend, "It's an attitude. Young people want honesty. They don't have hang-ups with caricatures of reality."

The suggestion of a ban-the-bra trend evoked a ho-hum reaction overseas.

Lingerie stores in Paris said they were selling just as many bras as ever this summer, although they were sheerer. In London, a spokesman for Marks and Spencer, a department store, said there was less "bra-consciousness," but no decline in sales.

British designer Mary Quant —considered the mother of the miniskirt—said, "Quite a few girls don't wear them, whereas before, no one would think of going without one."

MANY WOMEN have traded their bras for body stockings, shaped slips or even bosom makeup.

"We emphasize the flat chested look," said Neiman-Marcus buyer Jan Bryan in Dallas, "but with a bra-slip or body stocking."

"We're not selling less bras, but we're selling softer ones," said a spokesman for Henri Bendels, a New York department store known for its avant garde clothes.

A NUMBER of women, of course, still seek the security and support of bras. Their reasons are ones of practicality, not morality.

"Most figures need help," said the fashion designer of Rich's department store in Atlanta.

PLUM RIGHT

Knits, knits, knits—who could live without them nearly as well? Here Berkshire does the two-piece suit in blue and plum colors that are right for the autumn season. At Marin Smart Shop, San Rafael.

About Hemlines

It seems to be a "do your own thing" with hemlines come fall and winter, with both American and European fashion capitals endorsing the short, the mid and the long lengths. One thing certain: A lot of those maxi, ankle-length coats will be seen. They promise to be an international hit.

Men's Sportscoats Brighter, Livelier

It hardly seems possible, but the new colors are more vibrant and alive than ever. Electric blues, reds and greens brighten up the casual life, and tweeds also come on strong, in brown and green, blue and gray, salt and pepper, reports the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear.

For the slacks to go with the sportcoats, the big news is leg styling, and the selection is wide, including straight, stovepipe or flared.

Elephantine bells (they extend 27-28 inches) with two and three-quarter inch cuffs are beamed to the trendsetters.

Stripes — wide track, thin, multi or Roman — mark sportcoats. Other bold patterns include windowpane plaids and houndstooth checks.

Shape is the main theme in sportcoat styling. There are definitely shaped models with deep center vents, suppressed waists and square shoulders.

Traditional natural-shoulder styles also feature various degrees of shape.

Double-breasted blazers blaze the way to fall fashion. And as long as there are solid blazers, there'll be patterened slacks — this season, in checks, plaids and windowpanes.

I'M ALWAYS ON TIME
. . . HOW ABOUT YOU?

Leave it to the gals. For instance, Switzerland's Eterna•Matic pocket watch for golfers, the "Golfer" is the only self-wind pocket watch in the world. What did the gals do but put it on a chain and wear it as a pendant! Creates conversation because it has a "see through" back, which reveals the intricate works in motion. However, whether it's carried by a golfer in his pocket or worn on a pretty young lady's neck, the Eterna•Matic Golfer is "Fast Beat" accurate and has a ball bearing rotor for total efficiency and long life. Price for the Eterna Golfer starts at $115.00.

OH MY, WHAT TO WEAR?

The happy problem of too many choices may face the girl shopping for her fall and winter shoes, but whatever she chooses it's sure to feature straps. The variety: small, large, square or rectangular buckles; varied heel shapes; predominence of patent, both brown and black. Fall Emphasizes Soft, Sleek Look

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fashion goes soft for fall.

Suits look softer, shaped to the figure, with mobile skirts, pleated, cut on the bias, or gathered. Jackets are long soft cardigan shapes or stretched down and belted like a pullover. Even the ubiquitous pantsuits are sleeker looking, with narrowed legs.

Miss Trigere believes also that women want some ultra-feminine clothes to balance off the overwhelming trend to trousers.

She does some of the softest for late day and evening, in laces and slick satins ("I got bored with brocades and only make a few for the diehards"), with a revival of the revealing black cocktail dresses worn with ropes and ropes of pearls, with fur scarves over black laces, and with some of her satins a mass of ruffles from collar to hem.

IT'S THE ALL-GIRL look at Branell too. A Branell beauty for evening has a brown velvet bodice, white satin puffed sleeves, and a sweepingly full skirt repeating the satin of the sleeves.

The Branell collection is lavish with fur —ranch mink bordering the neck and front of a brown brocade coat and matching dress, amber fox forming a hem and boa of a tweed costume, red fox coupled with cognac cashmere.

When it comes to the full-gig formal, few designers can top the likes of Ferdinando Sarmi. His evening story is told in chiffons and laces, in chiffons over lames, in glittering velvets, and painted chiffon laces. There are billowing skirts by the dozen for the woman who wants to make a grand entrance in a Sarmi.

Another designer, Chester Weinberg, liked the jewel tones for evening in many of his costumes—malachite, amethyst and crystal. Weinberg also did jumpsuits in chiffon prints with below-the-hip jackets trimmed with jewels. His "stocking" shoes were in silver metallics. And his printed velvet coats, some of them lined in mink, boasted of being water repellent. Keeps the mink dry.

ONE REBEL against the softened-up look is designer Jacques Tiffeau. His collection for Tiffeau & Busch featured dozens of trousers costumes, some of them suits with pants of Bermuda shorts length, others reaching to the ankle or floor. He stressed the cossack coat, floor length, and nudity for evening in such as his gunmetal leather hipster pants, bra tops and midriffs bare except for thong lacings.

And at Tiffeau's some of the scarves, which nearly everyone is doing for fall, wrapped the throat and fell to the floor on both daytime dresses and the long, maxi coats.

SPATS ARE BACK

For the woman who believes that tailoring—big again this season—and femininity go hand in hand. Naturalizer has designed the spat-pump. In two tones of patent and calf, the shoe is set off neatly with a gold bar. Featured at Chapman's Shoes in San Rafael and Novato.

Remedial Grooming Now Costs $100 In Tristan's Exclusive Barber Shop

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —A haircut has gone up to $100—that's right, $100—in what has to be the world's most exclusive "barber shop."

That's the initial cost of a haircut from Tristan, hair stylist to many top film and television actors, film and TV executives. Subsequent visits after the first job cost a mere $35.

Tristan recently boosted his prices from $75 and $25 because he had too many customers.

He is not, of course, simply a barber, but a hair stylist. He does not give haircuts—he performs what he calls remedial grooming. The first visit is a consultation. Subsequent visits are for the purpose of adjustments to the hair style.

"With him," said one happy customer, "a haircut is an emotional experience."

Actually, he doesn't call his customers customers. "At these prices," he says goodnaturedly, "I have to call them clients."

Tristan is not about to give away any trade secrets but says he cuts hair according to the natural way it falls, generally speaking, and twists the hair with a comb to get the desired effect.

"The hair should have a look of studied carelessness," he says. "A little disheveled ... that is most attractive to women."

Other clients whose pictures appear in a handy album include Fabian, recently given a treatment for a role as the gangster Pretty Boy Floyd; Jim Drury of "The Virginian" fame; Rock Hudson; Marty Milner; Frank Gorshin; Edd Byrnes.

Tristan is a medium sized man of slender build with blond hair of his own manufacture—(he wears a hairpiece). He does not wear barber's garb. He may have on a pair of white whipcord slacks, yellow shirt and tie to match.

STYLINGS FOR THE 'IN-CROWD'

Men's Shirts Are Contour, Colorful

NEW YORK (UPI)—The bodyline shirt with contour seams, has made itself a classic in the fall shirts now reaching the stores. The new developments are stripes superimposed on the deep tones of the past few seasons, two new types of collars and longer cuffs.

Notable among the collar styles is the long, long point, four inches in many cases. The other in favor by most manufacturers is the very high rising and very spread collar, some with points nearly four inches long.

French cuffs are still very much in, and some are curved or scalloped or streamlined. But in line with a "western look" for town that shows up in some shirts the barrel cuff with two or even three buttons is making an appearance.

One shirt by Bill Blass with very widespread collar showed a brown-black stripe against a blue-white striped background for what has become known in clothing circles as the Westchester Mafia look.

OLEG CASSINI showed a tartan plaid in dark tones and a spectacular print. Ralph Lauren went dark in one line with an ancient madder print. John Weitz showed windowpanes and gingham checks of all sizes, including big, and some country plaids.

Bill Miller, who designs under the Village Squire label, did some wild things with stripes on his bodyline shirts. The vertical panel of the contour styling was in ⅛ vertical stripes; the side panels were in thin horizontal stripes of the same color. He also showed a semi-seethrough fall shirt in satin stripes and a combination sport-dress shirt with a tab under the collar you can loop a scarf over.

Cardin showed very bold stripes—such as orange on black—in a long pointed collar. Another was a silk with long collar points, architectural seaming and in multi-stripes which formed a wide stripe.

Hathaway used pajama stripes for one group of shirtings made with a pointed collar that can be worn with or without a pin. One particularly handsome group of dark tone English club stripings by J. P. Stevens combined such colors as a dark gray-blue background with rust stripes intermingled with white framed in red and green.

THE LANVIN collection included a set of silky looking cotton with tiny white pindots and was with a widespread collar, for a more informal "Lanvin after dark" approach. One color was champagne with white dots, another was pale blue with white. They were also $22.50.

Gant, known for years as a conservative button-down bastion, goes wild in some of its stripes with wide spread collars. There was what looked like mattress ticking—red and blue stripe clusters on white. A chambray with widely spaced clusters of colored pin stripes forming big stripes, and a "Joseph's coat" shirt made of many tiny stripes—red, blue, gray, yellow and giving an overall deeptoned effect.

Van Heusen showed very strong colors with bold light stripes, or small stripe clusters that look like one. Some combinations included pale blue with olive and pale green with rust. Some of the groups had color-coordinated ties for the sometimes difficult stripe picture. Some cuffs were very long with three buttons.

SOME OF the more spectacular shirts were at Frejere. A combination work-sport body shirt was in pin striped voile with huge spread collar. There was a matching shirt and tie combination in long spread collars and such color combinations as lavender on deep lavender. A deeptone white-striped chambray had white collars and cuffs; one had a matching white tie. Frejere also showed a new and very high English tab collar.

The newest thing at Eagle were the new, long point collars. There was some softening of the deep tones and lots of stripes.

Communal Store Dressing Rooms Take Stylish Undies

By JANE ROGERS
London Express Service

LONDON — Now that most of the London stores have switched over to communal dressing rooms for trying on clothes, buying a dress can be quite an edifying experience.

Quite apart from your own embarrassment in standing there in your underpinnings under the curious gaze of the other shoppers there's the added curiosity value, from your own point of view, in seeing just what women do wear under their outer clothes.

Underwear, and foundation garments in particular, have become so fashion-conscious and colorful now that the average girl looks for all the world as though she is wearing a bikini under her dolly dress.

Matching bra and pants sets are available in all the stores and a lot of girls do, in fact, wear them on the beach because they say that the cut of a proper bra is usually better than the kind you get on a bathing suit.

NOW COMES the ultimate in non-underwear — the micro-mini pants which are little larger than a stripper's G-string and are designed mainly for wear under tights but certainly not on the beach.

The bra-topped slip, which made dressing so much quicker, is now firmly established in most women's wardrobes and there's even a new ultrashort version to wear under a tunic top and over trousers.

Now the swimwear manufacturers have pinched the bra-slip and are making beach sundresses with built-in bosoms (and very curious they look, too, hanging on the rails). They're a brilliant idea for the girl who needs a little help with her contours and having the bra built-in makes it one thing less to struggle out of when you want to change into your swimsuit.

The fashion originated in Australia at surfers paradise, has now percolated to Europe, and most of these dresses on sale in London come from the south of France.

BUT WHAT about the girl who needs a little help with her figure? Is she being left behind in the fashion race? The answer is very definitely no, though heavy boning and thick elastic are out. The same job can be done now with lightweight lycra which feels prettier to wear, comes in colors and prints rather than just plain shades, and can be matched up to petticoats and bra tops.

If you have a bulge round the derriere, or over-large thighs there are two ways of coping with the problem — you can squeeze yourself into a tight long-legged pantie-girdle, or wear something lighter and make up your mind to diet.

The trouble with any sort of heavy foundation is that the extra you has to be squeezed somewhere, and you'll only end up with a bulge either above or below the girdle itself. So more and more people are wearing a lightweight foundation that just holds them in nicely, and planning to do something about their weight.

NEW NOW FOR the girl who does want control of some sort are pretty pantie-girdles that can be worn over tights or with stockings, and which comes with two sorts of bras, the kind that have a little help in the form of padding, and other variety which are seamed to give you maximum support. Both come with matching slips and both would make you feel one up on the others in those communal changing rooms.

Men Are Finding Gold In New Knitted Fabric

What women discovered years ago men are just finding out now. The knit revolution is on in men's wear, and it's made that facet of fashion the fastest growing and the most exciting.

Knit shirts may not make news, but knit clothing does and that's where the new fabrics are wielding the most influence. Designers from all over the world have felt the influence knits are exerting on fashion. A new freedom has opened up both for the designer and the wearer.

Firms long in the men's woven fabric business have opened an entire new division just to produce knitted fabrics for men's clothing. Twills, plaids, seersuckers, mini-houndstooths, coordinated patterns, almost any type of fabrication can be created from the blends of polyesters being used. The ease of wearability, freedom of movement and low care requirements of the new knits prompted one producer to label them "Go Free" knits.

Some of the most exciting innovations in knit clothing styling are currently being imported from England and Scandinavia. London's Tom Gilby has done away with the conventional suit and designed a series of garments that can be worn as suits, or separately as sportswear.

The easy way the knits fit the body makes his cardigans and pullovers elegant in their simplicity. He even carries his casually tailored theme into a sleek jumpsuit, teamed to a wrapped bathrobe-like top coat.

All the designers agree, knits have revolutionized men's wear with comfort, style and freedom. Once men catch on to these assets they will demand them in all their clothing.

It's Up, It's Down—Dior Wows Press With Hemlines

PARIS (UPI) — Dior dropped the hemline drastically and then raised it higher than before. Everybody cheered.

Fashion writers and celebrities sat in respectful, studious silence as Dior's designer Marc Bohan sent one after another of his models in long coats, suits and dresses that stopped just 14 inches from the floor.

It was an interesting look — very long, very straight, usually with a zipper straight up the front of the skirt to let the wearer leave a slit as high as she liked. But with each successive model, the faces around the grey and cream salon got longer and longer.

Suddenly, the first of what Bohan calls "very, very short skirts" flipped through the salon with a crisp swish of pleats. Its hemline stopped five inches above the top of the knee.

SOMEONE BREATHED a deep sigh of relief and began to applaud madly. Nearly everyone in the celebrity-studded main salon joined in, cheering as well as clapping.

They even gave another welcoming round of applause to the second short skirted suit, then settled back to enjoy one after another of Bohan's smart little coats, suits and dresses with what he resolutely refuses to call "mini-skirts."

THERE WERE MORE long, long skirts in the evening collection, but they seemed to upset no one. In fact, many of those who welcomed the short daytime hemline so enthusiastically oohed and aahed over the long look for evening.

Bohan's best "new length" dresses for evening were even longer than his calf-covering daytime ones. They stop just short of the ankle and were worn over flowing jersey trousers that brushed the floor. The effect was a long, soft, flattering column.

The entire collection had a strange mixture of yesteryear and tomorrow, the low unemphasized waist of the 1920s in a streamlined coat closed with a flexible, hidden zipper.

SKETCHED FOR STYLE

The man of today demands a suit with styling and quality built in, such as this Hickey-Freeman hand-customed version. The slightly broadened shoulders and trim lines are set off by the medium-wide tie. At Cazassa's in San Rafael.

Skirts As Well As Pantsuits Are Popular With Teen-Agers

Ever since the swinger, summer's flippy little skirt, proved to the young set that skirts as well as pants can make with-it fashion news, long-or-short pants outfits have been getting strong competition from a flurry of skirts, jumpers and suspender skirts. First signs indicate that fall fashions for both juniors and teens will carry on the trend to more skirts and more kinds of skirts, with ,of course, their appropriate toppings of blouses, sweaters, vests ,jackets.

Pants and jumpsuits continue as components of at-home and sports outfits, but the complete pants outfit intended for street or dress wear usually offers the option of a coordinated skirt, or a matching tunic which can also become a dress.

The return of the skirt to separates-fashion importance is easily accounted for by a bright variety of skirt shapes. There's the break-away silhouette, with pleats or flares starting low on the hips — a style made to be topped by long-line sweaters or blouses, of which there are many. Pleats of every kind, flares, dirndls ,side wraps, kilts put skirts in motion, while still another kind of motion comes from slim but slithery skirts that move with the body .

Above skirts and pants, or under jumpers and suspender skirts, sweaters and blouses have their own new ideas. More attention to sleeves is one of them, and a doubling up of sweaters and blouses is another.

THE SLEEVELESS sweater with a deep V-neck — more than a vest — goes over the blouse with sleeves cut to fit snugly on square but skinny shoulders, and the sleeves show new fullness.

Long, stretched-out sweaters have a slither all their own, and other sweaters turn into ponchos, in the jacquard and argyle patterns that distinguish young separates.

Even the shirt-look shirt has new detailing this season, while the body shirt becomes still more feminine in shape and detail. Long shirts turn into tunics.

Jackets to complete the picture are equally varied — cowgirl, safari, cape, blouson, double-breasted and flared, to mention just a few of the styles.

Dresses, too, are bidding for their place in young wardrobes. The shirtdress, interpreted in so many ways that it's sometimes unrecognizable as a shirtdress, carries on into fall.

A NEWER contender is the sweater dress, sometimes simply a finely-knit sweater elongated —but not too elongated — to dress length, and sometimed ribbed and cabled, colorfully trimmed and detailed.

In the sweater-dress category is the easy knit dress which flows into slim, even slinky lines.

The coatdress, offering a combination of casual comfort with a dressed-up look, seems due to appeal to the busy young set.

BOTH DRESSES and separates for young living have a lot going for them, thanks to a wealth of lively, even slightly zany, ideas.

There are the colorful prints and print-and-solid combinations of the gypsy look, often accessorizes with scarves, beads and boleros. With a gypsy or peasant look, too, are crazy-quilt combinations of patchwork.

Built-in sashes for blouses and fluttering fringes for skirts and jackets are the kind of details that make a young difference.

NEW MATERIALS contribute to the liveliness — vinyls, for instance, and synthetic piles, which copy animal skins and pelts or create their own looks.

Fur, fluffy or flat, heaps its elegance on young coats, casual or dressy, while fun-fur coats gain momentum.

The cloth coat, however, more than holds its own, especially when it features a scarfed neckline. The ultra-long scarf, in a matching or contrasting fabric and color, winds its way to the neckline of many a wrappy or belted young coat.

Accessories are the signature of the young fashion look for fall there are belts, berets, body jewelry of the chain variety, knee socks and patterned or opaque panty-hose, cut-out shorties and other gloves and handbags galore, to add it all up.

Boots, mocs, sandals are among footwear choices.

Pleats Give New Look To Skirts

A rash of happy, swinging pleats gives skirts a new look. Knife pleats and trumpet-flare pleats sewn down from waist to hipline accommodate long, skinny belted sweaters.

With textured, tweedy, ribbed or flat knit surfaces, sweaters have a long, skinny French-girl look. They're to be worn in and out, with a bold leather or dangling chain belt.

Look For Fur Shoes, Evening Boots

NEW YORK (UPI)—For the woman who has everything else, there now are fur shoes.

They're the outgrowth of the look of total opulence in all fashions for fall, reports the National Footwear Institute. With all the jewels, the long ropes of pearls, the expensive embroideries on evening wear, the lavishness of mink, sable, ermine and silver fox, it was only natural that designers should add footnotes of fur, sometimes fake, sometimes real.

Palter de Liso combines cheetah with patent. Stanley Philipson trains zebra around sculptured heels of slippers. David Evins does a cossack-type boot with fake Persian lamb cuff. Erica does a shoe-boot with a cuff of genuine hair seal. Fur adds to the cost of course; most of the fur shoes go from $50 and up.

When footwear designers aren't befurring, they're reviving. All of feminine fashions include some harkening to the 1920's, the '30's, the '40's.

In shoes, this means the return of the platform soles, wedgies, ankle straps, sling backs, open toes, and the return of vinyl as part of the whole "see through" scheme. Look for heels to go higher again, and with it emphasis on the broader toe.

Look for two and one-half inches in afternoon or evening shoes. In some city sandals, heels go up to three inches, thickened and widened from the spike of old. But if you insist on hanging on to the lower, chunky stacked (several layers of leather) heel continues too.

WITH PANTS rampant in all fashion collections for fall, watch for the boot to take its place for day or evening. For daytime, the pants shoes show high lines, with the tongues even higher, sometimes curling over, or fringed, buckled or chained.

Especially for pants, or sturdy country clothes, extension soles are plentiful. So are brogues and Western stitching. The classic spectator now comes with a platform sole.

Some of these spectators are fur and kid combinations.

For evening, fabrics for shoes match the opulence of dress or pants fabrics—the brocades, paisleys, velvets, and tapestries. In shoes, exotic materials include elephant hide, ostrich, cobra, and other reptiles, alligator, leathers antiqued, emobossed or patent. A new "wet" or shiny look finishes many patents.

THE MOST important color family for fall is brown, reports the Designer Shoe Guild, made up of some 15 leading stylists in footwear. Brown tones range from camel and beige on to the deepst tones. The burgundy and wine tones follow the color trend in other fashions.

Also new for fall: "His" and "Hers" shoes, done in glovey leathers with wing tips or buckles, chains, tassels or hefty hardware.

Boys Like Comfortable, Stay-Up Togs

NEW YORK (UPI)—Leda Sanford is fashion director of Teens' and Boys' Outfitter, a trade publication, and in a recent issue she summed up the junior-juvenile group as boys who "like clothes that feel good, pants that stay up and sweaters that don't itch."

She also reports that teen-agers tend to ignore the designs of famous name fashion designers and that their favorite fall items are an outgrowth of a look that was born in army-navy stores, led kids to dig up old war uniforms and antique coats and end up with something she calls "Affluent poor boy."

With that background behind us, we turn to the Boys' and Young Men's Apparel Manufacturers Association (BAMA) which is a guiding light for the hundreds of buyers who descend on New York twice a year and who are responsible for local stores.

The BAMA fall showings were back in March, presented in the form of an easy to take musical show which exhibited the highlights of the following season. And if some facts of the show puzzle the buyers they then turn to Miss Sanford who straightens them out.

SOME HIGHLIGHTS of the BAMA presentation:

Clothing: Boys' clothes manufacturers have borrowed "shape" from men's clothing and the result is a non-gimmicky bodyline in single or double-breasted. Double-breasted, six-button Edwardians turned out to be the most popular style. The British influence was heavy in both texture and style; best colors were browns, gold and green in that order in sports coats. Suits were much more toned down, blazers were in six or eight buttons and more shaped.

PANTS: THE emphasis was on bell bottoms and flair but with some attention to the waist—self belts and novelty buckles. Synthetics were in a wide new range of colors, dress slacks are in tweeds and flannels but crepe weaves are new. Jeans are updated with slubbed, twill and hopsack looks. In corduroy the trend is toward narrow ribs and in such patterns as nailheads, herringbones and wavy stripes.

SHIRTS: The newest colors in dress shirts are deep tones softened with white as in chambrays. Wardrobes are built around broadcloth with emphasis on color with color stripings. Thre are new Edwardian influenced collars (higher and wider) and considerably more body shaping.

KNITS: Double knits are beginning to make an appearance in boy's wear. Texture knits, including honeycombs, raised diamond patterns and needle point jacguards are new and some brushed effects are shown in ribs and argyles, the colors bright and heathery. Some knits appear in outerwear, thanks to laminating. Knit shirts show all the traits of the fashionable cut and sewn shirts—spread collars, ruffles tees. Sweaters use fishermen's heavy knits in heather colors, and Scandinavian jacguard patterns show up in heavy outdoor sweaters.

AND SOME of the outerwear highlights as noted by Miss Sanford: A bush jacket in pile lined corduroy, a belted suede Norfolk jacket, a corduroy Norfolk jacket with pile lining, tartan slacks, a shaped suede Edwardian coat, a fringed suede jacket in true western styling, worn with a cowboy hat; an Edwardian coat in orange cotton-suede pony cloth; a double-breasted coat in a rabbit fur and a military-looking overcoat which is long, shaped and worn with chain mail epaulets and a Persian lamb cossack hat.

And for the teen-agers there is a unisex look which included flowered pants for boys and girls, bright printed sports shirts for both boys and girls and star spangled shirts worn with striped pants. Both sexes wore long necklaces.

PRINTS, PLEATS AND A TUNIC

This trio of fashionables makes a popular combo for fall and winter in a red, green and gold acetate. The swinging skirt has permanent pleats. Designed by Mr. Robert, who happens to be a Belvedere resident, the dress right for Marin and city-going. Available at Glamour Alley in San Anselmo.

Your fall fashion route has a new direction. Curved. Swerved. Strapped. Pretty to pair with jaunty little jumpers that wrap around, swing low on long torsos, flip up pleats. Fashion's gone softer and you're all girl again. Aren't you glad?

Pierre Balmain Designs For Comfort, Top Income Bracket

By LUCIE NOEL

PARIS (AP) — Pierre Balmain believes in comfortable, youthful clothes and shows no interest in abstract playing around.

Thus, his clothes this year are feminine, chic and simple — and lavish when the mood is a gala one. Hemlines are around the kneecaps and the silhouettes slender for the day and trapeze for the evening.

Balmain exploits the poncho. He does it in plaid organza and trims it with clipped glycerined ostrich for evening and shows it in black velvet, bound in black wool, in khaki colored wool for travel, and in a mock fireman's outfit in red vinyl, worn over a little country dress with a "caviar" tweed top, and black skirt. Double breasted buttoning is found on poncho fronts.

BEAUTIFULLY TAILORED little reefers appear in plaid blanket woolen, in organza, and in chicken feathers for different hours of the day.

Balmain has quantities of good coat and dress ensembles. Many coats are belted at the hipline while others have only a front belt. A camel hair coat, slim and simple, goes over a gray wool dress tabbed and belted in a camel hair band. Metal trimmed buttoned tabs at the belt line do double duty as loops and decor. Small nutria collars and cuffs trim many coats and some suits. Certain suit jackets are cropped at the hiplines. Their skirts have a wide flared godet box pleat.

For after dark, jumpsuits are in black velvet, their pagoda sleeves trimmed in feathers. Balmain tried out a new technique, playing with a circle, folding it back onto itself to form a shaped skirt or cape.

Several stylized, wearable and beautiful evening gowns, fit for all his royal customers, have restrained or lavish jeweled embroidery mostly at the neck or the entire top.

EKTOR, TALENTED Brazilian designer, presented his second showing since he founded his Paris premises. He calls it "Winter Sunshine" and his clothes are geared to comfort but always feminine.

He has "paid particular attention to the beautiful new fabrics which exclude gimmicks of any kind."

ROGER VIVIER, purveyor of the most elegant footwear to the Paris designer collections, always has his own show. This season, he believes "the ankle buttoned or laced booties are more elegant than thigh high topboots."

He shows them in great variety of leathers, fabric, corfam, and other media, with stress on precious alligator, fine calf and a new rustic tanning for crocodile skins.

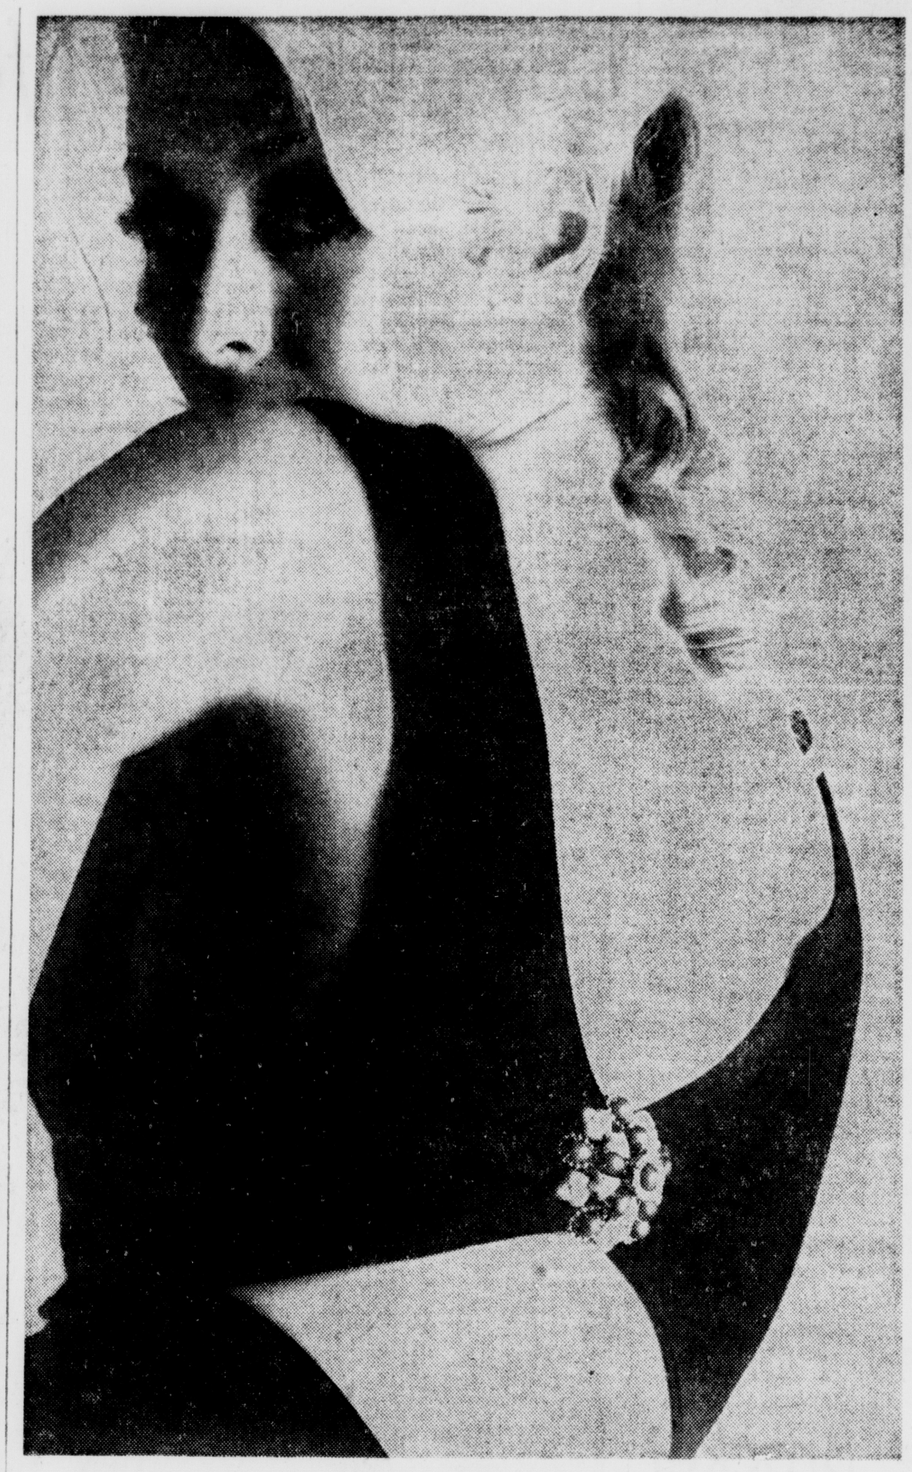
YOUNG LOOK OF TODAY

The A-line shirt dress continues as big fashion news into fall and winter, teamed here with flare pants that are musts in a teen wardrobe. The dress, in red or navy, is Zefran-bonded knit with novelty belt and top stitch trim. At McKenzie's in San Rafael and Northgate Fashion Mall.



BACK IN STYLE

The great, chunky pins give a gleaming look to the bare-back fashions that plunge on those sophisticated little evening dresses for fall and winter occasions. They may be cultured pearls, colorful stones, gold, platinum or fiery diamonds. They're ultra-in for after five. At Granat Bros., Northgate Fashion Mall.

GREAT PRETENDER

Femininity Makes It Back To Style In A New Ladylike Trend In Leather

Femininity is back in fashion, and leather apparel makes comment on it in a fall collection that reflects lady-like gentility in the styles as well at the softer touch and lighter weight of the new leathers.

Sheer animal magnetism abounds in leather suits, coats, dresses and separates.

Newest textures and finishes include fine suedes, split cowhide, grained and embossed leathers and very new "glow" and antique-finished leathers, notes Leather Industries of America.

A CLOSETFUL of coat looks exists in leather, from silky-soft suede and supple grained leather dress coats trimmed with fur, to slim, belted antiqued leather casuals.

Still other coats include handsome wraparounds, body-shaping Edwardian types and heavily-hardwared sport coats.

In the realm of the leather suit are ensembled coordinating jackets, skirts, vests, pants.

This fall's suit story stars the pantsuit, which ranges from the grained and antiquey leathers to suede, brushed and printed leathers and comes in casual cut, at-home mood or for evenings out.

DRESSIER VERSIONS of the leather pantsuit often take trimmings of jeweling or metallics. And whether the style is casual or dressy, the pants leg is usually flared, though not to extremes.

Creamy-textured leather dresses show up in several silhouettes: A-line, belted shift, side-wrap, blouson. Jumper dresses, worn with or without blouses, continue in favor.

For after-dark festivities, leather dresses may wear a bib of gems, glittering passementerie or feathers. For pure drama the dress is frequently teamed with a jacket or coat matching in leather and ornamentation.

WITH PRINCESS STYLING

With autumn nearly as popular a time for a wedding as spring, the bride takes on the look of a princess in this belted silhouette gown of white peau de soie. The dramatic trumpet sleeves of guipure lace create the interest. From the bridal department at the Emporium, Northgate Fashion Mall.

SPORTY IS THE WORD

Sparkplug of the autumn scene is the combination of fly-away vest and kicky sash tie. The colors are burgundy and white and the material wool, all styled with the look of now. Available at The Rag Doll, San Rafael.

Evening Bags Of Varied Prettiness

For after dark, designers have turned out a varied array of leather evening bags. Some are truly mini in size, while others, like daytime bags, have gained space.

Even the space-rich styles have been artfully designed to conceal, in outer appearance, the capacity within.

Carry-alls to accompany all-out feminine finery range in style from leather minaudieres to clutch or handles styles. Some are striped in gold for glamour.

Then there are elegant envelopes with jeweled borders or handles, and petite vanities with gold-embossed or gem-encrusted lids.

Givenchy Sets The Metal Standard In Fall Elegance

By LUCIE NOEL

PARIS (AP) — Givenchy struck his usual standard of elegance at his fall and winter fashion showing—the gold standard, with copper, steel and silver thrown in, even on his calf-length group.

The calf-length hemlines in slender models are shown for every hour. They look good and evoke a pre-World War I atmosphere, stripped of clutter. Belts on his coats, which drew particular applause, are at the natural waistline, thus elongating the silhouette. For coat materials he used black wool for city wear, white jersey for sports with its own scarf, gold brocade for evening, many times in fur and two in melon or coffee leather.

Givenchy has lots of fun with fur. He dyes it bright colors and tailors it smoothly like fabric. In orange, geranium red, Nile green, coffee, brown, navy, green, coral pink and all the melon shades.

DEPENDING ON hour and occasion, simple long-sleeved dresses with fine draped neck or belted shirtwaist lines are matched in color. Broadtail, lamb, and even mink show in a wide orange border hemline.

Givenchy numbers many chic matrons among his clientele. For them he makes terribly chic understated cocktail-through-dinner dresses. Several black ones have a crossover surplice panel stiffened and squared off at the side. Others are on the softly draped sheath order, with diamond pointed kerchiefs, fishtail hemlines, short shawls, and correspondingly shaped overdresses or panels.

The best in the slinky crepe evening group is in white with a shrug bolero trimmed in black velvet water lilies. Chains of pearl beads and mock diamond pendants enhance the millionaire look. Shoes sometimes match pastel dresses.

FOR SPORTS, pants suits are all one color matching the fingertip bearskin, fox, or sable topcoat. Givenchy also does the Lacoste shirt tunic-length, in white, belts it in brown matching the pants. A brown pants suit has a generously draped hood and is worn with a three-quarter sable edge-to-edge coat.

In the modern art mood, Givenchy does a half of a dress. On one side, its off shoulder and the opposite side is a batwing sleeve and cutaway section at the side of the waist. In pink crepe, he pays homage to Empress Josephine's coronation gown in the David painting in the Louvre.

Honeycombed smocking appears in long sleeved wool jersey for daytime and for cocktails in the bodice of a silk dress. Some waffled crepe, and a new carpet brush type of coating is used in a coat and a navy suit. He prefers plain de luxe fabrics in plain colors, with focus on line and technique.

ATTRACTIVE FOR FALL

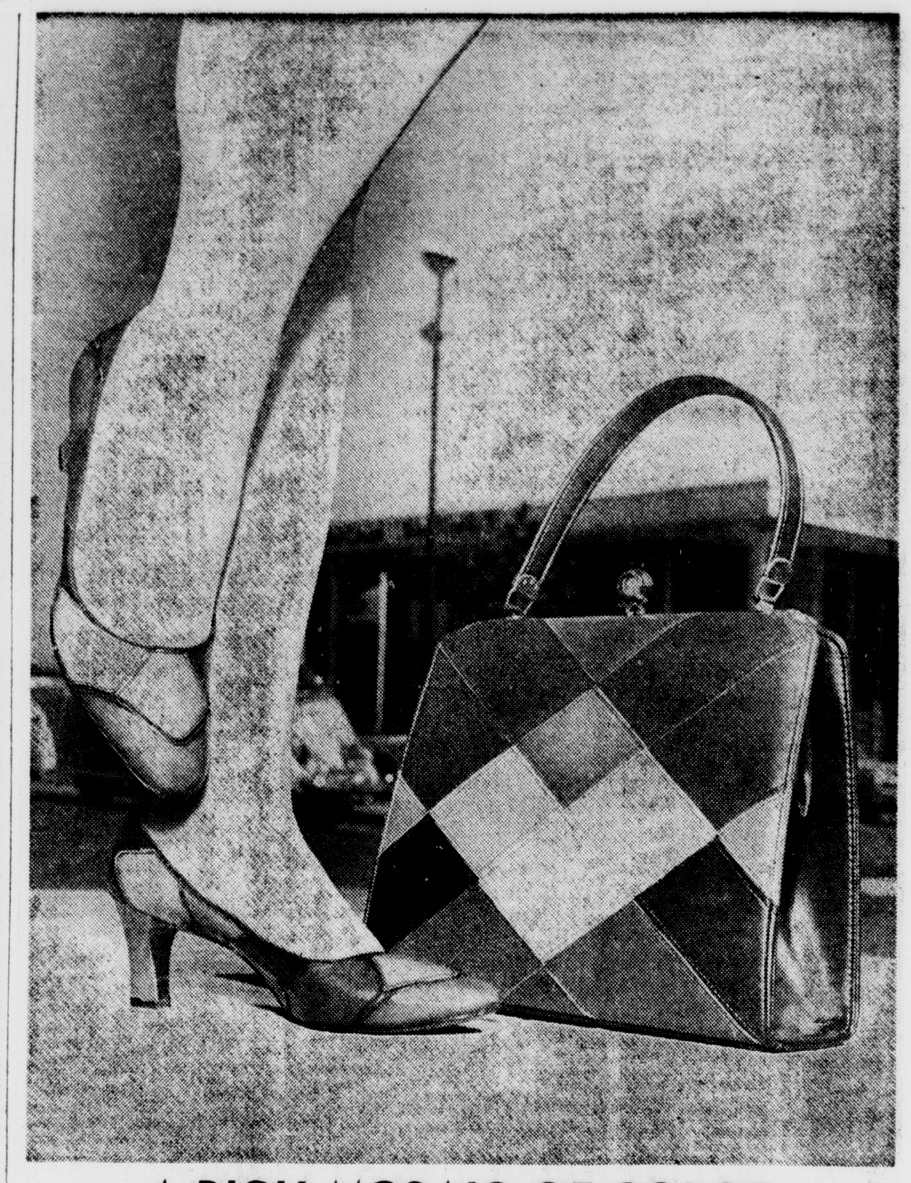
BELTED AND WINTER WARM

Troy Crawford shows a matching corduroy belted coat and pants outfit made from a pattern and fabric from the House of Fabrics in San Rafael. The double-breasted style is popular for fall and winter coats and jackets.



A RICH MOSAIC OF COLOR

Shoes and handbag bring the East India mosaic influence to fashion, with leather pumps crafted in an intricate pattern of rich deep fall color. The combination comes in brown-bronze, soft taupe and green, navy and ruby red. They're at Shoeland, Northgate Plaza.

FRESH, EAGER STYLING

Isadora Scarf Is Fall Drama

The Isadora Duncan scarf and all its variations have an impact on today from the art deco era. The long, long, super-long scarf — as long as six feet — is the accessory of versatility for fall.

These scarves are patterned in plaids, herringbones, checks, stripes, triangles and other geometrics. They top a hairdo, tie a waist or a hipline, drape a shoulder or wrap a neckline.

As scarf or muffler, this accessory contributes to fashion's layered look.

In addition to the fabric versions, scarves gain status in fur — fox or mink, for example. Mink and leather combine for other scarves.

In fluffy lynx or geometric-patterned mink, scarves extend to 10-foot lengths.

Daytime gloves arrive in kid, in short to medium lengths. The new touch in evening gloves brings jewel trim at the wrist — just enough to spark a bit of elegance and refinery.

Other gloves focus on the pantsuit look in hand-stitched shorties with contrasting stitching on unlined leather.

Many Rings

How the teen-age girl feels about rings is obvious: several on a finger for every finger of the hand is her stand. Smaller ring designs make this idea easier to carry off with polish.

Glorify Self For Harem Look

By JANE ROGERS
London Express Service

LONDON — Get out the slave bangles, girls, the chains and the long baggy trousers, the harem look is in. Paris couturier-Louis Feraud is showing a special group of Harem clothes, inspired by the new film "Justine" which will be premiered in October, and starring Anouk Aimee.

Feraud has put the clothes into his ready-to-wear line because he believes that all women, not just the idle rich, should relax in something exotic.

"Women should take 10 minutes a day to glorify and perfume themselves to greet their husbands in the evening" says Feraud. "Just like Sheharazade."

THOSE OF US who hold down a job and have to dash home to do the washing up may find it a little difficult to get into the mood, and I can't help wondering how Mrs. Feraud, alias Mia Fonssagraves the fashion designer, manages to find time to "glorify" herself for the master couturier's delectation.

But all things apart, the clothes that Feraud has designed are very pretty and exotic and practical too. He's chosen crinkled silk foulard for them, which is as light as a sari and he's had it printed in all the pastels and striking colors from the Orient.

THERE ARE harem suits — large culottes wide cut at the bottom, showing the navel and worn with a bra adorned with strings of gold pearls or chains. There are puffed out culottes too, worn with long tunics and high wide belts, closed with large silver buckles encrusted with enamel.

He picks the djellaba (a garment worn by Arab men, not women) and makes short full coats for the summer, long slim versions that are slashed up to the wastline at the side. There are fluid body-hugging dresses with shirt tops and high belts, and flowing skirts that fall to a new length — the hemline is just around mid-calf level.

The film that started it all, "Justine," is based on the famous Alexandria Quartet books by Lawrence Durrell. It stars Anouk and Dirk Bogarde and Michael York, with Anna Karian playing the second lead. It's set in Alexandria, Egypt, just before World War II. Twentieth Century Fox asked Louis Feraud to create a wardrobe for Anouk and a perfume, too, and it is from this assignment that he decided to go overboard for the harem look in his couture collection.

THE COLORS are all pastels from the Orient. Nile or jade green, ispahan or tangerine pink, turquoise, beige and gold like the sand dunes. He's picked jewelery to go with the clothes that is a complementary mixture of very heavy buckles and ear-rings, and very lightweight filigree chains that span the midriff and are decorated with pearls. New from Feraud, too — ankle bracelets that are feather-light and made from silk thread, gold and chains. He uses enamel to encrust a large silver jeweled brooch.

Hair to go with these exotic clothes is kept extremely simple, wrapped back round the head and trimmed with tiny wiry plaits and allowed to hang simply and straight to the shoulders.

There's a very strong hint that we're all going to take to the turban, and wrap our heads in long chiffon scarves, and Feraud has picked printed silk foulard to match his harem suits, wound it round the head, knotted it at the neck and decorated it with a single colored disc which dangles over the forehead.

It's important, incidentally, to wear the scarf down low over your forehead and not on the back of your head, that spoils the effect entirely.

MAKEUP TO go with this should be simple, almost classic and concentrated around the eyes. A good non-pink foundation forms a good basis for the look, complemented by a golden eye-makeup smoothed under the brow and down to the lids.

The eyelids themselves should be highlighted with silver white, with turquoise powder shadow dusted in over the crease.

FINALLY COMES the eyeliner painted on very thinly in black just along the roots of the lashes both above and below the eyes to give the effect of kohl the black dye that Arab women use.

Lips need to be clear and colorful but not over accented. Mary Quant's new lipstick called hot current gives a clear wash of color without caking or looking too thick.

Look For New Kicks In Fall Footwear

Nothing perks up one's fall wardrobe as much as a new pair of shoes to make clothes look and feel fresh and new whether they are or not. And this season shoes look newer than ever because of their covered up silhouette.

City dressing is closer to country dressing now and so are shoes closer to their country cousins. This newly assumed casual outlook has brought out pants and little boots to go under them, as well as an array of easy going covered up daytime trotters . . . all interesting in texture. Some of these low slung numbers are mock crocks in combinations with patents; some of the reptiles have pretty gold rings or tassels. Others are in soft patent-suede combinations climbing high on the foot and ending in the new flat and oval toe, and of course, calf is always an important part of a shoe collection. One black calf shoe has a gold lion's head ornament on the side.

The most exciting and adventurous of the covered up shoes are the big game hunters. They come in our baby boots or in walking shoes of calf with a stacked heel and furry instep. All are fake so you can own zebras, leopards or whatever you fancy in your wardrobe safari. The baby boots are all snappy leopard with side closure buckle on the ankle.

These are only one of a group of patents, calf or fur little boots to slip on with pants suits, apres ski or with jumpsuits. All have comfort details as side slits at the ankle, adjustable wrap around buckles, elasticized fill-ins on the sides.

For late day the same silhouette carries over whether in silver or gold or new again velvet. The velvets make a strong play on the at-home fashions, especially our old-fashioned velvet slipper with brocade ribbon trim and a set back straight heel.

Other evening highlights are the silver reptile slipper in lizard with a shining shield of rhinestones on the top. Another black silk and silver bordered shoe is touched with a rhinestone teardrop at the top. And the sides are cut out for a lighter look.

Zodiac Jewelry

Sentiment might have something to do with the run-away popularity of zodiac jewelry. A girl may not actually believe in her sign but she believes in the way it can give her power to bewitch when it is temptingly emblazoned on pins, earrings, bracelets, pendants and, of course, charms.

Follow The Leather For Stylish Autumn Jackets

When it comes to men's sportswear, it's "follow the leather" for fall.

Leather appears in jackets, coats and separates in a variety of textures and finishes. Featured are smooth, suede, antiqued and split cowhide American leathers.

Jackets come in a number of different styles, such as the safari or bush jacket. It may feature seam detailing, special belt treatment, zipper or button closings.

Still flying high are aviator and bombardier jackets in leather. Bombardier types are often in shearling.

Aviator jackets are highlighted with stitching, zippers or buttons, lots of pockets and sometimes belts.

Pants Evolution Follows Revolution

Evolution follows revolution, and so it is for fall where a new breed of pants keys the total sportswear picture, with ingenuity.

Now that they are an accepted live style, pants are more reserved. It is for them that shirts, sweaters, vests, tunics, toppers, jumpers, skirts — all the put-togethers, in fact — are made.

Because pants have become so basic, they aren't as off-beat as they have been. Ultra-wide floppy legs are passe, now. Legs are straighter, narrower and often boast cuffs.

PANTS FABRICS depart from the wild side to favor old favorites instead. Solid wools, plaids, other fancies and corduroy — both waled and the new no-wale type — are to be seen.

Skirting the scent, one finds many moods from soft, soft to hard edge almost brash perkiness. Breezy flip pleated skirts vie with culotte skirts. Wrap-arounds contrast to soft dirndls. Each has its time, its place. It's all the look of fall sportswear and the preference is purely a personal choice.

Not since the 40's have sweaters enjoyed such a revival. Big, important and with many looks is the cardigan. It passes as a sweater, a tunic, a jacket, a short coat, a vest. Or even a special category known as "below-the-knee."

CABLES, JERSEY and argyle patterns in all but classic color combinations are some of the ways of the sweater. It may be so short it stops at the waist or a long, lean pull that bags.

The word on sweaters is they should be stretched long yet clingy.

Blouses and shirts have the leaner look for fall. Along with skinny sleeves in some comes the complete opposite of full sleeves, controlled by tight cuffs, on others.

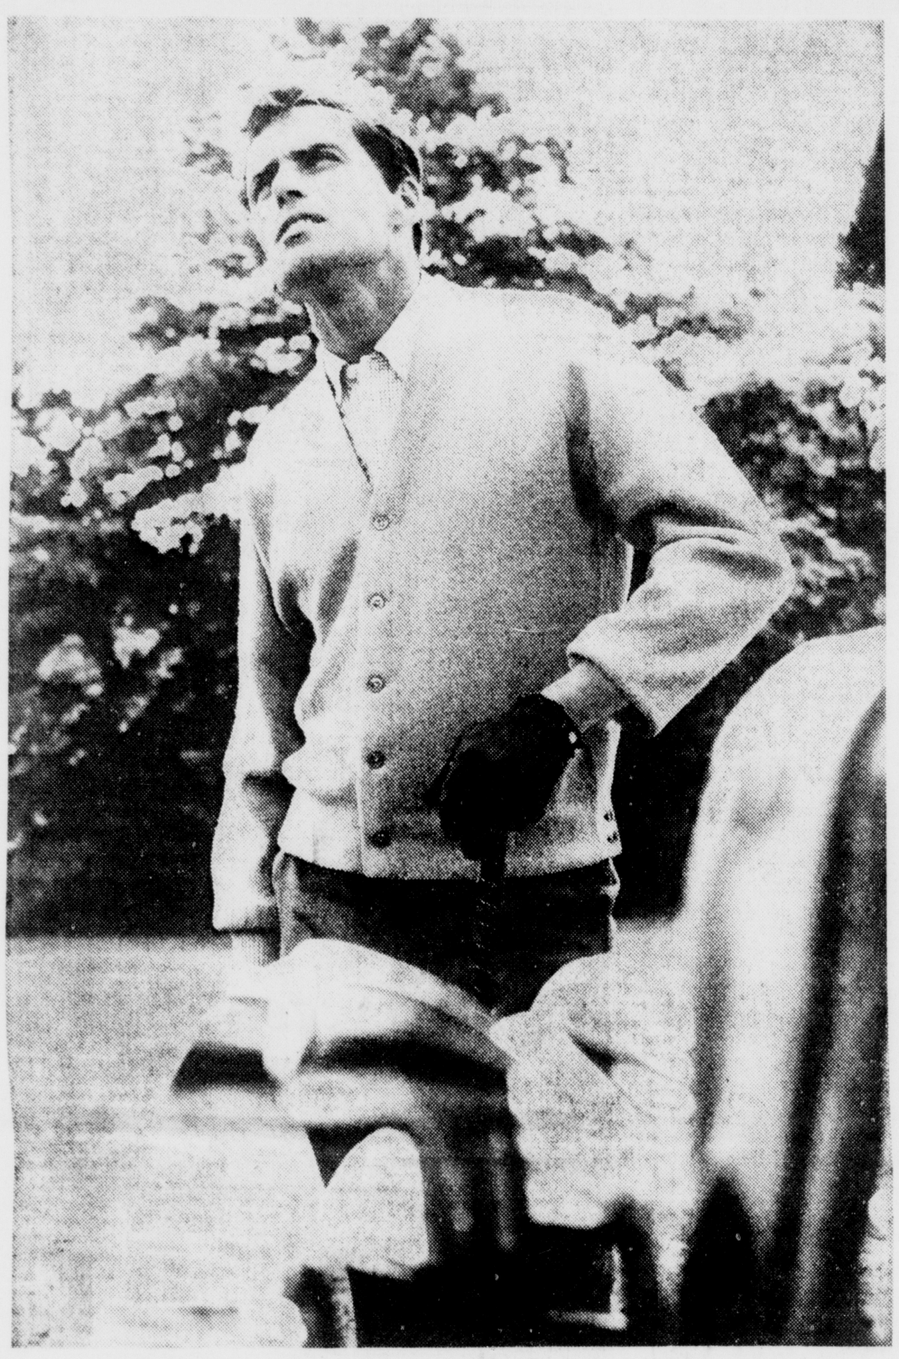
Yokes, stitching, draping, pleats, pockets and embroidery are touches that make fall's blouses new.

Shirt-shirts are still in the picture. These are the true classics and they show up in all kinds of fabrics from cottons and knits to rich crepes and tissue failles.

To go over skirts, pants, sweaters,shirts and other components, casual coats and jackets come in a variety of styles and lengths. There's a touch of tongue-in-cheek about the maxi coat, which swoops down to the ankles.

MORE BRIEFLY put are the swingy topper and the cape. The safari jacket, the blazer, the blouson, the double-breasted classic and the Napoleon-collared jacket present other choices. Tunics, too, double as jackets.

"Mixed Doubles" is a trend making sportswear inroads. This means short sleeves over long sleeves, tank tops over blouses and the layering of clothes. It's a fun business, with one's ingenuity being the rules of the game.



READY FOR THAT GOLF GAME

Sweaters are the thing for wear on the links and after, and this one is called the "19th holer" along with a variety of cardigans and pullovers. A variety of colors in the wools, alpacas and cashmeres. Carlton's has them at the Strawberry Town and Country Village Shopping Center, Mill Valley.

KENNEDY CRASH MYSTERY

Prosecutor Cites Finding Of Blood

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis was granted a new hearing today on his petition for an autopsy on the body of Mary Jo Kopechne after he filed an amended version that said a certain amount of blood was present in the mouth and nose of the dead girl.

Judge Bernard C. Broninski of Luzerne County Common Pleas Court set Sept. 29 at 10 a.m. for the hearing requested by the New Bedford, Mass. prosecutor.

Miss Kopechne, a Washington, D.C., secretary, was found dead July 19 in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's car which had gone off a bridge into a pond on Chappaquiddick Island off the Massachusetts coast.

An inquest into her death was postponed earlier this month.

Dinis' disclosures were contained in a four-page letter sent to the court, where a judge had demanded more evidence from Dinis before granting permission for a hearing to determine if an autopsy was necessary.

"There appear on the white shirt worn by Mary Jo Kopechne 'washed out' reddish brown and brown stains on the backs of both sleeves, the back and collar; that these stains give positive benzidine reaction, an indication of the presence of residual traces of blood; that said residue is of insufficient amount to make further tests as to specific origin or type," said the letter released by Dinis' assistant, Armand Fernandez.

"Investigation has revealed there was present a certain amount of blood in both Mary Jo Kopechne's mouth and nose, which may or may not have been consistent with death by drowning."

The letter said these facts were not available to Dinis until after the girl was buried in Larksville, Pa.

"If the autopsy should disclose that her death resulted from some cause other than drowning, the inquest may then proceed in the direction appropriate in the light of information thus revealed," said Dinis, in detailing his reasons for requesting the autopsy.

No Major Surprises In U.N. Speech

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon appealed to the 126 members of the United Nations today to use their best diplomatic efforts to move Hanoi into serious Vietnam peace negotiations.

In a broad policy declaration, he told the U.N. General Assembly that North Vietnam was wholly responsible for the stalemate at the Paris conference.

JOINS APPLAUSE

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko was among the 80 or so foreign ministers in the blue and gold hall for the President's first appearance before a global forum. When Nixon concluded his 30-minute speech, Gromyko joined in the applause which sounded through the jammed chamber.

Only sour note inside the chamber was a boycott of the address by the Cuban and Albanian delegations. Neither has diplomatic relations with the United States.

NO COMMENT

Gromyko declined immediate comment.

"I would prefer to study it more thoroughly," he said.

Some of the Arabs indicated disappointment in the President's references to the Middle East. Nixon called for negotiations.

Abdul Monem Rifai, deputy prime minister and foreign minister of Jordan, said: "I expected to hear more on the real issues that obstruct peace in the Middle East."

British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart issued a statement, saying: "The President has made a clear and constructive statement, setting out the opportunities open to mankind if peace can be achieved, and the principles which must be observed for this achievement.

"This makes it plain that the U.S.A. for her part recognizes

Boat Hits Pipe; Four Injured

A 26-foot cabin cruiser crashed into a floating pipeline in the San Rafael Channel last night, injuring four passengers.

The pipe, used to carry spoils from the canal dredging project, crunched a 24-inch hole in the hull, the Coast Guard reported.

A private boat, operated by Delmar Joseph Jarvis of Long Beach, took the passengers ashore. The four were then taken to Marin General Hospital, according to San Rafael police.

Jason Herbert Briggs, 35, of Pasadena was reported in fair to good condition today with multiple broken ribs.

Opel Anson, 60, also of Pasadena, was treated for scalp bruises; Paul Gray, 21, of 400 Canal Street, San Rafael, for neck sprain and bruises on his left arm, and Shanna Gray, 40, also of 400 Canal Street, for bruises on the right leg and ankle, hospital officials said.

The owner of the boat, Ricardo Yablon of 20 Front Street, San Rafael, was not treated.

Richard Finnegan, office manager of West Coast Dredging Co. which is doing the project for the Army Corps of Engineers, said the pipe involved is lit according to Coast Guard regulations with a large yellow light every 30 feet. The boat came within two inches of hitting one of the lights, he reported.

The accident occurred near the first beacon in from the Birdcage marker about 9 p.m.

LITTLE BACKING FOR BRUCE

Commission Abolition Idea Receives Mixed Reaction

By WAT TAKESHITA

County Administrator Alan Bruce's suggestions that some county commissions and committees could be dissolved or merged brought mixed reactions today ranging from the noncommital to angry protest.

David B. Vail, chairman of the Marin Aviation Commission, said he would reserve comment until after he had contacted other members of the comission and drafted an official reply, but added he is strongly against Bruce's suggestion that the commission might be phased out.

Robert B. McCreadie, vice chairman of the Marin County Personnel Commission, said he takes sharp exception to the administrator's suggestion that the functions of the commission be limited to quasi-judicial hearings.

"Mr. Bruce apparently thought that when the commission had a different makeup, it was objective. Now that the decisions are going in favor of employees and against management, he doesn't like it. All he is saying is that we don't agree with him in many cases. If the county supervisors do not feel we are carrying out our functions, that is one thing. But we certainly shouldn't be changed just because Mr. Bruce disagrees."

McCreadie said he was speaking as an individual. Bella Aaron, chairman of the personnel commission, is traveling in Europe and was not available for comment.

Thomas H. Larke Jr., chairman of the emergency medial care committee, said his committee should be maintained and not merged with any other committee. "I am curious as to who Mr. Bruce means when he says the commission is dominated by two members and when he talks about pursuit of personal interest. I presume he means Dr. (Elmer) Weden and me. I haven't got any interest except the interest of the victims who need emergency treatment."

Larke said he has been hired as consultant for a statewide program for state help in emer-

NUDE BEACH

McInnis: Not A Role For County

By DAVID DIETZ

The chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors issued cautious endorsement today of a proposal to create a private beach in West Marin for nude sunbathers.

Speaking on the Sounding Board program broadcast by radio KTIM, chairman John F McInnis generally agreed with the suggestion, made by Lothar Salin, chairman of the county parks and recreation commission, but reaffirmed his opposition to Salin's plan that the county help create the private beach.

McInnis said the initiative rested with the bathers themselves.

McInnis had rebuked Salin at a supervisors' session Tuesday for suggesting at a parks and recreation meeting that the county help locate the owner of private West Marin beach who might be willing to sell or lease his property for nude sunbathing.

Salin, seated next to McInnis in the radio studio today in their first direct confrontation, opened with three-page statement defending nude bathing, upholding his right to make the proposal as a public official and saying that "I fail to understand just why some other county officials are in such a hurry to say it won't work. . . .

"The democratic process is not served by attempts to suppress constructive suggestions without even an attempt at intelligent investigation."

McInnis, although saying a fenced beach for nudes would be a "fine idea," challenged the bathers to create it on their own, saying that the efforts of government could be better spent in other areas and that the bathers themselves made up only a small portion of the general public.

Salin countered that "things don't happen in the private sector unless government prods it."

McInnis and Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, who also appeared on the program, hit hard at the problems caused by unlawful

Army Chief Refuses To Block Beret Trial

SAIGON (AP) — Six arrested members of the Green Berets, including the former commander of all U.S. Special Forces in Vietnam, will be tried before a general court-martial on charges of murder and conspiracy.

The U.S. Army, announcing this tonight, said the government will be prepared to start the trial in about three weeks and that "all cases will be treated as not capital." This means the death sentence will not be called for.

In all, eight Green Berets have been held in connection with the slaying of a South Vietnamese suspected of being a double agent.

Charges against two of the men, a warrant officer and a sergeant, "are being held in abeyance pending the trial of the other cases," the Army said.

The Army said it has directed trial by general court-martial against Col. Robert B. Rheault, 43, Vineyard Haven, Mass., the former commander of the 3,000 Special forces troops in Vietnam; Maj. David E. Crew, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Maj. Thomas C. Middleton Jr., Jefferson, S.C., Capt. Leland J. Brumley, Duncan, Okla.; Capt. Robert F. Marasco, Bloomfield, N.J., and Capt Budge E. Williams, Athens, Ga.

The two men who do not face immediate trial are:

Chief WO2 Edward M. Boyle, New York City, and Sgt. 1/c Alvin L. Smith Jr., Naples, Fla. There will be two separate trials of the six officers.

"Charges against Capts. Brumley, Marasco and Williams will be referred for a common trial," an Army statement said. "It is anticipated that the government will be prepared to proceed with the trial of their case in about three weeks. Charges against Col. Rheault and Majs. Crew and Middleton will be referred for a common trial by a different court," at a later date.

Eight congressmen yesterday unsuccessfully asked Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor to take over the case. The congressmen said they feared the eight Special Forces men were being made scapegoats to cover up "mistakes, mishandling, incompetence and rivalries within the Army and related government agencies."

Informants said the first trial likely would be closed.

Schools Closed In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Officials closed down classes at at least 75 junior and senior high, and elementary schools today involving more than 150,000 students in the nation's second largest school district — only New York City is larger — as teachers staged a one-day walkout over pay demands.

Preliminary reports showed that the teacher absence rate in the district's 600 schools was about 40 per cent.

The walkout came after the board of education voted the teachers a 5 per cent pay hike. It was rejected by the teachers, who asked an increase of 6 per cent. The board was to discuss the walkout situation at today's meeting.

Two Die In Bridgeway Cycle Crash

A Mill Valley man and a Lagunitas woman were killed last night when their motorcycle hit a concrete divider at Bridgeway and Harbor Drive just outside Sausalito city limits, the California Highway Patrol said today.

Dead of massive head injuries are Charles Goodrridge Austin Jr., 28, of 395 Throckmorton Avenue, and Holly Lynn Patchen, 23. They pushed the Marin County traffic fatality toll for 1969 to 24, the same as by this date a year ago.

The patrol said Austin's motorcycle crossed a double yellow line at a high rate of speed to pass a northbound Greyhound bus at 9:05 p.m. He stayed in the southbound lanes, the patrol said, and hit the 8-inch center divider at Harbor and Bridgeway.

Both Austin and Miss Patchen were thrown off the cycle as it sailed about 30 feet in the air, the patrol said. Both were thrown about 50 feet before skidding on the pavement for another 60 feet.

Funeral arrangements were pending at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel in Mill Valley.

Juvenile Panel Merger Branded 'Ridiculous'

A recommendation to disband the Marin County Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission and turn its functions over to the county youth commission drew sharp opposition yesterday from its members.

"Ridiculous! Unbelieveable!" said commissioner after commissioner as the recommendation of County Administrator Alan Bruce was discussed.

Chairman Gary T. Giacomini contended the youth commission, not yet formed, would fall apart if the delinquency prevention commission were disbanded.

He also pointed out the name of the youth commission would have to be changed to juvenile delinquency prevention so it could obtain funds that are available to such groups.

But more important, he said, is the fact that the young people don't want the kind of responsibility the delinquency commission has.

"It would start the kids with one foot in a concrete bucket," he said.

Members agreed — to a point. The major accomplishment, commissioners indicated, was getting county funding recently for a coordinator.

"They've just given us legs to stand on," Giacomini said, maintaining the reason the commission hasn't done anything is because it hasn't had any staff.

Probation wchief John W. Brewer pointed out Marin will grow and become more complex. "Now is the time to be getting ready for it."

Brewer said he believes the commission is essential. "I just don't understand his point of view," he said of Bruce.

One result of the commission "is getting people like yourselves interested," he told the group.

Giacomini said what he doesn't understand is turning the commission over to one which doesn't exist.

"Maybe he's trying to get rid

Saigon Raps Red Buildup At Parley

PARIS (UPI)—South Vietnam said today that new North Vietnamese troops had moved into the Mekong Delta despite U.S. troop withdrawals in Vietnam. North Vietnam denounced the United States for bringing the prisoner of war issue into the peace talks.

Pham Dang Lam, chief South Vietnamese negotiator, told the 34th session of the talks that the United States and South Vietnam had agreed on reducing the number of U.S. troops "despite the increasingly aggressive policies" of the Communists.

U.S. chief negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge presented President Richard M. Nixon's announcement of the withdrawal of 33,500 U.S. troops and what he called "a remarkably succinct statement of efforts we have made for peace." He reported in disgust, however, that the Reds called it a "farce."

Lam said infiltration of North Vietnamese regular troops into the Delta, from which most U.S. troops have withdrawn, emphasized Hanoi's refusal to make any concessions and to go

HONEYMOON ALL OVER FOR NIXON

Democratic Congressmen Bridle Over GOP Raising 'Do-Nothing' Complaint

WASHINGTON (AP) —The Democratic-controlled Congress and Republican administration are at each other's throats after a nine-months political honeymoon.

This became evident yesterday when House Democratic leaders lashed out at GOP criticism of Congress.

Speaker John McCormack, following a Democratic caucus, told reporters: "It is not a question of a do-nothing Democratic Congress but of a noncooperative Republican administration."

And Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma said: "If anyone should be shy about raising the 'do-nothing' issue it should be the Nixon administration."

The caucus approved a resolution for failing to take a position on much of the legislation before Congress.

It also backed another resolution making the 1968 Democratic party platform the blueprint for a legislative program in this Congress.

The Democratic activity followed reports the GOP administration is thinking of trying to hang a "do-nothing" label on the 91st Congress in the style former President Harry S. Truman successfully used against the GOP-controlled 80th Congress.

Nixon talked the situation over with his GOP congressional leaders Tuesday. Another session is set for tomorrow with a view to drafting a priority list of administration requests.

Since convening in January the Congress has enacted an increase in the public debt ceiling and extended the income surcharge for six months. An elementary school bill, tax reform and cigarette labeling bill have cleared the House but are tied up in the Senate. None of the appropriation bills to finance government agencies yet have cleared both branches of Congress.

Albert also took aim on the Nixon administration suggestions for changes in the House-passed tax reform bill. He said administration proposals represent a "distinct and tragic step backward" from the House version.

"Republicans are still far more interested in Wall Street than Main Street, far more concerned about financial centers than poverty centers," Albert said.

Taking note of Nixon's most recent proposal for a 10 per cent increase in Social Security benefits effective April 1, Albert told the House: "We are not going to take the President's cold winter message to the people of this country. We are not going to be satisfied with a 10 per cent increase, and we are not going to wait until April 1."

Chavez Schedules Nationwide Tour

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Farm labor leader Cesar Chavez says he will begin a nationwide speaking tour next week in an effort to intensify the table grape boycott.

Chavez, head if the AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, said yesterday he plans to leave Sept. 25 for talks in New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Chicago and Detroit and will go to Washington to testify before the Senate migrant labor subcommittee.

Tiny Tim To Marry Teen-Ager

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Tiny Tim, who tiptoes through the tulips in television, announced yesterday he will marry a teen-age fan he met while signing autographs in a Philadelphia department store.

Tiny Tim

The singer, in his mid-40s, said his bride-to-be is tall, blonde, 17-year-old Vicky Budinger of Haddonfield, a recent high-school graduate.

Tiny Tim, who refused to divulge his exact age, said he does not think the difference in their ages matters.

The singer, noted for his shoulder-length hair and a voice which ranges from shreiking falsetto to baritone, said: "I'm 16 years old at heart."

He made the announcement at the New Jersey State Fair, at which he is appearing.

He said he met Miss Budinger while signing autographs at Wanamaker's department store in Philadelphia last spring.

Mrs. Allan Budinger, mother of the bride-to-be, said in a telephone interview that she and her husband are "elated" over the match.

Tobacco Clouds TV Series

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actress Debbie Reynolds announced yesterday she was canceling production of her new television series because a cigarette commercial was aired on the program's debut Tuesday night.

Miss Reynolds

A representative said Miss Reynolds had sent a telegram to the National Broadcasting Co. notifying them of the termination of the series. Nine segments of the series, "Debbie," already had been filmed and presumably will still be shown.

Miss Reynolds, who produced the show in partnership with Filmways, Inc., said the cigarette commercial was in direct violation of her agreement with NBC. She said she felt she had fully outlined in advance her feelings about cigarettes and commercial which she felt were "directly opposed to health and well being."

She said she would not oppose use of the other segments already filmed because she did not "want to inflict hardship on the other players involved."

Stanford Protest Jail, Fine Set

PALO ALTO (UPI)—A 15-day jail term and $315 fine has been imposed on the first youth to be sentenced for participating in an antiwar demonstration last May at Stanford Research Institute.

James R. Gage, 23, Menlo Park, was one of 85 persons arrested during the May 16 melee at SRI's branch facility adjacent to the Stanford University campus.

He pleaded no contest to charges of malicious mischief and obstructing traffic.

Judge John Brenner of Palo Alto-Mountain View Municipal Court also put Gage on probation for six months.

Seale In Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bobby Seale, chairman of the Black Panther Party, arrived here yesterday from a California jail to stand trial on a conspiracy charge.

He was immediately turned over to U.S. Marshals who tucked him away in the Cook County Jail to await his Sept. 24 trial with seven other persons on charges that they crossed state lines in a conspiracy to incite riots during the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

Seale was arrested earlier this month in California. Black Panthers here have called for a boycott of both school and work by blacks when Seale goes on trial.

Ship's Art Stolen

SOUTHAMPTON, England (UPI) — A thief stole a $2,880 painting, Robert Motherwell's "Beside the Sea", from the liner Queen Elizabeth 2 art gallery, police said yesterday.

They said it was the first theft from the gallery, which the ship's owner, Cunard Line, said was the first floating art shop.

Nasser Ailing

CAIRO (UPI) — Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser is bedded with influenza and has cancelled all appointments for the near future, the semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram said today.

Al Ahram said Nasser came down with the illness earlier this month during a limited Arab summit with Iraq, Syria, Jordan, Egypt and the Sudan.

LONDON (UPI) — Alice Ormsby-Gore, 17-year-old daughter of a former British ambassador to the United States, announced her engagement yesterday to a bearded pop musician.

Miss Ormsby-Gore's father, Lord Harlech, was a close personal friend of President John F. Kennedy as well as Britain's envoy to Washington while Kennedy was in the White House. She wore hippy clothes when announcing her plans to wed Eric Clapton, 24, of the Blind Faith pop group.

Nixon Has Three Options For Space; Two Back Mars

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon soon will make a decision on the nation's goals in space, choosing from three alternatives — including two that would put Americans on Mars in the 1980s.

All three choices, made public Tuesday by the White House, foresee development of a space station and a reusable earth-to-orbit shuttle vehicle.

Under the first and most expensive option, the annual cost would climb steadily from the current $4 billion a year to $8.10 billion for each fiscal year from 1970 through 1980 for a total of $78.2 billion the Mars landing would be in 1982.

The second and third alternatives would keep the annual cost at $4 billion the next two fiscal years, rising to a peak of $5.7 billion in 1976. The second option, which envisions a Mars landing in 1986, would then rise to a peak of $8 billion a year in the early 1980s, with an 11-year total of $57.5 billion. Option three would require a funding of $54.1 billion in the first 11 years.

"We presented a balanced program," said Vice President Spiro T. Agnew—a member of the four-man task group. "My personal preference is option two which allows clear acceptance of a Mars landing in 1986 but leaves us free to be flexible in unmanned precursor flights."

The other three members said they had not yet given the President their personal choice, although all said any of the three would be acceptable.

Dr. Lee DuBridge, the President's science adviser and a member of the task group said "in all three options there are from the scientific viewpoint very important benefits."

The report shunned two extremes—dropping all manned flights after the three-flights a year Apollo program runs its course—or starting a crash program to put men on Mars in the 1970s.

The differences in the time table between options one and two can be seen in this comparison: Space station in earth orbit 1976 and 1977; 50-man space base in earth orbit, 1980 and 1984; a 100-man space base in earth orbit, 1985 and 1989; a lunar orbiting station 1978 and 1981; a lunar surface base 1980 and 1983; initial Mars expedition, 1983 and 1986.

Option three would have the same timetable as option two, but leaving the year of a Mars landing open.

The shuttle vehicle would be ready in 1976 under option one and 1977 under options two and three; and a "space tug" in 1978 under option one and 1981 under option two.

Under all three plans, Dr. DuBridge pointed out, a "grand tour" of the planets, by unmanned vehicles, would be scheduled for 1977 to 1979. The planets will not be aligned in a position to make such a tour feasible again for another 100-150 years.

"All three options will enable us to hold on to our (space) team—indeed give them a major challenge," said NASA administrator Thomas O. Paine, the third member of the group.

U.S. To Pull Out Saigon's Defenders

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. headquarters said today it was turning over the defense of Saigon to the South Vietnamese. The Saigon soldiers last week took their heaviest losses in a year in virtually going it alone for three days on the battlefield.

The announcement that the 82nd Airborne Division's 3rd brigade, now guarding Saigon, would be pulled out in President Richard M. Nixon's withdrawal plan meant the removal of the only U.S. unit still involved in the defense of the capital.

It would leave the job to the South Vietnamese, who lost 529 men killed last week. The period included three days in which they fought on while U.S. troops tacitly were honoring a Communist-declared truce in honor of Ho Chi Minh.

Government spokesmen said the 529 deaths were the highest since 642 Saigon soldiers died in the week ending Aug. 24, 1968. American losses last week were put at 143 killed and 1,343 wounded—an increase of six dead and 16 wounded over the previous week.

The government losses reflected their increasing combat role as American troops are being pulled out, and served as an indicator of their ability against the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese. A total of 2,361 Communists died in fighting last week, spokesmen said.

The 4,500-man 3rd brigade of the 82nd Airborne Dicision joins the remaining 18,000 Leathernecks of the 3rd Marine Division and portions of the 1st Marine Air Wing as units designated for withdrawal under President Nixon's 35,000-man second cutback.

Removal of the 3rd division Marines from along South Vietnam's northern tier leaves that volatile demilitarized zone area almost wholly in the hands of South Vietnamese troops, too.

The announcement today said the airborne brigade was going home while some of the Marines would be sent to Japan or Okinawa and others to the United States. More units to be pulled out will be announced later.

Some of the Marines were locked in their heaviest DMZ-area combat in seven months yesterday. It cost them 22 men killed, headquarters said.

Senator, 70, Defeats Robber

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Len B. Jordan, 70-year-old Idaho Republican, bested a blackjack-wielding young robber and has a lump on the head, a skinned knuckle and part of his assailant's shirt for souvenirs.

Jordan, a 6-footer weighing 200 pounds, said the holdup man confronted him in an automatic elevator in his apartment building.

The senator said he hit the youth on the chin, flooring him, but the robber retaliated with a blow to the head with a blackjack. After a brief wrestling match, Jordan said, the youth ran away minus a piece of his shirt.

DIRKSEN SUCCESSOR

Sen. Smith Already Faces Demos' Guns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Ralph T. Smith is just settling into his new Senate seat —but he's already a leading Democratic target for the 1970 campaign.

Smith, whose appointment to succeed Illinois' late Sen. Everett M. Dirksen takes effect today, will have to run on his own in 1970 if he wants to finish the term, which runs to 1975.

Democrats, who admit being hard pressed to hold their current 57-43 Senate majority, see Smith as one of their best chances among the 10 GOP seats at issue next year.

Sen. Daniel K. Inouye of Hawaii, chairman of the Senate Democratic campaign committee, said five Republican seats are considered particularly vulnerable for overturn and Illinois is at the top of his list.

"We're not really running against an incumbent," he said of Smith, who will be untested as a Senate campaigner even if he survives potential challenges in the GOP primary.

Adlai E. Stevenson III, Illinois state treasurer and son of the two-time seeker of the presidency, is considered likely to try for Smith's position, with Lt. Gov. Paul Simon another Democratic possibility.

"While the odds against us look pretty bleak, I won't say the picture is completely black," Inouye said of the general 1970 picture.

Breaking with tradition, he said, the campaign committee will help incumbent Democratic senators against rivals who challenge them in party primaries, as well as later Republican challengers.

"The time for helping is now," Inouye said, even though the committee risks intervention in Democratic Senate primaries.

"If incumbents are defeated in the primaries," said Inouye, "we will immediately shift our gears and do our best to help the primary winner."

Hawaii Upset At Gas War Tests Rumor

HONOLULU (AP) — Gov. John Burns says he wants to know whether the U.S. Army did or didn't test nerve gas in 1966 and 1967 on the slopes of Mauna Loa.

The governor said he cabled Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor yesterday asking for clarification of reports involving apparently conflicting answers from the Army itself.

"I'm not accusing the Army of duplicity," Burns said, "but I am greatly concerned over reports that nerve gas tests were conducted."

Burns said he would await Resor's answer before recommending possible action by the state Land Board, which could cancel the balance of the Army's five-year lease on a 1,144-acre test site on the side of Hawaii's second-tallest volcano.

The lease, expiring in January 1971, stipulated that the land would be used "as a site to conduct classified meteorological and related tests."

Rep. Patsy I. Mink, D-Hawaii, said Tuesday the Army had acknowledged in a letter to her that it had used the site for testing the nerve agent GB and the incapacitating agent BZ a total of four times in 1966-67.

On July 31, in a written response to Honolulu Star-Bulletin's questions, the Army denied such tests.

Lack Of Bond Sales Stalls U.C. Building

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — University of California regents were told today no major new building projects can be started for the 1969-70 construction year, deferring space planned for 1,500 more students in future years.

And "the prospects for a viable program in 1970-71 are not encouraging," U.C. Vice President Elmo Morgan told the university's governing board. Morgan is in charge of physical planning and construction.

Morgan's report was based on the continuing shortage of construction money because of the state's failure to sell bonds in the current high interest rate market.

Regents began a two-day meeting at the San Francisco Extension Center. They are expected to approve some form of tuition, or higher fees, to help meet construction costs.

The board also is scheduled to consider overall budget problems and vote on a long-standing issue of student participation at rgents' sessions.

The chairman of the regents, DeWitt A. Higgs of San Diego, said in July that he expected the board would approve some kind of tuition. Formal adoption of tuition would reverse a 100-year-old U.C. policy, although student "fees" have been levied for years on the nine campuses.

A proposal on student participation was prepared by a special regents' subcommittee after a summer of hearings. It would permit student presidents to speak at formal meetings, but would not create a special committee with student membership.

Judge Forbids Printing Drug Agents' Names

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A superior court judge has made permanent his order prohibiting an anti-establishment newspaper from printing any more addresses and telephone numbers of state narcotics agents.

Judge J.E. Barr of Siskyou County, sitting here temporarily, also issued an injunction yesterday banning printing of such information about members of San Francisco's police tactical squad.

The injunctions are against the Dock of the Bay which printed the narcotics agents' names, addresses and phone numbers in August, resulting in Barr's temporarily injunction then.

Vision Tests Set In Novato

The fifth annual free vision-screening clinic for pre-school aged children will be held at the Novato Community House from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. next Monday and Thursday.

Purpose of the screening is to detect gross visual defects in the 3-to-6-year-old child at an age when correction of problems may still be possible.

The clinics are a project of the Delta Gamma alumnae chapter of the Northern California Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

Parents should make appointments with Mrs. Harry Magill or Mrs. Bruce Robinson of Novato to reduce congestion at the clinic.

NIXON

what is required of her if there is indeed to be an era of negotiation.

After his talk, Nixon had a schedule of private discussions on his agenda with a number of visiting foreign ministers. Before going back to Washington tonight, he was to entertain U.N. diplomats at a reception. His schedule, however, did not include formal talks with Gromyko.

Springing no surprises in his speech Nixon again went on record as favoring sober and serious negotiations with the Soviet Union on the Middle East, arms race curbs and other topics.

And, he said, "Whenever the leaders of Communist China choose to abandon their self-imposed isolation, we are ready to talk with them in the same frank and serious spirit."

Looking toward broad international cooperation in areas ranging from population control and space exploration to a counterattack against aircraft hijackings, Nixon asserted:

" . . . Let us press toward an open world—a world of open doors, open hearts, open minds—a world open to the exchange of ideas and of people, and open to the reach of the human spirit—a world open in its search for truth, and unconcerned with the fate of old dogmas and isms—a world open at last to the light of justice, and reason, and to the achievement of that true peace which the people of every land carry in their hearts and celebrate in their hopes."

In discussing Vietnam, Nixon once again said "our one limited but fundamental objective" there is to ensure South Vietnam's right of self-determination without outside interference. On that point, the United States will not compromise, he stated. As for lack of progress in Paris, he said:

"The missing ingredient so far has been the willingness of the other side to talk on any terms other than those that would predetermine the result and deny the right of self-determination to the people of South Vietnam."

Once the other side is genuinely willing to reach agreement, he said, "The practical solutions can readily be found."

Then he voiced his appeal:

"This makes it urgent that the U.N. members who have long taken an active interest in peace in Vietnam now take an active hand in achieving it. . .

"In the name of peace, I urge all of you here—representing 126 nations—to use your best diplomatic efforts to persuade Hanoi to move seriously into the negotiations which could end this war."

The Soviet Union was taken to task by Nixon, for not yet agreeing to negotiations on limitation of strategic arms.

Picturing the arms race as becoming a more serious problem with the passage of time, Nixon conceded complex issues are involved. But he said: "We are prepared to deal with them seriously, concretely and purposefully—and to make a determined effort not only to limit the buildup of strategic arms, but to reverse it."

As for the strife-ridden Middle East, on which the United States and Russia today renew already extensive consultations, Nixon said recent violence there "points up anew the urgency of a stable peace."

As a minimum condition for a settlement, Nixon cited observance of U.N. ceasefire resolutions. Summing up the official U.S. view, he said:

"We seek a settlement based on respect for the sovereign right of each nation to exist within secure and recognized boundaries. We are convinced that peace cannot be achieved on the basis of substantial alterations in the map of the Middle East. We are equally convinced that peace cannot be achieved on the basis of anything less than a binding, irrevocable commitment by the parties to live together in peace."

Taking still another swipe at the Soviets, Nixon said:

"Failing a settlement, an agreement on the limitation of the shipment of arms to the Middle East might help to stabilize the situation. We have indicated to the Soviet Union, without result, our willingness to enter such discussions."

The President also urged the United Nations to give high priority to a new international treaty for the punishment of airplane hijackers.

Anti-Vietnam Pickets Near U.N. Nabbed

NEW YORK (AP) — Police seized 10 antiwar pickets near the U.S. mission to the United Nations today as President Richard M. Nixon's motorcade entered the U.N. grounds.

Those seized were among a group of about 25 demonstrating at First Avenue and 45th Street. The entrance to the United Nations is at First Avenue and 43rd Street.

Another group of about 25 Negroes and whites demonstrated peacefully at First Avenue and 47th Street, criticising the President for not ending the war in Biafra.

The pickets were seized when they continued to march after police ordered them to move. A group of mounted policemen and foot patrolmen took them to a patrol car.

There was heavy police guard at the U.N. as Nixon arrived by motorcade from the Wall Street heliport where he landed following the flight aboard Air Force No. 1 from Washington to Floyd Bennett Naval Air Station in Brooklyn.

Opposite the 43rd Street gate to the United Nations, a dozen persons were on hand saying they supported the President. One carried a sign reading: "Nixon Cares."

Companions of the pickets who were seized said they were members of the American Servicemen's Union and Youth Against War and Fascism.

A spokesman said they were demonstrating to urge the immediate withdrawal of troops from Vietnam and the immediate release of "political prisoners, including American servicemen" in military and civil jails.

of both of them," he speculated.

The commission then went int closed session to interview a candidate for the job of coordinator to serve both the juvenile delinquency and youth commissions.

The coordinator to be hired will be on loan from the California Youth Authority for a year.

Following the interview, the commission agreed to offer the man the job but withheld his name because he hasn't decided definitely whether he will leave his present post.

A decision is expected in about a week.

gency medical care, and county committees would be necessary for the state program to operate.

Chairman John F. McInnis of the Marin County Transit District said he has not studied Bruce's recommendation on the transit district in detail but agrees in general with Bruce that the district staff could eventually be reduced, especially if the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District takes over transit operations.

McInnis said it is unlikely, however, that the transit district staff will be dissolved completely.

Lothar Salin, chairman of the parks and recreation commission, said his commission is vital because of the importance of conservation and recreation in the county and of getting the ideas of thousands of people vitally interested in conservation.

"Unless the supervisors themselves want to act as the commission and listen to the people to provide a link between the community and county government, they'd better leave the commission intact. Otherwise, parks and recreation will become a minor function of county government to be attended to only when someone has the time to devote to it."

The maximum penalty for first degree murder in Utah is shooting or hanging.

BERETS

Beret officers to be tried, said today he will "insist on full and open disclosure of all evidence."

In Washington, the Pentagon said Secretary Resor has ordered that the trials be open "consistent with security."

This apparently means that certain sessions could be ordered closed if sensitive testimony was being developed.

In a statement, Resor disclosed he had rejected the congressional urging to take the case out of the hands of the U.S. command in Vietnam and dismiss the charges.

One of the congressmen, Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., on hearing from Resor, immediately appealed to President Richard M. Nixon saying he was outraged at Resor's decision to leave jurisdiction of the case to the commander in Vietnam.

Long, asking Nixon's intervention, said:

"I can see no reason to allow so grave a matter to remain in the hands of those who have already shown their ability to mismanage and disregard the rights of the accused—especially if the purpose of this is to placate the South Vietnamese or the enemy in Hanoi."

ahead with efforts for a battlefield victory.

Col. Ha Van Lau, standing in for chief Hanoi delegate Xuan Thuy, criticized the United States for bringing the prisoner of war issue into the talks.

"It is a maneuver to divert public opinion," Lau said. "This attitude can only worsen the impasse here."

The absence of the leaders of the two Communist delegations all but ruled out any real progress in the session. Lau replaced Thuy for the Hanoi delegation. Madame Nguyen Thi Binh was replaced by Dinh Ba Thi for the Viet Cong. The leaders are still in Hanoi following Ho Chi Minh's funeral.

Both Lau and Dinh Ba Thi, deputy chief of the Viet Cong delegation, referred to the withdrawal as "driblets" aimed at deceiving American public opinion.

Lau accused the United States of slowing progress at the talks by refusing to accept Hanoi's 10-point peace plan and said "the Nixon administration is just like a man struggling in a quagmire. The more it struggles the deeper it sinks into the quagmire of the war of aggression in South Vietnam."

Thi poked fun at the 35,000 troop withdrawal figure and said, "To withdraw such a minimal quantity of troops, the United States takes half a year. Thus, how many years will it take to pull out over half a million troops?"

Stabbing Victim Condition Poor

Norman Dunham Lattin of Tiburon, the Hastings College of Law instructor who was stabbed Monday in a Tamalpais High School parking lot, remains in poor condition today in the intensive care unit at Marin General Hospital, according to hospital officials.

Lattin, who is 74, not 47 as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal, was stabbed by an unknown assailant asking for money as he and his wife were loading musical instruments into their car behind the school's music building.

His assailant has not been found.

Plea Date Set In Weed Case

William Robert Herman, 21, of Fairfax, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court of a charge of possessing marijuana, but no charges were filed against a young woman, Patricia Jane MacLeod, 18, of San Anselmo, arrested with him.

The district attorney's office said there was insufficient evidence to hold Miss MacLeod.

He was arrested after drug agents obtained a search warrant for his home at 25 Wreden Avenue. A tipster had said that 15 or 16 marijuana plants were visible through a window of the house.

OBITUARIES

Frank C. Epperly Dies At 78

Frank C. Epperly, a retired supervisor of laundry operations at San Quentin Prison, died in his San Rafael home yesterday.

He had been under a doctor's care for a heart condition.

Epperly, 78, a native of Santa Margarita, had lived in Marin County 29 years, residing most recently at 108 Marin Street.

He was a member of Fairfax Lodge 556, Free and Accepted Masons, Marin Pyramid 31 AEO Sciots, Redwood Shrine 102 of the Order of the White Shrine, Retired State Government Employees Association and the Marin Branch, American Fuchsia Society.

He is survived by his wife, Ida; three daughters, Mrs. Frances Foster, Mrs. Minnie Randolph and Mrs. Ida Mae Hobbs, all of San Rafael; a sister, Mrs. Anna Hoequist of Orlando, Fla.; five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral will be held 10 a.m. Saturday at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo, under auspices of Fairfax Lodge 556, F&AM. Burial will be private. Memorial gifts may be given to the Marin County Heart Association or a favorite charity.

nude sunbathing at public beaches in West Marin.

"I wonder if Mr. Salin really understands unwelcome nudity," McInnis said. He asserted that residents living around public beaches in West Marin found the "acts of the nudists . . . disgusting is the word presented to me."

Bales spoke of open sexual activity, narcotics use and swelling ranks of spectators. He said most of the bathers were not county residents and at one point noted that a private beach for nudebathers was located on the Santa Cruz coast and "we ask that they all go in that direction."

After Salin read a letter from a nude subather praising San Gregorio Beach in San Mateo County, McInnis said there had been a gang rape of a girl on a beach in Marin County and that this kind of thing can't go on.

Salin, supported by Michael Prazker of Mill Valley, another speaker on the program, said the issue at hand was nude sunbathing and that other problems were irrelevant.

"We are dealing with a social phenomenon, the magnitude and potential dimension of which seems to escape our more conservative officials, who still believe it can be contained within the context of 'arrest and conviction'," Salin said in his statement. "Meeting this situation with nothing but ham-handed law enforcement will not solve the problem, but will only needlessly escalate it."

Salin said public beaches ultmately should be set aside, as in foreign countries, for nude swimming. But for the present, he said, a foundation could perhaps be encouraged to underwrite a private bathing facility in Marin.

A new high has been reached in the number of U.S. families, 50 million, according to the Population Reference Bureau.

MAYBELLE CLARK

Maybelle Constance Clark, 57, of San Francisco, sister of Mrs. Leslie A. Grant of San Rafael, died today in a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of San Francisco, she lived there all her life.

She also is survived by two sons, Grant Giordani of San Rafael and Jay Paetzel of San Francisco, and three grandchildren. Her husband, Edward, who served in the Merchant Marine, died many years ago.

Private funeral will be today at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be in Calistoga Cemetery.

FAIRFIELD OSBORN

Convervationist and naturalist Fairfield Osborn, father of Joan O. Roth of Ross, died Tuesday in a New York hospital.

Funeral services will be held there today.

Osborn, 82, served as president of the New York Zoological society for nearly 30 years and wrote two books, "Our Plundered Planet" and "The Limits of the Earth," as well as many scientific articles.

He was a founder in 1947 and president of the Conservation Foundation and a member of most of the nation's conservation groups.

His father was the late Henry Fairfield Osborn, a Princeton University paleontologist who for 25 years was president of the American Museum of Natural History.

He is also survived by his wife, Majorie of New York City and two other daughters, Natalie Murphy and Shirley Ayers.

VICO CANONICA

Funeral for Vico Canonica of Mill Valley, a retired tavern owner, was held today at Russell and Gooch funeral chapel in Mill Valley.

Canonica, 81, died Sunday at his home, apparently from natural causes, according to deputy Coroner Richard W. Madigan, who said Canonica had a heart condition.

A native of Italy, Canonica had lived in Marin County for the past 10 years, most recently at 4 Vasco Drive. He moved here from Seattle where he operated a tavern.

He is survived by his wife, Olive of Mill Valley; three sisters and two brothers.

ANDRUS ORTEGA

Private funeral for Andrus Ortega, 64, of Novato, was today at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Ortega died Tuesday of a heart attack aboard the President Cleveland while returning from a visit to his native Philippines.

A resident of Virginia most of the 40 years he was in this country, he moved two months ago to the home of his brother-in-law, Frank Merker of 1319 Leafwood Drive.

He was a retired seaman.

He also is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Dolores Stephens of Novato; a sister, Oliva Ortega of the Philippines, and five grandchildren. His wife, Bertha, died last year.

LENA MONOOGAN

Lena Monoogan of Mill Valley died yesterday at a local convalescent hospital following a long illness.

Mrs. Monoogan, wife of the late Albert H. Monoogan, had lived in California since 1923 and in Marin County since 1929, most recently at 74 Matilda Avenue.

She is survived by four daughters, Alberta M. Cote of San Francisco, Dorothy I. Harder and Olive V. Jones, both of Belmont, and Lorraine M. Wrenn of Mill Valley; five sons, Albert H. of San Francisco, Ralph and Harvey A. of Mill Valley and Herman W. and Charles F. Monoogan, both of San Rafael; a sister, Mabel A. Monti of Quincy, Mass., and four grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel in Mill Valley. Burial will be private.

JAMES WEST

James West, a Marin resident for 65 years, died unexpectedly Tuesday at San Francisco International Airport, apparently of a heart attack.

West, 67, was at the airport to meet his wife, Lyndell West, in preparation for returning to Honolulu, Hawaii where the couple has lived since West's retirement about three years ago.

West had been managing director of Furness Withy Ltd., a steamship company, when he retired. He had been in the steamship business for 35 years.

He was a native of San Francisco, but had lived most of his life in Marin, last on Valley View Road, San Rafael.

Survivors are his wife; three sons, Herbert A. West of San Anselmo, James West Jr. of Tiburon and George West of Oroville, and nine grandchildren.

There will be no funeral. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Heart Fund.

VELMA SHELDON

Funeral for Velma Mae Sheldon of San Rafael was held yesterday at Harry M. Williams Mortuary. Burial was in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Mrs. Sheldon, 61, died Monday at her home at 166 Solano Street after a lengthy illness.

A native of Missouri, she moved to California 38 years ago, living in various cities until coming to San Rafael about 25 years ago.

She is survived by her husband, Alaric C. Sheldon, two sisters, Opal Mairs of Sacramento, and Lelia Dryer of Santa Cruz; two brothers, Veral Lauck of Orland and Oliver Lauck of Bellflower.

RICHARD VAN WINGERDEN

Richard Van Wingerden, Forest Knolls artist, died yesterday in a Roseville hospital from injuries received in an automobile accident Aug. 22. He was 76.

A native of Rotterdam, the Netherlands he came to the United States in 1910 and moved to Forest Knolls nine years to live with his brother, Leonard Van Wingerden on Montezuma Street.

He is also survived by a niece, Lenore Hibbard of San Pablo.

Funeral services will be held 3 p.m. Monday at the San Pablo chapel of the Wilson and Kratzer Mortuaries. Burial will be at Rolling Hills Memorial Park, Richmond.

STUART SLOSSON

Funeral for Stuart A. Slosson of Corte Madera will be at 2 p.m. tommorrow at Keatin's Mortuary, San Rafael. Inurnment will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Slossin, 84, died Tuesday at a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of Michigan, Slosson moved to Corte Madera 35 years ago, living from that time until his death at 414 Redwood Avenue. He was a retired Railway Express messenger. He was a member of San Rafael Elks Lodge No. 1108.

He is survived by his wife, Helen Slosson, of Corte Madera a daughter, Mrs. Helen Greene of Bellevue, Wash. and two grandchildren.

OPAL WESTCOTT

Opal Alice Westcott, 55, a registered nurse who had lived in Marin about four years, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital following a long illness.

She was the wife of Norris Westcott, a laboratory technician at San Quentin Prison. The family home is House 26, San Quentin.

A native of Exeter, Tulare County, Mrs. Westcott was a graduate of Loma Linda University, San Bernardino County. She had worked as a nurse until becoming ill a year ago and was last with Parkway Convalescent Hospital, Terra Linda.

Survivors are her husband; two sons, Robert Dwight Westcott of Canby, Ore., and David Vittum Westcott of the home and Rio Lindo Academy in Healdsburgh; a daughter, Myrtianne Downs of Salt Lake City, Utah; a step-brother, Bill McFeely of Richmond, and two step-sisters, Fae Frick of El Cerrito and Ivy Dorsett of Santa Cruz.

Funeral will be at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at the Seventh-day Adventist Church in Fairfax. The body will then be taken to Exeter where service will be held at 10 a.m. Monday at the Seventh Day Adventist Church followed by burial there.

MATTHEW MIKELY

Matthew Mikely, 76, of 12 Lilac Avenue, Kentfield, died yesterday in a local convalescent hospital after a short illness.

A native of Yugoslavia, Mikely migrated to San Francisco 60 years ago operating a cocktail lounge on Polk Street until retiring four years ago. He had resided in Marin for nine years.

He is survived by his wife Agnes R. Mikely.

Funeral will be Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo. Memorial gifts to the Marin County Humane Society are preferred.

SAUCELITO CANAL

Cost Of Dredging Increases $76,000

By ANNE BARDWELL

The price for dredging the Saucelito Canal to provide deep water access to upper Richardson Bay has been increased another $76,000, the City of Mill Valley has learned.

Total price for the project, is now $1,050,000, up $50,000 from six weeks ago and $150,000 from four months ago.

Whether this latest increase is the death blow for the Saucelito Canal Assessment District which will finance more than half the project cost is a question which will not be answered until protest hearings are held by the Marin County Board of Supervisors in about two months.

Mill Valley City Enginner Stanley M. Bala said yesterday that the assessment district attorney has asked him to prepare new assessment figures for each property owner participating in the district. Bala's partner, Jesper Strandgaard, away on vacation, is the engineer for the district.

The request came after Col. Charles R. Robert, district engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers which will do the dredging, said in a letter written Aug. 4 to County Public Works Director Donald R. Frost that the dredging cost had risen $76,000.

The increased cost was not made public at the time the letter was received, Bala said, because Strandgaard requested a double check on the figures before proceeding with a new assessment spread.

In his letter Roberts said that $26,000 of the increase was for engineering charges which could not be paid by the federal government and therefore had to be charged to the assessment district. He gave no explanation for the other $50,000 increase, Bala said.

Under an agreement worked out 10 years ago, the Army Corps of Engineers will pay half of the project cost up to $500,000. The remainder is to be paid by the assessment district.

Of the total $1,050,000 some $100,000 will be spent for engineering, design supervision and administrative costs and the remaining $950,000 for dredging.

The first $100,000 hike over the original $900,000 cost estimate came in June when the engineers learned they would not be able to dump dredging spoils along the shores of Richardson Bay as planned when the project was first proposed in 1959 and opposition to bay filling was not as strong as it is today.

The engineers, after an extensive study of alternate dumping solutions, decided to dump deposit the spoils near Alcatraz Island where strong tides and currents will wash the mud out to sea.

This proposal, which would cost the extra $100,000 because of the necessity of barging spoils from the dredging site to Alcatraz, is still under study by the corps.

Henry E. Pape, assistant chief of the corps' engineering division, yesterday refused to indicate whether or not the corps would approve the proposal.

(The county has agreed to contribute $35,000 to help offset the additional $100,000 charge because of public benefit.)

Another problem still to be resolved is the purchase of private lands in the canal's proposed path. In question are six parcels, some 800,000 square feet of underwater property, Five owned by George Kappas of Gate Six and the sixth by the estate of Thomas Gardiner of Berkeley.

The county acting in behalf of Flood Control District Five, which will purchase the land "for flood control purposes", filed a condemnation suit in November and received a court order of immediate possession. However, the condemnation price is still in question and Kappas believes he is entitled to much more than $35,000 offered him by the county.

Federal funding of the corps share still has to be confirmed. Pape said the project would be presented as part of its fiscal 1970-71 budget request for small projects.

Although the appropriation does not need to be approved by Congress, it must be approved by Gen. Frederick Clark, chief of engineers at the pentagon.

Another unknown factor — one more which could kibosh the project — is whether President Richard M. Nixon's order to halt most government construction projects would affect the canal dredging.

The biggest question, of course, is whether the assessment district will accept the increased cost. Mill Valley, one of the most eager members only carries a 10 per cent share. Other property owners needing the canal-owners of the Bothin Yacht Harbor development near Tamlapais Junction and those of the Shelter Bay apartments — certainly will not protest.

However, what the other property owners, most of whom claim they will derive no direct benefits from the canal, will do is a question which will not be answered until the protest hearings are completed.

Murderer Gets Stay Of Execution

A 39-year-old convicted murderer, scheduled to die in the gas chamber at San Quention Prison Oct. 8, has received a stay of execution.

Prison officials said the stay was granted Sept. 12 by U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas pending filing of a writ.

Meanwhile, execution dates have been set by the courts for two other Death Row inmates at San Quentin.

Charley Luther Pike, 36, who killed a Los Angeles policeman during a robbery, is scheduled to die Nov. 5, while Liskie T. Mabry, 55, also convicted of killing a policeman, is to be executed on Nov. 12.

Session With Gardiner On Arson Suspects Is Sought

Marinwood Community Services District directors decided last night to ask Marin Juvenile Judge Samuel W. Gardiner for a conference to discuss the problem of juvenile arson suspects who are released immediately after arrest.

John F. McInnis, chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, attended the meeting and explained that under state law, minors cannot be detained for any length of time except in unusual cases.

Director Frank Solomon Jr. reported that John W. Brewer, a probation officer, has agreed to notify the fire chief whenever an arson suspect is released after apprehension. Fire Chief Gaylord E. Bonfield said that in the past, no such notification was given.

The directors granted Bonfield a raise in salary from $912 per month to $958 beginning next month and voted a letter of commendation to the chief for an "outstanding job" since he took over six months ago.

Marinwood Community Services District directors also:

TAX RATE — Announced that the district tax rate this year will be $1.23 per $100 assessed valuation, a drop of 6.5 cents from last year's $1.295.

PROBATION AIDES — Heard from director Jack G. Nixon that a meeting will be held with probation department officials to see if a community volunteer group can be formed to help supervise youths on probation.

YOUTH COMMISSION — Solomon reported that the Marinwood Youth Commission budget this year will be $1,200, with the youths raising half the amount.

VANDALISM — Decided to ask the youth commission whether clean-up brigade can be set up to clean rocks and dirt thrown into the community center buildings and pool area by vandals.

Tube Left In Heart; Patient Sues Hospital

PALO ALTO (UPI)—A Palo Alto man with a nine-inch piece of tubing in his chest has sued Stanford University Medical Center for $500,000 for leaving it there.

Keith McCoy, 60, a retired federal employee, filed a damage suit in Santa Clara Superior Court charging that a nurse left the catheter tube in a blood vessel near his heart during an operation last May 23.

McCoy, who is undergoing treatment for heart disease at Palo Alto Veter.'s Hospital, said doctors told him they cannot remove the tube without killing him.

Catheters are used to inject and extract fluids from blood vessels in order to keep a passageway open.

The suit said the nine-inch segment apparently broke off and wasn't discovered until an X-ray was taken later.

McCoy's suit did not name any physicians as defendants. Hospital spokesmen declined comment.

Penalty Trial Set In Novarro Slaying

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A penalty trial was set for next Tuesday for the elder of two Chicago brothers found guilty of the first degree murder of silent film star Ramon Novarro.

The same jury of seven men and five women which convicted Paul Robert Ferguson, 23, and Thomas Scott Ferguson, 18, yesterday will decide whether Paul will be sentenced to life in prison or death in the gas chamber. The panel has been ordered sequestered until the penalty phase begins.

Span Officials Find No Cash In Capital

Five Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District officials who hunted for three days this week in Washington for federal money to help get the district into the transit business have returned empty handed.

"It was a successful trip in many ways," said Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Leuhring, "but we did not come back with any money."

A meeting with the assistant administrator for urban mass transit in the Department of Transportation, William B. Hurd, convinced the bridge officials "it will be rought to get money this fiscal year, but not quite impossible," Luehring said.

California already had overdrawn by $7 million its share of department grants that can pay up to two thirds of the cost of new equipment, Hurd told the bridge officials. The state also has more than used up its share of grants to demonstrate new transit system, she noted.

And al remaining federal funds are earmarked for other projects, Hurd told them.

Luehring said Hurd assured them that federal money for a rapid transit system "is on the way," but couldn't predict when.

During the fast visit he also got word from the Army that it has denied the district's application to sell liquor at a proposed restaurant at the toll plaza, but that the district could reapply next year after the Army completes a review of its regulations.

France presented the Statue of Liberty to the United States July 4, 1884.

Training Jobs For Handicapped

Five mentally retarded persons, receiving total disability grants from the Marin County Welfare Department, will be given jobs in a training program designed to enable them to work for pay at simple tasks.

They are among 300 persons eligible for $600 grants from the state Departments of Rehabilitation and Social Welfare.

The program will train the retarded persons in sorting, assembling, mailing, housekeeping and other manual jobs, for which they will be paid at the standard rate.

Locally the program will be handled by the Marin Community Workshop at 72K Woodland Avenue, San Rafael.

$200 Cash Loss

Marin Shakespeare Festival officials reported yesterday a plywood shack on the grounds at Forest Meadows, San Rafael, had been entered during the night and about $200 in cash taken, police said today.

Newsmen Nabbed For Violating Judge's Ban

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal officials began arresting newsmen and photographers in the Federal Building today on grounds that they violated an order banning radio and telvision broadcasting and photography in federal courtrooms and their environs.

The order, issued yesterday by William J. Campbell, chief federal judge in Chicago, barred broadcasting and photography on floors housing courtrooms and the ground floors, plaza and sidewalks surrounding the court house.

The first arrested today were Michael Rollins, a reporter for radio station WCFL, and Arvid Carlson, a camerman for WGN-TV, who were in the lobby of the building.

Immediately after these arrests, other newsmen in the lobby of the Federal Building began turning on their cameras and tape recorders and were arrested.

They were not immediately identified.

At the time of his arrest, Rollins was taping an interview with Sherman H. Skolnick about a suit Skolnick had just filed as a private citizen challenging the constitutionality of Judge Campbell's order.

Skolnick was holding a press conference at the time about his suit and was surrounded by reporters.

After Rollins turned on his tape recorder, Frank Reddy, supervising deputy U.S. marshal, warned him that he was violating the order.

Skolnick, a legal researcher, then demanded that he be arrested because he had invited the newsmen to attend his press conference there.

Assembled reporters were then told by John Adams, chief deputy marshal:

"We are asking any people with recording devices or cameras to leave. If you won't, you are under arrest."

When Rollins continued to tape, Adams asked him: "Do you refuse to stop?" Rollins replied that he would continue and Adams arrested him.

Carlson, who was holding but not using a camera, was arrested shortly afterward by Reddy. Carlson argued that the order prohibited actual filming and that he was not using his camera.

Judge Campbell issued his order a week before the scheduled trial of eight antiwar leaders charged with crossing state lines to promote a riot.

The judge said the action was taken to bring about "uniformity at all United States District courthouses throughout the country, and at the direction of the Judicial Conference of the United States."

In the past, the lobby of the Federal Building often has been used by the news media for press conferences with U.S. Atty. Thomas A. Foran.

Skolnick, too, has in the past used the lobby and other floors in the building for press conferences.

Skolnick has filed numerous court actions against public officials, alleging various forms of misconduct.

His latest suit, filed with Mrs. Harriett Sherman, states that the pleaintiffs are acting as representatives of all persons who watch television and listen to radio, particularly news programs.

Hickel Says Oil Leakage Way Down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Oil seepage from the sea floor in the Santa Barbara Channel off the California coast has dropped to about 10 barrels a day, Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel said today.

Hickel said this was only a third of the average daily flow from March through June. Seepage exceeded 500 barrels a day immediately after a Union Oil Co. well blew out in the channel last January, fouling beaches in the area.

Dr. W. T. Pecora, director of the U. S. Geological Survey, in a report to Hickel credited the reduced seepage to an "intensive program" of cementing fractures in the channel floor and selective pumping to reduce pressure in oil and gas bearing sands.

Hickel pledged further efforts to reduce the flow of oil into channel waters.

"This department will not relax its vigilance," the Interior secretary said in a statement. "We shall continue to do all that is necessary to reduce the present seepage below the natural level existing at thos location prior to the blowout."

Both the cementing and selective pumping procedures were recommended by a presidential panel headed by Dr. Lee A. Dubridge, president Nixon's science adviser.

Independence Idea Backed For Chamber

The plan of developer Paul Golis to make the Rohnert Park Chamber of Commerce independent of city government drew support yesterday at the chamber directors meeting.

Golis reviewed his plan to have the chamber solicit members for a three-year period to insure adequare financing and to do away with the annual appropriation from the city council.

The developer said that a self-supporting chamber could then urge the council to do away with the business license tax and attract more new businesses to the city. Acknowledging that some members remain concerned about the proposal, Golis said, "The proof of the pudding is to try it."

President John Henman supported Golis's plan and appointed a committee to meet Wednesday at 7 a.m. to review the possibilities. Committee members include Henman, Golis, Kennth Cummings, Maurice Fredericks, James Groom and Bart C. Mitchell. Councilman Arthur N. Roberts will be the council representative at the session.

Ellsberg Back At Principal's Desk

Alan W. Ellsberg returned to his job today as principal of San Rafael High School, recovered from a heart attack which he suffered during surgery on Aug. 7.

Ellsberg made his first appearance at the school since opening of the fall term for a college night program last night.

Asst. Principal Wayne D. Boone has been acting principal during Ellsberg's absence.

Patrolman Halts An Apparent Span Jumper

Herbert Richard McAuley, 35, of Oakland was committed to San Francisco General Hospital for observation early today after he was stopped in an apparent attempt to jump off the Golden Gate Bridge, the California Highway Patrol said.

The patrol said McAuley stipped on the Sausalito lateral off Highway 101 shortly before midnight and ran towards the bridge where he was apprehended by a patrolman.

Canyon Check Leads To Drug Suspects

Seven youths were arrested by Mill Valley police yesterday after officers broke up an alleged pot party in the back reaches of Blithedale Canyon.

Booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of marijuana possession and being in a place where narcotics were used were Robert Edwin Blake II, 22, of Forrest Knolls; David Keith Blakey, 19, and Lisa Jane Strum, 18, both of 252 Scenic Avenue, San Anselmo.

William Cullen Packard III, 23, and Janet Ellen Shreve, 21, both of 248 West Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley, were booked on suspicion of maintaining and being in a place where narcotics are used and jarijuana possession. Richard Joseph Casorala, 19, of 1818a College Avenue, Kentfield, was booked in suspicion of being in a place where narcotics are used.

Stephen Pope Coleman, 16, of 27 West Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley, was taken to Marin County Juvenile Hall for investigation of marijuana possession.

Casorala, Blake and Miss Strum posted $250 bail and Miss Shreve $500 bail to appear at 2 p.m. tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court. Blakey was held pending $250 bail as was Packard pending $500 bail.

Police said officers were called to 248 West Blithedale Avenue, residence of Packard and Miss Shreve, at 3:54 p.m. yesterday following complaints by neighbors of loud noise. While talking to Casorala, officers found marijuana in the living room of the cottage, police said.

House Looted

Knox H. Finley of San Francisco reported to the sheriff's department that some time last week someone broke a window of his summer home at Stinson Beach and stole a shotgun, rifle, movie projector and two pairs of hunting boots, sheriff's officers said today.

Burglar Walks Off With $20

A burglar took $20 from a Tamalpais Valley home Tuesday afternoon while a visitor was on the telephone calling Mill Valley police about an attempted entry, sheriff's deputies reported yesterday.

Deputies said Elizabeth Jannett Nulf of New Haven, Conn., was at the home of Ray Jackson, 220 Cleveland Avenue, at 3:40 p.m. when she suspected someone was trying to enter.

The burglar entered and walked around while she was telephoning police, and $20 was taken.

GUN-TOTING COW HERDERS DRAW FINES

Three San Rafael men, armed with rifles and the explanation they only were looking for stray cattle, were fined $50 each and placed on one year of probation yesterday by West Marin Justice Court Judge David R. Baty.

They were cited on Sept. 17 by Park Ranger Olsen Inman on the Murphy Ranch at Point Reyes National Seashore for possession of a gun on government property. Fined were Frank G. Merz, 45, of 179 Reservoir Road; Raymond J. Finegan, 50, of 2060 Fifth Avenue, and Robert M. Nave, 43, of 4 Ranch Road, reported clerk Stella Phillipshcheck.

Richard S. Nystrom, 20, of San Mateo, was given 90 days probation by Judge Baty for swimming nude at Stinson Beach on Sept. 6.

Branson Students In Merit Semifinals

The names of five seniors at Katharine Branson School, Ross, were omitted from a story yesterday in the Independent-Journal on students named semifinalists in the 1969-70 National Merit Scholarship program.

PG&E Defends Heavy Advertising Program

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A vice-president of Pacific Gas and Electric yesterday defended advertising expenses for gas appliances at a hearing into the coompany's request for a $26 million gas rate increase.

J. Y. De Young of PG&E told the Public Utilities Commission that the $4 million the company spends each year on advertising and promotion means lesser costs for customers.

"By maximizing the use of the gas system, facilities throughout the day and from season to season, costs of these facilities can be distributed over more units of service, thereby reducing the unit cost," Young said.

He said promoting the sale of gas air conditioners stimulates the use of gas during the summer season when heating units are not in use.

Citing a trend toward "electric living," Young said PG&E, "as a result of vigorous advertising and sales promotion programs . . . has been able to halt this decline in gas cooking and, to some extent, turn it around."

Actor's Son Faces Marijuana Charges

LAKE ARROWHEAD (UPI) —Peter Duryea, son of the late actor Dan Duryea, is accused in a formal complaint of possession of marijuana.

Duryea, 30, was among eight persons in a boat on Lake Arrowhead last Saturday observed by sheriff's deputies to throw overboard what appeared to be narcotics materials. The deputies seized tablets they believed to be LSD.

Haynsworth Gets Bar's Blessings

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The American Bar Association advised senators today that a committee that studied Judge Clement F. Haynsworth's qualifications agreed unanimously he is a "highly acceptable" choice for the Supreme Court.

Lawrence E. Walsh, New York, chairman of the ABA's Committee on The Federal Judiciary, told the Senate Judiciary Committee considering Haynsworth's nomination that his group interviewed numerous judges, lawyers, law professors and others in looking into Haynsworth's qualification.

"The members of the committee were unanimously of the opinion that Judge Haynsworth was highly acceptable from the viewpoint of professional qualification," Walsh said.

"All of the persons interviewed regarding Judge Haynsworth expressed confidence in his integrity, his intellectual honesty, his judicial temperament and his professional ability.

"A few regretted the appointment because of differences with Judge Haynsworth's ideological point of view, preferring someone less conservative. None of these gentlemen, however, expressed any doubts as to Judge Haynsworth's intellectual integrity or his capability as a jurist."

Walsh also reviewed Haynsworth's interest in a vending company which had contracts with the parent firm of a textile mill involved in a labor relations case before the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals, of which Haynsworth is a member, in 1963.

Walsh said the conclusion was that Haynsworth "had no interest, direct or indirect, in the outcome of the case before his court. There was no basis for any claim of disqualification and it was his duty to sit as a member of his court."

Haynsworth voted with the majority in a 3-2 decision that rejected an unfair labor practices charge against the textile mill which had contracts for machines of the company in which the judge holds one-seventh interest.

Besides that case, a new conflict allegation against Haynsworth was raised today: whether he was stockholder of a firm which benefited from one of his decisions last year.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., leader of the committee's liberals who kept Haynsworth on the witness stand for most of the two days, raised the question late yesterday after Haynsworth left for the day. Bayh said he would demand answer today.

Haynsworth owns about $18,000 worth of Brunswick Corp. stock. The question was whether he owned it when he joined two other judges last year in a unanimous decision giving Brunswick the right to seize 10 bowling lanes and pinsetters from a South Carolina bowling alley proprietor who had defaulted on his payments.

If he did, Bayh said, he clearly had a conflict of interest, especially under the Supreme Court's interpretation that judges should "avoid even the appearance of bias" no matter how honest they are.

Rights Group Help Sought For Center

The Novatans for Racial Equality was asked last night to help organize a skills center for people of low income in Novato.

Gail Pheller, Economic Opportunity Council program developer, outlined the program for the Novato group at the Bank of Marin meeting room. Such a center would concentrate on young women giving them vocational training in bookkeeping, typing and shorthand, and personal training in grooming to get jobs, she said.

The low income families do not use the public adult evening high school programs because of the cost of hiring a baby sitter, or embarrassment at not reading properly, Mrs. Pheller added.

The center should have about 35 to 40 people of low income to make it economically feasible. It could then be financed by a grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, she said. The Novatans for Racial Equality hopes to get the center established by the first of the year.

Two such centers are now in operation in San Anselmo and

Marin Savings, Loan Firm's Sale Is Voted

Stockholders of Marin County Financial Corp. have approved sale of all stock of its operating subsidiary, Marin County Savings and Loan Association, to Pacific Coast Holdings Inc. of San Mateo.

Approval by the Marin County Financial stockholders was announced today by Clyde H. Charlton, president of Pacific Coast Holdings. He said 95.5 per cent of stockholders approved the transaction.

Marin County Financial stockholders will receive 1.534 shares of Pacific Coast Holdings for each share of their stock. Marin County Financial Corp. will be dissolved.

Pacific Coast Holdings shares closed in over-the-counter trading today at $8 bid, $8.75 asked. Last sale of Marin County Savings stock, before trading was suspended because of merger negotiations, was reported at about $5.

Fred F. Enemark, executive vice president of Marin County Savings, will become executive vice president and managing officer of the combined association, announced Charlton. He will retain his office at the association's Marin office, the present Marin County Savings and Loan at 900 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

Principal office of Pacific Coast Holdings is at 417 South B Street, San Mateo. The insitution, with assets of nearly $100 million, also has offices in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

The merger is subject to approval by regulatory agencies.

Sale of Marin County Savings marks the second disappearance through merger this year of locally established savings and loan institutions in the county. Northwestern Savings and Loan Association was merged with Fidelity Savings and Loan Association of Berkeley in March.

Contract For Pipeline Given

The Bolinas Community Public Utility District board last night awarded a contract for the laying of the Wharf Road pipeline to contractor Earl E. Gilson of San Anselmo, who submitted the lowest of five bids at $29,980, district secretary Jane Phillips reported today.

The project is scheduled to be completed before the winter rains, she said.

The board tentatively set the first public hearing on the proposed $2.3 million Bolinas-Stinson Beach sewage system for 8 p.m. Oct. 24 at the Bolinas Community Center.

District officials also announced that any of the eight candidates for the three open seats on the board in the Nov. 4 election can obtain information on the district at the district office.

Beatles Offer Queen A Tribute

LONDAN (AP) — The Beatles have come up with an affectionate singing tribute to Queen Elizabeth II, who gave them the Order of the British Empire in 1968.

Is the quartet's latest long-playing record, out Sept. 26, Paul McCartney voices a song with the punch line "Her Majesty's a pretty nice girl, so some time I'm gonna make her mine. Oh yeah, some day I'm gonna make her mine."

A Beatle press agent said the Beatles "are all monarchists" and that "Paul sang that knowing the Queen would enjoy it." He said a copy of the record would be sent to Buckingham Palace.

Peace Mission For Battleship Proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., has proposed that the battleship New Jersey, just retired from Vietnam service, be painted white, renamed the USS Peace and sent around the world on a goodwill mission. He said she should carry the "implements" of peace such as the Declaration of Independence, some moon rocks and a modern American kitchen.

"She could be displayed in ports around the world," Murphy said, "to give graphic evidence by her size, and by her potential for destruction, of the powerful forces at the command of this country."

Ecumenical Housing Bloc Reconsiders Advisory Role

The Ecumenical Association for Housing agreed last night to reconsider its possible role as a citizens advisory council for low and moderate income family housing units to be constructed in the future.

The decision on who should become the citizens advisory group on family housing for the county's Workable Program for Community Improvement will be made by the board of supervisors following an Oct. 25 housing conference.

The association was recommended by the Marin Housing Authority in July to serve as the advisory group, but members declined the role for the time being, wanting nothing to deter the association from its prime function of facilitating construction.

Association architect Herbert McLaughlin reported on job studies including a possible elderly housing project on Lincoln Avenue San Rafael.

Executive director Martin Mackey reported Our Lady of Loretto Church in Novato, is a new member, bringing to 29 the number of organization represented. Betty Moody is the church's delegate to the association.

The next meeting will be at 8 p.m. Oct. 15 at the Civic Center. Marin Savings

Students Can Get Advice On Drugs Via Phone

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Starting Monday, Sacramento State College students will be able to make a telephone call and get advice on the draft, drugs, abortions and other problems of young people.

A group of students has set up Crisis Line which students can dial for counseling—most of which will be given by psychiatrists, medical doctors and ministers in the community.

Student body president Steve Whitemore said yesterday the counseling service is designed to help "the many students who are very reluctant to go to people in the community for help. They fear being turned in to parents, authorities or school officials."

Three Drivers Handed Fines

Three men have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving. All were placed on six months probation by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr.

Robert Baker Rorick, 44, of 8 Ames Avenue, Ross, who was arrested March 20 on Highway 101, was fined $200.

James Anderson Mulaney, 38, of San Francisco, was fined $125. He was arrested March 15 on Highway 101.

Ronald William Stratton, 26, of 377 San Luis Way, Novato was fined $125. He was arrested June 22 on Highway 37.

McNear's Beach Sale No Block To Parksite

If Marin County wants to buy the McNear's Beach property for a bayfront park, it did not suffer a setback from yesterday's foreclosure sale, County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said today.

"In fact, the county may be in a better position because the title has been cleared," added Maloney.

If the county decision is to go ahead with purchase, Maloney said he would recommend that an appraisal be made and negotiations started with the new owner, Sixty Trust, which foreclosed on the beach property at a price of $518,034. Sixty Trust is the operating employees trust fund for Textron Corp., represented by attorney Charles K. Mills of San Francisco.

Maloney warned, however, that the $518,000 figure does not necessarily reflect the true market value of the property. "It is not related to the market value but solely to the amount owed to the beneficiary, Sixty Trust."

William C. Sullivan, assistant right-of-way engineer in the department of public works, said the McNear's Beach property contains between 22 and 28 acres including 13 acres of water.

Since 1967, the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission and Director Pierre W. Joske have been discussing the acquisition of a bayfront park, either at China Camp or at McNear's Beach. Joske is in Chicago attending a national convention and not available for comment.

James Vandeweg, park coordinator, said the county now has $339,000 in the county budget for a bayfront park. In addition, $86,250 is available from the 1964 state bond act funds, but this carries the stipulation that the acquistion must be for a park of at least 50 acres. The county also has an application in for $275,000 in federal aid from the land and water conservation fund. This grant, not yet approved, is contingent on a 50-acre purchase and on approval of the site to be purchased. Total funds available or applied for thus come to $700,000.

Supervisors Chairman John F. McInnis said that to the best of his knowledge, the county supervisors have not taken a stand in the purchase of a specific bayfront park.

However, at a workshop session with the parks and recreation commission and staff about a year or year and a half ago, McInnis said the supervisors asked the park and recreation staff to consider both China Camp and McNear's Beach for acquisition.

McInnis said McNear's Beach seems to be more feasible of the two because China Camp lacks adequate space such as for parking, and land cost and severance damage would be almost prohibitive.

Company Hired To Chop Down Marin City Fence

The controversial high fence at the Marin City underpass will be removed within six weeks under a $72,838 contract bid won yesterday by Brown-Ely Co. Contractors of San Rafael, the state Division of Highways reported.

The present 15-foot-high fence was built over a year ago to prevent rock throwing by youngsters using the underpass at Highway 101, and became a symbol to the community of a racial barrier.

The two-month project also includes repair of the roadway, regrading and improved drainage to eliminate the pools of water which resulted in the splashing of pedestrians by passing motorists.

The new sidewalk fence will be an eight-foot-high chain link fence with green vinyl-coated fabric, and will be extended to Bridgeway.

Argentine Army Acts Vs. Riots

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The army took over law enforcement in Argentina's second largest city last night to quell rioting in which two persons were killed.

Brig. Gen. Henriberto Robinson, commander of the 2nd Army Corps, said the soldiers in Rosario, 185 miles northwest of Buenos Aires, had orders to "shoot to kill" if necessary to restore order.

Sausalito Bond Urged As Least Costly Way To Meet Needs

Proposed bond issues totaling $230,000 for three Sausalito projects will not require any tax increase and can be paid over 20 years from existing revenues, according to City Mgr. George M. Patterson.

It would also cost more to complete each project separately, he said.

Patterson and members of the city council answered citizens questions about the bond issues for expansion of the fire station, purchase and expansion of the police station and reconstruction of Tiffany Beach at a public meeting in city hall last night.

In an information sheet distributed at the meeting and available at city hall, Patterson said the bond issues, on the November ballot, can be paid off at about $20,000 a year for 20 years.

This amount can be funded out of current revenue, $3,300 of which is already spent annually for lease of the part of the building now being used by the police department, the information sheet said.

With construction costs rising 8 to 10 per cent per year, Patterson said it would be more expensive for the city to complete the projects one at a time by accumulating funds over a period of years.

"If the city planned to accumulate funds, they would have to set aside at least $20,000 per year, which is at least as much, if not more, than would be required annually to pay the bonds off if the bond issue is approved," he said. "By approving the bond issue, the city will spend less money and have the improvements now when they are needed."

Patterson said the proposed expansion of Fire Station No. 1, now 29 years old, would provide the space needed for equipment housing, additional training room, work and storage areas and an improved communications area.

If the police station bond issue wins voter approval, a one-story addition of 900 square feet will be built on the south side of the present building.

The Tiffany Beach project would reconstruct the beach, virtually eliminated by the widening of Bridgeway, expanding its size from the previous 5,700 square feet to 12,700 square feet.

Opposition to the proposed bond issue for the beach, however, came yesterday in a letter to the council from the Sausalito Citizens Council. Citing what it termed the city's failure to maintain and police existing public parks, the council's board of directors said the beach project should be postponed until existing parks are brought "up to a standard which will allow our taxpayers to be proud of them and enable our residents to use them without fear or embarrassment."

In a letter signed by board president Arie Slikkerveer, the council's directors said they would support the two bond measures for the police and fire stations. But they added that funds to pay off these bonds "should not come at the expense of existing city operating and maintenance costs."

The letter criticized the city for failing to keep Vina del Mar available for local residents, and said Gabrielson Park "became an eyesore when taken over some months ago by the city.

To reach the 15,000-foot-high Cerro de Pasco copper region in Peru, trains pass through 65 tunnels, cross 67 bridges, and swing around 16 switchbacks. Several railways and highways have been built to the high plateaus, but few pass the cordilleras into the eastern lowlands.

Sausalito Backs County Bicycle Path Adoption

An amendment adding a countywide bicycle path to the Marin County parks and recreation plan was endorsed last night by the Sausalito Planning Commission.

The proposed bicycle paths system would link all the cities in the county, the Golden Gate Bridge and West Marin.

The commission put off until Oct. 15 a public hearing on an application for a conditional use permit by Joseph Duffel for an apartment development on the old American Distillery site just outside the city limits. The hearing has been postponed several times in the past.

In other action, the commission approved an encouragement permit for Walter Silva for a sign for the new Paterson's pub at 739 Bridgeway to project into the public right-of-way.

Burglary Case To Higher Court

Charles R. McCaffrey, 23, San Rafael, yesterday was bound over to Marin Supeior Court on a burglary. He is to appear in court Sept. 29 for arraignment.

Judge Peter Allen Smith of municipal court said he will make a decision next Tuesday whether to hold a co-defendant, Rodney B. Williams, 19, for trial.

The men are accused of breaking the window of a San Rafael antique store on Aug. 12 and stealing an antique telephone.

Students Get Role As Teacher Judges

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—President Charles Hitch today ordered student evaluations of teaching effectiveness added to the criteria for selection of University of California faculty members.

Hitch issued revised instructions on faculty appointments and promotions calling for more emphasis on teaching—a demand made by both dissident students and unhappy taxpayers.

However, the U.C. president's instructions left the oft-criticized "publish or perish" criterion as the other indispensable qualification for faculty selection. Hitch referred to it as "research or other creative achievement."

His orders went to the departmental committees responsible for faculty appointments and promotions on the nine U.C. campuses. They set forth procedures to be followed in reviewing each candidate's worth. Hitch issued them as the board of regents opened a two-day meeting.

In addition to an increased emphasis on teaching, the president called for greater flexibility in judging faculty members departing "from traditional academic patterns," particularly those participating in "new fields of endeavor," such as the urban crisis program.

Student evaluations were a new feature of the instructions.

"It is the responsibility of the department chairmen to submit meaningful statements, accompanied by evidence, including evaluations of the candidate solicited from students, concerning the candidate's teaching effectiveness at lower-division, upper-division, and graduate levels of instruction," one section read.

"If such information is not included in the letter of recommendation, it is the review committee chairman's responsibility to request it, through the chancellor."

"Effective teaching is an essential criterion to appointment or advancement; under no circumstances will a tenure commitment be made unless there is clear documentation of ability and diligence in the teaching role," the instructions said.

Homeowners Endorse Hub Drainage Idea

Eventual placing of a by-pass conduit beneath San Anselmo's Center Boulevard to preserve the natural state of Corte Madera Creek was endorsed last night by members of the San Anselmo Homes Association last night.

Panelists Donald R. Frost, county director of public works; Paul C. Zucker, county planning director, and Philip B. Lygren, Ross town engineer-agreed this method of flood control would save the creek from radical change, reported president Paul Brand.

Members also commended San Anselmo city councilmen for supporting a design study for the creek along with the county and the City of Ross.

A resolution to endorse the Save Our Seashore drive for immediate federal acquisition of lands at Point Reyes was also passed.

Needle Mark Found On Convict's Body

A fresh needle mark on his right arm and a small puncture on the inside of his left wrist have been found on the body of Arlie C. Nation, 29, who was found dead yesterday in his San Quentin cell, Richard Fontaine, assistant county coroner, reported today. Their cause has not yet been determined.

The Fresno man, in prison for manslaughter and possession of marijuana, had no record of chronic or recent illness to account for his death and an autopsy will be performed, Fontaine said.

Pleads Innocent To Marijuana Charge

An innocent plea to a charge of possessing marijuana was entered yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for Michael Brand Galvin, 22, of San Anselmo. A preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 14.

The youth was arrested in San Anselmo Aug. 25, when drug agents said they saw him and another man walking down San Anselmo Avenue apparently sharing a marijuana cigarette. The agents said the other man swallowed the cigarette, but Galvin had two others with him.

Spock Tells Of March In War Protest

Spock told newsmen that 500,000 persons were expected to take part in the Nov. 14-15 march from Arlington Cemetery past the White House and to the Capitol.

The baby doctor contended that the announcement by Nixon that 35,000 troops would be withdrawn from Vietnam was a "sop" and a "fraud" to weaken antiwar demonstrations.

Spock said the first antiwar effort this fall would be a "Vietnam Moratorium" on Oct. 15, scheduled for 400 campuses.

On Oct. 25, he said, a demonstration will be staged in Chicago in support of eight persons on trial for conspiracy in connection with disorders outside the Democratic National Convention last August.

Spock was convicted June 14, 1968 in Boston of conspiring to counsel young men to violate Selective Service rules, but on July 11 the First U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals there threw out the conviction on the grounds of insufficient evidence. The government decided not to appeal.

Pair Is Booked As Car Theft Suspects

Two Oakland men were booked into Marin County Jail at 5 p.m. yesterday after Oakland police nabbed them in a car stolen Tuesday morning from an auto lot operated by Bianco Cadillac Agency at 205 Casa Buena Drive, Corte Madera.

Leon Lee Luster and Reginald Michael, both 25, did not post $1,200 bail and were to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

CREW GETS EXCITED

Storm-Tossed Boat Visited By Stork

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—The shrimp trawler Belvedere, which left Texas with four persons aboard, docked here today sporting a crew of five—including a two-day-old boy born aboard the wildly pitching vessel far out in the Gulf.

Mrs. Alice Raley, 29, and infant Talbert James Raley, were taken to a hospital in a station wagon after the vssel docked.

"No, I don't need an ambulance," Mrs. Raley said "but I thought they (the men aboard) would when I told them the baby was coming."

Mrs. Raley said she was aware the child was coming for about four hours before she told her husband, who is a deck hand aboard the cessel.

"I didn't tell them until right before the baby came," she said. "There wasn't anything they could do. There wasn't any way they could get me off the boat. I was afraid they'd get upset."

She said the baby came earlier than she expected "and quite a bit faster."

Her husband Thomas dragged a mattress into the gally, near the midship point where the pitching and rolling was least noticeable and aided his wife.

"The lightning was flashing, it was blowing about 35-40 miles an hour, we were shipping water and having trouble with the pump," Bothwell said. "It was about 4 o'clock in the morning and everything seemed to be happening at once."

He said the ship was about 200 miles south of the Mississippi Delta and he called the Coast Guard but had trouble getting them to understand the problem.

Mrs. Raley had been living in Galveston while her husband fished out of Freeport. But the trawler was ordered to return here to be outfitted for Atlantic Coast fishing off Georgia, and Mrs. Raley decided to save bus fare and make the Gulf crossing with her husband.

Injury Mishap In Wind Tunnel

SUNNYVALE (UPI) — One person was injured and a helicopter was severely damaged yesterday when "an object" came through the wall of the NASA wind tunnel at Moffett Field and hit the craft.

Hiram MacDonald, 33, an employee of the Army's aviation material laboratories at Fort Eustis, Va., suffered a cut face, according to the Stanford Medical Center.

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the accident took place while an AH56A Cheyenne helicopter was in the tunnel at the Ames Research Center.

He declined to identify the object which came through the wall.

Mental Health Chief Target Of Complaints

A member of the Marin County Mental Health Advisory Board last night proposed holding a closed meeting to air complaints against Dr. Clyde G. Miller, director of Marin County Mental Health Services.

Sally Mishkind said she felt the meeting was necessary because many complaints about Miller have been received by both private and public agencies dealing with the mental health services department.

"There have been complaints, lots of them, and I think its about time we brought them into the open and discussed them," Mrs. Mishkind said.

Mrs. Mishkind also said that she and other members have received complaints about Miller, most of them dealing with an apparent breakdown in communications between Miller and other mental health agencies.

Mrs. Miskind's proposal was immediately challenged by Thomas F. Campanella, assistant county administrator, who said he felt the advisory board had no right to hold a closed session because it does not have the right to hire or fire personnel. Miller is responsible to the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

"I would caution the board against scheduling such a meeting without first checking with county counsel," Campanella said.

Mrs. Mishkind said she would check and report back at the Oct. 24 meeting of the group.

Donald P. Wilson, director of the Community Mental Health Clinic at Marin General Hospital supported Mrs. Mishkind's charges and her proposal.

"Frankly I'm stunned, about the way things are going," he said. "The lines of communication between myself and Dr. Miller are practically nonexistant."

"We have the essence of a tremendous program here in Marin," Wilson said, "But there's a lot of problems to iron out and I'm practically being ignored by Miller and his staff."

"I do hope we get things straightened out, either at the meeting on the 24th or in a closed meeting," he added.

Wilson became upset with Miller during the meeting when Miller began outlining his 1970 program. Wilson said that it was the first he had heard of it and indicated that for the good of the county the two men should have worked together and coordinated their programs.

Miller countered the attack by saying that Wilson himself had not yet even sent over his (Wilson's) 1970 budget.

"I'd be glad to go over it," Miller said, "if you'd just send it to me. I'm still patiently waiting."

The board also began its review of the budget for the next fiscal year and spent most of that time on Dr. Miller's administrative budget, according to Dr. Paul A. Steinman, president of the advisory board.

The current budget is $167,633 and Dr. Miller proposed $198,016, he said.

The board recommended against hiring a second evaluation analyst, a $15,000 a year post, Steinman said.

The total current budget is $2,552,596 and the proposed budget is $2,826,901.

It is being studied so early because it has to go to the board of supervisors and then to the state because the state provided about 90 per cent of the budget.

A special meeting was set for next Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Marin General Hospital to study several new programs for mental health as submitted by various interested organizations.

The board also approved a resolution asked the board of supervisors that any mental health related programs be brought to the director of the community mental health center and to the advisory board before the supervisors act.

New Reading Room Will Open Saturday

The Christian Science Reading Room of Belvedere will open at a new location, 7 Beach Road, for the first time from 1 to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Formerly in the court of the Boardwalk Shopping Center, the reading room, maintained by the First Church of Christ Scientist of Belvedere, has displays of books and periodicals.

Burglars Hit Leader Of Blues Band

Steve Miller, leader of a blues band, had the blues after someone took clothing, guitars, albums and personal belongings, valued at $2,680 while he was playing in England.

Miller, of 277 Seadrift Road, Stinson Beach, left his bus van loaded with belongings at the rear of a gasoline service station at Stinson Beach, while he was on tour.

Sheriff's deputies said the burglary, reported Monday, occurred Aug. 30. Among the items taken were five guitars, four speakers, two pair of binoculars, a camera, television set, albums, a sheepskin coat and rabbitskin coat, deputies said. Entry was made by prying a wing window.

Donald A. Vichick of 597 Idylberry Road, Marinwood, reported that someone took $12 from a wallet in his kitchen sometime between 5 and 5:30 p.m. Monday.

Arnold W. Gerritsen of A Dock No. 41, Kappas Yacht Harbor, Waldo Point, reported that someone took a set of china and earphones, with a total value of $45, from his car while it was at the yacht harbor parking area. The burglary occurred sometime between 10 p.m. Monday and 8 a.m. Tuesday, deputies reported.

Retired Rabbi To Be Given Plaque

Retired Rabbi Morris Schussheim will receive a brass plaque at Sabbath eve services at 8:15 p.m. tomorrow at Congregation Kol Shofar, 200 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael. The tribute will recognize Rabbi Schussheim's service to the congregation.

Rabbi Jacob Milgrom will officiate at the service and Walter Hotzner will chant the liturgical portions. A reception will follow.

Report Is Due On Legislation

A report on recent state legislation will be delivered before the Novato Republican Women Federated at 11 a.m. Tuesday at the Black Point Inn.

Mrs. Kurt Frisch, chairman of a legislative study group of the organization, will deliver the report.

Mrs. Glenn Barton, president of the club, will report on the Republican State Convention which concluded today in Anaheim.

Reservations may be made through Rae Ann De Haven of 4 Carmel Drive.

It's Game Of First Place Roulette In N.L.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Los Angeles finally came up a winner in that National League west craze—first-place roulette—but Hank Aaron's slug fouled up the whole thing for the Dodgers.

The veteran outfielder clobbered his 42nd homer of the season leading off the 12th inning last night to give Atlanta a 6-5 victory over the Dodgers.

That ended Los Angeles' eight-hour tenure as head of the torrid divisional chase, and put the Braves back into the leaders role they had lost only the night before.

Actually, the Braves were the third team to lead the hot race at one time or another yesterday.

SCRAMBLE

San Francisco started off the day in the No. 1 spot, but dropped to second behind the Dodgers after losing a 2-1 afternoon decision to Houston.

Then Atlanta's victory shoved the Dodgers from first to third, a half-game back of San Francisco and one game back of the Braves.

Cincinnati, meanwhile, is just a half-game behind the Dodgers after clubbing San Diego 10-5. All four of the leaders are even in the loss column, with 67 each.

Over in the N.L. East race, the New York Mets held on to their four-game lead by blanking Montreal 5-0, while second-place Chicago stopped Philadelphia 9-7.

Pittsburgh nipped St. Louis 4-2 in the other N.L. game.

In the American League, Detroit stopped Cleveland 5-0, New York edged Washington 2-1 in a game called after five innings because of rain, Oakland defeated Kansas City 3-2 in 10 innings, California whipped Minnesota 6-4 and Chicago swept a doubleheader from Seattle, 6-4 and 2-1. Baltimore's game at Boston was rained out.

TIE, 5-5

The Dodgers, who had been only percentage points back of the West leader since the first of the month but never in first until yesterday, used a two-run triple by Jim Lefebvre in the bottom of the eighth to tie it 5-5. Lefebvre was thrown out at the plate when he tried to score on an overthrow from the outfield for what would have been the winning run.

The Braves had grabbed a 5-3 lead in the top of the inning on a two-out RBI double by Gil Garrido and pitcher George Stone's run-scoring single.

Tony Perez knocked in three runs with three hits and Alex Johnson, Tommy Helms, Pete Rose and Woody Woodward each collected three hits in a 20-hit attack that spilled San Diego.

Jerry Koosman scattered six hits as the red hot Mets won their 12th in 13 games—and 28th in 35 starts—in reducing their magic number for winning the East title to 10.

SCORING

Ron Swoboda's single and Wayne Garrett's two-run single netted the Mets three runs in the fourth, and they scored again in the seventh on three walks and a squeeze bunt by Jerry Grote and in the ninth on Al Weis' RBI single.

Ferguson Jenkins lashed a bases-loaded triple in a five-run sixth inning, helping himself to his 20th victory, as the Cubs staggered to only their third triumph in their last 14 games.

Jenkins, who fanned six to break by one his own Cub season record of 260, became the first Chicago hurler in 50 years to post three successive 20-game winning seasons.

However, the Phils chased him in the eighth, when they erupted for four runs.

Ron Santo's two-run homer and Billy Williams' solo blast paced the Cubs' 14-hit attack.

Rookie Al Oliver's 17th homer—a two-run smash in the eighth—gave Pittsburgh its victory over the Cards.

TRANS-AM HEADLINERS AT SEARS

Mark Donohue of Media, Pa., in a Camaro led Peter Revson of New York in a Mustang and Jerry Grant of Escondido in a Javelin in this Trans-American Sedan Championship race action at Laguna Seca, Monterey, recently. Donohue, who won the Laguna Seca, will lead the powerful Camaro team to Sears Point Raceway Sunday for the Trans-Am 200-mile feature starting at 2 p.m. Challenging Camaro for the title at the Sonoma County road circuit will be a star-studded Mustang team led by Parnelli Jones, Dan Gurney and Revson. Terra Linda's Prep Football Monopoly

Back in the days when the New York franchise so thoroughly dominated the American League there was a battle cry throughout baseball to "Break up the Yankees!"

Well, on a smaller and local scale, Marin County Athletic League schools soon may be heard chanting "Breaking up the Trojans," referring to Terra Linda's monopoly of football glory.

Starting in 1966, the Trojans have tied for the MCAL title three consecutive years while building a 22-4-1 won-lost-tied record. Most observers pick them to be on top again this season, but the end apparently is not in sight. My spies in the Terra Linda-Marinwood-Lucas Valley sector say "Wait til next year." Um-hm, I have it on good authority that the 1970 T.L. grid machine will be even better than its four predecessors.

A Rough-Tough Schedule

Coach Don Lucas could guide the current Trojans to high ranking in Northern California prepdom if they survive a gruelling non-league schedule against Riordan of San Francisco, Hogan of Vallejo and Castlemont after that, the league foes could seem easy.

TENNIS WHIZ Michael Machette of Belvedere, a Redwood High grad, is enrolling at USC.

EX-DRAKE HIGH all-leaguer Karl Stein intercepted a pass and ran one kickoff back 11 yards in University of Montana's 24-10 victory over North Dakota last Saturday.

It Could Be Tony's Month

HE'LL BE running in some pretty fast company with the likes of Parnelli Jones, Dan Gurney, Mark Donohue, Ronnie Bucknum, Ron Grable, Peter Revson, etc., but Mill Valley veteran driver Tony Settember is rated a "man to watch" in Sunday's 200-mile Trans-American Sedan Championshipp race at Sears Point Raceway.

Settember has made one of the strongest showings of all the independent drivers in the series and his familiarity with the wild Sears Point road circuit should give him that much more of an advantage when he wheels his Camaro arund the 11 turns.

And, besides, this is the month of September, so watch out for Tony Sunday.

A Race For Millionaires

I AM TOLD at least three millionaires will be driving Mustangs at Sears Sunday. They are Jones, the former Indianapolis 500 winner, and versatile Gurney, who made their loot behind the wheel of fortune; but they probably take a back seat, financially, to teammate Revson, who happens to be heir to the Revlon Cosmetics fortune.

(And he drives a Mustang? So do I but you ought to see HIS garage!)

Motorsports buffs who bring transistor radios to Sunday's 80-lap main event will be able to pick up lap-by-lap reports over Sears Point's own radio station at 1490 on the dial.

Bouton Gets His Revenge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —It took Jim Bouton seven years for another crack at the San Francisco Giants, but the new Houston Astros' relief ace made the most of his second chance.

Bouton, who lost to the Giants in the 1962 World Series, hurled two innings of hitless relief yesterday, saving Larry Dierker's 20th victory, a 2-1 trimuph that knocked the Giants out of first place in the National League Western Division.

PLANS

"I was supposed to pitch against the Giants in the seventh game of the World Series," said the former New York Yankee star. "But it rained for five days and by then, Ralph Terry was ready to pitch again."

Bouton recorded his first N.L. save with the two-inning stint. Since joining the Astros from Seattle, the knuckleballing right hander has allowed four runs in 23 innings for a 1.60 earned run average.

"I only threw two fastballs—the rest were knucklers," Bouton said. "I enjoy the pennant pressure here and am glad that I had the opportunity to save Larry's 20th."

FIRST 20-GAMER

Nobody was happier than the 22-year-old Dierker, who despite a tired arm became the first Houston pitcher to win 20 games.

Jim Wynn's 32nd homer in the fourth and Doug Rader's 11th homer, a tie-breaking blast in the eighth, kept Houston in the pennant race.

Dierker survived a bases-loaded first inning jam in winning a pitching duel from Gaylord Perry, 17-14.

The Giants scored in the sixth on successive one-out singles by Willie Mays, Willie McCovey and Bobby Bonds.

The home run ball has been Perry's nemesis all season.

Young British Ryder Cup Golf Team Surprises U.S.

Takes First 3 Matches

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — Britain's young but experienced Ryder Cup players jumped into a surprising, 3-0, lead in today's morning round of foursome play by taking three of the four matches from their more famous rivals from the United States and getting a halve in the remaining match.

VICTORIES

Tony Jacklin, the youngster who is the British Open champion, and Peter Townsend, toughened in the U.S. winter circuit, downed Dave Hill of Jackson, Mich., and Tommy Aaron of Collaway Gardens, Ga., 3 and 1; Neil Coles and Brian Huggett bested Miller Barber of Sherman, Tex., and Ray Floyd of Lake Havasu City, Ariz., 3 and 2; and Barnard Gallagher, at 20 the youngest player ever to compete in this international, biennial pro golf competition, and Maurice Bembridge conquered Lee Trevino of Dallas and Ken Still of Tacoma, Wash., 2 and 1.

Christy O'Connor and Peter Alliss got the halve in the fourth match, playing to a standstill with Bill Casper of Bonita, Calif., and Frank Beard of Louisville, Ky.

IN ROUGH

They went to the final tee all square but Casper, using a wood, sent the U.S. second shot into the rough. However, Alliss missed a four-foot putt and cost the British a chance for another point.

Each victory is worth a point. Halved matches are thrown out.

Another round of foursomes was to be played this afternoon.

CLEVELAND (AP) — The United States got a break today when its No. 1 ace, Arthur Ashe Jr., was matched against Romania's Ilie Nastase in the opening match of the Davis Cup challenge round tennis competition starting tomorrow.

In the second match, Stan Smith, the United States' national champion from Pasadena, Calif. goes against Ion Tiriac, 30-year-old Romanian who has won his national title eight times.

The draw was considered a break for the Americans because Romania wanted Nastase to play Smith tomorrow. He had beaten Smith in the U.S. Open at Forest Hills, N.Y. Ashe also prefers to play the opener.

AFTERNOON HOME GAMES

Tamalpais, Marin Catholic Kick Off Prep Grid Season

Tamalpais and Marin Catholic will get a jump on the rest of the Marin County high school football teams when they open their seasons tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 p.m.

The Indians of Tam, on a rebuilding program under new head coach Mike Davlin, test Salesian of Richmond on Tamalpais' field and the Wildcats of Marin Catholic gun for a second straight winning season under new head coach Cliff Vattuone, opening off against Albany on the Wildcats' field.

The rest of the high school teams in Marin County open tomorrow night, Saturday afternoon and Saturday night.

SCHEDULE

Tomorrow night, Terra Linda takes on mighty Riordan of San Francisco in Kezar Stadium, Novato goes against Montgomery at Santa Rosa, Drake visits Petaluma High at Durst Field, San Rafael hosts Napa and San Rafael Military Academy foes to Maxwell High School in Colusa County. All games are at 8 p.m.

"We're about a week behind in our work," Davlin said of his Indians. "We've had to bring along the young kids slowly."

Of the 28 Indians on the varsity squad, only nine are seniors.

The Indians will be going against a team that has a game under its belt and is much the worse for it. Salesian absorbed a 26-0 thumping at the hands of Ceres of Modesto last week.

Salesian is paddling in the same boat as the Indians. They're young and inexperienced and reportedly on a "rebuilding program."

Marin Catholic, with almost all of its line back from last year's first winner in the school's history, will take on Albany, a team it has beaten over the last three years.

AGAIN?

Vattuone and his Wildcats would like to do it again, with a bigger margin than last year's harrowing 13-6 win.

Vattuone was pleased with the Wildcats' showing in a scrimmage against Tamalpais last week, especially with the pass defense and running game.

Marin Catholic Lineup

Ends — Leo Fahy, Jon Melvin.
Tackles — Rich Rutte, John Rasmussen.
Guards — Rick Fox, Tom O'Connor.
Center — Rich English.
Quarterback — Paul Sherry.
Halfbacks — Mark Lewis, Steve Nelson.
Fullback — Dennis Finnegan.

'Catfish' Ends Win Famine

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Jim "Catfish" Hunter admits he was beginning to wonder if he'd ever win another baseball game.

The Oakland Athletics' young right-hander eked out a 3-2 10-inning victory over the Kansas City Royals last night for his 10th win of the season against 15 defeats. He had lost eight straight decisions until last night.

"After 12 starts without a victory, I had some doubts I'd ever get No. 10," Hunter said. "At that, it had to be exciting, didn't it?"

LOSES LEAD

Hunter took a 2-1 lead into the ninth inning, then surrendered the tying run to the Royals on Mike Fiore's double, a flyout that advanced Fiore to third and a wild pitch.

Hunter was lifted for a pinch hitter in the top of the 10th, but the A's rallied to score while he still was the pitcher of record. Rookie Bob Brooks, who homered earlier in the game, singled home the winning run.

Paul Lindblad finished up for Hunter, preserving the win.

"When they tied it," Hunter said, "I thought it was lost."

The victory clinched second place in the American League West for the A's, who retain a mathematical but impractical chance of catching the Minnesota Twins.

"Where's the champagne?" Hunter quipped when asked if clinching second place meant anything. Fellow pitcher Jim Nash accommodated Hunter by pouring beer over his head.

Meanwhile, the A's got word from their owner, Charlie Finley, that he won't be happy unless they take the pennant, which at this stage of the season is almost impossible.

"I'm not pleased with finishing second," declared Finley, who has had nine managers in eight seasons.

"Winning isn't everything," Finley said by phone from Chicago, "but it sure as hell beats finishing second."

Asked about the status of A's manager Hank Bauer, who resigned as Finley's manager seven years ago, Finley answered:

"Firing somebody is my prerogative. The season is still on, they're still playing, and it hasn't even entered my mind.

"I haven't said whether I'm pleased or displeased with my manager. I am displeased with second place."

Chuck Dobson, 14-12, was scheduled to pitch tonight against Kansas City's Roger Nelson, 7-13.

Jacob Beam was a big, easy-smiling grain farmer who came through the Cumberland Gap in 1788 to homestead the fertile land now called Kentucky. And with the choicest grains from his harvest, Jacob made his own brand of Bourbon. Was it good? Everyone agreed it was the lightest, best-tasting Bourbon within a two days' ride. Today, you get that exact same taste with Jim Beam. Because for 175 years, we've made our Bourbon to the very same formula Jacob used. It's the Beam family art. Only one difference now. You don't have to ride a horse two days to get it. "World's finest Bourbon since 1795."

FOOTBALL ROUNDUP

Frank Ryan Trying Comeback

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vince Lombardi and Frank Ryan, a coach and a quarterback already etched in the record books, each will attempt comebacks with Washington as the Redskins open their National Football League season against New Orleans Sunday.

For Lombardi, it will be his first regular season game as Redskins coach after a legendary career with the Green Bay Packers. For the aging Ryan, once a superstar, then a reject with the Cleveland Browns, the Redskins offer a chance to make it as a quarterback with a new team, even though he'll be only No. 2.

PROFESSOR

Ryan, a 33-year-old part-time college professor with a PHD in math, led the Browns to the NFL title in 1964, the Eastern Conference crown in 1965 and the Century Division title in 1967 during a seven-year career. He led All-Star teams to victories in the Pro Bowl in 1966 and 1967.

But last year, the Browns benched Ryan after losing two of their first three games. Bill Nelsen took over and guided Cleveland to the conference championship. Early this month, the Browns dropped Ryan and he appeared to be at the end of the line until Washington signed him yesterday.

"It was frustrating only when we were losing," he said of his role last year. "Then I felt I could have helped."

149 TOUCHDOWNS

Ryan, who broke in with Los Angeles in 1958, has completed 1,088 out of 2,128 passes for 16,035 yards and has tossed for 149 touchdowns.

The Redskins will have to drop one player to make room for Ryan. They didn't say who would be cut.

New Orleans cut punter Tom McNeill to make room for cornerback-safety Carl Ward, who was obtained on waivers from Cleveland. The Saints said running back Joe Don Looney or Olie Cordill probably would take over punting.

Pittsburgh acquired flanker Don Alley from Baltimore and placed tackle Ernie Ruple on waivers to stay in the 40-man limit. Ruple was the Steelers' No. 2 draft pick in 1968.

Morrall Signs Colt Contract

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

BALTIMORE — Earl Morrall made it definite today by signing a contract that he will be available again this season as either starting or backup quarterback for the Baltimore Colts.

Morrall started every scheduled game in place of John Unitas last season and was voted Most Valuable Player in the National Football League. However, Unitas has regained the No. 1 position after working in the off-season to rehabilitate his sore right elbow.

GREEN BAY, Wis. — Quarterback Zeke Bratkowski has rejected an offer to join the Minnesota Vikings of the National Football League as a player and will remain in Green Bay as backfield coach, a spokesman for the Packers said today.

In a talk this morning with general manager Jim Finks of the Vikings, Bratkowsji was offered a substantial guaranteed one-year contract but turned it down, the spokesman said.

TRACK AND FIELD

BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG

Once in a while you will convert this 1-2-4-7 "fence" by hitting the headpin on the right side, but don't make it a habit. Your chances of turning this set-up into a spare are much greater if you allow the ball to hook past the headpin on the left. Often the ball itself will touch all four of the pins.

Edmonton Triumps

VANCOUVER (AP) — Jim Thomas scampered for a soggy 64-yard touchdown run midway in the fourth quarter and led the Edmonton Eskimos to a 13-5 victory over the British Columbia Lions last night in a Canadian Football League game.

49er Linemen Battling For Jobs

REDWOOD CITY (UPI)—A spirited battle is developing for starting assignments on the right side of the offensive line of the San Francisco 49ers.

Second-year pros Cas Banaszek and Woody Peoples are battling with newcomer Randy Beisler and all-star veteran Howard Mudd for the prestigious spots.

BATTLE

"Banaszek and Beisler are fighting it out at right tackle and Peoples has an edge over Mudd at right guard," said offensive line coach Ernie Zwahlen.

Forrest Blue and Lance Olssen will handle the center chores now that veteran Bruce Bosley has been cut. Guard Elmer Collett and tackle Len Rohde anchor the left side of the offensive line.

Defensive line coach Paul Wiggin says he will try former Canadian footballer Earl Edwards at defensive tackle against the Falcons at Atlanta Sunday. The 49ers are 7½-point favorites despite an 0-6 exhibition season.

3 POSITIONS

Edwards started the season as an offensive tackle and then was moved to defensive end. Now he will be playing his third position in his team's 1969 league opener.

Wiggin said he would like Edwards at defensive tackle for insurance behind Charlie Krueger and Roland Lakes.

Mets Force Jet Schedule Change

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets are not only causing turmoil in the baseball world with their bid for the National League East pennant, they also are upsetting the schedule of the world football champion New York Jets.

In announcing that the Jets will switch their first two home games, club President Phil Iselin said yesterday at the Jets' weekly press luncheon:

"We have no choice. The Jets can delay no longer. The Mets look like a shoo-in for the playoffs and the problems of switching sites."

Iselin was to meet today with President Milt Woodard of the American Football League and National Broadcasting Company officials to complete arrangements for the switch which would moved the Oct. 5 game against the Patriots from Shea Stadium to Boston and the Oct. 12 game against the Bengals to Cincinnati.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Here's Rundown On Deer Hunting

It's 3 o'clock in the morning and I'm all ready to go down to the operating room again. It seems I need a correction somewhere along the line.

Now that's a pip, but the wrong kind. One buddy says I'm a rough-tough so-and-so, but I really feel like a lamb going to the slaughter. Deadlines and headlines to meet! I thought I'd better do this column now.

WITH THE LATE deer season opening Saturday, here's a county by county rundown on bucks and conditions:

Thirteen counties report prospects improved over last year; ten expect a buck kill equal to last year, and 10 report they expect poor results.

Some "Improved" counties are Siskiyou, Trinity, Lassen, Tehama, Nevada-Placer, Butte, Yuba, Alpine, El Dorado and Calaveras, Humboldt-Del Norte should be equal to last year's kill. Modoc is pegged to be generally poor except in the Warner Mountain areas.

All the bucks are predicted to be in good shape with the excellent feed conditions of this year resulting from the heavy winter rains and snows of last year.

THE RECENT antelope season with 270 permits issued was a success. Two hundred and one tags have been returned from successful hunters. The biggest rack measured was 17⅝ inches, taken by a Vallejo man.

On the tags both for antelope and bucks, the Department of Fish and Game has a new slogan, "Sign and mail or post your bail!" So if you get a buck, send in the tag. If we're all good boys, we can keep the self-validating system, and you know it's much easier this way.

A SPECIAL MOUNTAIN quail season and a season for Sierra and ruffed grouse also opens Saturday, along with the deer season. The season on mountain quail runs through Oct. 24 with a limit of 10 birds per day and in possession. The one-week season for Sierra and ruffed grouse lasts through Sunday, Sept. 28, with a limit of two birds for the season. Check the hunting regulations for open areas and pertinent information.

Don't forget to take your trout rods to the Sierra, too. Some of the streams are dropping to just the right depths. I've got a lake where I'm going to murder them when I get there . . . but I'll tell you about it after I nail the first fish!

I have no local fishing news, but I've been watching Greenbrae Slough out of this third story hospital window. I haven't seen a fish caught or one jump for three weeks, so don't try here. I haven't even seen the game wardens down here, so it must be lousy.

I HEAR GRACE Quan from China Camp is over at Ross General Hospital. Grace and I are old buddies. I don't know where you're going to get the hot fishing news, especially with Grace, a real pro, in hock, too.

Let's make a deal! All you guys and gals who get a big buck or a big fish, or have something unusual happen this week, give me a call. Now let's not add 20 pounds to each fish and 50 pounds to each buck because this is not a liar's club contest. This way I'll have the latest dope.

LATE SCOOP — A young fellow named Morgan Murphy, aged 7, from Fairfax, reported being high rod with a 25 and a 5-pound king salmon off a party boat this week.

Seals' Defenseman Vadnais Hurts Knee

OSHAWA, Ont. (AP) — A twisted knee sidelined defenseman Carol Vadnais yesterday at the Oakland Seals training camp.

Vadnais, who scored 15 goals for the National Hockey League team last season, will miss two preseason games against Los Angeles this weekend.

Football Family Thing For Trojans

By GARY TISCHLER

Ever wonder why Terra Linda High School has that winning football tradition so thoroughly oiled, year in and year out?

Small wonder. The whole thing seems to be a family affair.

Consider this year's team, which is a likely prospect to give Terra Linda its fourth straight Marin County Athletic League title.

Three of the starters on the club have had two older brothers play on Trojan squads in the past.

Tackle Jim Barker's brother Greg was an all-leaguer two years ago while older brother Doug was a Trojan gridder five years ago.

Matt Bowman, who won a backfield spot recently, was preceded by Chris, a quarterback, three years ago and Dave, five years ago.

Bob Daniele, an all-league defensive halfback last year as a junior, was preceded by Fred three years ago and Jerry five years ago.

Dewy Forry's brother John was a Trojan five years ago. Megs Meyer preceded this year's Meyer, Pete, three years ago and Jim Sherbert preceded Bill Sherbert three years ago. Dan Tronsden was preceded by Norm Tronsden five years ago.

That's a close-knit group. And the winning habit doesn't seem to be ending. There are 16 juniors and a sophomore on this year's squad and all of them will be playing quite a bit, which promises more for the future.

A TRADITION of a different sort seems to be haunting San Rafael's hopeful Bulldogs.

For the third straight year, a key player has been lost for the season, and early.

This time it was center Dan Coleman, out with a broken leg. Last year, halfback Bob Peterson went out early, while super-guard "Red" Stephens was an early victim in 1967.

DRAKE FULLBACK Bob Sutherland will command some kind of attention this year, certainly as a rueful reminder. Sutherland last season became the second Drake High School back to lead the league in rushing and not make the all-league team. Tom Mauer achieved that end in 1966 but he was a senior then. Sutherland is back with a chance to do something about it.

TWO DRAKE graduates are keeping their fingers in the grass, so to speak. Mike Kemp and Doug Roix, both graduate students at wild and wooly San Francisco State, are student coaches this fall, Kemp at Drake High School and Roix at Terra Linda.

SAN RAFAEL Military Academy's football team heads into Colusa County to meet Maxwell High School in the Cadets' season opener tomorrow armed with a very loose scouting report.

Coach Charles Tubbs did get a roster this fall, but all he really knows about Maxwell is what a local gas station attendant told him.

"I drove up there this summer," Tubbs said. "The school was closed so I asked a gas station attendant. He said they had a pretty good team last season, with two of their players nominated for the North All-Star team."

Which is one way to scout your opponent. Sort of like John McKay checking things out with the Notre Dame team confessor.

THERE WILL be only five teams in the MCAL class C basketball league this year. San Marin, Novato, and Terra Linda will not have entries. San Marin was thinking about having one but decided that a team couldn't be formed with just two players.

Keating Adds Punch To Raiders

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — The Oakland Raiders hope to reinstate their devastating pass rush this year with the return to full health of defensive tackle Tom Keating.

In 1967 when the Raiders led the American Football Leageu in defense, a line anchored by Ben Davidson and Keating dumped opposing quarterbacks 67 times. While Keating was sidelined last season with a torn Achilles tendon, the Raiders spilled the quarterback 49 times.

'GOOD THING'

"We had a good thing going in '67," said the mustachioed Davidson, "or, I should say, I had a good thing going.

"Tom was so quick getting in, the back would have to move over to pick him up and then I'd have a clear shot at the quarterback. We both made all-league in '67."

Now Keating is back at his old post and regarded as one of the quickest and strongest defensive linemen in the league. It is nearly impossible for one player to block him. And when they doubleteam him, somebody else gets loose in the Raider line.

IN COLISEUM

On Saturday night at the Oakland Coliseum, Davidson and Keating will be aiming for quarterback Bob Griese of the Miami Dolphins. In his first two games against the Raiders, Griese averaged 20 of 35 completions for 261 yards and two touch downs.

Bianchi Named Caps' Coach

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Caps of the American Basketball Association announced today the appointment of 37-year-old Al Bianchi as head coach.

Caps owner Earl Foreman announced the selection of Bianchi, a former pro guard who played with the Syracuse Nationals, the Philadelphia 76ers, the Chicago Bulls and the Seattle Supersonics. He coached the Supersonics last season.

Bianchi, a native of New York City, was graduated from Bowling Green (Ohio) College.

Second Deck May Be Candlestick Answer

Tom Gray has opened his offices in Candlestick Park. Gray is the new promotion director of Candlestick. Gray for many years was the executive secretary of San Francisco's Downtown Association. His new job pays $24,000 a year.

The Giants and 49ers will be the primary tenants of Candlestick for many years to come. The Giants' lease, written in 1958, is for 35 years at $125,000 basic rental per year or 5 per cent of the gate, whichever is greater.

THE 49ERS' lease is a straight 30-year deal calling for 10 per cent of the gate.

Gary reports that bids will be requested Nov. 1 for installation of artificial turf in Candlestick. Five companies are expected to bid.

Gary also reports that since the city put him on the payroll he has been in contact with several other prospective tenants of Candlestick. Gray now is trying to sign sponsors of a couple of annual events that could fill Candlestick on successive nights and gross $400,000.

"ONCE CANDLESTICK'S second deck is extended around the stadium," said Gray, "we won't have to go after prospective tenants. They'll be coming to us because extension of the second deck is going to eliminate the wind.

"We have been given to believe that from the Colorado people who studied the wind currents at Candlestick and simulated them in wind tunnels with miniature mockups of the stadium — with and without a second deck."

BIDS FOR INSTALLATION of artificial turf in Candlestick will be in the neighborhood of $761,250. That was the estimated cost cited in John Bolles' recommendations of Candlestick improvements. Bolles, original architect of Candlestick, recently completed a comprehensive study of Candlestick's needs.

Bolles' list of things to be done at Candlestick was quite lengthy and costly — $9,123,723. Most costly item is the second deck. Installation of artificial grass is the next most costly improvement.

Some ball players don't look upon artificial grass as any improvement of a ball field. But without it football games would make a ball field unplayable.

Mickey Mantle led the American League in strikeouts seven times.

Dental Health Suppliers Are Reaping The Gold

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have been accumulating Dentist Supply stock and would like your comments on the company. Should I continue my purchases? — E. K.

A. Dentsply International (the name was recently changed) derives all its revenue from the dental health field. Industrywide sales of dental supplies grew 15 per cent to $250 million from 1967 to 1968. The expected continuation of this rate of increase would mean a doubling to $500 million by 1973. Aside from stimulation provided by Medicare, Medicaid and state and local dental-care programs, private dental insurance plans now cover 6 million individuals. By 1979 it is anticipated that more than 50 million persons will avail themselves of this protection.

Dentsply is well entrenched in the field, being one of the earliest makers of false teeth. Other products include a full line of filling materials, amalgams, drills, hand tools and dentists' chairs. The company is the exclusive licensee for a high-speed drill motor and exclusive distributor of Cavitron's ultrasonic cleaning device.

Earnings had moved ahead annually until last year when divestiture of its retail outlets was effected at the request of the Justice Department. A resumption of the uptrend, albeit modest, was reported in first-half results. At 20x estimated 1969 earnings of $2.30, Dentsply shares are at a reasonable level for additional purchase.

Q. I understand there are bonds paying 8, 8.5 per cent or more in interest. Are they safe? What ones do you suggest for investments? — P. L.

A. Coupon rates of 7.75 to 8 per cent on recently issued top-rated utility bonds are common. However, the market has bid the 8 per cent bonds to a premium so that they currently yield nearer 7.8 per cent. Bonds being offered at considerably more than the going interest level generally carry a lower rating. The added interest is necessary in order to attract buyers. An 8 per cent AA- or AAA-rated issue would be the safest investment. In this category I like Commonwealth Edison 8's of 1973 or Philadelphia Electric 8's of 1975. These have the additional advantage of being noncallable prior to matu-

Nixon's Call For Peace Aids Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Richard M. Nixon's plea for peace helped prices advance today on the stock market but there was little to indicate a sustained rally was near at hand. Trading was moderate.

Among the most active issues were Texaco, Standard Oil of Ohio, Natomas, Ashland, City Investing, Hilton Hotels, Benguet, General Signal, American Telephone and Phillips.

Steels traded in a narrow range in both directions. Motors and chemicals were mixed.

Airlines generally posted fractional gains and most aerospace issues were higher.

There were point sized swingers in both directions in the mixed electronics. Gold mining shares eased and conglomerates were mixed.

Trading was delayed on MCA, Inc. at the opening after the firm announced it and Firestone had called off merger talks. The issue fell sharply when it did open. Firestone moved up.

To Repurchase

NEW YORK (UPI) — Haven Industries Inc. directors have approved repurchase by the company of $1 million par of its 4 per cent subordinated convertible debentures due 1988 at $50 flat. The tender is due to expire Oct. 15. The company said there are about $5 million of the bonds presently outstanding.

$100 Million Pact

BISMARK, N.D. (UPI) — Montana-Dakota Utilities Co. has formed a joint venture with Northwestern Public Service Co. and Otter Tail Power Co. to build a $100 million generating plant in eastern South Dakota. The 400-megawatt station is expected to be completed in 1972.

Expansion Continues At Two Northgates

Expansion goes on apace at both Northgate Industrial Park and Northgate Shopping Center in San Rafael.

Latest new business in Northgate Industrial Park is Babyland Diaper Service, which has moved into quarters at 148 Mitchell Avenue. The business has been operated for about eight years by Michael O'Connor of Fairfax, and until its move to Northgate was based in Novato.

Newest store in Northgate Shopping Center's Unit One is Bi-Lo Boutique, owned and operated by Frances Auer of San Anselmo. The shop, which sells new and "almost-new" women's clothing, is already open for business but will have a "grand opening" Oct. 1.

Both leases were negotiated by Dohemann and Co.

UP THE LINE in southern Sonoma County, home building activity continues to boom at Rohnert Park. Ground was broken last week for the first section of a 100-home subdivision on 31 acres by Feature Homes Inc. of Santa Rosa.

Six models will be open for inspection within six weeks on Beverly Drive, according to Russell Lugle and Owen Bartlett, company officers. The three-bedroom to five-bedroom homes, on 6,000-square-foot lots, will be priced from $21,000 to $26,600. Bart C. Mitchell Real Estate Agency, Rohnert Park, is sales agent.

A sale of local interest in San Rafael took place when General American Development Corp. completed acquisition of the 2.235-acre R. Stanley Dollar Estate property on the California side of north Lake Tahoe.

General American Development plans a $100 million master-planned development on the large acreage, according to David Irmer, president, who said the Dollar property was the last large privately owned land holding in the area.

The Dollar name is indelibly stamped in the history of San Rafael, where R. Stanley Dollar made his home while accumulating the fortune from steamships and foreign trade that also made him a major Northern California landowner.

Robert Feddersen of San Rafael has been named director of the institutional division of Manning's, Inc., and will be in charge of dining and food service facilities of hospitals and retirement homes for the company. . . . Joseph A. Gereghty Jr. of Kentfield has joined Charles J. Francis Co., San Rafael investment securities firm, as an account executive. He was previously with McPhail's. . . . Robert C. Selna of Novato has been promoted to military sales administrator of Levi Strauss and Co., responsible for coordinating sales of "Levi's" apparel to military exchanges in the U.S. and abroad.

Grenade Contract

NEW YORK (UPI) — United Industrial Corp.'s subsidiary, AAI Corp. of Cockeysville, Md., has received a $2,953,000 contract to manufacture 40 millimeter grenade launchers for the M-16 rifle. Deliveries of the M-203 grenade launcher, designed by AAI Corp. to replace the M-79, are scheduled to begin in 1970.

Retires Shares

NEW YORK (UPI) — Federal Paper Board Co. has announced retirement of 35,257 shares of its 4.6 per cent cumulative preferred stock for sinking fund purposes. There are 316,827 shares still outstanding.

BIG 1970 PLYMOUTH FURY III

The Fury line has been restyled front and rear to give all models a more massive appearance. A new wider rear track of 62 inches complements the integrated loop bumper rear styling. Wheelbase remains at 120 inches. The Fury line will go on sale in Marin Tuesday at Corte Madera Chrysler-Plymouth and Novato Chrysler-Plymouth-Toyota.

1970 MUSTANG DESIGN

A three-quarter Landau-style vinyl roof is offered in this Grande model of the new Ford Mustang. Interiors have bold new colors and optional patterned upholstery. All seven Mustang models have high-back bucket seats as standard equipment. Cars went on sale today in Marin at Ames Ford Sales, San Rafael; L. J. Dervin Ford Co., Novato, and J and B Ford Sales, Corte Madera.

Unbelievable Opportunity At Lake Tahoe
A commercial acre of level land, studded with giant trees, with 200 ft. on Highway 89, facing the lake. This beautiful property consists of a 6 unit lodge, a 2 story rustic chalet type home, with 2 bathrooms, 2 duplexes, a gift shop and a restaurant and coffee shop. This choice property is sandwiched in between 2 new ski lifts, and offers unlimited opportunity for year around operation. The price of $125,000 would not replace the improvements alone. Absentee owner is selling due to illness.

VAN DELLEN

After 50, many people notice that cuts and scratches on the lower extremities take longer to heal. Poor circulation usually is blamed, but in many instances, the wound becomes infected lowering the resistance of the tissues and the outcome is an ulcer. This is why all lesions of the feet and lower limbs should be washed carefully with soap and water and bandaged until healing occurs.

ULCERS are more likely to develop when there is definite circulatory impairment due to varicose veins, hardening of the arteries, or phlebitis. Again, cleanliness is stressed because the tissues are susceptible to bacterial invasion, which in turn, retards healing. Lesions that fail to heal become chronic and troublesome.

Half the battle is won when the cause is known and corrected. Many persons refer to any ulcer on the leg as a varicose ulcer, but this is only one possibility. If a varicosity is responsible, the ulcer usually heals when the vein is obliterated. Pressure bandages reduce swelling and improve the circulation. There are many different bandages, including the medicated and elastic types.

MOST LEG ULCERS will heal if the individual is willing to remain in bed with the leg slightly elevated. In addition, the sore is cleansed daily with soap, water, and peroxide. An enzyme, such as Biozyme or Varidase, is applied to dissolve the debris so that the antibiotics can penetrate deeply into the tissues. The best antibiotic is the one that has demonstrated its ability in the laboratory to kill the causative germ.

The entire ulcer may be removed via surgery and replaced with a skin graft. In some instances, leg bandages must be worn during the day for life to prevent the ulcer or graft breaking down.

MILK AND ORANGE JUICE

A reader writes: Is it harmful to drink milk on top of orange juice?

REPLY

No. This is a popular misconception because orange juice curdles milk. On the other hand, stomach acids also curdle milk, making it more digestible. In this respect, orange juice helps rather than hinders the stomach juices in digesting milk.

CHECK-OUT ARTHRITIS

Mrs. S. writes: Will running a cash register in a busy supermarket help or aggravate a mild arthritic condition involving the hand?

REPLY

Mild exercise usually relieves stiffness and pain. The answer to this questions depends upon the individual and the severity of the arthritis. If the activity aggravates the distress, the use of the cash register is probably playing a role.

TORN CARTILAGE

Mrs. W. T. writes: My son's track coach told him he has a loose cartilage in his knee. How did this come about?

REPLY

Injury is the most common cause among tracksters. It usually develops from frequent jarring of the knee when running or jumping.

Marin's Best-seller on current events

You can learn a lot that's not in the books from your daily I-J. Unlike a text, it presents the texture of living events . . . the here and now of history drawn from the most exciting library — the world itself.

Each day, hundreds of news stories and articles bring you the mental stimulation of WHAT HAPPENED, where, how and why. Combined, they bring you perspective; they help you form judgements, enable you to act in an informed manner on public affairs.

And the range and scale is immense: From a new view of Rhodesia to a new bargain on chairs at your favorite store.

With the I-J you're not merely "taking the paper," you're subscribing to a liberal education . . . provided you read and think. All yours at a price which even includes personal delivery to your door.

Two Stanford Trustees Resign

STANFORD (UPI) — The president of the Stanford University Board of Trustees said yesterday trustees Dean Watkins and Edmund Littlefield have resigned.

President W. Parmer Fuller III said Dean Watkins, a Palo Alto electronics executive, underestimated the time needed to serve on the board.

Littlefield, a San Francisco business leader and a trustee for 13 years, said he needed to reduce his personal and professional commitments.

Service Station On Agenda For Larkspur

A hearing on an application for architectural review of remodeling of a Standard Oil service station at Eliseo Road and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard will be held when the Larkspur Planning Commission meets at 8 p.m. Tuesday at city hall.

The commission also will discuss city parking policies.

Innocent Plea To Auto Theft

Victoria Ann Wilson, 19, of Forest Knolls, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to car theft.

A preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein refused to release her on her own recognizance because of her past record, but did agree to detain her at Juvenile Hall instead of the County Jail.

She was arrested Monday because of erratic driving on Highway 101. The vehicle she was driving was reported stolen from San Francisco Sunday.

Fine And Probation On Drunken Driving

Robert Edward Mooney (also known as Robert Edward Moody), 40, of Napa, has been placed on one-year probation, sentenced to four days in jail and fined $250 for drunken driving.

Mooney, sentenced yesterday by Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court, was arrested March 7 on Highway 37.

Session Set On Corporation Yard

San Rafael City Council will hold a special session at 5:15 p.m. tomorrow at Room 201, City Hall, to discuss bids on construction of a new corporation yard.

When the council opened bids Monday night they were $72,000 to $82,000 higher than estimated for the new yard to be constructed off Lincoln Avenue, south of Second Street.

Councilmen are slated to review plans with an eye toward making cuts to reduce costs.

Sleepy Hollow Wakes Up Cross

By ALAN JONES

Behind its lush tree-bordered facades, Sleepy Hollow is beginning to feel angry and frustrated.

Residents there have been victims of more than 25 burglaries this year, and some of them are looking for ways to put a stop to it. There has been talk of a citizens' patrol, although that possibility seems remote at the moment.

As impatient as anyone is Sam Grossman, whose house has been burgled five times in three years, twice this year.

In one burglary, he said, "the police arrested one boy with a record like this," holding thumb and forefinger half an inch apart, "a record that would make a convict blush." The boy was just 12 years old.

And he is out on the street again now, Grossman said.

"We've lived in Marin for 21 years," said Mrs. Robert F. Schneider, but now the family is considering moving out because of the burglaries. Their house was entered and ransacked last Easter.

Mrs. Schneider tried to check out figures on Sleepy Hollow burglaries, but said she is still waiting for a month-by-month crime breakdown she requested two months ago from the sheriff's department. She has also attended meetings of the Marin County Board of Supervisors and a meeting of the centralized police services committee, gathering a lot of information but little encouragement.

The crime problem has been talked over by the Sleepy Hollow Homes Association, but "there's just no easy solution," that's all," Mrs. Schneider said.

One resident attributed the crime problem to a group of youths calling itself the Rat Pack, which she said is now training younger boys — called the Rat Patrol — to follow in its path.

Another family threw suspicion onto a group of youths who loiter near the Sleepy Hollow Stables on Butterfield Road. "They sit down there and watch everyone who leaves, so they know whose house is empty," the husband said.

Several burglary arrests have been made for crimes around the county. But Mrs. Schneider complained that of those sentenced to jail, many are serving only weekends, leaving them free to commit more crimes most of the time.

Mrs. Schneider agreed that the burglaries appear to be the work of local youths, because many houses hit are only empty for a matter of a few hours.

Sleepy Hollow lends itself to burglary. The well-tended homes are set well back from the tree-lined streets, and are almost all half-hidden by more trees and extensive landscaping, making it hard for neighbors to see what's going on and easy for burglars to enter without detection.

And the hollow is several miles from the main sheriff's office, which means it can take deputies several minutes to reach the scene of a crime unless a patrol car happens to be in the immediate area.

The crime problem, the sheriff's office reports, is county-wide and deputies are spread fairly thin. In 1968, 730 burglaries were reported in the unincorporated parts of the county, a 69 per cent increase over 1967.

While several persons have been convicted of burglary in recent months, burglary loot is rarely recovered because it is fenced as quickly as the thieves can unload it.

Several suggestions to help curb burglaries have been printed in the homeowners bulletin, which holds that a key step is for citizens to call the sheriff whenever they see a crime or a nuisance being committed.

"You are not subjecting yourself to a legal liability or suit . . . and harassment as a result of this action has almost never been a problem," the bulletin said.

The bulletin suggested that residents check out delivery and moving vans in the neighborhood; know their neighbors' hours and report irregular activities, and tell those who don't want to get involved that an early report might keep a youth from becoming a criminal.

There are only two effective ways to keep law and order, association vice president Merritt Robinson wrote in the bulletin — a policeman on every corner or citizen cooperation. "The former smells of a police state," he wrote. "Passing the buck just won't work. Act and the trouble will be reduced; turn away and things will get worse."

Antishoplifting Course Slated In Petaluma

The Petaluma Chamber of Commerce will renew its attack on shoplifters with a two-hour clinic Wednesday at 7:30 a.m. at Carithers department store.

Marin and Sonoma businessmen may attend the session. Earl Owens, a security consultant to several large chain stores in the bay area, will speak.

The clinic will include displays and a demonstration of antishoplifting techniques and advice on stocking procedures. Emphasis will be placed on men's and women's clothing departments, jewelry, cosmetics, variety goods and notions.

Ned Davis, chamber manager, said Petaluma had reduced its shoplifting losses by an estimated 50 per cent during the program, which ran last year from Oct. 1 to March 30. Police records show a drop of 65 per cent in shoplifting arrests.

Mental Health Board Is Filled

Five persons have been elected to the Marin Association for Mental Health board of directors, replacing three persons who resigned and filling two long-standing vacancies.

The new board members are H. Bruce Mininberg of San Rafael, James M. Kennedy of San Rafael, Linda Watson of Dominican College, Florine Miller of Mill Valley and Irwin Diamond of San Anselmo.

Those who resigned were Ann McCorry, Mary Ann Newcomb and Peggy Glockner. The board has 38 members.

NOTED HOME economist Virginia Shattuck will be the judge for the recipe contest launched today by the Independent-Journal and leading Marin stores. Miss Shattuck will judge the entries and test the recipes prior to the announcement of the 25 winners in the I-J special Holiday Cook Book edition to be published Nov. 8. The contest will close Oct. 13.

Recipe Contest Opens Today For All Marin Amateur Chefs

Good cooks of all ages are invited to enter the annual recipe contest sponsored by the Independent-Journal and leading stores throughout Marin. Cash prizes will be offered for the first time this year.

The contest is open to amateur cooks, both men and women, in the categories of meat dishes, fish and seafoods, salads, appetizers, soups, relishes, cookies, breads, sandwiches, desserts, holiday candies, buffet special dishes and punches.

The contest opens today and closing date for entries is Oct. 13.

Grand prize winner will receive $100 prize money, with the second place winner receiving $20. The other 23 winners will receive prizes of $5 each.

The best 25 recipes will be featured in the Independent-Journal's annual Holiday Cook Book special edition to be published Nov. 8.

Marin's well-known home economist Virginia Shattuck of San Rafael will judge all contest entries and test the recipes. Miss Shattuck is the former home economist with the North Bay Division, Pacific Gas and Electric Co., an authority on cooking schools, judge at county fairs and is past president of the Bay District of California Home Economics Association.

She says that recipes entered may be old family favorites or something the entrant has concocted. Winning recipes of former contests, however, are not eligible. A separate entry blank must be submitted with each recipe.

Callan Jewelers, San Rafael.

Cox TV and Sound Center, San Rafael.

Emporium, San Rafael.

Evelyn Porter's Nutrition Shop, Novato and San Anselmo.

Petrini's, Greenbrae.

Purity Stores, San Rafael and Mill Valley.

San Rafael Health Foods, San Rafael.

United Market, San Rafael and San Anselmo.

Webb and Rogers Drug Store, San Rafael.

Western Furniture, San Rafael.

Entry blanks and recipes may be returned to the Independent-Journal Recipe Contest, Box 330, San Rafael, or to the Independent-Journal, 1040 B Street, San Rafael.

SHE SAYS she "looks pretty unfeminine" in the state trooper uniform but 25 year-old Frances Jean Howard is Alaska's first female trooper and a uniform for women hasn't been designed yet. She came to Alaska from Oregon to see the things she couldn't see on her 8 to 5 dental assistant's job.

Talks To Explore Women's Education

Dominican College has planned a series of three meetings this fall to explore the problems and prospects of continuing education for the mature woman who would like to return to college.

The three meetings will be held from 10 a.m. to noon on Oct. 1, Oct. 22 and Nov. 19 in the faculty room of Archbishop Alemany Library on the San Rafael campus of the four-year liberal arts college.

The opening session titled, "College After 30?," will be presented by Miss Kyllikki Palmquist, senior psychologist and chairman of the department of vocational guidance and rehabilitation at the University of Stockholm, who will discuss the motivation toward continuing education.

Sister Marie, O.P., director of admissions, and Dr. Henry Aigner, chairman of the department of education, will answer the question "What Would I Take?" in the second session that surveys the graduate, undergraduate and credentials programs offered at Dominican as well as the new College-Level Examination Program that enables adults returning to college to gain credit by examination in certain fields, based upon their knowledge and experience.

The final session will feature a panel discussion of "What's In It For Me?" concerning the multiplicity of reasons for continuing education. The panel will include two women who have returned to college: Mrs. Joseph Royer of Belvedere, an undergraduate, and Mrs. Donn Nissen of San Rafael, who received her B.A. degree in May and is now enrolled in the credential program. With them on the panel will be Miss Wanda P. Collins, psychologist and dean of students; Sister M. Adele, O.P., associate professor of education and humanities; Charles Lavaroni, director of student teaching.

All women in Marin are invited to attend the three meetings but are asked to send their names and addresses in advance to be certain of space. There is a small enrollment fee of the three sessions.

Virginia Tighe To Be Bride Of Steven Hoover

VIRGINIA TIGHE

Mr. and Mrs. Richard I. Tighe of Novato are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Virginia, to Steven E. Hoover.

Virginia is the sister of Richard, Kenneth, Janice and Valerie Tighe of Novato. She was graduated from Terra Linda High School, attended College of Marin and is employed at the social security payment center in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil E. Hoover of Novato are the future bridegroom's parents. He was graduated from San Rafael High School and the University of San Francisco. Steve is doing graduate work in chemistry, working toward a Ph.D. degree at Oregon State University.

A September, 1970, wedding is planned by the couple.

'It Just Sorta Happened,' Explains Alaska's First Woman State Trooper

By KATHIE DIBELL

JUNEAU (AP) — Frances Jean Howard, a thoughtful, thoroughly feminine lass of 25, says she became Alaska's first female state trooper because she likes police work — not because she's out to prove anything.

"I'm not a barnstormer. I'm not a women's rights advocate," the blue-eyed brunette said. "It just sorta happened."

It started when Miss Howard, a trained dental technician, decided "there were different things I wanted to see that I couldn't see at an 8 to 5 job in a dental office," and she left Grants Pass, Ore., for Alaska.

SHE GOT a job as a clerk typist with the Department of Public Safety in February 1968 and later began to think that there was a place in the department for a female trooper.

State regulations for state troopers don't mention that an officer has to be a man. And, Miss Howard, nicely built and tall, passed the 5-foot-9 minimum height requirement.

She also passed all the written and oral tests and on Sept. 8, Gov. Keith H. Miller announced Alaska had its first female state trooper.

On Sept. 29, she'll join 20 other new troopers in Sitka for the Alaska State Trooper Academy's eight-week training session.

Miss Howard is a little leery of the physical regimen at the academy.

"They say you have to run a mile before breakfast," she said. "I can't even move in the morning before a cup of coffee."

A MINOR problem is the design of her uniform.

The department has despaired of putting this pretty girl — who looks just right in a blue flowered, mini-length dress with a big broad white collar — into a man-tailored shirt and tie.

"It looks pretty unfeminine," Fran said. The uniform style is still on the drawing board.

Golden Wedding Party Set For A. C. Joneses

Celebrating their golden wedding at a reception on Sept. 27 at Hamilton Air Force Base Officers Club will be Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Jones of Corte Madera.

Friends and relatives will join the couple for cake and champagne from 2 to 4 p.m.

The Joneses were married Sept. 27, 1919, in Everett, Wash. The new Mrs. Jones was the former Violet Rogers of Seattle and her husband attended the University of Washington there.

Two years later they moved to California and they have lived in Marin the past 37 years.

Mr. Jones was employed by the U.S. Treasury Department for 44 years, retiring at the end of 1965.

He is a member of the American Legion, the Marin Rod and Gun Club, the Elks Club and Veterans of World War I.

The couple are parents of Mrs. L. R. Leach (Wanda Jones) and of A. Clyde Jones Jr., both of whom live in Marin with their families. The honored couple have five grandchildren, Ronald and Michael Leach and Douglas, Dana Bea and Curtis Jones.

LOOKING FORWARD to a reception marking their 50 years of marriage are Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Jones of Corte Madera, who have lived in Marin for the last 37 years. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

Pliers, Imagination Make Clothes From Chains, Rhinestones, Coins

By LOUISE COOK

NEW YORK (AP) — "If you've got a pair of pliers and imagination, you can do an awful lot," said an assistant to jewelry designer Bill Smith as she held up a pair of pants made of gold coins.

The pants, along with a matching vest, were one of a number of items at a recent show of Smith's latest jewelry.

Smith said his designs are "jewelry as clothing. They are strong enough so they can be clothing in themselves."

A former dancer who worked in a jewelry factory when he first came to New York and finally decided he preferred jewelry, he said his designs "can be worn over clothing or instead of clothing."

The models Tuesday draped the jewels over simple jersey dresses by Jon Haggins, over body stockings and over bare skin.

Among the standout items were a long scarf of pearls, trimmed with cloth tassels, a metal cape with "pearlized" corks, a floor-lentgh skirt of ropes of pearls, a short skirt and vest of jet beads and a pearl cape.

There are about two dozen pieces in the collection for Richilieu, retailing for between $35 and $250. The pearl scarf, for example, is $150.

Smith admitted that "not everyone can wear these things. There are many people, however who will make sacrifices for beauty."

Among the disadvantages of the jewelry clothing is their weight. The pearls Smith uses have an alabaster or plastic base, but they still make a six-foot scarf pretty weighty.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Be Patient, Wait For The Boys Who Escape The Go-Getters

DEAR HELEN:

I am 14 and don't have a boy friend problem. In fact, I don't have a boy friend, or even want a steady. But I would like to dance with a guy when we have our school parties.

How do I get the chance with all the boy chasers around? They see a cute fella and they walk right up and ask him his name, address and phone number. They ask guys to dance with them, and even to save dances for them. The boys may not like that (as I've read) but they don't refuse.

Last night there was a new boy at a party and, wow, did the chasers gang up on him. I found out later he wanted to meet all the girls, but the pushy ones wouldn't give him a chance.

Should I try to be like the go-getters, or resign myself to not being got? — SIDELINER

DEAR SIDELINER:

It's tough to get wait for an answer, but if you spend your waiting time being friendly, interested, but not too eager, you'll end up with more boy friends than the chasers. You see, at age 14 and 15, boys often lack self-assurance, and so they are flattered by pushy females. As they mature, however, they become more selective, and they seek out the girls who don't fall all over them. My advice: Develop your sparkle, stay just outside the line of attack, and catch the guys who escape. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm writing a psychology paper on various human reactions. One section deals with ability to follow instructions, written and oral. I've learned that over 50 per cent of one's listeners don't catch simple instructions the first time. When you give someone your phone number to write down, it's quite unusual if he doesn't ask you to say it again. Our concentration level is very low.

How about observation? I'm wondering how many of your readers goof up on directions? When you offer a give-away in return for a stamped, self-addressed envelope, what percentage don't send the envelope and stamp? — STUDENT

DEAR STUDENT:

Interesting question. Approximately eight per cent of my readers forget the SAE when writing for a give-away which is clearly advertised. Sometimes they even forget their address, and often they write so illegibly that I can't make it out.

Note to readers: This may explain why some of you haven't received your "What is a Boy Friend?" "What is a Girl Friend?" mimeographs. Are you sure you followed instructions? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Here's another answer to guys who want too much. When he asks, "Do you believe in free love?" answer, "Sorry, I don't go for anything that cheap." — K. B.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Pork And Beef Prices Drop In Western Supermarkets

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Department of Agriculture's food experts report that food shoppers this weekend will find ample displays of meat and poultry and adequate stocks of some fresh vegetables and fruit in food stores and supermarkets.

Broiler-fryer chickens and turkeys are expected to be featured in all areas. Beef cuts that should be in excellent supply include ground beef, liver, roasts, steaks, and stew meat. Smoked picnics, Boston butts, and bacon are the pork items most likely to be abundantly available while fresh pork cuts in this category are chops and roasts. Fish buys to watch for, according to the U.S. Department of the Interior, are marine sardine, canned tuna, and fish sticks and portions.

Fresh vegetables in best supply are cabbage, lettuce, onions, potatoes, and tomatoes. Apples and grapes are the most abundant fruits.

Other foods on USDA's plentiful foods list for September are peanuts and peanut products, dried split peas, limes, and pears.

IN THE WEST:

Fresh pork, smoked pork, and beef prices are lower in all West Coast markets.

Chickens are higher in California markets and turkeys are higher in most markets.

Calf, veal, lamb, egg and butter prices remain unchanged in all markets. Smoked hams, sliced bacon and fresh pork loins are lower in San Francisco and Portland. Spareribs are lower in California markets. Beef ribs are lower in Portland while loins and ribs are lower in California markets.

BROILER AND fryer chickens and young hens are higher in California markets.

In all Western markets, except Seattle, turkeys are higher.

Fruits and vegetables in best supply include: Apples, bananas, grapes, oranges, lettuce, onions, and potatoes.

Wallscaping Is New Decor Trend

"Wallscaping" with carpet is a new trend in home decor.

One manufacturer is making a tufted wall covering of flame-resistant modacrylic fibers backed with latex. It has been engineered for acoustics and comes in five foot widths to be applied with adhesive. Carpet on walls also provides a good backdrop for pictures or can serve as a tack board.

Family Picnic Set Saturday By Terra Linda International Clubs

Interested families are invited to attend the annual "welcome picnic" Saturday at Marinwood Community Center, co-sponsored by the adult International Student Committee and the student International Friendship Club at Terra Linda High School.

Welcome will be extended to newly arrived foreign students, Aurelio Gey from Ecudor, now a member of the Walter Obermeyer family; Lena van der Meulen, the Netherlands, joining the James McHugh family; and Sven Martinger, Sweden, living with the Ernest Gray family; all of Lucas Valley. Aurelio is here on the American Field Service Program and Lena and Sven on the youth for Understanding Program.

Chairman Mrs. Robert Horvath announces that swimming will begin at 3 p.m. followed by dinner at 5:30 p.m.

A FAMILY campout will be held by the Novato Moose Lodge at the Moose Lodge in Novato on Saturday and Sunday.

Jack D. Deen, chairman and junior governor of the Novato Moose Lodge, says entertainment is planned for all age groups.

The event will begin Saturday at 2 p.m. with a kid's fair. A dance for adults will begin at 9 p.m. while the children have a barbecue. On Sunday a pancake breakfast will be served at 8 a.m., and a barbecued pig dinner will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday.

THE NOVATO chapter of the Friends of the Library will sponsor an open house and reception for all Novatans at the present library location from 2 to 5 p.m., Sunday.

Honored guests to be introduced at a program at 3 p.m. are Martha Van Etten, Novato librarian and staff; Bruce Bajema, county librarian, who will display models of the new Novato library; Marin County supervisor William Gnoss; Mrs. Lloyd Linton of Sausalito, who was instrumental in organizing the "Friends of the Library"; Mrs. David Teather of Tiburon, who will display her book on history of Tiburon and explain the work of the Landmark Society; and Mrs. Lucretia Little of Mill Valley, another Marin County historian.

Committee for the reception are Mmes. Marjorie Mowat, president; W. S. Mordecai, chairman; Roy Huffman, program, and Russel Dreosch, refreshments.

ALPHA DELTI Pi Alumnae of Marin County have invited husbands and escorts to join them for a get acquainted cocktail party and buffet supper at 7 p.m. Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Fay in Strawberry.

New members will be welcomed at the first event of the year for the alumnae.

"FIDDLE, FADDLE and Fun" is the theme for Saturday evening's barn dance, sponsored by the Alumnae Association of College of Notre Dame. Committee members for the fund-raising event include Mmes. Curtis Caton and Mark Capitolo, both of San Rafael.

The dance will begin at 8:30 p.m. in the Little Theater on the Belmont campus.

THE NOVATO Stump Jumpers Square Dance Club will have its third Saturday night party at 8:30 p.m., Saturday at the IDESI Hall in Novato.

Caller will be Gene Welch. Hosts are Messrs. and Mmes. Bill Bayles and William Dodson.

The Stump Jumpers are starting a beginners square dance class on Wednesday at the IDESI Hall in Novato to be held at 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. each Wednesday for 17 weeks.

A BEGINNER class in folk dancing for aduits and young people will be held weekly beginning at 8 p.m. Monday in the auditorium of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel School in Mill Valley.

The instruction is sponsored by the Marin Dance Council and the Carmel Women's Club. Mrs. Jack Fifield is the instructor. Mrs. Ralph Douglas and Mrs. Frank Corno are registrars.

THE FOURTH annual luau will be held for members and guests of the Bel Marin Yacht Club on Sunday.

A mai tai party will be held at 1 p.m. on Pleasure Island at Bel Marin Keys. A pit-barbecue pork lion and barbecued fish dinner will be served at 6 p.m. at the community center. Hula dancers will be featured on the program.

Douglas Joslin is chairman, and Mmes. Douglas Joslin and Charles Stewart are reservations chairmen.

Youth Re-Examining Male-Female Roles With Honesty

By CAROLYN A. BOWERS

NEW YORK (UPI) — The world is in the midst of a sex evolution, not a revolution, says Dr. Mary S. Calderone.

The executive director of the Sex Information and Education Council of the United States, who says so, adds:

"Young people are re-examining the man-woman relationship in the direction of honesty to determine their role in this fast changing world."

At Seventeen Magazine's "Think Young Think Tank" seminar here, Dr. Calderone said that young people are stating openly that they want "clear and truthful knowledge about the realities of human sexual behavior early enough to be useful to them.

"THEY ALSO want clear opportunity to discuss the pros and cons of the use of that knowledge . . . and we officially deny them this knoweldge because we don't trust them to use it morally . . . ," she said.

Dr. Calderone added that this "relates exactly" to the discussion and struggle concerning sex education in the schools.

"State legislatures are making it a misdemeanor to teach reproduction in the schools," she said. "At the same time, billboards and the public media including advertising carry nudity and sexual behavior in all aspects.

"How can we expect a young person to look at the adult world around him with these conflicting messages, and accept the first one?"

Dr. Calderone urged intelligent citizens interested in good sex education in their schools to move towards an intelligent approach to acquire it.

SHE ADVISED adults to think back to when they were young, and these memories should serve as guidelines.

"For we don't have too much time left to get back into contact with our young people, to make common cause with them towards a world that will have to be built on reality rather than fakery, on conscience rather than on fun and fakery," she said.

"Contact with an adult world that permits them to consider the wide panorama of how human beings of all times and conditions and ages have behaved will ensure that instead of feeble consciences dependent only on rules, strong, tough consciences able to pick the right course because that is the one indicated, will be developed."

Dr. Calderone said that most young people want to "know" in order to decide what to "become," and they need older people whom they can look up to and model themselves after. "They need heroes," she said, "who are everyday people living lives of awareness and responsibility about many things including sex."

McIlyar-Nicholson Vows Said

Yesterday afternoon at Christ Episcopal Church in Sausalito, Anne Nicholson of Kentfield became the bride of William S. Mc Ilyar of Mill Valley.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Joseph J. Nicholson of Kentfield and the late Mr. Nicholson. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. McIlyar of Timonium, Md.

Bridesmaids were Susan Wosser and Jacklyn Newman, both of Sausalito. Terry Hoy of Mill Valley was the best man and Thomas Nicholson, Anne's brother, of Kentfield, seated guests. The bride was given away by her other brother, William Nicholson of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Anne is a Redwood High School graduate who attended the University of Denver, in Denver, Colo. Mr. and Mrs. John A. Sullivan of San Francisco are her grandparents.

William was graduated from Edina Morningside High School in Maryland and attended the University of Minnesota. He is employed by Swiss Ski Sports in San Francisco and is the brother of Melanie Mc Ilyar of Baltimore, Md.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A new guide for press chairmen of organizations which are interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is now available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

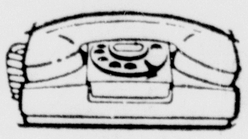
The guide explains policies of coverage, how to prepare news stories and meeting notices, and the special stories and features emphasized by the section.

The booklets at the San Rafael office may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

Legal Secretaries Course Is Offered At College

A new junior legal secretary class is scheduled by the College of Marin's Community Education Department to begin Tuesday at 7 p.m. in Room 91, Olney Hall.

Mr. Laura Robertson, with 16



years of local legal secretarial experience, will teach the 12-week course on behalf of Marin County Legal Secretaries Association.

This course, initiated in 1966, has trained many secretaries who are now employed by many local attorneys in private practice as well as by the County Counsel's office, the District Attorney's office, federal legal offices and allied fields.

Attorneys will lecture, and the preparation of legal pleadings and printed forms used by the superior and municipal courts will be emphasized, along with legal vocabulary.

Interested students may register at the College of Marin prior to or at the first session on Tuesday. Additional information may be had by calling the Community Education Department.

Today is Thursday, Sept. 18th, the 261st day of 1969 with 104 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning stars are Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1850, Congress passed the Fugitive Slave Act, allowing a slaveowner, with a certificate to reclaim any slave who escaped into another state.

In 1851, the New York Times was published for the first time.

In 1961, United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold was killed in a plane crash in northern Rhodesia.

In 1966, Valerie Percy, 21-year-old-daughter of Illinois Republican leader Charles Percy, was found stabbed to death in the Percy suburban home north of Chicago. Her killer has not been found.

A thought for the day: American poet Walt Whitman said, "One fully enslaved, no nation, state, city of this earth — ever afterward resumes its liberty."

Family Pickets Union's Office

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The tables were turned in Baltimore—a union office was picketed.

A 27-year-old housewife and her three small children picketed Teamsters Local 557. The woman said the union was not helping her husband collect back pay

Mrs. Gerald Browne said her husband did not know she was picketing.

A Crime Of Omission Is Not Disturbing To Bridge Expert

"The hands are very dull tonight," Dr. Watson complained, as he kibitzed at the Baker Street Bridge Club. "On the contrary, the last hand was a little gem," Sherlock Holmes replied. "There was a horrible crime of omission, but maybe it didn't make any difference. Still, such crimes are very disturbing."

DIAMOND CAUSE

West opened the five of spades, and East won the first trick with the queen. South took the second trick with the ace of spades and led the jack of diamonds.

East held off the first diamond but had to take the second diamond with his ace. Now South had nine easy tricks: five diamonds, one club, two hearts and a spade. South actually managed to take a tenth trick, but this was unimportant.

A dull hand, to Dr. Watson. Can you see why it disturbed Sherlock Holmes? Decide for yourself before you read on.

BRILLIANT LEAD

East missed his chance to make a brilliant lead. After winning the first trick with the queen of spades, East should return the king of clubs to force out dummy's ace. Then East can refuse the first diamond, and dummy's long suit will never come in.

Even after this brilliant return, South may still make his contract. He takes the ace of clubs and leads the king of diamonds to see if anybody is foolish enough to take the ace.

When East refuses the first diamond, declarer must try a finesse with the jack of hearts. This succeeds, and South takes all of his tricks and gets out with a diamond.

MAKES GAME

This leaves East with the ace of diamonds, a heart and a club trick. But then East must give the last trick to dummy's high diamond, and South makes game with two diamonds, three hearts, three clubs, and one spade.

It would have been a brilliant hand for both sides, but East missed the point.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades with a reliable partner.

He will pass, and you will probably be better off at two spades than he would be at one no trump. But do not respond with an unreliable partner. He will bid again, and you will be in trouble.

MUSICAL REVIEW

Jacques Brel Alive, Well On ACT Stage

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — Don't let anyone fool you, Jacques Brel is is alive and well and living in at the Marines' Memorial Theater.

The Belgian-born, French-transplanted composer's musical arrived last night for a limited engagement through arrangement with the American Conservatory Theater.

What we have is a brilliant 26-song score, depicting the human condition and excellently presented by singers-actors Robert Guillaume, Betty Rhodes, George Ball and Teri Ralston.

The hit of the this past season's Stanford Summer Festival,—the musical "Jacques Brel is Alive and Well and Living in Paris" — is a tightly paced package which really explodes with excitement when Miss Rhodes steps to center stage."

She is most electrifying in "Sons Of," "Carousel," and "Marieke," an ode to which completely stopped the show. It is worth the price of admission to hear her sing this beautiful and haunting lament which rings with pathos for a war's dead.

Probably "Marieke" best presents Brel's humanistic approach to life. And there is no romanticizing even in the composer's supposedly lighter songs. There is always that little imperfection which is so true of man.

Sharing co-billing in the cast of four are Robert Guillaume, George Ball and Teri Ralston.

Guillaume, like Miss Rhodes from former "Jacques Brel" casts, can also deliver with a powerful thrust. He was especially convincing in a sailor's tale of night in "Amsterdam," a melody of folk-like quality. Ball and Miss Ralston, like the other two well acquainted with the Brel score, have some good vocal vehicles, but don't come off quite as well.

While the first act has many pleasing moments, it is really the second which speeds the musical to an explosive conclusion with the company pleading for a better world in "If We Only Have Love."

There is something very familiar in Brel's approach. His score has almost a Kurt Weill feeling — that is the words are almost timeless.

The Marines' theater is ideally suited to this intimate type of musical theater. Thanks to an excellent sound system, each voice is clear without being overpowered by the small off-stage orchestra. (Directors of "Hair", please take note.)

Also helping to weave the non book score into proper focus are an almost barren stage and subtle lighting.

Translation of Brel's lyrics into English has been expertly fashioned by Eric Blau and Mort Shuman. Director Moni Yakim, himself a celebrated mime, has let the score speak without too much clutter of unnecessary action. This made "Timid Frieda," a spoof on the Salvation Army, come off very well.

The musical will be presented nightly at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday; Saturday at 7 and 10 p.m. and Sunday at 3 and 8 p.m. The run is tentatively scheduled through late November.

EYE IRRITATION

Steps Taken To Check Pollutants

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Tighter controls over some types of pollutants in California's air have been adopted over criticism they still won't prevent irritated eyes, noses, throats and lungs.

The Air Resources Board yesterday approved new standards for the amounts of exidants, carbon monoxide and hydrogen sulfide that would be permitted in the atmosphere.

But the board, after six public hearings, sent back to its technical advisory committee for more study proposed new limits on sulfur dioxide and solid materials in the air.

STANDARD LEFT

It left unchanged at .25 parts per million for one hour the standard on nitrogen dioxide—the agent that gives Los Angeles-type smog its dingy yellow tinge. However, the tougher standard on oxidants will force stricter controls over vehicle exhausts—chief cause of nitrogen dioxide.

The level for oxidants was dropped from .15 to .10 parts per million for one hour. The tolerance for carbon monoxide was lowered from 30 to 20 parts per million for one hour.

The standard for hydrogen sulfide which gives the air a "rotten egg" odor was reduced from .1 to .003 parts per million for an hour.

TO HELP EYES

The new standards were designed to prevent eye irrigation and possible lung impairment in persons with pulmonary diseases.

But Dr. Joseph F. Bovle, a board member, called the new standards "woefully inadequate." He tried unsuccessfully to get the whole set of proposed standards referred back for more study.

He said the board by adopting the new standards was telling the people of California "it is desireable from the standpoint of their health" that they be exposed to levels of pollution "highly deleterious to their health."

Member James Stearns said the new standards would "gain the ground that was gainable, recognizing this is the first step."

ARE ENFORCEABLE

"They form a workable portion of what can be done," said member Walter R. Schmid. "These are enforceable standards."

"You're not even meeting present standards," Boyle replied. "You can't meet these in five years."

"The point is not technical feasibility," Boyle said. "he point is advising people of the serious health hazards we face from smog."

Citizens' smog-fighting groups also criticized the new standards as a step in the right direction but not enough of a step.

ALL BUT ONE 1970 MODEL GETS BLESSED

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's Air Resources Board has approved virtually all 1970 model cars for sale in the state after they met new controls over how much they can pollute the air.

The only car the board didn't approve yesterday was the foreign-built Alfa Romeo, but it still can be sold because it qualifies under a special part of the antismog law dealing with out-of-the-ordinary cases.

A new state law provides that new cars cannot be sold in California, the nation's leading auto market, starting with 1970 models unless their smog output does not exceed state-set tolerances.

Look Pleads Secrecy For Informants

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Look Magazine attorneys say it's a matter of life or death not to reveal three sources for an article which linked San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto to the Mafia.

They told federal judge Gerald S. Levin yesterday that they might be assassinated if their names are made public.

Alioto has filed a $12.5 million libel suit against the magazine for the story by Richard Carlson and Lance Brisson. The mayor's attorneys asked for the long-distance phone call records of the authors and charged that "hoodlums and gangsters" supplied the material for the story.

IN DANGER?

The defense conceded some of the sources had underworld ties and said at least three would be in danger if their names were known.

U.S. Dist. Judge Gerald S. Levin ordered the records sealed and placed in custody. He planned to hear more legal argument today whether the records should be made available to Alioto's attorney.

Identical affidavits by Carlson and Brisson said there were "many" informants whose "lives are in particular jeopardy."

"Individual A presently carries a gun for personal protection," said each affidavit. "Individual A told me within the last week that if Individual A's name is revealed in connection with this article, Individual A expects La Cosa Nostra to effect violent reprisal."

FOUND SLAIN

"Individual A told me he had previously been threatened by one Mafia member named in the Look article."

"Individual B," the affidavits said, "was affiliated with a ring of 'dangerous hoodlums engaged in illegal activities,' of whom one, Julio Petro, was found shot to death in Los Angeles eight months ago.

"Individual B told me that Individual B would suffer the same fate as Mr. Petro if it were known that Individual B gave me information."

Similar assertions were made regarding an "Individual C."

Alioto's attorney, Maxwell Blecher, said that "the writers are now placing themselves in the position of saying they can protect the nanes of gangsters and hoodlums. It is the height of audacity to say we can't even find out who their informers are."

Reagan Names Aide To Industrial Post

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday designated William C. Hern of Millbrae as acting state industrial relations director to succeed the late Peter Weinberger.

Hern, chief of the Industrial Relations Department's Labor Law Enforcement Division since 1967, will receive an annual salary of $30,000 as acting director. He was named San Mateo County's "Industry Man of the Year" in 1965.

Buses Now, Ferries Later Says SPUR

Marin Transit District's proposed bus system, which was rejected by the San Francisco Board of Supervisors Monday, got a shot in the arm yesterday from the San Francisco Planning and Urban Renewal Association (SPUR).

The SPUR report, just releases, supports the "immediate establishment of a bus transit system as recommended by the Marin Transit District staff."

SPUR's recommendation is in direct contrast to the San Francisco supervisors' "unequivocal opposition" to the bus system and their insistence that a ferry system be set up for Marin commuters.

The SPUR report reiterates its 1968 recommendation for immediate creation of a bus rapid transit system using funds of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District to subsidize it. "Ferries should be considered as a supplement to the bus transit facilities," the report said.

"The public has the choice of investing $51 million in a ferry system to transport approximately the same number of passengers from Marin to San Francisco that a $7 million bus system could accomplish," said SPUR. If the bus system is to be held up until a commuter ferry system is in operation, there will be a delay of at least three or four years before the Marin commuter gets any relief, said SPUR.

The report declared that the ferry patronage survey conducted by Arthur D Little Co. is subject to error because commuters questioned did not have a chance to express preference between an improved bus transit system and a ferry system. "Little mention was made in the questionnaire about the possibility of waiting times in transferring at ferry terminals."

The cost and patronage projections of the ferry study did not assume a level of competition from an improved bus system that would bring modern buses to within walking distance of most commuters, SPUR argued.

This implies, said the SPUR report, that for a ferry system to have any chance of success or at least to avoid a large public subsidy, a negative policy would have to be adopted, preventing the establishment of a bus system.

The United States was the first country to place men on the moon.

Marin Labor Council Hits Supreme Court Nominee

The Marin County Labor Council last night opposed Senate confirmation of the appointment of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth of South Carolina as a Supreme Court Justice.

Telegrams were sent to Sens. Alan Cranston and George Murphy opposing the confirmation, reported Peter Patrakis, council secretary-treasurer.

The council requested the Senate to take in account his "lack of understanding of the aspirations of workers and minorities," Patrakis said.

Representatives of unions affiliated with the council reported "all members working," Petrakis said.

Norman T. Campbell, past business agent for Carpenter's Local 35, will represent Marin County at a discussion of discrimination in housing with the Bay Area Labor Council and the National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing, Petrakis said.

Outing For Exchange Students Set Sunday

Three foreign exchange students at Terra Linda High School will be honored at a picnic Saturday at the Marinwood Community Center sponsored by the school's International Friendship Club.

The students, Aurelio Gey from Ecuador, Lena van der Meulen from The Netherlands and Sven Martingez from Sweden will meet club members and guests from 3 to 7 p.m.

Also attending will be Terra Linda High students who participated in the International Living program last summer — Carole Campbell, who visited Austria, Sue Giacomini, Italy, Patrick Orsini, Germany; Gary Katz, Great Britain, and Sandie Robb, Belgium.

There will be swimming from 3 to 5:30 p.m. and dinner to follow.

Miss van de Muelen staying with Mr. and Mrs. James C. McHugh at 8 Mount Tenaya Drive, Lucas Valley; Martingez with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gray, 1180 Idylberry Road, Marinwood, and Gey with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Overmeyer, 846 Greenberry Lane, Marinwood.

Deputies Nab Nude Suspects

Two persons, reportedly in the nude at Muir Beach Tuesday afternoon were booked by Marin County Sheriff's deputies on suspicion of disturbing the peace.

Deputies booked Ronald N. Grayson, 26, of 3100 Vincente Street, San Francisco, and Charlotte Wanda Segersthale, 21, of 159 Woodward Avenue, Sausalito.

Both were released under $125 bail and scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court at 2 p.m. tomorrow.

Suspected Bank Robber Nabbed

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Maurice J. Philion, suspected of 10 bank robberies in San Francisco, was arrested here yesterday after an FBI agent recognized him walking along the street.

Philion, 34, escaped from the Kingston Federal Penitentiary in Ottawa, Canada, on March 8. Since that escape, the FBI said, Philion is suspected of robbing 15 banks on the West Coast of a total of $33,000.

A warrant and complaint issued Tuesday against Philion charges him with the March 25 robbery of the Humboldt Branch of the Bank of America in San Francisco. The government will seek to return Philion to San Francisco and hold him on $100,000 bail.

He was serving a 14-year sentence for armed robbery when he escaped from the Canadian prison.

Innocent Plea To Transporting Weed

John Lynn Portis, 25, of Sioux City, Iowa, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of transporting marijuana into California and one of possession of the weed. A preliminary hearing was set for Monday.

Portis was arrested last Monday in a car reportedly stolen in Iowa. A pouch of marijuana was found in the vehicle, according to officers.

Innocent Pleas To Truck Theft

A preliminary hearing for Ezequiel Antonio Palacios, 23, of Paramount, Los Angeles County, and Robert Landis Frank, 25, of Nashville, Tenn., was set for Tuesday.

They were arrested when an equipment operator working at Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael near the offramp from Highway 101 said he saw them take his pickup truck. Thomas J. Palmer pursued them, and, wielding a shovel, held them until police arrived.

Call For Sanitation Equipment Overhaul

San Rafael Sanitation District directors were stunned yesterday by reports of major need for rehabilitation or replacement of equipment.

John H. Jenks of Palo Alto, a consulting engineer, reported, "there is an accumulated need of major proportion" at pumping plants "for replacement and/or rehabilitation."

Director C .Paul Bettini said it was the first time the problem had been brought to the board and he was "really upset."

Jenks said the pumping plant equipment was old and there hasn't been any substantial program of preventive maintenance.

During the discussion it was pointed out that the district had been relying on its existing crew to handle routine maintenance, and there wasn't enough manpower to go around.

Chairman Fred E. Jensen conceded that perhaps the district had been operating on "false economy," but said the board had never rejected staff requests for work that had to be done by outside help.

Ely Cailouette Jr., district engineer, said some of the needs listed were needs that would have been handled during the year on the regular maintenance program, but some additional needs developed within in the last three or four months.

"I understood the board wanted to hold cost down," Cailouette said.

Norris M. Rawles, district administrator, said the "big hangup" has been the board's directive "to do work ourselves."

Victor Von Aspern, chief plant operator, requested that a swing shift be established at the main treatment plant and an additional operator hired. With the additional man, the crew could do more preventative maintenance, he said.

Bettini suggested that perhaps the district was big enough to warrant hiring a full-time engineer-manager.

Rawles and Cailouette, who are employed by the city of San Rafael, work part-time for the sanitation district, and major engineering projects have been handled by firms such as Dan Coleman Associates of Greenbrae.

Jensen asked the staff to calculate how much has been spent for services that an engineer-manager would provide to determine if creating the post is warranted.

Directors also asked Jenks to estimate how much he would charge for a study to show where the district now stands in regard to equipment and what its immediate needs will be.

Directors also approved a request by the William McDevitt Co. to annex a building site along Margarita Drive, Country Club area to the district.

Youth's Gun Assault Case Is Dropped

Charges of assault with a deadly weapon and disturbing the peace — stemming from a gunfire-punctuated argument in Petaluma Monday — were dropped yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court against a 20-year-old Petaluma youth.

The youth, Donald R. Chassereau of 180 Cherry Street, pleaded no contest to a charge of possessing alcoholic beverages and was given a 10-day suspended sentence and placed on probation for 90 days.

Chassereau was arrested Monday after a couple told police that he and a companion, Stanley L. DeMartinis, 20, of 408 Fair Street, Petaluma, had threatened them with knives and a gun. Police said shots were fired into a house at 513 Jefferson Street or into the air.

A hearing on similar charges against DeMartinis was postponed until 1:30 p.m. Monday.

Barb Ex-Owner To Stand Trial

BERKELEY (UPI)—A Municipal Judge ruled yesterday that Max Sherr, former publisher of the Berkeley Barb, must face charges of obscenity.

Judge Mario Barsotti denied a request by Scherr's attorney to throw out the indictment and said the date for the trial will be set Sept. 26.

The ex-publisher was indicted on the charge after dismissal of an earlier charge that one picture in the Barb was obscene. At that time Judge Barsotti ruled that a publication could not be judged obscene on the basis of a single photograph.

Capitalism And The New Nations

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Luring private capital to invest abroad is a two-way street, speakers at the International Industrial Conference agreed today.

Both the lending and borrowing country can and must do much to improve the climate for such investment, a series of speakers told the meeting of 700 of the world's leading businessmen at the Fairmont Hotel.

In its fourth day, the meeting ends tomorrow after an address tonight by Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans. It is sponsored by the Stanford Research Institute of Menlo Park and the National Industrial Conference Board of New York.

Getting more private capital to work in foreign areas has emerged as a common prime objective at this conference, the theme of which is "closing the world's income gap" between rich and poor nations.

The climate to attract such capital must be created in both countries involved, said A. Romeo Horton, president of the Bank of Liberia.

The host country must provide stable political and economic conditions, he said, with reasonable assurances that earnings can be repatriated.

At the same time the investing company should make itself part of the host economy and operate to the benefit of the host public. Local nationals and agents should be used at all levels to spread benefits as widely as possible, he said.

Horton also urged foreign companies going into underdeveloped countries to engage in manufacturing as much as possible.

This would make the country "a producer of finished goods as well as a producer of primary products," and "reduce the constant drain into foreign markets of the natural resource of the host country," he said.

He warned against a "get, grab and go" policy and said investors should be prepared to stay and reinvest in host countries.

Being nationalistic, developing countries go through an "exuberant stage" when the climate for foreign investment may be clouded, said Sixto K. Roxas, president of the Bancom Development Corp. of Manila.

A new basis for fresh developments must eventually be established," he said. "That is where the Philippine development stands at the moment."

He outlined new Philippine laws guaranteeing protection to foreign investors provided they conform with carefully worked-out regulations. He said these provide for liberal tax treatment and other favors according to which industries Philippine planners consider most desirable.

One of these areas embraces domestic processing facilities, and 115 such projects have been approved, including pulp and steel mills and chemical plants, he reported.

"Our vices are really virtues that have gone wild," he said of the period when the new republic concentrated on developing its own plants, largely with domestic capital.

"When we adopted industrialization as the path to the blessed life, we went all crazy with it. We now have more industrial plants than we know what to do with.

EAST LINKED TO WEST BY VOICE AND PICTURE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Picturephone got its first cross country conference use yesterday at the International Industrial Conference.

Speakers' faces as well as voices were carried in calls from the conference in San Francisco to Washington, D.C., New York and Chicago.

H. I. Romnes, American Telephone & Telegraph Co. chairman, presented the Picturephone to demonstrate what his industry can do to tie the world more closely.

Speakers on the Picturephone conference call were Dr. Paul McCracken, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers in Washington; bank president Gabriel Hauge in New York, and bank president Gaylord Freeman in Chicago.

Integration On Economic Level Urged

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The head of Italy's giant Fiat Corp. called on 700 world business leaders yesterday to think in terms of "of a single world economy."

Giovanni Agnelli, Fiat board chairman, addressed the International Industrial Conference on closing the world's income gap."

"Why should we continue to consider the problem of backward areas as an isolated sector?" Agnelli asked the international bankers and industrialists from 70 countries attending the conference spossored by the Stanford Research Institute and the National Industrial Conference Board.

"Why shouldn't we try instead to think in terms of a single world economy in which the affluent society and the underdeveloped world must integrate with each other?" Agnelli asked.

"The development of the Third World," he said, "may signify the only way to guarantee, peacefully, the continuity and scope of the development of the industrial society, as opposed to a war economy."

Waldie Fights For Keeping North Water

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Northern California congressman says San Francisco Bay's water quality is being sacrificed to build more subdivisions in Southern California.

Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-14th District, said a key feature of the California Water Project will take so much water from Northern California that the bay will be deprived of needed fresh water.

His testimony before a meeting of the Senate and Assembly water resources committees yesterday was directed against the proposed $208.5 million peripheral canal.

AROUND DELTAS

This facility would take Sacramento River water around the deltas of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers, diverting it to the California Aqueduct for shipment to the dry south.

"We had better decide whether the preservation of the estuaries and San Francisco Bay as nearly as they are today is as important as building more subdivisions in the south," Waldie said.

Waldie urged that the canal be held up until experts decided if it would deprive the delta and the bay of the fresh water they now get from the Sacramento River.

DISPUTES WIEW

William Gianelli, state director of water resources, disputed Waldie's view. He said Waldie should have spoke up years ago, when industries were being built along the bay, changing the area's environment.

He challenged Waldie to go before the Contra Costa County Board of Supervisors and ask that all industries around the bay be closed down.

Waldie predicted Congress will refuse to approve an appropriation for the federal share of the canal until it finds out if the diversion of water will hurt the bay.

He said that planners of the water project considered only the needs of city and suburban dwellers in Southern California and farmers in allocating the water. They did not, he said, consider conservation factors, such as preserving the bay.

Scientists, he said, predict it "will be catastrophic" if the canal is built, for the estuaries and the bay will be deprived of fresh water.

U.S. Backs Minorities In Rec Facility Use

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a major civil rights move, the Nixon administration has asked the Supreme Court to protect the rights of Negro homeowners to use community recreation facilities.

The Justice Department, in a brief filed with the court, said an 1866 civil rights act guarantees Negroes not only the equal right to buy a house but the right to enjoy the side benefits that go with it.

"Community recreational facilities, especially swimming pools, are a major factor affecting the desirability and value of residential property," Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold said in a brief.

A year ago, the court held the Reconstruction era law barred discrimination in all housing sales and rentals.

The government said it would be inconsistent with this interpretation if "a Negro has the same right to buy or lease property as a white citizen but can be precluded from enjoying some of the incidents thereof on the basis of his race."

The white family of Paul E. Sullivan leased a house to the Negro family of T. R. Freeman Jr. in 1965 and included a membership share in the recreation facility, Little Hunting Park, in a Virginia suburb of Washington, D.C.

The Freeman's moved into the house but the directors of the recreation corporation barred the Negro family from using the community park, playground facilities, swimming pool and tennis courts.

Sullivan complained, was given a hearing and then expelled unanimously. When Virginia state courts ruled against the two families they appealed to the high court.

The government, as it has before, sidestepped whether purly private social clubs must be opened to Negroes. It said it did not have to reach this question at this time because "none of the earmarks of exclusivity or choice traditionally associated ciated with Little Hunting Park.

Shouters For 'Free Press' —And Those Who Guard It

California has witnessed its most serious attack on freedom of the press in recent years in the issuance by courts in Los Angeles and San Francisco of injunctions against publication of names of narcotics agents.

It is ironic that these injunctions were issued against two so-called "underground newspapers," the Los Angeles Free Press and Dock of the Bay, which have devoted many columns of diatribe to attacks on what they call "the Establishment press."

THESE NEWSPAPERS, and others of their ilk, ranging from the Black Panther to some of the college press, are fond of exhortations to "tell it like it is."

"Like it is," however, is the way they want to present it. Any other version is "the voice of the fascist Establishment."

Thus these "underground newspapers" consistently attack the very freedom of the press which enables them to continue publication. And it is the California Freedom of Information Committee, set up by "the Establishment press," that has come to their defense against the attempt at censorship at the source through court injunctions.

THE REVOLUTIONARY "New Left," as represented in the Maoist-Leninist-Marxist governments which it admires and emulates, has not been so solicitous of the freedom to publish that with which it does not agree.

These reports show that freedom of the press is under attack around the world, in countries with governments ranging from far left to far right — which really is not much of a range, as they move in opposite directions around a circle to eventually wind up at the same dictatorship position.

IN NEWLY "FREE" Tanzania, a Canadian reporter was arrested last month for taking photographs of Chinese technicians and military aides. While he was held in jail, prior to being deported, he was given "The Thoughts of Chairman Mao" to read and ponder.

From Malaysia came reports of suppression of newspapers and fining of reporters for printing accounts of recent disturbances that did not agree with the official version.

In South Africa, an editor and reporter were fined, and the reporter given a suspended prison sentence, for a series of stories exposing prison conditions which had won for them an American Newspaper Publishers Association world press achievement award.

In Mao's China, Anthony Grey, a Reuters correspondent, has been under closely guarded house arrest for two years, although no charge has ever been filed against him.

IT IS AN OLD story. As the Bolshevik revolutionaries bid for control of Russia in the November revolution of 1917, Leon Trotsky made an impassioned speech in behalf of freedom of the press. But before the "10 days that shook the world" were over, the Bolsheviks had suppressed all newspapers except those they controlled.

The lesson is clear: In a democracy, there is room for many voices. In a dictatorship — founded, without exception, with "power to the people" slogans — there is room for only one.

The Difference Is . . .

There is a great difference between the fruits and vegetables that Marin home gardeners grow and those we buy at the markets. Except for those gardens in parts of the county where cool weather prevails, our garden produce is usually sweeter and more flavorful. Market produce, however, is generally better looking.

There is good reason why this is so. Commercial growers usually grow their vegetables from seeds of different varieties from those sold to the home gardener. They are kinds that can stand rough handling, shipment, and several days on market shelves and still look good.

The home gardener hopes for good looks, but freshness and flavor are primary with him. He usually wants tomatoes, for example, that will ripen on the vine. And there is a difference.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Constitution Revision Group Monkeying With Principles

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — California's constitutional revision committee, which for some years has been studying ways of shortening the state's voluminous basic law document, has come up with a recommendation that the voting age be lowered from 21 to 19 years.

It also proposes that literacy requirements be abolished as a prerequisite to voting, and that the right to vote be restored to persons under court order for conviction of designated felonies or mental incompetence.

LOWERING the voting age has been an issue in the state legislature for some years, but to date, the age remains at 21 years, and more likely than not, will stay at that age for many years to come.

The forefathers of the present generation, who wrote the age into the constitution originally, considered the right to vote a privilege of maturity, and considered that young people 21 years of age were sufficiently mature to exercise the privilege.

In those earlier days, young people were more knowledgeable of maturity at 21 than they are today. Most of them had been earning a living for some years, instead of just getting out of college. There were no such things as government subsidies, or excessive parental subsidies such as there are today. At 21, the young person was considered on his own, and therefore able to give thoughtful consideration to candidates for office and problems affecting the state and nation.

TODAY, the problem is different. Far from reaching maturity at 21, young people generally are on the government or their parents until they reach age 25, which gives some reason for raising, rather than lowering the voting age. But there is no discussion for fixing the age at 25, when young people are more on their own and sense the value of a dollar paid out of their pockets in taxes more than they can be expected to do at age 21.

Neither is there any discussion of limiting the franchise to responsible citizens, who earn a living and pay taxes to support a government whose power to levy those taxes is unlimited. This is why people on welfare can vote for representatives who continue to heap largesse on them in return for votes to get reelected.

If government were realistic, it would consider seriously denying the franchise to people on government subsidy.

THIS IS virtually the same constitutional revision commission that last year attempted to deprive the electorate of the right to name its own state superintendent of public instruction. The electorate thwarted the commission in this attempt, defeating the proposition.

Every Day Holiday —No More Work

I'm pleased to be able to inform you that Utopia has arrived.

My study of history reveals that every day is a holiday, a holiday that should be devoutly observed by every right-thinking and patriotic American. Incidentally, there are no others.

In line with this profound discovery, I call your attention to the fact that we shall soon have the anniversaries of the births of Carrie Nation, Warren Gamaliel Harding and Lydia Pinkham.

Let's Stay Secure In Our Isolation

The Marin County commuter may think it will be fine indeed when a ferry system or fast buses on a second deck or a tube under the Golden Gate will ease the growing frustration of the overcrowded bridge. Unhappily his hopes for relief are in vain. For as soon as the transportation bottleneck is widened, more people will move to Marin, and the crowding will be as bad as ever.

To the business man it may seem that more people will bring more business and make him more prosperous. Does he not see that as soon as the community will support another business someone will establish it, be it a grocery store, bank, barber shop or whatever? Competition will be as severe as ever; profits no greater than before.

The citizen who believes that more businesses and industries will bring in more taxes forgets that these businesses and industries bring with them more people whose demand for public services - police, sewers, schools, streets - will promptly swallow up the gain in tax dollars. Only monopolists, such as land owners and public utilities, can gain from population increases, and they are, after all, a small minority.

The charm of Marin lies in its spaciousness, its low population density. Anything which makes it easier to move here will attract people and detract from that charm. Let us keep the beautiful bridge as it is and stop talking of bypassing it or of enlarging its capacity. Only thus can we keep the city at bay, which we must do or lose the satisfactions that come from living in Marin. Why pay to have ourselves overwhelmed by urban problems?

Airport Not Overlooked By All

Your editorial of Sept. 13, regarding Smith Ranch Airport, "Strange End To Long Search For An Airstrip", is especially appreciated by a small group of us who have worked for the last five years to further any and all air facilities within Marin County. I am hopeful you will continue to join in the effort . . .

The fact is, instead of being ignored by the aviation commission, Smith Ranch Airport is Number Two in priority on the official "Master Plan For Airports" for Marin County. It is second on that master plan only to the development of a large airport-industrial complex just east of Hamilton Air Force Base and south of Bel Marin Keys. The Smith Ranch Airport has been almost constantly discussed at aviation commission meetings over the past four years, and many attempts were made to get SFO Helicopters to use Smith Ranch for a terminal . . .

As the person who caused the aviation commission to be formed in the first place, and as the first member and first chairman, and the first commissioner to be fired last January, I started three years ago talking to Dr. Marks, founder of Skymark Airlines, which later became part of Golden West Airlines. Mr. David B. Vail, present chairman of the Aviation Commission and I have continued to work with Golden West Airlines who now make a proposal to start services, possibly by Nov. 1, the direct result of these negotiations . . .

As to the legality of the airport: It surely is recognized and published by the FAA as a private airport . . .

In 1959 the planning commission unanimously approved a use permit for the airport, which has been operating since 1926, but through the unpredictable ramifications of political affairs it was turned down by the supervisors . . .

Refusal To Treat Woman Appalling

I just read the article in the Sept. 15, I-J regarding a Novato woman's rape and the subsequent refusal on the part of two Marin hospitals and three doctors to come to her assistance. This situation is appalling. Having been involved myself in an emergency which became painfully bogged down in bureaucratic red tape, I can well understand this woman's plight.

Anyone who is insensative enough to ignore the needs of a victim of forceable rape should hang his head in shame. The article gave me the feeling that there was a good deal of shuffling of responsibility.

In this day of national apathy (i.e. the Genovese case), I can understand the running for cover. My hope is that the victim will instigate some sort of action and that the doctors involved are made to answer for their actions (or lack of action) This woman has my complete support and I hope the support of many of your readers.

Finch Cast For Martyr's Role In Politics Of Desegregation

WASHINGTON — When Richard Nixon, as president-elect, assigned his good friend and California ally, Robert H. Finch, to the snake pit of Health, Education and Welfare, he must have had an idea of what it would mean. Finch was certain to be pinned between the Nixon southern strategy and the unrelenting demand for desegregation, not only of schools but of all public facilities.

A big man with the broad shoulders of an athlete, Finch has the strained look of the long-distance runner on his face — a man who knows the finish line will always be 100 yards ahead.

Finch's argument that federal court orders are the surest way to integrate the schools may prove right in the end, although in light of the built-in prejudices of southern judges it is highly doubtful. But this overlooks something far more fundamental.

THE U. S. COMMISSION on Civil Rights, under chairmanship of Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh of Notre Dame, called the backing and filling of Finch and Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell a "major retreat." That is how it is read in the South.

What gripes Finch most of all is the attack of the liberals who feel that he, the most conspicuous liberal in the Nixon cabinet, has let them down. Don't they know, he demands how the other side is after me? They're talking about impeaching me.

This last is not, it happens, merely a figure of speech. Rep. Fletcher Thompson of Georgia, one of the new breed of southern Republicans, is preparing the basis for articles of impeachment that he intends to present on the floor of the House. Thompson has sent questionnaires to school superintendents throughout the South, asking for figures on schools shut down after failing to comply with new orders to desegregate.

Responses already received, Thompson says, show schools valued at $35 million closed up.

THE IMPEACHMENT would charge Finch with deliberately violating the provisions of an appropriation bill forbidding the use of the money for busing pupils from one school to another or otherwise enforcing desegregation. Thompson has no illusions that the House will vote to impeach the secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. But his attack is symptomatic of the drive to bring Finch to heel.

It is led by southern Republicans from the states that gave President Nixon his victory in November and from the states that George Wallace carried. Foremost in this company is Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, an engineer of the Nixon victory and now head of the watchful guard on the Mason-Dixon Line saying this far and no farther.

THE DAY after Father Hesburgh's commission scored the Finch-Mitchell approach as a "major retreat," Finch issued his own progress report. This claimed that "more school desegregation is occurring this month than at any school opening in America's past." The statement gave impressive statistics — 336 voluntary desegregation plans at school opening compared with 171 last year — to document the progress.

The real question is where the Nixon administration stands. One test is the amendment already passed by the House underwriting "feeedom of choice." In the South "freedom of choice" makes the plight of the blacks wanting desegregation all but impossible. Finch came out against the amendment. No one else in the executive branch has spoken up. The impression grows that Finch is a kind of St. Sebastian, set up to take the arrows of attack with the patient smile of martyrdom.

U.S., Japan Hang Tough On Future Of Okinawa

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

On the issue of Okinawa both the United States and Japan are practicing diplomatic brinkmanship.

Prior to the arrival of Jananese Foreign Minister Kiichi Aichi for his Washington meeting with Secretary of State William P. Rogers it had been hoped that conditions for the return of Okinawa to Japan could be settled between the two, needing only the formality of approval by President Nixon and Prime Minister Eisaku Sato in November.

Instead, nothing has been settled and Aichi has predicted frankly that final terms probably will not be settled until the last day of the Nixon-Sato meeting scheduled in Washington for Nov. 19-21.

The difficulty is that, while agreeing Okinawa must be returned to Japanese sovereignty, the two approach the problem from different angles.

The Sato government has staked its life on the return of Okinawa in 1972 and approaches it as a political problem.

Okinawa is the United States' most strategic base in the Pacific and the United States therefore approaches it as a military problem.

JAPAN AGREES that the United States may keep its bases on Okinawa, but demands that they be governed by the same rules as are American bases in Japan.

These rules would require that the United States consult with Japan prior to the dispatch of U.S. forces from Okinawa on an offensive mission and the removal of nuclear weapons from the bases.

The United States says it must have "free" use of the bases if it is to carry out its obligations to defend Japan and the rest of Asia.

Reportedly, it would be willing to remove its nuclear weapons in peace time but demands the right to return them in the event of a threat to Formosa, the Philippines or South Korea.

THE JAPANESE hold there is no possibility of an outside threat to the Philippines and they fear the effect of their relations with Red China if they agree to the inclusion of Formosa in the nuclear defense perimeter. They would permit it in the case of South Korea.

Becoming inextricably bound up also in the U.S.-Japan negotiations over Okinawa is the equally thorny problem of economic relations between the two.

For the return of Okinawa and the other Ryukyu Islands captured in World War II, the United States wants other than purely military concessions. For instance, it wants Japan to impose self-restrictions on sale of textiles, electronic items and steel. It also wants Japan to lift its own restrictions on U.S. investments in Japan.

Both sides know that eventually a compromise must be reached. But neither so far has budged from its tough stance.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

He who would distinguish the true from the false must have an adequate idea of what is true and false. — Benedict Spinoza.

The genuine problem is the relation between authority and freedom . . . The issue that requires constant attention is the intimate and organic union of the two things: of authority and freedom, of stability and change. — John Dewey.

Kastahana Produces Weird Blend Of Musical Styles

A strange combination of elbows and soul, snakes and rock, determination and blues floated together in July to become a band.

Six weeks later, growing pains healed and an unusual style assured, the group was good enough to beat 62 others and capture first place in the state fair band competition.

The group is Kastahana, a name chosen simply because its members liked it. It means Indian snake band, but the group, with humor much like their music, say that's really the opposite of what they are.

THE ORIGINAL Kastahana was formed about six months ago and went through a series of members before striking the right combination in July.

Now there are Bruce Gavin, 18, the organist who uses — and abuses — his hands and elbows to make the instrument sing; Bob Kay, also 18, and lead guitarist; Kim Elsom, 20, bass guitarist; Terry Dilbeck, 18, the drummer, and John Jones, 16, lead singer and chief clown.

Gavin and Kay are students at College of Marin, Jones is in high school, and the others are full-time musicians.

All are deadly serious about their work and write most of their own music and lyrics with a strange sound of their own.

It's a sometimes weird, always smooth, blending of rock, jazz and soul, which even the group has a hard time describing. "Just listen," they say as the floor starts vibrating.

THEY PRACTICE four hours a day, five days a week, in the former dining room of an old house at 1811 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, where most of them also live, with Bruce's mother, Barbara Gavin, as housemother.

The room's decor is principally contemporary insulation installed after neighbors complained.

They play now for dances around the county, wishing their first number could always be a nap after lugging in Bruce's 400-pound organ.

After they get going, however, the weight of the organ doesn't matter as they watch the crowd react to their music.

Next they hope to make an album. They're not sure how long that will take, but figure it had better be soon. "We're poor," Bruce explained.

With This Plastic Credit Card Comes New Car, Charged To You

WASHINGTON — A lot of people are being shaken up these days by receiving unsolicited plastic credit cards. In the past the consumer had the option whether to ask for credit or not. But now in the great battle for the hearts and dollars of the American customer, the banks, oil companies and hotel chains are shoving their credit cards at you whether you want them or not.

It isn't just the specter of a wife or teen-ager receiving a credit card and going berserk that bothers most American breadwinners. It's the principle of the thing, and where will it all end? What is to prevent a company that sends unsolicited credit cards to your home from sending merchandise instead?

I don't believe it is too far-fetched to see this happening in a few years.

YOU COME HOME, and there on your front lawn is a complete dining room set with table, 12 chairs and cabinet. Attached to a leg of the table is a note:

"Greetings. We are happy to inform you that we consider you an excellent credit risk and, to show our faith in you, we are leaving this dining room set on your lawn. Our credit reports on you indicate that you favor Colonial furniture, and we have chosen this particular mahogany wood which we know will go well with the rest of your furnishings. If for some reason this particular dining room set does not meet your requirements, you may return it to our warehouse within 10 days, and you will not be charged for it. If it is not returned, we will assume that we made the right choice, and we shall start billing you monthly."

OR YOU COULD wake up in the morning and find parked outside your door a new "Fire-eater" with the following letter taped to the windshield:

"Congratulations,

"You are now the owner of a new Fire-eater, the fastest, most comfortable, economical automobile on the road. Because of your high credit rating, we have taken the liberty of registering this car in your name with the State Vehicle Bureau.

"If for any reason you change your mind and decide you don't want to be one of the 'with it' people, please call this number and we will have the car taken away, at no cost to you except for the towing charges.

"Also, if you do not accept this exceptional buy, you must go down to the state Vehicle Bureau and inform them of this decision. Otherwise we will start charging you interest beginning next week."

THE FINAL indignity would be to receive a registered letter from a development company which read:

"Dear sir,

"We're happy to inform you that you are now the proud owner of a new ranch house in Paradise Acres. This extraordinary home (the deed is enclosed) has three bedrooms, two and a half baths, a playroom and completely equipped kitchen and will be ready for you to move into within two weeks.

"A check on your credit rating shows that you can easily afford this remarkable buy, and we have taken the liberty of deducting from your bank account the small down payment.

"If we don't hear from you by registered mail within the next 36 hours, we will assume that you will be joining us at Paradise Acres. On the other hand, if you return the deed, then we ask you to contact our lawyers so some equitable arrangement can be worked our for our time and inconvenience.

"Cheers."

Ross Citizens To Eye Project

The Ross Town Council Flood Control Advisory Board will examine the current plans of the Army Corps of Engineers for the Corte Madera Creek flood control project through Ross in a special meeting today.

The 5 p.m. meeting at town hall, which will include county representatives, was called to determine if Ross, which has veto power on that section of the project, has any design objections.

A general meeting, in which an in-depth study of route options may be considered if the advisory board thinks it necessary, will be held at 6 p.m. Monday at Town Hall.

Word Distorted

Through a typographical error, the Independent-Journal reported yesterday that Sausalito City Councilman Wyman Hicks criticized Murray Smith for "improper and appropriate comments" in his letter of resignation from the city's planning commission. It should have read "improper and inappropriate comments."

Luggage Firm Gets Permit For Addition

H. Koch and Sons has taken out a $511,000 building permit for expansion of its plant beside Highway 101 in Corte Madera.

However, Murray Koch, company executive, said today no contract has yet been awarded and start on the construction is indefinite.

The plans, approved in May by the Corte Madera Board of Design, call for addition of 72,000 square feet to the buildings at 15 Koch Road. Koch said the new structure would replace some facilities the company now rents, as well as providing for expansion.

H. Koch and Sons, now a subsidiary of Gulf and Western Industries, Inc., has diversified its manufacturing in recent years. In addition to fiberglass luggage, it now turns out floating docks, survival equipment, and components for the aerospace and aircraft industries, as well as testing equipment for survival gear.

Koch said the company has expanded its work force recently and he was not prepared to say whether the new plant construction would result in additional personnel.

Early Report Luncheon For Bay Crusade

Early reports of the 1969 United Bay Area Crusade in Marin will be delivered at a luncheon at noon Wednesday in the officers club of Hamilton Air Force Base.

The crusade goal is $16.5 million, needed to support 180 health and welfare agencies.

A luncheon guest will be the crusade's 1969 poster child, Mia Zambrano of Mill Valley.

Rev. Dr. Arthur C. Nitz, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, San Rafael, will give the invocation. John F. McInnis, chairman of the county board of supervisors, will represent local and county government.

Luncheon reservations may be obtained at the Marin office of the crusade, 2144 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

Switchboard Seeking Wider Matching Files

There are jobs and people with experience seeking jobs, but they don't match, he said.

There are rentals and people looking for homes, but they don't match either, he reported.

Switchboard wants to increase its referral files so the needs of more persons can be met, he said, and urged anyone who can help to call.

The community service organization, scheduled to reopen on a 24-hour basis soon, is also attempting to organize a file of groups who provide entertainment, such as bands. He said many requests for entertainers are received.

Also with an eye toward the reopening, volunteers are needed to man the phones, he reported. The only qualification is dependability, he said.

Performance To Fete Novato

The Marin Shakespeare Festival will give a special performance of "Midsummer Night's Dream" at 8 p.m. Sunday at Forest Meadows Theater in San Rafael in a salute to the City of Novato.

Novato city officials, including Mayor Harley A. McAskill and City Mgr. Charles A. Brown, are scheduled to attend. Civic leaders from throughout the county also are expected to be in the audience.

Novato residents may obtain two tickets for the price of one at Edward Stationery Store in Novato.

The festival season closes Sept. 27.

Five Marinites In Executives Art Show

Five Marin artists will participate in the third annual Executives Association art show Sept. 25 at Robert Morry Inc., 556 Mission Street, San Francisco, where their work will be displayed throughout September.

The works of photographer Thomas Moulin of San Rafael, Mrs. Fred O. Foster Sr. of Corte Madera, and Florence Spanier, Dianna Sedlemeyer and Jacci Spanier, all of San Anselmo, are entered in the show.

Course Offered

A course in medical terminology for persons working in or interested in health services will be given by registered nurse Kay Butler at the College of Marin Nursing Room 3 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Sept. 25.

fall fashions 1969

Fashion conscious Marin women are doing their own thing for fall, whether it be far-out or conservative. The casual look is big fashion news with accessories making it a fun fashion season

IT'S CALLED 'SQUIRREL'

Couturier Craven of Paris dubbed this outfit squirrel, or "ecureuil" in French. It consists of a wool coat with a brown beige and white plaid design. It is worn overmatching wool dress with white top and brown and white pleated skirt. (AP Wirephoto)

Designers Won't Play Hemline Game

By LUCIE NOEL

PARIS (AP) — The hemline game is dead in Paris. French fashion designers are just avoiding the question.

When the week of winter-fall showings started, attention was focused elsewhere — on fabrics, shapes, and special touches. The hem is where you want it.

"I'm doing both lengths," says Pierre Cardin. "Short for dresses and long, sometimes even floor length, in coats."

"Fashion," adds Yves Saint Laurent, "cannot be summed up in inches. Most young women love miniskirts. I prefer medium lengths, and full lengths because I'm partial to the elongated silhouette."

Courreges says, "Hemlines are my smallest preoccupation." He thinks dresses "are not in keeping with today's pace."

Ungaro compromises, keeping his miniskirts way up while bringing coats down to ankle length.

SAINT LAURENT'S big number is his battle jacket that stops, Eisenhower-style, at the waist. There are military pockets and touches in much of his line and many slender wrapover skirts.

Philippe Venet does battle jackets too, but drops them to a long cardigan length. Two-color cashmere hoods go with these costumes. At Saint Laurent there are hooded scarves, and gypsy-scarfed turbans at Dior that recall the twenties.

Pants dominate, coordinated for daytime or revamped and glamorized for the night. Courreges is wild about jumpsuits. Cardin goes for sexy printed designs and glitter on his pants. Louis Feraud has styled a three-piece costume. The tunic, pants, tights, or skirt can be mixed, matched or topped by a matching topcoat, contrasting only in color.

MUCH OF the emphasis is on coats. Venet has three different styles, featuring meltons, double crepes and wool velours. Ricci's stunning patchwork tweeds are great, and De Rauch is launching a shepherd's cloak, lining it with nutria. Fur trimming is everywhere.

Most of the coats have marked waistlines. Molyneux's body-hugging silhouette is belted and so is Goma's structured shape. Cardin belts his dresses at the waist.

FOR THE EVENING, Dior is dropping his necklines to dizzy depths with brocaded silver or gold tunics matched up with floating scarves.

And Dior designer Marc Bohan claims that women are "subconsciously" fed up with miniskirts. Inspired by advice from Francoise Sagan, the novelist, he has dropped day hemlines to "new look" lengths.

Cardin's evening story is inspired by the age or romantic poets. There are loose shifts, flowing ankle length capes, rich embroideries, and polished silver or steel jewelry Others are making naive baby doll dresses and that are demure and sexy at the same time.

Relax And Enjoy Fall's Fashion-Schizophrenia

Fashion-schizophrenia shows no sign of being cured for fall. So relax and prepare to enjoy it. Kooky or conservative, you'll be right doing your own thing.

The many moods of fashion will switch back and forth all fall from he-she to gypsy; from maxi to mini, from elegant velvets, brocades and crepes to the tweediest tweeds you've ever seen. And pants suits are almost as safe by now as the perennial basic black (with more pearls than ever).

Whatever you wear, though, whether it's a new maxi-coat with a matching mini or last year's favorite dress, the finishing touch should be fashion-right shoes. That means naturally rounded toes — no points and no sharply angled squares. Heels range in thickness, but no spikes.

For evening wear the great use of velvet shoes is the most exciting news. Peau de soie trimmed with brilliants will be another important dressy shoe look.

With tweeds and wools, look for a new skin to rival alligator and lizard for popularity (but not price, thank goodness): iguana. Iguana has a fine grain and soft touch, the perfect shoe for suits.

A variety of styles and colors in antiqued and textured calf lead the daytime excitement. Fall colors are taking a clue from nature: pumpkin, olive green, burgundy, rich browns, and, of course, gray and black.

WHAT YOU CAN DO WITH A SCARF

NEW YORK (AP) — Fashion with the fringe on top.

Ole Borden, the Dane who designs for Rembrandt, put the fringe on long scarves that accompanied many of the outfits at his showing. One particularly attractive one was a silk and worsted leopard print cardigan jacket and pleated skirt with matching scarf.

Both Borden and Miss Stark showed soft, supple, close-to-the-body fashions.

"CASUAL CLOTHES," said Borden, "are really what fashion is all about this fall."

His dresses clung to the bodice, then flared out in a princess style emphasized by careful seaming.

Borden put belts slightly above the waist "for that younger look" and kept sleeves long and tight or very, very short. His pants outfits were cut slim with straight legs for day and slightly flaring cuffs for evening.

Unlike most of the other designers, Borden generally steered clear of the floor-length maxi coat. He showed a bright red wool midi coat and commented, "Maxi, I think, is very clumsy."

ONE EXCEPTION to the floor-length ban was a fitted coat in an unusual patterned carpet fabric. Borden showed three designs in the carpet fabric which was brightly colored.

Miss Stark shone when it came to evening wear and to jacket and dress costumes. Silhouettes were simple, fabrics for evening were lush and belts were high.

'Natural Look' Takes More Makeup For Fall

NEW YORK (AP) — American women will be creaming, coloring, powdering and painting their faces more than ever this fall, all in pursuit of what cosmetic manufacturers somewhat inaccurately call the "natural look."

All of the major manufacturers of hair and beauty products who showed their newest ideas to fashion editors at recent designer presentations here agreed that women should try to look as though they are wearing very little makeup.

Eye shadow colors will be skin toned—browns and pinks are the favorites of most manufacturers. Lipstick colors will be slightly darker, but will not feature the flame red shades of earlier decades. Rouge—usually called blusher these days—will be pinker.

"We like the makeup-no makeup look," said a spokesman for Charles of the Ritz, whose cosmetics' colors are based on fall shades.

The spokesman said women should wear a sheer makeup base that lets the skin show through and eye shadow that makes the eyes—not the makeup—the focal point.

Kenneth, the hairdresser turned cosmetics entrepreneur, advises women to stay away from the sharp blues and greens that surrounded eyes of past seasons. He also suggests that rouge be applied high on the cheeks and spread close to the nose.

Hairstyles also will tend toward the natural look. Experts say women should avoid the teasing and spraying that takes away the sheen and beauty of the hair.

Kenneth says he likes hair "you can run your fingers through" and prefers lots of tousled curls, hanging somewhat unevenly about the head.

Chin, a stylist for Charles of the Ritz, says the gypsy look of medium length, loosely curled hair will be popular for fall. "Whatever length the hair is," he says, "it has to be very soft. Let the hair swing."

Both Chin and Helene Curtis like little braids pinned on the hair for evening.

Hatted For Fall

Hats are soft for both sport and dress wear this fall. Softly brimmed, curvy felts complete city ensembles, and squashy knitted or crocheted berets top the sports scene.

Braless Trend Delights Girls Watchers

NEW YORK (AP) — In the name of fashion, freedom or just plain fun, some American girls are throwing away their brassieres, much to the dismay of lingerie manufacturers and the delight of girl watchers.

The unconfined look for women is "in" again, decreed by fashion designers who shape styles close to the body, by feminine militants who see the rigid, big bosom as a symbol of subservience and by members of the "now" generation who preach freedom, honesty and "do your own thing."

An Associated Press survey shows, however, the trend is far from unanimous. It is generally confined to young, slender girls in big cities. Few firms report widespread bralessness, although a Pomona, Calif., welding engineer was fired because she urged a "No-Bra Friday" at the plant where she worked.

IN SAN FRANCISCO, Donald Magnin of Joseph Magnin's, a West Coast chain of stores, said the braless trend has "taken hold here very definitely in certain segments of the population."

Asked how his store was adapting to the trend, he said, "We're catering to it to the degree that we've almost abandoned our traditional bra business—or should I say it's abandoned us."

The manager of a Seattle store catering to young people said 25 to 30 per cent of her customers have given up wearing bras. "It looks good and it's a great natural feeling," she said.

Heidi Obzina, a Seattle saleswoman, said, "I stopped wearing bras because they were so uncomfortable. I was the flattest person and since I stopped wearing a bra I've been growing. My boyfriend is amazed."

Gloria Melcher, assistant fashion editor of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, said, "I'm absolutely opposed to them (bras). I think they're the most uncomfortable and unnatural thing to wear. I don't wear one."

Actress Dana Wynter said the braless trend was "marvelous." She added, "Bras are a menace . . . They cramp the muscles and make a woman look stuffed."

CALIFORNIA DESIGNER Rudi Gernreich, the man who introduced the topless bathing suit five years ago, said of the trend, "It's an attitude. Young people want honesty. They don't have hang-ups with caricatures of reality."

The suggestion of a ban-the-bra trend evoked a ho-hum reaction overseas.

Lingerie stores in Paris said they were selling just as many bras as ever this summer, although they were sheerer. In London, a spokesman for Marks and Spencer, a department store, said there was less "bra-consciousness," but no decline in sales.

British designer Mary Quant—considered the mother of the miniskirt—said, "Quite a few girls don't wear them, whereas before, no one would think of going without one."

MANY WOMEN have traded their bras for body stockings, shaped slips or even bosom makeup.

"We emphasize the flat chested look," said Neiman-Marcus buyer Jan Bryan in Dallas, "but with a bra-slip or body stocking."

"We're not selling less bras, but we're selling softer ones," said a spokesman for Henri Bendels, a New York department store known for its avant garde clothes.

A NUMBER of women, of course, still seek the security and support of bras. Their reasons are ones of practicality, not morality.

"Most figures need help," said the fashion designer of Rich's department store in Atlanta.

About Hemlines

It seems to be a "do your own thing" with hemlines come fall and winter, with both American and European fashion capitals endorsing the short, the mid and the long lengths. One thing certain: A lot of those maxi, ankle-length coats will be seen. They promise to be an international hit.

Men's Sportscoats Brighter, Livelier

Changes in silhouette, bold colors, striking patterns characterize men's sportcoats for fall.

It hardly seems possible, but the new colors are more vibrant and alive than ever. Electric blues, reds and greens brighten up the casual life, and tweeds also come on strong, in brown and green, blue and gray, salt and pepper, reports the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear.

For the slacks to go with the sportcoats, the big news is leg styling, and the selection is wide, including straight, stovepipe or flared.

Elephantine bells (they extend 27-28 inches) with two and three-quarter inch cuffs are beamed to the trendsetters.

Stripes — wide track, thin, multi or Roman — mark sportcoats. Other bold patterns include windowpane plaids and houndstooth checks.

Shape is the main theme in sportcoat styling. There are definitely shaped models with deep center vents, suppressed waists and square shoulders.

Traditional natural-shoulder styles also feature various degrees of shape.

Double-breasted blazers blaze the way to fall fashion. And as long as there are solid blazers, there'll be patterened slacks — this season, in checks, plaids and windowpanes.

I'M ALWAYS ON TIME
. . . HOW ABOUT YOU?

Leave it to the gals. For instance, Switzerland's Eterna•Matic pocket watch for golfers, the "Golfer" is the only self-wind pocket watch in the world. However, whether it's carried by a golfer in his pocket or worn on a pretty young lady's neck, the Eterna•Matic Golfer is "Fast Beat" accurate and has a ball bearing rotor for total efficiency and long life. Price for the Eterna Golfer starts at $115.00.

Fall Emphasizes Soft, Sleek Look

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fashion goes soft for fall.

Suits look softer, shaped to the figure, with mobile skirts, pleated, cut on the bias, or gathered. Jackets are long soft cardigan shapes or stretched down and belted like a pullover. Even the ubiquitous pantsuits are sleeker looking, with narrowed legs.

IT'S ALL a part of the new emphasis on the natural figure, say designers. As Pauline Trigere puts it, "I believe in a return to the form, to a semi-fit. Bodies are here to stay, clothes have to follow them."

Miss Trigere believes also that women want some ultra-feminine clothes to balance off the overwhelming trend to trousers.

She does some of the softest for late day and evening, in laces and slick satins ("I got bored with brocades and only make a few for the diehards"), with a revival of the revealing black cocktail dresses worn with ropes and ropes of pearls, with fur scarves over black laces, and with some of her satins a mass of ruffles from collar to hem.

IT'S THE ALL-GIRL look at Branell too. A Branell beauty for evening has a brown velvet bodice, white satin puffed sleeves, and a sweepingly full skirt repeating the satin of the sleeves.

The Branell collection is lavish with fur —ranch mink bordering the neck and front of a brown brocade coat and matching dress, amber fox forming a hem and boa of a tweed costume, red fox coupled with cognac cashmere.

When it comes to the full-gig formal, few designers can top the likes of Ferdinando Sarmi. His evening story is told in chiffons and laces, in chiffons over lames, in glittering velvets, and painted chiffon laces. There are billowing skirts by the dozen for the woman who wants to make a grand entrance in a Sarmi.

Another designer, Chester Weinberg, liked the jewel tones for evening in many of his costumes—malachite, amethyst and crystal. Weinberg also did jumpsuits in chiffon prints with below-the-hip jackets trimmed with jewels. His "stocking" shoes were in silver metallics. And his printed velvet coats, some of them lined in mink, boasted of being water repellent. Keeps the mink dry.

ONE REBEL against the softened-up look is designer Jacques Tiffeau. His collection for Tiffeau & Busch featured dozens of trousers costumes, some of them suits with pants of Bermuda shorts length, others reaching to the ankle or floor. He stressed the cossack coat, floor length, and nudity for evening in such as his gunmetal leather hipster pants, bra tops and midriffs bare except for thong lacings.

And at Tiffeau's some of the scarves, which nearly everyone is doing for fall, wrapped the throat and fell to the floor on both daytime dresses and the long, maxi coats.

SPATS ARE BACK

For the woman who believes that tailoring—big again this season—and femininity go hand in hand. Naturalizer has designed the spat-pump. In two tones of patent and calf, the shoe is set off neatly with a gold bar. Featured at Chapman's Shoes in San Rafael and Novato.

Remedial Grooming Now Costs $100 In Tristan's Exclusive Barber Shop

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —A haircut has gone up to $100—that's right, $100—in what has to be the world's most exclusive "barber shop."

That's the initial cost of a haircut from Tristan, hair stylist to many top film and television actors, film and TV executives. Subsequent visits after the first job cost a mere $35.

Tristan recently boosted his prices from $75 and $25 because he had too many customers.

He is not, of course, simply a barber, but a hair stylist. He does not give haircuts—he performs what he calls remedial grooming. The first visit is a consultation. Subsequent visits are for the purpose of adjustments to the hair style.

"With him," said one happy customer, "a haircut is an emotional experience."

Actually, he doesn't call his customers customers. "At these prices," he says goodnaturedly, "I have to call them clients."

Tristan is not about to give away any trade secrets but says he cuts hair according to the natural way it falls, generally speaking, and twists the hair with a comb to get the desired effect.

"The hair should have a look of studied carelessness," he says. "A little disheveled . . . that is most attractive to women."

On the piano sits a candelabrum—gift from a celebrated client, Liberace.

Other clients whose pictures appear in a handy album include Fabian, recently given a treatment for a role as the gangster Pretty Boy Floyd; Jim Drury of "The Virginian" fame; Rock Hudson; Marty Milner; Frank Gorshin; Edd Byrnes.

Tristan is a medium sized man of slender build with blond hair of his own manufacture—(he wears a hairpiece). He does not wear barber's garb. He may have on a pair of white whipcord slacks, yellow shirt and tie to match.

STYLINGS FOR THE 'IN-CROWD'

Men's Shirts Are Contour, Colorful

NEW YORK (UPI)—The bodyline shirt with contour seams, has made itself a classic in the fall shirts now reaching the stores. The new developments are stripes superimposed on the deep tones of the past few seasons, two new types of collars and longer cuffs.

Notable among the collar styles is the long, long point, four inches in many cases. The other in favor by most manufacturers is the very high rising and very spread collar, some with points nearly four inches long.

French cuffs are still very much in, and some are curved or scalloped or streamlined. But in line with a "western look" for town that shows up in some shirts the barrel cuff with two or even three buttons is making an appearance.

One shirt by Bill Blass with very widespread collar showed a brown-black stripe against a blue-white striped background for what has become known in clothing circles as the Westchester Mafia look.

OLEG CASSINI showed a tartan plaid in dark tones and a spectacular print. Ralph Lauren went dark in one line with an ancient madder print. John Weitz showed windowpanes and gingham checks of all sizes, including big, and some country plaids.

Bill Miller, who designs under the Village Squire label, did some wild things with stripes on his bodyline shirts. The vertical panel of the contour styling was in ⅛ vertical stripes; the side panels were in thin horizontal stripes of the same color. He also showed a semi-seethrough fall shirt in satin stripes and a combination sport-dress shirt with a tab under the collar you can loop a scarf over.

Cardin showed very bold stripes—such as orange on black—in a long pointed collar. Another was a silk with long collar points, architectural seaming and in multi-stripes which formed a wide stripe.

Hathaway used pajama stripes for one group of shirtings made with a pointed collar that can be worn with or without a pin. One particularly handsome group of dark tone English club stripings by J. P. Stevens combined such colors as a dark gray-blue background with rust stripes intermingled with white framed in red and green.

THE LANVIN collection included a set of silky looking cotton with tiny white pindots and was with a widespread collar, for a more informal "Lanvin after dark" approach. One color was champagne with white dots, another was pale blue with white. They were also $22.50.

Gant, known for years as a conservative button-down bastion, goes wild in some of its stripes with wide spread collars. There was what looked like mattress ticking—red and blue stripe clusters on white. A chambray with widely spaced clusters of colored pin stripes forming big stripes, and a "Joseph's coat" shirt made of many tiny stripes—red, blue, gray, yellow and giving an overall deeptoned effect.

Van Heusen showed very strong colors with bold light stripes, or small stripe clusters that look like one. Some combinations included pale blue with olive and pale green with rust. Some of the groups had color-coordinated ties for the sometimes difficult stripe picture. Some cuffs were very long with three buttons.

SOME OF the more spectacular shirts were at Frejere. A combination work-sport body shirt was in pin striped voile with huge spread collar. There was a matching shirt and tie combination in long spread collars and such color combinations as lavender on deep lavender. A deeptone white-striped chambray had white collars and cuffs; one had a matching white tie. Frejere also showed a new and very high English tab collar.

The newest thing at Eagle were the new, long point collars. There was some softening of the deep tones and lots of stripes.

It's Up, It's Down—Dior Wows Press With Hemlines

PARIS (UPI) — Dior dropped the hemline drastically and then raised it higher than before. Everybody cheered.

Fashion writers and celebrities sat in respectful, studious silence as Dior's designer Marc Bohan sent one after another of his models in long coats, suits and dresses that stopped just 14 inches from the floor.

It was an interesting look — very long, very straight, usually with a zipper straight up the front of the skirt to let the wearer leave a slit as high as she liked. But with each successive model, the faces around the grey and cream salon got longer and longer.

Suddenly, the first of what Bohan calls "very, very short skirts" flipped through the salon with a crisp swish of pleats. Its hemline stopped five inches above the top of the knee.

SOMEONE BREATHED a deep sigh of relief and began to applaud madly. Nearly everyone in the celebrity-studded main salon joined in, cheering as well as clapping.

They even gave another welcoming round of applause to the second short skirted suit, then settled back to enjoy one after another of Bohan's smart little coats, suits and dresses with what he resolutely refuses to call "mini-skirts."

THERE WERE MORE long, long skirts in the evening collection, but they seemed to upset no one. In fact, many of those who welcomed the short daytime hemline so enthusiastically oohed and aahed over the long look for evening.

Bohan's best "new length" dresses for evening were even longer than his calf-covering daytime ones. They stop just short of the ankle and were worn over flowing jersey trousers that brushed the floor. The effect was a long, soft, flattering column.

The entire collection had a strange mixture of yesteryear and tomorrow, the low unemphasized waist of the 1920s in a streamlined coat closed with a flexible, hidden zipper.

Communal Store Dressing Rooms Take Stylish Undies

By JANE ROGERS
London Express Service

LONDON — Now that most of the London stores have switched over to communal dressing rooms for trying on clothes, buying a dress can be quite an edifying experience.

Quite apart from your own embarrassment in standing there in your underpinnings under the curious gaze of the other shoppers there's the added curiosity value, from your own point of view, in seeing just what women do wear under their outer clothes.

Underwear, and foundation garments in particular, have become so fashion-conscious and colorful now that the average girl looks for all the world as though she is wearing a bikini under her dolly dress.

Matching bra and pants sets are available in all the stores and a lot of girls do, in fact, wear them on the beach because they say that the cut of a proper bra is usually better than the kind you get on a bathing suit.

NOW COMES the ultimate in non-underwear — the micro-mini pants which are little larger than a stripper's G-string and are designed mainly for wear under tights but certainly not on the beach.

The bra-topped slip, which made dressing so much quicker, is now firmly established in most women's wardrobes and there's even a new ultrashort version to wear under a tunic top and over trousers.

Now the swimwear manufacturers have pinched the bra-slip and are making beach sundresses with built-in bosoms (and very curious they look, too, hanging on the rails). They're a brilliant idea for the girl who needs a little help with her contours and having the bra built-in makes it one thing less to struggle out of when you want to change into your swimsuit.

The fashion originated in Australia at surfers paradise, has now percolated to Europe, and most of these dresses on sale in London come from the south of France.

BUT WHAT about the girl who needs a little help with her figure? Is she being left behind in the fashion race? The answer is very definitely no, though heavy boning and thick elastic are out. The same job can be done now with lightweight lycra which feels prettier to wear, comes in colors and prints rather than just plain shades, and can be matched up to petticoats and bra tops.

If you have a bulge round the derriere, or over-large thighs there are two ways of coping with the problem — you can squeeze yourself into a tight long-legged pantie-girdle, or wear something lighter and make up your mind to diet.

The trouble with any sort of heavy foundation is that the extra you has to be squeezed somewhere, and you'll only end up with a bulge either above or below the girdle itself. So more and more people are wearing a lightweight foundation that just holds them in nicely, and planning to do something about their weight.

NEW NOW FOR the girl who does want control of some sort are pretty pantie-girdles that can be worn over tights or with stockings, and which comes with two sorts of bras, the kind that have a little help in the form of padding, and other variety which are seamed to give you maximum support. Both come with matching slips and both would make you feel one up on the others in those communal changing rooms.

Men Are Finding Gold In New Knitted Fabric

What women discovered years ago men are just finding out now. The knit revolution is on in men's wear, and it's made that facet of fashion the fastest growing and the most exciting.

Knit shirts may not make news, but knit clothing does and that's where the new fabrics are wielding the most influence. Designers from all over the world have felt the influence knits are exerting on fashion. A new freedom has opened up both for the designer and the wearer.

Firms long in the men's woven fabric business have opened an entire new division just to produce knitted fabrics for men's clothing. Twills, plaids, seersuckers, mini-houndstooths, coordinated patterns, almost any type of fabrication can be created from the blends of polyesters being used. The ease of wearability, freedom of movement and low care requirements of the new knits prompted one producer to label them "Go Free" knits.

Some of the most exciting innovations in knit clothing styling are currently being imported from England and Scandinavia. London's Tom Gilby has done away with the conventional suit and designed a series of garments that can be worn as suits, or separately as sportswear.

The easy way the knits fit the body makes his cardigans and pullovers elegant in their simplicity. He even carries his casually tailored theme into a sleek jumpsuit, teamed to a wrapped bathrobe-like top coat.

Sighsten Herrgaard, Sweden's fresh young designer, translates the new knits into the body lines of a longer jacket with stovepipe pants.

All the designers agree, knits have revolutionized men's wear with comfort, style and freedom. Once men catch on to these assets they will demand them in all their clothing.

SKETCHED FOR STYLE

The man of today demands a suit with styling and quality built in, such as this Hickey-Freeman hand-customed version. The slightly broadened shoulders and trim lines are set off by the medium-wide tie. At Cazassa's in San Rafael.

Skirts As Well As Pantsuits Are Popular With Teen-Agers

Ever since the swinger, summer's flippy little skirt, proved to the young set that skirts as well as pants can make with-it fashion news, long-or-short pants outfits have been getting strong competition from a flurry of skirts, jumpers and suspender skirts. First signs indicate that fall fashions for both juniors and teens will carry on the trend to more skirts and more kinds of skirts, with ,of course, their appropriate toppings of blouses, sweaters, vests ,jackets.

Pants and jumpsuits continue as components of at-home and sports outfits, but the complete pants outfit intended for street or dress wear usually offers the option of a coordinated skirt, or a matching tunic which can also become a dress.

The return of the skirt to separates-fashion importance is easily accounted for by a bright variety of skirt shapes. There's the break-away silhouette, with pleats or flares starting low on the hips — a style made to be topped by long-line sweaters or blouses, of which there are many. Pleats of every kind, flares, dirndls ,side wraps, kilts put skirts in motion, while still another kind of motion comes from slim but slithery skirts that move with the body .

Above skirts and pants, or under jumpers and suspender skirts, sweaters and blouses have their own new ideas. More attention to sleeves is one of them, and a doubling up of sweaters and blouses is another.

THE SLEEVELESS sweater with a deep V-neck — more than a vest — goes over the blouse with sleeves cut to fit snugly on square but skinny shoulders, and the sleeves show new fullness.

Long, stretched-out sweaters have a slither all their own, and other sweaters turn into ponchos, in the jacquard and argyle patterns that distinguish young separates.

Even the shirt-look shirt has new detailing this season, while the body shirt becomes still more feminine in shape and detail. Long shirts turn into tunics.

Jackets to complete the picture are equally varied — cowgirl, safari, cape, blouson, double-breasted and flared, to mention just a few of the styles.

Dresses, too, are bidding for their place in young wardrobes. The shirtdress, interpreted in so many ways that it's sometimes unrecognizable as a shirtdress, carries on into fall.

A NEWER contender is the sweater dress, sometimes simply a finely-knit sweater elongated —but not too elongated — to dress length, and sometimed ribbed and cabled, colorfully trimmed and detailed.

In the sweater-dress category is the easy knit dress which flows into slim, even slinky lines.

In the sweater-dress category is the easy knit dress which flows into slim, even slinky lines.

The coatdress, offering a combination of casual comfort with a dressed-up look, seems due to appeal to the busy young set.

BOTH DRESSES and separates for young living have a lot going for them, thanks to a wealth of lively, even slightly zany, ideas.

There are the colorful prints and print-and-solid combinations of the gypsy look, often accessorizes with scarves, beads and boleros. With a gypsy or peasant look, too, are crazy-quilt combinations of patchwork.

Built-in sashes for blouses and fluttering fringes for skirts and jackets are the kind of details that make a young difference.

NEW MATERIALS contribute to the liveliness — vinyls, for instance, and synthetic piles, which copy animal skins and pelts or create their own looks.

Fur, fluffy or flat, heaps its elegance on young coats, casual or dressy, while fun-fur coats gain momentum.

The cloth coat, however, more than holds its own, especially when it features a scarfed neckline. The ultra-long scarf, in a matching or contrasting fabric and color, winds its way to the neckline of many a wrappy or belted young coat.

Accessories are the signature of the young fashion look for fall there are belts, berets, body jewelry of the chain variety, knee socks and patterned or opaque panty-hose, cut-out shorties and other gloves and handbags galore, to add it all up.

Boots, mocs, sandals are among footwear choices.

HOODED AND JEWELED

Parisian designer Jean-Charles Brosseau created this black satin hood edged with ermine tails for winter wear. The watch-collar set with Tyrolean red stones and pearls hangs from long gold chains. (UPI Cablephoto)

Pleats Give New Look To Skirts

A rash of happy, swinging pleats gives skirts a new look. Knife pleats and trumpet-flare pleats sewn down from waist to hipline accommodate long, skinny belted sweaters.

With textured, tweedy, ribbed or flat knit surfaces, sweaters have a long, skinny French-girl look. They're to be worn in and out, with a bold leather or dangling chain belt.

Look For Fur Shoes, Evening Boots

NEW YORK (UPI)—For the woman who has everything else, there now are fur shoes.

They're the outgrowth of the look of total opulence in all fashions for fall, reports the National Footwear Institute. With all the jewels, the long ropes of pearls, the expensive embroideries on evening wear, the lavishness of mink, sable, ermine and silver fox, it was only natural that designers should add footnotes of fur, sometimes fake, sometimes real.

Palter de Liso combines cheetah with patent. Stanley Philipson trains zebra around sculptured heels of slippers. David Evins does a cossack-type boot with fake Persian lamb cuff. Erica does a shoe-boot with a cuff of genuine hair seal. Fur adds to the cost of course; most of the fur shoes go from $50 and up.

FUR FOOTWEAR stood out in the institute's roundup of fall styles shown this week during the semi-annual fashion shows for visiting reporters representing newspapers, television and radio around the nation.

When footwear designers aren't befurring, they're reviving. All of feminine fashions include some harkening to the 1920's, the '30's, the '40's.

In shoes, this means the return of the platform soles, wedgies, ankle straps, sling backs, open toes, and the return of vinyl as part of the whole "see through" scheme. Look for heels to go higher again, and with it emphasis on the broader toe.

Look for two and one-half inches in afternoon or evening shoes. In some city sandals, heels go up to three inches, thickened and widened from the spike of old. But if you insist on hanging on to the lower, chunky stacked (several layers of leather) heel continues too.

WITH PANTS rampant in all fashion collections for fall, watch for the boot to take its place for day or evening. For daytime, the pants shoes show high lines, with the tongues even higher, sometimes curling over, or fringed, buckled or chained.

Especially for pants, or sturdy country clothes, extension soles are plentiful. So are brogues and Western stitching. The classic spectator now comes with a platform sole.

Some of these spectators are fur and kid combinations.

For evening, fabrics for shoes match the opulence of dress or pants fabrics—the brocades, paisleys, velvets, and tapestries. In shoes, exotic materials include elephant hide, ostrich, cobra, and other reptiles, alligator, leathers antiqued, emobossed or patent. A new "wet" or shiny look finishes many patents.

THE MOST important color family for fall is brown, reports the Designer Shoe Guild, made up of some 15 leading stylists in footwear. Brown tones range from camel and beige on to the deepst tones. The burgundy and wine tones follow the color trend in other fashions.

Also new for fall: "His" and "Hers" shoes, done in glovey leathers with wing tips or buckles, chains, tassels or hefty hardware.

Boys Like Comfortable, Stay-Up Togs

NEW YORK (UPI)—Leda Sanford is fashion director of Teens' and Boys' Outfitter, a trade publication, and in a recent issue she summed up the junior-juvenile group as boys who "like clothes that feel good, pants that stay up and sweaters that don't itch."

She also reports that teen-agers tend to ignore the designs of famous name fashion designers and that their favorite fall items are an outgrowth of a look that was born in army-navy stores, led kids to dig up old war uniforms and antique coats and end up with something she calls "Affluent poor boy."

With that background behind us, we turn to the Boys' and Young Men's Apparel Manufacturers Association (BAMA) which is a guiding light for the hundreds of buyers who descend on New York twice a year and who are responsible for local stores.

The BAMA fall showings were back in March, presented in the form of an easy to take musical show which exhibited the highlights of the following season. And if some facts of the show puzzle the buyers they then turn to Miss Sanford who straightens them out.

SOME HIGHLIGHTS of the BAMA presentation:

Clothing: Boys' clothes manufacturers have borrowed "shape" from men's clothing and the result is a non-gimmicky bodyline in single or double-breasted. Double-breasted, six-button Edwardians turned out to be the most popular style. The British influence was heavy in both texture and style; best colors were browns, gold and green in that order in sports coats. Suits were much more toned down, blazers were in six or eight buttons and more shaped.

PANTS: THE emphasis was on bell bottoms and flair but with some attention to the waist—self belts and novelty buckles. Synthetics were in a wide new range of colors, dress slacks are in tweeds and flannels but crepe weaves are new. Jeans are updated with slubbed, twill and hopsack looks. In corduroy the trend is toward narrow ribs and in such patterns as nailheads, herringbones and wavy stripes.

SHIRTS: The newest colors in dress shirts are deep tones softened with white as in chambrays. Wardrobes are built around broadcloth with emphasis on color with color stripings. Thre are new Edwardian influenced collars (higher and wider) and considerably more body shaping.

KNITS: Double knits are beginning to make an appearance in boy's wear. Texture knits, including honeycombs, raised diamond patterns and needle point jacguards are new and some brushed effects are shown in ribs and argyles, the colors bright and heathery. Some knits appear in outerwear, thanks to laminating. Knit shirts show all the traits of the fashionable cut and sewn shirts—spread collars, ruffles tees. Sweaters use fishermen's heavy knits in heather colors, and Scandinavian jacguard patterns show up in heavy outdoor sweaters.

AND SOME of the outerwear highlights as noted by Miss Sanford: A bush jacket in pile lined corduroy, a belted suede Norfolk jacket, a corduroy Norfolk jacket with pile lining, tartan slacks, a shaped suede Edwardian coat, a fringed suede jacket in true western styling, worn with a cowboy hat; an Edwardian coat in orange cotton-suede pony cloth; a double-breasted coat in a rabbit fur and a military-looking overcoat which is long, shaped and worn with chain mail epaulets and a Persian lamb cossack hat.

And for the teen-agers there is a unisex look which included flowered pants for boys and girls, bright printed sports shirts for both boys and girls and star spangled shirts worn with striped pants. Both sexes wore long necklaces.

PRINTS, PLEATS AND A TUNIC

This trio of fashionables makes a popular combo for fall and winter in a red, green and gold acetate. The swinging skirt has permanent pleats. Designed by Mr. Robert, who happens to be a Belvedere resident, the dress right for Marin and city-going. Available at Glamour Alley in San Anselmo.

Your fall fashion route has a new direction. Curved. Swerved. Strapped. Pretty to pair with jaunty little jumpers that wrap around, swing low on long torsos, flip up pleats. Fashion's gone softer and you're all girl again. Aren't you glad?

Pierre Balmain Designs For Comfort, Top Income Bracket

By LUCIE NOEL

PARIS (AP) — Pierre Balmain believes in comfortable, youthful clothes and shows no interest in abstract playing around.

Thus, his clothes this year are feminine, chic and simple — and lavish when the mood is a gala one. Hemlines are around the kneecaps and the silhouettes slender for the day and trapeze for the evening.

Balmain exploits the poncho. He does it in plaid organza and trims it with clipped glycerined ostrich for evening and shows it in black velvet, bound in black wool, in khaki colored wool for travel, and in a mock fireman's outfit in red vinyl, worn over a little country dress with a "caviar" tweed top, and black skirt. Double breasted buttoning is found on poncho fronts.

BEAUTIFULLY TAILORED little reefers appear in plaid blanket woolen, in organza, and in chicken feathers for different hours of the day.

Balmain has quantities of good coat and dress ensembles. Many coats are belted at the hipline while others have only a front belt. A camel hair coat, slim and simple, goes over a gray wool dress tabbed and belted in a camel hair band. Metal trimmed buttoned tabs at the belt line do double duty as loops and decor. Small nutria collars and cuffs trim many coats and some suits. Certain suit jackets are cropped at the hiplines. Their skirts have a wide flared godet box pleat.

For after dark, jumpsuits are in black velvet, their pagoda sleeves trimmed in feathers. Balmain tried out a new technique, playing with a circle, folding it back onto itself to form a shaped skirt or cape.

Several stylized, wearable and beautiful evening gowns, fit for all his royal customers, have restrained or lavish jeweled embroidery mostly at the neck or the entire top.

EKTOR, TALENTED Brazilian designer, presented his second showing since he founded his Paris premises. He calls it "Winter Sunshine" and his clothes are geared to comfort but always feminine.

He has "paid particular attention to the beautiful new fabrics which exclude gimmicks of any kind."

ROGER VIVIER, purveyor of the most elegant footwear to the Paris designer collections, always has his own show. This season, he believes "the ankle buttoned or laced booties are more elegant than thigh high topboots."

He shows them in great variety of leathers, fabric, corfam, and other media, with stress on precious alligator, fine calf and a new rustic tanning for crocodile skins.

YOUNG LOOK OF TODAY

The A-line shirt dress continues as big fashion news into fall and winter, teamed here with flare pants that are musts in a teen wardrobe. The dress, in red or navy, is Zefran-bonded knit with novelty belt and top stitch trim. At McKenzie's in San Rafael and Northgate Fashion Mall.

BACK IN STYLE

The great, chunky pins give a gleaming look to the bare-back fashions that plunge on those sophisticated little evening dresses for fall and winter occasions. They may be cultured pearls, colorful stones, gold, platinum or fiery diamonds. They're ultra-in for after five. At Granat Bros., Northgate Fashion Mall.

GREAT PRETENDER

Femininity Makes It Back To Style In A New Ladylike Trend In Leather

Femininity is back in fashion, and leather apparel makes comment on it in a fall collection that reflects lady-like gentility in the styles as well at the softer touch and lighter weight of the new leathers.

Sheer animal magnetism abounds in leather suits, coats, dresses and separates.

Newest textures and finishes include fine suedes, split cowhide, grained and embossed leathers and very new "glow" and antique-finished leathers, notes Leather Industries of America.

A CLOSETFUL of coat looks exists in leather, from silky-soft suede and supple grained leather dress coats trimmed with fur, to slim, belted antiqued leather casuals.

Still other coats include handsome wraparounds, body-shaping Edwardian types and heavily-hardwared sport coats.

In the realm of the leather suit are ensembled coordinating jackets, skirts, vests, pants.

This fall's suit story stars the pantsuit, which ranges from the grained and antiquey leathers to suede, brushed and printed leathers and comes in casual cut, at-home mood or for evenings out.

DRESSIER VERSIONS of the leather pantsuit often take trimmings of jeweling or metallics. And whether the style is casual or dressy, the pants leg is usually flared, though not to extremes.

Creamy-textured leather dresses show up in several silhouettes: A-line, belted shift, side-wrap, blouson. Jumper dresses, worn with or without blouses, continue in favor.

For after-dark festivities, leather dresses may wear a bib of gems, glittering passementerie or feathers. For pure drama the dress is frequently teamed with a jacket or coat matching in leather and ornamentation.

Sparkplug of the autumn scene is the combination of fly-away vest and kicky sash tie. The colors are burgundy and white and the material wool, all styled with the look of now. Available at The Rag Doll, San Rafael.

Evening Bags Of Varied Prettiness

For after dark, designers have turned out a varied array of leather evening bags. Some are truly mini in size, while others, like daytime bags, have gained space.

Even the space-rich styles have been artfully designed to conceal, in outer appearance, the capacity within.

On their way to fall occasions, these glamorous goodies show off lustre, embossed, smooth, suede and metallic-colored leathers.

Carry-alls to accompany all-out feminine finery range in style from leather minaudieres to clutch or handles styles. Some are striped in gold for glamour.

Then there are elegant envelopes with jeweled borders or handles, and petite vanities with gold-embossed or gem-encrusted lids.

Givenchy Sets The Metal Standard In Fall Elegance

By LUCIE NOEL

PARIS (AP) — Givenchy struck his usual standard of elegance at his fall and winter fashion showing—the gold standard, with copper, steel and silver thrown in, even on his calf-length group.

The calf-length hemlines in slender models are shown for every hour. They look good and evoke a pre-World War I atmosphere, stripped of clutter. Belts on his coats, which drew particular applause, are at the natural waistline, thus elongating the silhouette. For coat materials he used black wool for city wear, white jersey for sports with its own scarf, gold brocade for evening, many times in fur and two in melon or coffee leather.

Givenchy has lots of fun with fur. He dyes it bright colors and tailors it smoothly like fabric. In orange, geranium red, Nile green, coffee, brown, navy, green, coral pink and all the melon shades.

DEPENDING ON hour and occasion, simple long-sleeved dresses with fine draped neck or belted shirtwaist lines are matched in color. Broadtail, lamb, and even mink show in a wide orange border hemline.

Givenchy numbers many chic matrons among his clientele. For them he makes terribly chic understated cocktail-through-dinner dresses. Several black ones have a crossover surplice panel stiffened and squared off at the side. Others are on the softly draped sheath order, with diamond pointed kerchiefs, fishtail hemlines, short shawls, and correspondingly shaped overdresses or panels.

The best in the slinky crepe evening group is in white with a shrug bolero trimmed in black velvet water lilies. Chains of pearl beads and mock diamond pendants enhance the millionaire look. Shoes sometimes match pastel dresses.

FOR SPORTS, pants suits are all one color matching the fingertip bearskin, fox, or sable topcoat. Givenchy also does the Lacoste shirt tunic-length, in white, belts it in brown matching the pants. A brown pants suit has a generously draped hood and is worn with a three-quarter sable edge-to-edge coat.

In the modern art mood, Givenchy does a half of a dress. On one side, its off shoulder and the opposite side is a batwing sleeve and cutaway section at the side of the waist. In pink crepe, he pays homage to Empress Josephine's coronation gown in the David painting in the Louvre.

Honeycombed smocking appears in long sleeved wool jersey for daytime and for cocktails in the bodice of a silk dress. Some waffled crepe, and a new carpet brush type of coating is used in a coat and a navy suit. He prefers plain de luxe fabrics in plain colors, with focus on line and technique.

ATTRACTIVE FOR FALL

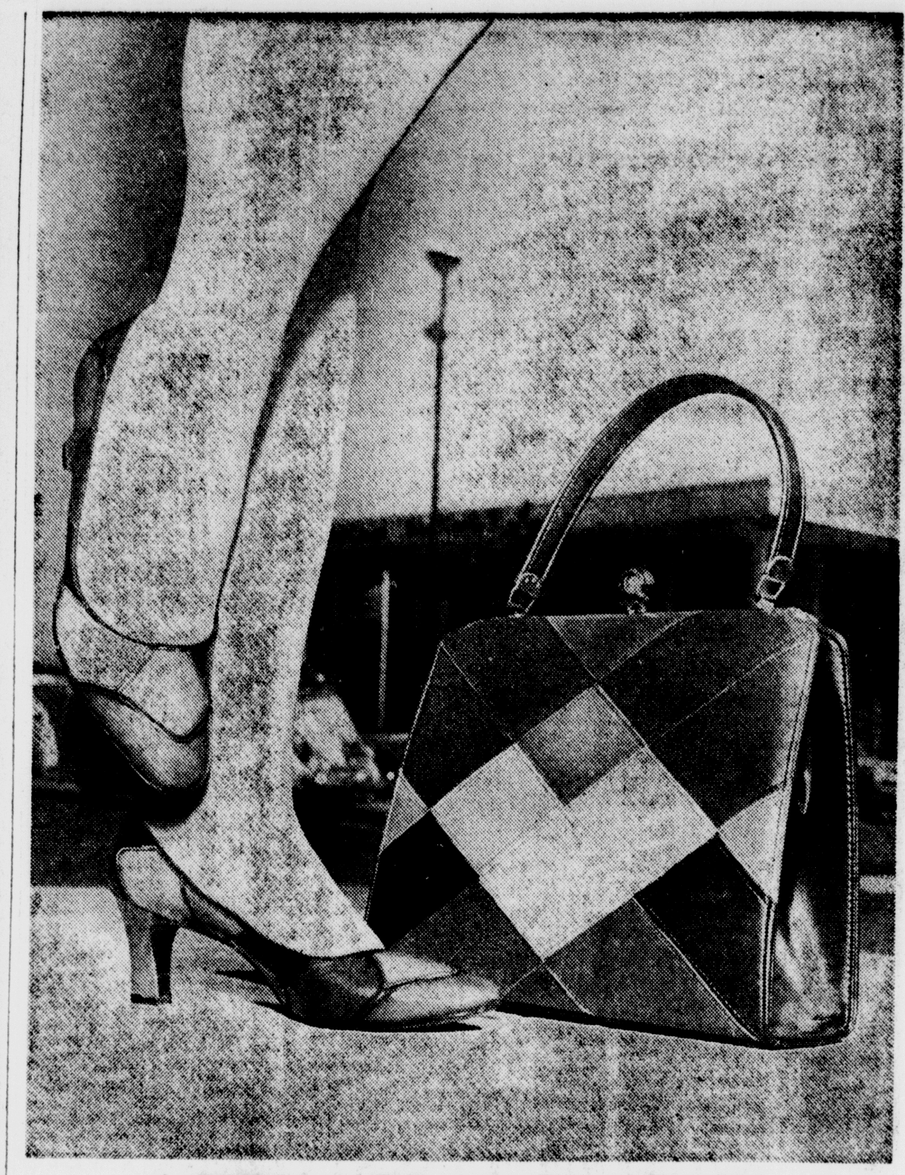
BELTED AND WINTER WARM

Troy Crawford shows a matching corduroy belted coat and pants outfit made from a pattern and fabric from the House of Fabrics in San Rafael. The double-breasted style is popular for fall and winter coats and jackets.



A RICH MOSAIC OF COLOR

Shoes and handbag bring the East India mosaic influence to fashion, with leather pumps crafted in an intricate pattern of rich deep fall color. The combination comes in brown-bronze, soft taupe and green, navy and ruby red. They're at Shoeland, Northgate Plaza.

FRESH, EAGER STYLING

Isadora Scarf Is Fall Drama

The Isadora Duncan scarf and all its variations have an impact on today from the art deco era. The long, long, super-long scarf — as long as six feet — is the accessory of versatility for fall.

These scarves are patterned in plaids, herringbones, checks, stripes, triangles and other geometrics. They top a hairdo, tie a waist or a hipline, drape a shoulder or wrap a neckline.

As scarf or muffler, this accessory contributes to fashion's layered look.

In addition to the fabric versions, scarves gain status in fur — fox or mink, for example. Mink and leather combine for other scarves.

In fluffy lynx or geometric-patterned mink, scarves extend to 10-foot lengths.

Daytime gloves arrive in kid, in short to medium lengths. The new touch in evening gloves brings jewel trim at the wrist — just enough to spark a bit of elegance and refinery.

Other gloves focus on the pantsuit look in hand-stitched shorties with contrasting stitching on unlined leather.

Bulky handsewn casuals appear in pigskin, reversed lamb and other textured leathers for fall.

Many Rings

How the teen-age girl feels about rings is obvious: several on a finger for every finger of the hand is her stand. Smaller ring designs make this idea easier to carry off with polish.

Glorify Self For Harem Look

By JANE ROGERS
London Express Service

LONDON — Get out the slave bangles, girls, the chains and the long baggy trousers, the harem look is in. Paris couturier-Louis Feraud is showing a special group of Harem clothes, inspired by the new film "Justine" which will be premiered in October, and starring Anouk Aimee.

Feraud has put the clothes into his ready-to-wear line because he believes that all women, not just the idle rich, should relax in something exotic.

"Women should take 10 minutes a day to glorify and perfume themselves to greet their husbands in the evening" says Feraud. "Just like Sheharazade."

THOSE OF US who hold down a job and have to dash home to do the washing up may find it a little difficult to get into the mood, and I can't help wondering how Mrs. Feraud, alias Mia Fonssagraves the fashion designer, manages to find time to "glorify" herself for the master couturier's delectation.

But all things apart, the clothes that Feraud has designed are very pretty and exotic and practical too. He's chosen crinkled silk foulard for them, which is as light as a sari and he's had it printed in all the pastels and striking colors from the Orient.

THERE ARE harem suits — large culottes wide cut at the bottom, showing the navel and worn with a bra adorned with strings of gold pearls or chains. There are puffed out culottes too, worn with long tunics and high wide belts, closed with large silver buckles encrusted with enamel.

He picks the djellaba (a garment worn by Arab men, not women) and makes short full coats for the summer, long slim versions that are slashed up to the wastline at the side. There are fluid body-hugging dresses with shirt tops and high belts, and flowing skirts that fall to a new length — the hemline is just around mid-calf level.

The film that started it all, "Justine," is based on the famous Alexandria Quartet books by Lawrence Durrell. It stars Anouk and Dirk Bogarde and Michael York, with Anna Karian playing the second lead. It's set in Alexandria, Egypt, just before World War II. Twentieth Century Fox asked Louis Feraud to create a wardrobe for Anouk and a perfume, too, and it is from this assignment that he decided to go overboard for the harem look in his couture collection.

THE COLORS are all pastels from the Orient. Nile or jade green, ispahan or tangerine pink, turquoise, beige and gold like the sand dunes. He's picked jewelery to go with the clothes that is a complementary mixture of very heavy buckles and ear-rings, and very lightweight filigree chains that span the midriff and are decorated with pearls. New from Feraud, too — ankle bracelets that are feather-light and made from silk thread, gold and chains. He uses enamel to encrust a large silver jeweled brooch.

Hair to go with these exotic clothes is kept extremely simple, wrapped back round the head and trimmed with tiny wiry plaits and allowed to hang simply and straight to the shoulders.

There's a very strong hint that we're all going to take to the turban, and wrap our heads in long chiffon scarves, and Feraud has picked printed silk foulard to match his harem suits, wound it round the head, knotted it at the neck and decorated it with a single colored disc which dangles over the forehead.

It's important, incidentally, to wear the scarf down low over your forehead and not on the back of your head, that spoils the effect entirely.

MAKEUP TO go with this should be simple, almost classic and concentrated around the eyes. A good non-pink foundation forms a good basis for the look, complemented by a golden eye-makeup smoothed under the brow and down to the lids.

The eyelids themselves should be highlighted with silver white, with turquoise powder shadow dusted in over the crease.

FINALLY COMES the eye-liner painted on very thinly in black just along the roots of the lashes both above and below the eyes to give the effect of kohl the black dye that Arab women use.

Lips need to be clear and colorful but not over accented. Mary Quant's new lipstick called hot current gives a clear wash of color without caking or looking too thick.

Look For New Kicks In Fall Footwear

Nothing perks up one's fall wardrobe as much as a new pair of shoes to make clothes look and feel fresh and new whether they are or not. And this season shoes look newer than ever because of their covered up silhouette.

City dressing is closer to country dressing now and so are shoes closer to their country cousins. This newly assumed casual outlook has brought out pants and little boots to go under them, as well as an array of easy going covered up daytime trotters . . . all interesting in texture. Some of these low slung numbers are mock crocks in combinations with patents; some of the reptiles have pretty gold rings or tassels. Others are in soft patent-suede combinations climbing high on the foot and ending in the new flat and oval toe, and of course, calf is always an important part of a shoe collection. One black calf shoe has a gold lion's head ornament on the side.

The most exciting and adventurous of the covered up shoes are the big game hunters. They come in our baby boots or in walking shoes of calf with a stacked heel and furry instep. All are fake so you can own zebras, leopards or whatever you fancy in your wardrobe safari. The baby boots are all snappy leopard with side closure buckle on the ankle.

These are only one of a group of patents, calf or fur little boots to slip on with pants suits, apres ski or with jumpsuits. All have comfort details as side slits at the ankle, adjustable wrap around buckles, elasticized fill-ins on the sides.

For late day the same silhouette carries over whether in silver or gold or new again velvet. The velvets make a strong play on the at-home fashions, especially our old-fashioned velvet slipper with brocade ribbon trim and a set back straight heel.

Other evening highlights are the silver reptile slipper in lizard with a shining shield of rhinestones on the top. Another black silk and silver bordered shoe is touched with a rhinestone teardrop at the top. And the sides are cut out for a lighter look.

Zodiac Jewelry

Sentiment might have something to do with the run-away popularity of zodiac jewelry. A girl may not actually believe in her sign but she believes in the way it can give her power to bewitch when it is temptingly emblazoned on pins, earrings, bracelets, pendants and, of course, charms.

Follow The Leather For Stylish Autumn Jackets

When it comes to men's sportswear, it's "follow the leather" for fall.

Leather appears in jackets, coats and separates in a variety of textures and finishes. Featured are smooth, suede, antiqued and split cowhide American leathers.

Jackets come in a number of different styles, such as the safari or bush jacket. It may feature seam detailing, special belt treatment, zipper or button closings.

Still flying high are aviator and bombardier jackets in leather. Bombardier types are often in shearling.

Aviator jackets are highlighted with stitching, zippers or buttons, lots of pockets and sometimes belts.

Pants Evolution Follows Revolution

Evolution follows revolution, and so it is for fall where a new breed of pants keys the total sportswear picture, with ingenuity.

Now that they are an accepted live style, pants are more reserved. It is for them that shirts, sweaters, vests, tunics, toppers, jumpers, skirts — all the put-togethers, in fact — are made.

Because pants have become so basic, they aren't as off-beat as they have been. Ultra-wide floppy legs are passe, now. Legs are straighter, narrower and often boast cuffs.

PANTS FABRICS depart from the wild side to favor old favorites instead. Solid wools, plaids, other fancies and corduroy — both waled and the new no-wale type — are to be seen.

Skirting the scent, one finds many moods from soft, soft to hard edge almost brash perkiness. Breezy flip pleated skirts vie with culotte skirts. Wraparounds contrast to soft dirndls. Each has its time, its place. It's all the look of fall sportswear and the preference is purely a personal choice.

Not since the 40's have sweaters enjoyed such a revival. Big, important and with many looks is the cardigan. It passes as a sweater, a tunic, a jacket, a short coat, a vest. Or even a special category known as "below-the-knee."

CABLES, JERSEY and argyle patterns in all but classic color combinations are some of the ways of the sweater. It may be so short it stops at the waist or a long, lean pull that bags.

The word on sweaters is they should be stretched long yet clingy.

Blouses and shirts have the leaner look for fall. Along with skinny sleeves in some comes the complete opposite of full sleeves, controlled by tight cuffs, on others.

Yokes, stitching, draping, pleats, pockets and embroidery are touches that make fall's blouses new.

Shirt-shirts are still in the picture. These are the true classics and they show up in all kinds of fabrics from cottons and knits to rich crepes and tissue failles.

To go over skirts, pants, sweaters,shirts and other components, casual coats and jackets come in a variety of styles and lengths. There's a touch of tongue-in-cheek about the maxi coat, which swoops down to the ankles.

MORE BRIEFLY put are the swingy topper and the cape. The safari jacket, the blazer, the blouson, the double-breasted classic and the Napoleon-collared jacket present other choices. Tunics, too, double as jackets.

"Mixed Doubles" is a trend making sportswear inroads. This means short sleeves over long sleeves, tank tops over blouses and the layering of clothes. It's a fun business, with one's ingenuity being the rules of the game.
